Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, so that there may be no suggestion that I waited until this bill was on final passage for the purpose of suggesting amendments, I desire to suggest that this bill, in my opinion, is certainly not the type of bill we should pass at this time. This bill provides that no department of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, no political sub-division of the Commonwealth shall employ aliens—

I am not in favor of this bill. I think if a man comes here and wants to become a citizen and declares his intention of becoming a citizen, he ought to be given the same rights as any other citizen, because he has shown he is taking advantage of the opportunities we have offered for years to people who come over here and enjoy our democracy and its benefits.

It takes five years, several years, before a man can become a citizen. If he has declared his desire to become a citizen, and he cannot secure employment, then he would have to do this, he would have to get on our unemployment lists, get on our relief, and we would be paying him money from relief at a time when he was willing to work, he could get employment, but we make it a penal offense, a misdemeanor, for any department head in any department of the Commonwealth or any political subdivision of the Commonwealth to give him a job, and it strikes me that is bad legislation at this time. Certainly it does not sound very Democratic to me.

Mr. President, I have therefore suggested that this bill go over in order until it can be given further consideration or some motion made in connection with it.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SENATE BILL No. 65

The PRESIDENT. The Chair wishes to call the attention of the members of the Senate to the fact that Senate Bill No. 65, on second reading, has not been printed correctly; there are some errors and a reprinting of the bill has not yet been effected.

If there is no objection Senate Bill No. 65, on second reading, entitled:

An Act permitting and regulating fishing in certain reservoirs used for public water supply purposes in accordance with rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Fish Commissioners; modifying the laws with respect to trespass, and imposing penalties.

will go over in its order.

Is there objections? The Chair hears none.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I want to call the Senate's attention to Senate Bill No. 65, Printer's No. 40. I do not know when I was more surprised than when, in looking over the Calendar, I saw that this bill had gotten out of committee.

Mr. President, I do not know of anything that we should be more zealous and careful about than to protect our public water supply. At home the municipal authorities do not even permit trespassing on the water shed.

This is a most important matter, gentlemen, and I do not think the legislature in any manner wants to let down safeguards pertaining to our public water supply.

I spoke to the sponsor of the bill but he did not care to make a motion himself to have the bill referred back to committee, as he said that the locality in which he lives obtains its water supply from the Allegheny River, and of course there is no prohibition at the present time against fishing in the Allegheny River.

Therefore, Mr. President, on Monday I shall move that Senate Bill No. 65 be rereferred to the Committee on Forests, Waters, Game and Fish.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 2:00 o'clock, p. m.

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Sennate will be in order.

RESOLUTION CALLED FROM TABLE

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the resolution from the Finance Committee relative to the Joint State Government Commission laid on the table yesterday be taken from the table for consideration.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

The resolution was twice read as follows, as amended, considered and agreed to.

Whereas, The Joint State Government Commission of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania has, within the past few days published its "First Report on the Tax and Financial Problems of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the General Assembly," which contains information and studies of great value to the General Assembly and to the people of the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, The appropriation made for the use of the Joint State Government Commission permits the printing of a limited number of copies only of this report, which will be greatly inadequate to meet the demand for the same; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly hereby authorizes and directs the printing of 2500 additional copies of the "First Report on the Tax and Financial Problems of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the General Assembly by the Joint State Government Commission of The General Assembly," and directs that the cost thereof be charged against the appropriation for printing required by the General Assembly, 1000 of said copies shall be for the use of the Joint State Government Commission.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, March 12, 1941.

The House met at 12 m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Donald McFall offered the following prayer:

Heavenly Father we seek Thy favor as we begin and end this session. We implore Thy guidance in all the deliberations of this body of law makers. We ask that Thou mightest grant unto each 'good speed' as he journeys homeward. As each finds his place in Thy House on his appointed day of worship may there be a consciousness of Thy presence come in such power as to cause each man to return to this House of Representatives with a firm and steadfast resolution to pass only those laws which will glorify Thy Name and give honor to Thy Day. In Jesus' Name we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. TAYLOR, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. HARKINS RESOLUTION No. 52.

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1941.

Whereas, The Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania established by Act No. 168 of 1939 amending Act No. 397 of 1937 a certain and definite policy with respect to repayment from the real and personal estate of relief recipients of sums granted by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania according to the provisions of said Act No. 168 of 1939; and

Whereas, From an examination of Departmental Memoranda No. 799 and No. 800 issued September 5, 1939 and Departmental Memorandum No. 30 issued January 31, 1941 it appears that the Department of Public Assistance has nullified various portions of the aforesaid Act No. 168 of the session of 1939, now therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives does hereby request the Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to report to it to what extent, if any, Act No. 168 of 1939 is being enforced; to what extent, if any, it is being modified by departmental rulings with respect to both real and personal property not specifically exempted by the said Act; be it further

Resolved, That the House of Representatives does hereby request the Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to inform the House of Representatives whether such nullification, if there be any, is based upon formal opinions of the Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and to send the House of Representatives copies of said formal opinions.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 208, Printer's No. 41, was passed over at the request of Mr. ACHTERMAN.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. JAMES asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I have the proud distinction this morning of speaking to you as an honorary Irishman. I am quite sure the Members of the House will recognize at once that the distinction could never be achieved by any man who did not possess well defined merits.

It reminds me of an incident that is said to have happened in the colorful career of Harry Mackey, one time Mayor of the City of Philadelphia. It appears that His Honor was taking one of his frequent vacations and visited the Black Hills of Wyoming. A tribe of Indians hearing of the coming of His Honor raised a great celebration, the climax of which was that they made His Honor a member of their tribe. Word of this distinction reached City Hall in Philadelphia. The next morning the mayor received a telegram which read as follows:

"So now you are an Indian. Stop. Well, I'll be damned. Stop."

What I really want to do is to give the Members of the House a report of the committee that is preparing the celebration of St. Patrick's Day on behalf of the Legislative Sons of St. Patrick. This committee has at last planned a program which will be great in the memory of all of us. It will be a very, very disastrous thing for any Member of the House in this session to live through the rest of his life and be compelled to say to those he encounters that he did not attend the St. Patrick's banquet of 1941.

There has been a little misunderstanding, however, about making reservation, and I am asked by the committee to try to rectify the misunderstanding. It has been announced from the rostrum on two occasions that reservations are to be made in tables of six or eight, and that has been a matter of confusion in the minds of some of the Members. However, any Member can individually secure a ticket for this great occasion by applying at any time between now and next Monday noon to Mr. O'Neill, Mr. Moran or Mr. "McJames." I thank you.

COMMUNICATION

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication which was read by the Clerk as follows:

UNITED STATES SENATE
Committee on Finance

March 11, 1941

Mr. Thomas J. Callahan
Chief Clerk
House of Representatives
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Mr. Callahan:

I have your letter of March 4th together with Resolution No. 19 adopted by the House of Representatives memorializing the Congress of the U. S. to designate December 15, 1941 as a National Holiday and authorize the appointment of a Bill of Rights Sesqui-Centennial Commission to sponsor appropriate ceremonies and celebrations upon that day.

I shall introduce the Resolution into the Congressional Record when the Senate meets again Thursday, March 13th, together with some of my own remarks. At the same time I shall introduce a Senate Joint Resolution to comply with your Resolution. A copy of the proposed Resolution is enclosed.

With every kind wish, I am

Most cordially yours,

James J. Davis

To provide for the celebration of the one-hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Bill of Rights as the first ten amendments to the Constitution of the United States.

Whereas the 15th day of December, 1941, is the day on which occurs the one-hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Bill of Rights as the first ten amendments to the Constitution of the United States; and

Whereas such day assumes unusual importance and significance during the present critical period in the history of our Nation and of the world when the fundamental rights of free people, as set forth in such amendments, are being threatened by totalitarian forces abroad and their sympathizers at home: Therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That in order that the one-hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Bill of Rights as the first ten amendments to the Constitution of the United States may be duly commemorated, the 15th day of December, 1941, is hereby declared to be a national public holiday throughout the United States.

Sec. 2. For the purpose of providing for appropriate ceremonies and celebrations on such day, there is hereby established a commission to be known as the Bill of Rights Sesqui-Centennial Commission (hereinafter referred to as the "Commission"), to be composed of seven commissioners, as follows: three persons to be appointed by the President of the United States, two Senators to be appointed by the President of the Senate, and two Members of the House of Representatives to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The members of the Commission shall serve without compensation and shall select a chairman and vice-chairman from among their number. If any vacancies occur in the membership of the Commission, such vacancies shall be filled in the manner provided for the original appointments.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the Commission to sponsor appropriate ceremonies and celebrations to be held throughout the United States on December 15, 1941, in commemoration of such anniversary.

Sec. 4. The Commission is authorized to make such expenditures for the purpose of carrying out its functions under this joint resolution as it may deem advisable, but no expenditure shall be made except for the purposes authorzied by a majority of the members thereof. Expenditures of the Commission shall be paid upon the presentation of vouchers approved by the chairman of the Commission.

Sec. 5. The authority of the Commission under this joint resolution shall cease and terminate on June 30, 1942, at which time the commission shall make a report of its expenditures and activities under this joint resolution to the Congress.

Sec. 6. There is hereby authorized to be appropriated the sum of $10,000 to be expended by the Commission for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this joint resolution.

COMMUNICATION

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to read a letter from Matthew E. Welsh, Member of the General Assembly of Indiana.

Mr. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, that is a private affair and I object to having it read,—you go ahead and use your own judgment.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman object to the reading of the letter? For the information of the House, this letter is about the Welshs. Is the gentleman "welshing" The Chair will read the letter.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY
STATE OF INDIANA
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
INDIANAPOLIS

February 27, 1941.

Honorable Matthew J. Welsh,
Pennsylvania State Legislature,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Welsh:

A friend of mine who receives the Legislature Bulletin distributed by the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce, has called to my attention the fact that there was a Matthew J. Welsh in the Pennsylvania State Legislature.

Since my name is almost identical I trust your conduct is such that it will reflect credit upon our respective names. Please be assured I am trying to do the same in Indiana.

Very truly yours,

Matthew E. Welsh,
State Representative
Knox County

The SPEAKER: This is the reply:

March 11, 1941

Matthew E. Welsh
House of Representatives
Indianapolis, Indiana

Dear Mr. Welsh:

I was pleased to receive your letter some time ago and can assure you that our conduct has been excellent. We have three Welsh's in the Pennsylvania State Assembly. I do not have any photographs handy but I am sending you my Campaign card which will show you that I have the appearance of a Statesman.

Hoping to hear from you some other time.

Yours very truly,

(Signed Matthew J. Welsh)

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the gentleman is testifying for himself, I move that that reply letter be expunged from the record. Secondly, I move that a committee of three be appointed to investigate the proceedings by which Mat Welsh got somebody out in Indiana to write him a letter so that he could make that reply.

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, that campaign card of mine had a picture on it, and I think it will impress the other Matthew Welsh, but if I had Turner's picture on that card it would certainly be a great reflection on me and my friends.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. SAMUEL ROSE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Last week, Mr. Speaker, you stated that the Irish had begun to fight, and you appointed Mr. O'Mullen of Philadelphia to serve on this Irish Day celebration.

Since then, I noticed quite a look of disdain about his noble brow. Knowing that Mr. O'Mullen is descended from Irish kings, I wonder whether he is willing to serve on that committee with descendents of more Irish sheep herders.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The members of the Joint State Government Commission will meet at 2:30 p. m. in the new House Caucus Room instead of 3 p. m.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. LEVY asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Workmen's Compensation to meet during the session of the House.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. JAMES offered the following resolution which was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1941.

Preceding the Day of St. Patrick by a scant five days, our good friend, J. P. Moran, was born a few years ago, and through an enviable record of achievements, has come to be a member of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, serving his fourth consecutive term as the Representative of the Tenth Legislative District of Allegheny County.

A jovial and genial companion, with a great resounding voice from the aisle at the rear of the room, famous as a member of the team of "Moomaw and Moran," the bane of the local tax collectors, consistent and persistent in his efforts to transfer all utilities to the local political subdivisions, we have come to know him; and to know him is to love him, therefore be it

Resolved, That on this, his birthday, his fellow-members of the House of Representatives, extend to the Honorable J. P. Moran their heartiest congratulations and best wishes for a great many more such days, and express to him the sentiments of his progenitors, "May your shadow never grow less, and may the skin of a gooseberry serve as an umbrella for all of your enemies," and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be presented by the Chief Clerk to Mr. Moran.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Moran.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I am unwilling to be recognized. What does the speaker desire to know?

The SPEAKER. What can the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Moran tell me in regard to this resolution?

Mr. MORAN. Well, Mr. Speaker, I have always tried to answer questions asked me. Of course, if the Speaker wishes to draw from my vast knowledge and experience, I will be glad to give him any information he desires,—or any other Member of the House for that matter.

The SPEAKER. The Chair was giving the Members an opportunity to Sing, "Happy Birthday To You."

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

Mr. MORAN. I knew that was going to happen.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Why doesn't the gentleman shut up, Mr. Speaker? I am trying to help him. I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. Does the gentleman from Allegheny know there was a resolution passed congratulating him on his birthday? Once upon a time I presented some of the Members of the House with an alarm clock, but I never thought that was necessary for Mr. Moran.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, am I being interrogated?

The SPEAKER. You were being interrogated.

Mr. MORAN. Well, I am just waking up; maybe I am not awake yet. I was not at the ball last night.

Mr. Speaker, those members who are sitting around me, are offering me all kinds of fatherly advice. I believe my mind is a little befuddled this morning and I know that Mr. Turner is waiting for a chance to get up again. I don't know whether I can say very much. I just found out I was born, in fact, I couldn't find out in the Bureau of Vital statistics that I was born. I went over there one day last week and they changed a boy into a girl in three minutes. I also know they changed a white man into a colored man, and he had been dead for five years.

I am still getting all kinds of advice around here, Mr. Speaker. However, I want to thank the members of the House and whoever presented the resolution. I appreciate it; I hope that they will all be here many many more terms, and that you all will be down at the St. Patrick's Day celebration. If you don't have any tickets, see me.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. MAXWELL offered the following resolution which was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1941.

Whereas, a certain Member of the House of Representatives has now been expecting the arrival of an offspring for the past four months; and

Whereas, in spite of our efforts to acquaint him with elementary physiology he has for the past four months continually harassed, annoyed and disturbed our peace of mind, rendering our life burdensome and our condition intolerable; and

Whereas, he led us to believe he would be the first expectant father we would lose in a somewhat lengthy practice; and

Whereas, on the 11th day of March 1941, Mrs. David H. Weiss at Charleroi-Monnessen Hospital gave birth to a baby girl; therefore be it

Resolved, that the House of Representatives felicitate the happy parents on the birth of such girl; and be it further

Resolved, that the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives mail a copy of this resolution to Mrs. David H. Weiss further congratulating her on the birth of so presentable a daughter.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

The following Committee meetings were announced:

Welfare, Wednesday, March 12 after the session in Room 246.

There will be a Public Hearing before the Committee on Professional Licensure on House Bill No. 227 on Tuesday, March 25 at 10 a. m. in the new House Caucus Room-First Floor.

A hearing before Banking Committee on House Bill No. 211 known as Saturday Bank Holiday Bill will be held on Tuesday, March 18th, 1941 at 12 noon in Room 330.

A dinner caucus of the Republican members will be held next Monday Evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Harrisburger Hotel.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, March 17, 1941, at 9 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 12:49 p. m.) the House adjourned.

SENATE

MONDAY, March 17, 1941

The Senate met at 4:30 o'clock, p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS offered the following prayer:

Through the expression of our finite hearts with Thy infinite heart, O Father, we would top the untold depths of Thy unfailing power to encourage our languishing spirits and renew our dwindling strength. Utterly futile must be our way without Thee and completely wasted must be our conscientious endeavors without Thy direction.

We are representatives of our people in this Senate rightfully elected for that purpose and the more clearly will be the way of representation here if, before we begin our work of another week, we purposely pray unto Thee. To do this is helpful unto us and pleasing unto Thee.

Grant us Thy peace in mind and heart. Give us a clarity of vision in our work. Vouchsafe unto us the complete picture of faithful stewards of time, energy and talent. Make us worthy workmen in Thy moral vineyard. And above all, may we possess and be propelled by the knowledge that in all our work here we must be accountable not only to our people but ultimately to Thee for the motives and caliber of our workmanship.

Be with the President of the United States and the Governors of our several Commonwealths in this the most crucial hour of all our national history. We pray in the name of the great Architect and Creator of the universe. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HEYBURN and Mr. GELTZ, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. Becker asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Schuylkill, Mr. WATKINS.

Mr. Edmonds asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. WOODWARD.

Mr. Farrell asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Erie, Mr. ZIESENHEIM.

Mr. Stiefel asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McCREESH.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Montgomery will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, on page 488 of the Legislative Journal of the Senate on Wednesday, February 26, 1941, there is attributed to me a misquotation: "About a week ago I introduced a resolution to the Senate calling upon the Secretary of Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions to advise the Senate as to the addresses of the ninety-three municipal authorities mentioned. Mr. President, that ought to be the Secretary of the Commonwealth who was called upon for that information. I think that should be corrected.

The PRESIDENT. The correction will be noted in the Journal.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The PRESIDENT. The Secretary has an announcement to which the Chair would like all the Senators to pay attention.

The Secretary announced arrangements as to the securing of tickets to the dinner of the Legislative Sons of Saint Patrick to be held at the Penn Harris Hotel on Tuesday evening, March 18, 1941.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege, concerning Irish ancestry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will proceed.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, some weeks ago the majority leader of the Senate admonished the members of the Senate for wasting time talking on questions of personal privilege and I am inclined to believe as an offender that we have used the question of personal privilege in a broad sense and that has given us a wide latitude to talk about things that ought not to be talked about under a question of personal privilege.

However, Mr. President, I wonder if anybody in the Senate would complain if perhaps an Irishman arose on his feet today and whistled an Irish ditty or perhaps talked about the glory of the Irish race.

It is my understanding that the presiding officer of the Senate is an American by nationality, a Welshman by consanguinity but today an Irishman by proximity.

Mr. President, my good friend the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator McGinnis and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator McCreesh, the gentleman from Luzerne, Senator Mundy and myself and other Senators are delighted to have every member of the Senate embrace the Irish race today.

Mr. PRESIDENT. Emerson had said that all history becomes poetry after the lapse of a sufficient period of time. Just so all Irishmen celebrate St. Patrick's Day not merely in the memory of St. Patrick but as the great Irish day of the year. The Irish glorify their ancestry on St. Patrick's day and most others wish they were Irish so they could. St. Patrick's birthplace and the story of his life have become uncertain in the mists and mazes of the past. But we do know a few facts about him. We know that like most men he began life in obscurity. Like most of the great he had no predecessors or successors. His life and work stand mighty mountains with the valley of ancestry on one side and the depression of posterity on the other.

After fifteen hundred years it matters little to us whether he was born in Scotland or in France. We are not seriously concerned whether he lived in the third or fifth century, whether he was stolen by pirates and sold into slavery or whether he went to Ireland as a servant body. The great impressive fact of his life is that he rose from his humble place to a Bishop and converted the heathen of Ireland to Christianity. I believe his work justified the story which portrays St. Patrick in regulation robe and halo driving the snakes to the sea stopping long enough to convert the heathen in Ireland. From that day to now we think of him as a statesman as well as a preacher and a powerful personality. His vision of the future is best illustrated by his building a school beside each of the 360 chuches he caused to be erected. Like all great leaders he knew the power of common and simple illustrations. He made the lowly three-leaf shamrock immortal by declaring that the three leaves represent the trinity of the churches. He did not stop with the Trinity illustration but declared the leaves of the shamrock had an application to the daily life of the people while on earth. He said one leaf stood for faith. Faith in God, faith in yourself and faith in your fellow man. He said another leaf stood for yourself and family and work for society as a whole. He said the third leaf stood for love, love of God, love of your family, love of your fellow-men, even to loving your enemies. He brought a message of the new religion of his day to the people of Ireland and preached the regeneration of the human heart through the power of God with an earnestness never surpassed since the days of Christ himself.

But it is not my purpose today to discuss the life and work of St. Patrick in detail. Nor to tell of the woes and tribulations of the people of Ireland during their 700 years of struggle for liberty. I desire rather to speak of their contribution to American civilization and American institutions. Their bravery, their prowess, their leadership, their idealism and mysticism are so interwoven with the history of the very day life of the American people that to talk to the Irish is to talk America and to talk of America is to talk of the Irish. This has been true since the very beginning of our country's history. Let me remind you today that it was the Irish voice of Patrick Henry that aroused the colonists to the defiance of the British Crown with the immortal words Give me liberty or give me death. It was another Irishman, tlll, brawn and brave, who when the delegates to the Continental Congress were discussing the question of whether or not they should sign their names in such a way only they themselves could read them so that in case the revolution failed they would not be identified and hanged; I say it was while this discussion was going on that John Hancock rose from his seat and walked to the table where lay the newly written declaration, took a quill in hand and in large, bold letters wrote his name and then throwing down his quill he turned and said, "there is my name and the king of England can read it without his specks on." This man was a direct descendent of an Irish immigrant and gave $400,000 a tremendous fortune in those days to the cause of the revolution. The act which I have just described so enraged the other members that all of them signed it in a few minutes.

While reciting the part the Irish played in the beginning of the country I might add it was John Nixon, whose father was born in Ireland, who read the Declaration of Independence for the first time in public on the steps of the old White House in Philadelphia, in July 8, 1776. Charles Thomason, Secretary of the Continental Congress, who made the first copy of the Declaration of Independence, was himself born in the County Derry, Ireland. The first officer killed in the revolution was Major General Richard Montgomery who was born in Donegal, Ireland, and the first Commander of the American Navy was John Barry, who was born in Westford, Ireland. One hundred and thirty-eight of the minute men of Lexington were Irishmen and George Washington's aide-de-camp for the seven years of the Revolution was General Reed, an Irishman. When the Continental Army was in distress and money was necessary to prevent desertion because of the lack of food and clothing Robert Morris subscribed $50,000 and 21 Irishmen, all of them members of the Sons of St. Patrick's subscribed $350,000. Washington Irving states that many of the land owners along the Hudson during the Revolution were tories but there was not an Irish name on the list. As one whose ancestors came from Ireland, I recount these facts not for the purpose of claiming more than a proper share of the credit for the Irish in winning the Revolution but simply to show that the Irish in America as well as the world around love liberty and justice and will fight and die for them. In our second war of Independence, the War of 1812, two most notable heroes were Perry at Lake Erie and Andrew Jackson at New Orleans. Both were sons of Irish parents who emigrated here just in time for them to be born in America and thus add to the list of Irishmen who helped in the maintenance of American liberty as against British oppression.

In fact the Irish have fought the battle of the world and bodies of Irishmen fill the soldier's cemeteries of all nations. England's greatest military heroes includes such Irishmen as Wellington and Kitchner and Roberts. While the Irishman has been a fighter and is ever ready to fight for a just cause it should also be remembered that as a man of progress he has the "I think I can" spirit of the steam engine that goes forward regardless of obstruction or danger. It is a significant fact that this spirit caused the Irish immigrant in our early history to go immediately to the frontier of the country instead of stopping in the most thickly settled areas. Theodore Roosevelt pointed out in his Winning the West the valuable part played by the Irish in the pioneer life of this country that reclaimed the land of the savage for civilization. No other immigrants from any part of the world adopted themselves to American ideals and American Institution so quickly as the Irish. He naturally hates tyranny and stories of the oppression of the Irish people are always in his memorys as an inspiration to cause him to resist every encroachment upon the liberties of the people. It is especially fitting that we should continue to celebrate St. Patrick's day here in Pennsylvania because the Order of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick's day originated in Philadelphia and Philadelphia was settled largely by Irish. The immigration records of Philadelphia show the number of immigrants as follows: English and Welsh, 267, Scotch, 43, Germans, 243, Irish, 5,655. There were ten times as many Irish as all the other nationalities combined. On St. Patrick's day each year the Irish meet to have their virtues extolled and their vices forgotten or defended. Their struggling and their suffering were not in vain because no suffering for a righteous cause has ever been in vain. We here in America have reaped the fruits of the Irish suffering. The Irish do not forget the past but they have their eyes on the future. The past as expressed in literature and song will forever remind not only the Irish people of the world who read and understand their literature and their music that if mankind would avoid the sufferings of the Irish they must be ever vigilant in the defense of liberty and democracy in the years to come.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. JAMES from the Committee on Executive Nominations reported with a favorable recommendation the following nominations made by His Excellency, the Governor, of the Commonwealth:

APPOINTMENT AS RECORDER OF DEEDS OF SOMERSET COUNTY

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governors' Office, Harrisburg, March 17, 1941.

To the Honorable, the Senate, of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate Mrs. Lulu G. Hostetler, Meyersdale, Somerset County, for appointment as Recorder of Deeds in and for the County of Somerset, until the first Monday of January, 1942, and until her successor shall be duly qualified, vice Gene Hostetler, deceased.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

By unanimous consent,

A motion was made by Mr. JAMES and Mr. EALY.

That Rule 38 which requires nominations made by the Governor be referred to an appropriate committee be dispensed with, and the Senate do now resolve itself into Executive Session, for the purpose of acting on the foregoing nominations.

Which was agreed to.

Whereupon,

A motion was made by Mr. JAMES and Mr. EALY.

That the Senate do advise and consent to said nominations.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

RESOLUTION URGING DISPLAY OF AMERICAN FLAGS

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, in presenting the following resolution I would like to state that this organization was founded by Jacob Dogole, magistrate of the City of Philadelphia, as president, and Hamilton Dalton, a well-known radio commentator. The object of the organization is to present American flags and have American flags displayed on all public institutions of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It is the desire of these gentlemen that the members of this Senate, if they know where an American flag can be placed, where there is not sufficient funds, that this organization be notified, and they will see that a flag is provided for such purposes.

Mr. President, in presenting this resolution I ask that it be read and move its immediate adoption.

Mr. FARRELL offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate March 17, 1941.

Whereas, Principles of free government are being assailed throughout the earth; and

Whereas, the flag of the United States is a symbol of American liberties and privileges; and

Whereas, this flag is an inspiration to all citizens and an assurance that the privileges of liberty are everywhere present in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur) that the American flag shall be displayed in every public office in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and in every institution receiving state aid; and be it further

Resolved, that all private factories, stores and commercial institutions be requested to comply with the spirit and purpose of this resolution.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. STEVENSON offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate March 17, 1941.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, March 24, 1941, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, March 24, 1941, at 9:00 o'clock p. m.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Mr. DENT offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate March 17, 1941.

Whereas, The crisis facing this nation and a state of national emergency which to a certain degree faces this nation today, there is a tendency for increased prices in the necessary essentials of food, clothing, and housing, and

Whereas, There should be a restraint exercised against undue increases, therefore be it

Resolved, If the House concur, that a Commission of seven (7) members be set up consisting of two (2) Members of the State Senate, named by the President Pro Tempore; two (2) Members of the House of Representatives, named by the Speaker of the House; one (1) member representing labor; one (1) member representing the employers; one (1) member representing the farmers, named, by the Governor who shall make up an Anti-Profiteering Board, whose duties it shall be to review, retail prices to consumers; wholesale prices to retailers and rent increases or decreases and shall determine where such increases in food, clothing and housing go beyond the increase necessary because of existing conditions. This Commission shall have the right to cite any and all persons, groups, corporations or companies whom in their judgment are profiteering because of national conditions.

Further Be It Resolved, That an appropriation of fifty thousand ($50,000) dollars be allocated to the Commission for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this resolution. Said Commission to be known as the Anti-Profiteering Commission.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection. The Resolution will be referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

BILL ON CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 79, entitled:

An Act to amend subsection (a) of section twelve of the act, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. SENATE BILL NO. 237 RECOMMITTED

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, before making a motion to recommit this bill I would like to make a statement to the members of this Senate that there will be a committee meeting held by the House of Representatives on a similar House bill. I have talked with the Chairman of the Committee of Public Utilities of the House of Representatives and I am trying to arrange that a hearing be held jointly with a Senate committee.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 237, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend section four of the act, approved the twenty-eighth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (P. L. 463), entitled, as amended "An act providing for the incorporation, as bodies corporate and politic, of 'Authorities' for municipalities, counties, and townships; defining the same; prescribing the rights, powers, and duties of such Authorities; authorizing such Authorities to acquire, construct, improve, maintain, and operate projects, and to borrow money and issue bonds therefor; providing for the payment of such bonds, and prescribing the rights of the holders thereof; conferring the right of eminent domain on such Authorities; authorizing such Authorities to enter into contracts with and to accept grants with the Federal Government or any agency thereof; and for other purposes," limiting the power of authorities with respect to bridges located in more than one county or crossing a stream on the boundary line of two counties.

be recommitted to the Committee on Public Utilities for the purpose of committee hearing with the House on a similar House bill.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

MOTION TO POSTPONE BILLS

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bills No. 246 and 247, be placed on the Postponed Calendar. These bills are bills concerning policemen, firemen and park guards in the City of Philadelphia. Last Friday the mayor of Philadelphia expressed the wish that these bills be placed on the Postponed Calendar until he could meet a committee of the gentlemen concerned.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I move that further consideration of Senate Bill No. 246, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend section two of article five of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (P. L. 581), entitled "An act for the better government of cities of the first class of this Commonwealth" by classifying employees and officers of the Bureau of Police and Fire and certain employees of the Electrical Bureau assigned exclusively for work in connection with the Bureau of Fire, all in the Department of Public Safety for the purpose of fixing minimum salaries for each classification and payment of at least such minimum salaries to all persons with the said classifications be postponed for the present.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am opposed to this motion. I have received four hundred and fifty letters today from policemen and firemen and park guards. Anyone who has paid any attention to the effect of this bill would know this bill would cost the City of Philadelphia at least two and a half million dollars annually if put into effect. I am in favor of the bill now because I have always believed that in Philadelphia particularly the police and the firemen have been underpaid.

Mr. President, this bill had no place in the Senate originally if the motives of this bill were sincere and real because if the Republican party wants to increase the pay of the Philadelphia police and firemen they do not need to come to the Legislature to do it; they can sit together as councilmen to provide the increase without any action on the part of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

This bill came out of committee in spite of the fact that for the last two years we have heard, and in the next two or three weeks we will hear more, about so-called Home Rule. Every time a piece of legislation is unpopular with a certain group in Philadelphia a substitute measure is presented and then we get the slogan known as Home Rule and the same people who are sounding that slogan present bills the effect which is to take away the right of self-government.

These two bills are perfect evidence of the inconsistency of the position and evidence of the fact that Home Rule is just a mere slogan; not only these two bills but other bills which are direct interference with the right of the localities to govern themselves. The citizens of Philadelphia, the firemen particularly, cannot get an increase in pay, to which they are entitled, because the city has been misgoverned for years. There is enough income available in Philadelphia to increase the firemen's pay. We have heard a great deal and I have said a great deal about relief in government, the conduct of relief in government, and there is as much justice in the cases of these policemen and firemen and park guards asking adequate pay as there is to my argument for furnishing adequate relief to persons who cannot find work.

Day in and day out, night in and night out, these people risk their lives. There are more needed in Philadelphia; because of the lack of policemen and firemen there is not sufficient protection to the public and because of the insufficiency of police these men face greater dangers and risk their lives more frequently than they should.

Mr. President, these bills have been introduced. Great agitation has been created; if they had not been introduced the matter would have laid dormant but great agitation has been created.

The mail of every Senator has been flooded. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Farrell, could not be seen behind the flood of letters on his desk last week. The firemen are here. This bill is on third reading. They are not only here in person but they are here in mail and in pleas for this bill, and now we are going to postpone action on these bills because the Mayor of Philadelphia wrote a letter telling the Senators what everyone knew or should have known before the bill was introduced.

Everybody is asked here and now to take a position on this bill contrary to what all of these policemen and firemen want and what all of us know they are entitled to. If we are honest about the purpose of this bill, about the proposition, we know the only reason that we would not get it is because the money is not available; but the money can be made available, the money can be made available by proper management of the city, by cutting out waste and by a concentration of governmental functions to such an extent as will permit sufficient protection.

This bill was conceived with the idea of one or two things, either when it passed the Senate the House would not pass it or when it went to the Governor the Governor would not sign it. I venture the suggestion when this bill goes over to the House I feel certain it will be passed quicker than it took to get out of committee here in the Senate, so if there is any idea that the House is not going to pass this bill it better be dissipated.

Mr. President, ordinarily I would oppose this kind of a bill, but under the circumstances and because of what is back of it I am in favor of this bill and I want to vote for it. I do not believe it ought to be postponed just because the Mayor of Philadelphia feels he has sent a complete statement on his position on the bill. That is a position that was known to anybody that had anything to do with this bill at the time it was introduced and every member of this Senate coming from Philadelphia has been stopped on the street and received mail at his home, received mail here, and has been importuned to pass this bill, which has come up on two readings, and we all felt we were going to be ready to vote on it today, and I want to vote on it today, and I see no reason why we should not; there is nothing in the letter the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia has said that should make this bill be placed on the postponed Calendar.

Mr. President, we knew about the cost of this bill. I knew that two and a half million dollars would be the cost to the city; I know they are entitled to it and I also know no matter how many times you cry Home Rule, no matter how many times you talk about giving these firemen and policemen what they are entitled to, you are not getting it from the City of Philadelphia until we instill good management and until you pass the law. This is one case where Home Rule should be violated; if there is such a thing as Home Rule it should be violated because the people who should rule will not rule properly, honestly and fairly, and I think it is a mistake and unfair that we be asked at this time to put this bill on the postponed Calendar and I am going to vote against it.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair understands, in order that the record may be clear, that the motion of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, is to put this Senate Bill No. 246 on the postponed calendar.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. The question is, whether Senate Bills No. 246 and 247 shall be placed on the postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I do not see any occasion for being in a great big hurry. I am going to go through with this bill, and make no mistake about that. The only thing is I have a very high regard for the Mayor of Philadelphia and when the Mayor of Philadelphia asks me to postpone this bill, and I gave him my word I would do my best to postpone it, I expect to keep my promise. If the mayor does not agree with helping these men to get more money I will bring this bill up from the postponed Calendar for a vote in this Senate.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FARRELL. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, isn't it true that the Mayor of Philadelphia is opposed to this bill because of the fact that it will cost approximately two and a half million dollars if these bills are passed?

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, that is his reason with the exception he does not know where he is going to get the two and a half million dollars.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Philadelphia know where the mayor is going to get the two and a half million dollars even if this bill is placed on the postponed calendar?

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I do not know.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Philadelphia state how long these bills are expected to stay on the postponed calendar?

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, as far as I am concerned it will not stay on the postponed calendar very long but I do owe a courtesy to the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia, for whom I told you I had a very high regard.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, tell me or suggest anywhere, without increasing taxation, the City of Philadelphia can acquire the funds necessary to meet the increased costs incurred by this bill?

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, it is my thought that Philadelphia next year and this year, that its occupational taxes will exceed far more than the budget; with Cramp's opening and with other large plants opening, I really think there should be sufficient funds.

There are members of council here on the floor and there should be enough funds to increase the pay of the city policemen, firemen and park guards, with large enterprises that are opening up and will probably be paying additional occupational taxes.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in the last two years the City of Philadelphia's expenditures have decreased by at least two millions of dollars as a result of the retirement of certain bonds and the requirement of less money in the budget to meet bonded indebtedness. The City of Philadelphia has not paid over the million and a half dollars to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which is its obligation to Byberry, and if my memory serves me correctly they did not even put that in the budget, and yet there has not been one dollar's worth of increase on the payroll of the policemen and the firemen. Today in the City of Philadelphia we still drink chlorinated cocktails for water and we have no sewage disposal plants that are properly operated and we are told that if we get a few hundred thousand dollars of taxes there will be more money for policemen. Mr. President, the only way we are going to get more money for policemen is to pass this bill and make the city fathers either decrease their expenditures by eliminating waste or increase the taxes and give these people the money they are entitled to and I am opposed to postponement of this bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to placing Senate Bill No. 246 on the Postponed Calendar?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAPIRO and were as follows, viz:

YEAS 29

Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Letzler,	Taylor,
Becker,	Farrell,	Mallery,	Thomas,
Carr,	Geltz,	Miller,	Tyler,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I move that further consideration of Senate Bill No. 247 on third reading, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Council of the City of Philadelphia to fix the salaries of members of the Park Guards, and authorizing the Park Commission to classify the Park Guards and to pay the salaries as set by the City Council be postponed for the present.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I thought this motion was covered in the action on Senate Bill No. 246.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FARRELL. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, as long as the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, has sponsored this bill I should like to know the reason for the proposed postponement of this bill. I just could not hear from this section of the august body what the reason for the postponement was.

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I asked that this bill be placed on the postponed Calendar at the request of Mayor Lamberton, of the City of Philadelphia, who has asked to meet a committee from the various organizations to talk over the proposed bills. I see no harm in granting that request.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. For what reason, Mr. President? To talk over what and for how long?

Mr. FARRELL. I can not say for how long, Mr. President.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Thank you, Mr. President. Mr. President, I feel in order to save the printer's bill and so on we might as well drop this bill from the Calendar because the mayor says in his letter, "In conclusion I ask that you permit us to work out our very difficult financial situation in our own way without compulsion from the State; do not put this added burden on us at the very time we are least able to bear it."

Therefore, Mr. President, I see no reason for placing this bill on the postponed calendar and I think we should drop it. I do not see any cause to move that we drop it because we are just fooling around and because we do not have the votes.

Thank you very much.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I too received an avalanche of letters and I decided to consult the man who in my opinion is the best informed on the financial situation in Philadelphia today, Comptroller Robert C. White, and I am glad to say that the Comptroller of Philadelphia, Dr. Robert C. White, is taking a different attitude in this respect and he favors affirmative action on Senate Bills Nos. 246 and 247.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to placing Senate Bill No. 247 on the postponed Calendar?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAPIRO and were as follows, viz:

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 252 (House Bill No. 320), as follows:

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the sixth day of April one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine (P. L. 387) entitled "An act to authorize execution of process in certain cases in equity concerning property within the jurisdiction of the court and on defendants not resident or found therein" authorizing execution of process in certain cases for the perpetuation of testimony

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows:

NAYS 0

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 253, as follows:

An Act Relating to members of the bureau of fire in cities of the second class providing subject to the approval of the electors for a three-platoon system for such members with certain exceptions providing for an election on such question and regulating hours of service hours of rest and annual vacations

Section 1 There shall be submitted to the qualified voters in each city of the second class at the primary election in the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one the question "Shall a three-platoon system for the bureau of fire Department of Public Safety be adopted in this city' The county board of elections in and for each county in which there shall be located a city of the second class shall prepare the necessary ballots voting machines and other matters so that said question shall be submitted to the qualified voters in said cities at said primary election and so that such vote thereon shall be properly had and conducted all in the manner provided by the election laws of this Commonwealth

Section 2 In districts where ballot boxes are used said question shall be printed on a separate ballot prepared in the manner provided by law for the preparation of official ballots and one such ballot containing said question shall be furnished to each qualified elector by the proper election officer In election districts where voting machines are used said question shall appear on the face of the voting machine in the manner provided by law The votes upon said question shall be counted by the election officers in each district and by said election officers returned to the county board of elections which board shall compute and canvass said returns and shall forthwith certify the result thereof to the mayor of the respective city of the second class

Section 3 If a majority of the qualified voters of such city voting on such question at such election shall vote in the affirmative then the proper officers of each city of the second class having the direction control and management of the bureau of fire in such city or being responsible for making provision therefor shall begin at once to divide and to provide for dividing members excepting the chief engineer and his deputy chiefs by whatever designation they may be known of the bureau of fire into three platoons and such division shall be fully completed and the provisions of this act shall be fully effectuated not later than the first day of May one thousand nine hundred and forty-two

Section 4 No such member of any of such bureau of fire shall be required to work more than eight hours in any twenty-four consecutive hours except in cases of extraordinary fire emergencies riots or similar emergencies affecting the public interest and the necessary time and no more consumed in changing work shifts Such work shifts shall be changed at least once each calendar week and such member of any such bureau shall be compelled to work the same work shift more than once in any three consecutive weeks All such members of such bureaus of fire shall be entitled to one full day of rest in each calendar week and to have an annual vacation of not less than fourteen days both without diminution of salary or compensation fixed by ordinance or resolution of such city

Section 5 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed

Section 6 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I have received a number of requests from organizations in the City of Pittsburgh asking for a public hearing on this bill. I am very loath to retard the progress of this bill in the Senate, but several weeks ago when a bill was up on third reading we withdrew it and placed it back in committee in order to hold a public hearing to give the Communist Party an opportunity to be heard; I therefore feel in order to be consistent we should give these organizations of the City of Pittsburgh an opportunity to be heard on this bill.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT SENATE BILL No. 253

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 253 be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Government for the purpose of a public hearing.

I might say I have discussed the matter with the chairman of the committee and find he will have time to give this matter a public hearing at the earliest possible moment.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALKER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny state how many bills we already have in the same committee that are waiting for public hearings?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I am not a member of the committee and am unable to answer that question.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, to what committee is this bill going to be referred?

Mr. WALKER. The committee from whence it came, Mr. President, Municipal Government.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I am opposed generally to the returning of bills to committee for any purpose whatsoever, except for some good reason, and I do not think that the reason given is a proper reason. This bill has been in the Senate for quite some time. It has been in committee for a long time; it was on the Calendar for second reading and now it is up on third reading.

It does not seem fair and just to the members of the Assembly who are here trying to do a good job and who are not trying to be detained here for six or seven months —Mr. President, I say it is unfair for people who are interested in bills to wait until the very moment when we are about to vote on them finally, that they come in and ask for a public hearing and have the passage of the bill postponed.

Then other bills will follow and when we are about to adjourn we will find that they are all here and want to have bills passed and jammed through the Session and cause considerable confusion and I think we ought to stop this mania, I must call it, of reporting bills out, reading them for the first time, second and third time and then at last sending the bills back to committee.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, in view of the fact that this bill has a referendum feature, there will be a public hearing.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I should just like to correct the impression given by the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, that the reason stated by me when I moved the recommittment of this bill was not the real reason. May I suggest to the gentleman from Fayette that is the real reason and that in all fairness and in all consistency anybody who agreed to the motion to recommit the bill on third reading for the Communist Party to have a hearing certainly should be courteous enough to give the Chamber of Commerce from the City of Pittsburgh, which can not be classified as a Communistic group, a hearing on this bill.

I think in all fairness we should give them that hearing; they have requested it. That is the real reason. There is no unholy alliance in the motion I just made.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, this bill was introduced by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, on February 25th, when the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, introduced the bill he made a short speech and here is a part of it, from the Legislative Journal: "This matter is for the electorate of the City of Pittsburgh to decide." Mr. President, I think that is a good idea and I think we should vote on the bill today and for that reason I am opposed to the motion of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I do not want the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, to go unchallenged as far as I am concerned. For the information of the gentleman from Allegheny I wish to state I opposed the return of the bill that he referred to, about the Communist Party, going back to committee; I opposed the return of that bill to committee.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to withdraw my motion to have this bill referred back to committee. I am overwhelmed by the arguments of the other side and am perfectly willing to have this bill to go to a vote at this time.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I withdraw my seconding of the motion.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I am certainly pleased to learn that our remarks have had some effect upon the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker. I congratulate him.

The PRESIDENT. The motion of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, that Senate Bill No. 253 be referred to committee for the purpose of a public hearing, has been withdrawn. The seconder has withdrawn his seconding of the motion.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Tallman,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 254, on third reading, entitled:

An Act authorizing municipalities to file liens against real estate beyond the municipal limits for certain municipal rates; validating liens heretofore filed; and providing for the procedure thereon.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 291, (House Bill No. 381), on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend section nine hundred eight of the act, approved the fifth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 364), entitled "An act relating to business corporations; defining and providing for the organization, merger, consolidation, reorganization, winding up and dissolution of such corporations; conferring certain right, powers, duties and immunities upon them and their officers and shareholders; prescribing the conditions on which such corporations may exercise their powers; providing for the inclusion of certain existing corporations of the second class within the provisions of this act; prescribing the terms and conditions upon which foreign business corporations may be admitted, or may continue, to do business within the Commonwealth; conferring powers and imposing duties on the courts of common pleas, and certain State departments, commissions, and officers; authorizing certain State departments boards, commissions, or officers to collect fees for services required to be rendered by this act; imposing penalties; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to corporations," by further prescribing the procedure to be followed by shareholders who desire to become dissenting shareholders of a corporation which becomes a party to a plan of merger or consolidation; limiting the rights and remedies of shareholders who desire to object to or dissent from any merger or consolidation, and making the rights and remedies herein provided for exclusive.

be recommitted to the Committee on Corporations for the purpose of amendment.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I object.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EDMONDS. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this is the bill which amends the merger act and confines the rights of stockholders of a merger of two companies to the specific provisions of the act.

Mr. EDMONDS. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. What is the purpose of the amendment, Mr. President.

Mr. EDMONDS. Upon careful study of the bill, Mr. President, it seemed as if there ought to be provision in it that notice should be given to stockholders as to their rights, as set forth in this bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and were as follows, viz:

YEAS 35

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL NO. 297

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 297, entitled:

An Act to further amend section 10 of the act approved the twenty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one (P. L. 149) entitled "An act imposing a State Tax, payable by those herein defined as distributors, on liquid fuels used or sold and delivered within the Commonwealth, which are ordinarily, practically, and commercially usable in internal combustion engines for the generation of power; providing for the collection and lien of the tax, and the distribution and use of the proceeds thereof; requiring such distributors to secure permits, to file corporate surety bonds and reports, and to retain certain records; imposing duties on retail dealers, common carriers, county commissioners, and such distributors; providing for rewards; imposing certain costs on counties; conferring powers and imposing duties on certain State officers and departments; providing for refunds; imposing penalties; and making an appropriation;" by limiting the amount of the liquid fuels tax payable to counties and the uses for which such moneys may be expended.

passed on second reading.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I voted "aye".

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I voted "aye".

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the title was agreed to.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the first section was agreed to.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President. I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the first section?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move to amend section 1, page 4, line 2, by striking out the word "No" at the end of the line, and inserting in lieu thereof the word "Any"; amend section 1, page 4, line 3, by striking out after the word "county" and before the word "reallocate" the word "shall", and inserting in lieu thereof the word "may"; amend section 1, page 4, line 6, by striking out after the word "poses" and before the word "The" the words "or for any other purpose whatever".

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second section of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

Section 2 This act shall become effective on the first day of June one thousand nine hundred and forty-one

The title of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

An Act to further amend section ten of the act, approved the twenty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one (P. L. 149), entitled "An act imposing a State Tax, payable by those herein defined as distributors, on liquid fuels used or sold and delivered within the Commonwealth, which are ordinarily, practically, and commercially usable in internal combustion engines for the generation of power; providing for the collection and lien of the tax, and the distribution and use of the proceeds thereof; requiring such distributors to secure permits, to file corporate surety bonds and reports, and to retain certain records; imposing duties on retail dealers, common carriers, county commissioners, and such distributors; providing for rewards; imposing certain costs on counties; conferring powers and imposing duties on certain State officers and departments; providing for refunds; imposing penalties; and making an appropriation," by limiting the amount of the liquid fuels tax payable to counties and the uses for which such moneys may be expended.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 298, on third reading, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation out of the Motor License Fund to the Department of Highways for allocation to and expenditure in cities, boroughs towns and townships of the Commonwealth for maintenance, construction, reconstruction resurfacing, or improvement of municipal roads, highways and bridges, during the calendar years one thousand nine hundred forty-two and one thousand nine hundred forty-three, permitting the use of the funds for maintenance and repair of municipal roads, highways and bridges under certain conditions; and providing for the method of payment to such political subdivisions.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 50, on second reading, entitled:

An Act providing that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its political subdivisions employ only citizens of the United States.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 65, on second reading, entitled:

An Act permitting and regulating fishing in certain reservoirs used for public water supply purposes in accordance with rules and regulations adopted by the Board of Fish Commissioners; modifying the laws with respect to trespass, and imposing penalties.

be recommitted to the Committee on Public Health.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. REED. I object, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, has the motion been seconded?

Mr. JAMES. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny tell me whether or not this action is made following the dictates of the Republican Caucus?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I think that is an improper question and I do not desire to answer it.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I did not hear the answer.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I think that is an improper question and I do not desire to answer it.

Mr. DENT. I thank the gentleman for the affirmative answer. Now, Mr. President, may I further interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, is the purpose of recommitting this bill to the Committee on Sanitation and Health to kill the bill? Is that the purpose of the motion?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, there is indication that the result of it might be something affecting public health and we think it is only proper that it go to the Committee of Public Health in order to give that committee an opportunity to check into the possibilities in connection with the bill.

Mr. DENT. Thank you.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair understands this bill had previously been committed to the Committee on Forest and Waters, Game and Fish and was reported out; now it is requested that it be committed to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I regret this action puts me in the position of talking in opposition to the motion because I would rather have the bill voted upon here on the floor, rather than go back to committee, where I know from past experiences on this floor, in this session and the session of 1939, that the bill is being sent back to committee and in all probability it will die there.

Therefore, Mr. President, in order that I might keep faith with the six hundred odd thousand fishermen in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in whose interest I have introduced this legislation, year after year, I therefore desire to make a few statements relative to the bill. I will not be in a position at a later date to make a statement because I know full well this bill will probably enjoy the same fate as some other bills on the calendar which I have introduced, which have been sent back to committee. It seems I was fortunate enough to get the No. 1 bill through the Senate, but since then a blackout has been ordered on my legislation.

Therefore, Mr. President, I desire to read into the record certain arguments in favor of this bill in order that the Committee on Health and Sanitation may have my arguments and the arguments of the sportsmen of the state who for years have fought battles for clean streams and anti-pollution in Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, the argument has been made to me personally by the men interested in sending this bill to committee that this would cause pollution of the drinking water system of Pennsylvania. I do not believe that to be true because the great mass of sportsmen of this state have been the men and the women behind the movement for clean streams and anti-pollution laws and the very men who vote to send this bill back to committee in many instances on this floor and in the House of Representatives, when we were members, voted against anti-pollution legislation when anti-pollution legislation was aimed at the clearing up of the very streams they now say we will pollute because we are going to sit on the edge of the streams and innocently throw in a hook and line trying to fish, in a clean recreational sport.

I want to say, Mr. President, I have here an article which appeared in the Pittsburgh Press, edited by one of the best known sportsmen in the State of Pennsylvania, John G. Mock, and I want to read to you some of the arguments in this article. Mr. President, I hope you will pardon me if it refers to me a little in the editorial. Being a politician naturally I do not like publicity.

"THIRD ATTEMPT TO PUSH FISHERMEN'S MEASURE THROUGH LEGISLATURE AWAITS PUBLIC RESPONSE

By John G. Mock

"If at first you don't succeed, try again.

"And if failure meets your second attempt, well there's always the opportunity to tackle it another time.

"That seems to be the logic of Senator John H. Dent, of Westmoreland County, in his effort to acquire additional fishing for the disciples of Izaak Walton.

"On two occasions the Senator has introduced a bill to permit fishing in certain reservoirs—in accordance with rules and regulations to be adopted by the Board of Fish Commissioners—modifying trespass laws and providing a penalty for violation of the act.

"On both occasions, sportsmen of the state have let him down, through apathetic interest.

"Many another lawmaker would have told the fishermen to 'go hunt' for their fishing. John Dent has agreed to give it another whirl.

"Section 1 of the proposed act provides that every reservoir owned, leased or operated by any municipality, person, association or corporation supplying water to the public shall be open to fishing in accordance with the laws of the Commonwealth relating to fish; said water to be that which is filtered or otherwise treated before being supplied for domestic consumption.

"This section also provides that the Board of Fish Commissioners, with the consent and approval of the Sanitary Water Board, formulate and adopt such rules and regulations as deemed necessary in interests of public health.

LIFTS TRESPASS ACT

"Section 2 relieves fishermen from liabilities of the trespass act, but holds him responsible for damage done while on such lands.

"The following section charges the Board of Fish Commissioners with posting, conspicuously, the rules and regulations as they apply and Section 4 establishes a penalty of $25 for either molesting such signs or posters or violating the provisions under which the area may be fished.

"Water, like the air we breathe, is part of the eminent domain and, like the air, water is an element over which no individual or group of individuals may claim ownership.

"Where impounded, in practically every instance, upon tax-free land and in many instances upon land donated by the State, the Westmoreland County Senator contends that the public should have access to its property.

FREES PUBLIC PROPERTY

"The bill is not an attempt to usurp the rights of any private individual or corporation, but merely seeks the privilege of utilizing a public property.

"Neither would the measure establish a precedent, for the water utilities for years have been commercializing the eminent domain by charging fees to bathe, fish, boat and otherwise make use of the water. The water companies have built cottages upon the taxfree lands, sold concessions and otherwise capitalized upon the situation at the expense of the public.

"Senator Dent's bill, which should have immediate wholehearted support of every public-spirited citizen, including sportsmen, aims to make available to all of the public that which, in many instances, is the privilege of a few.

"Write to Senator John H. Dent, Senate of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa., advising him of your support to Senate Bill No. 26. Whether or not it will be released from committee and brought onto the floor for consideration will depend upon how the public expresses itself in this regard—shall utilities corporations continue to bar the public from a rightful heritage, free access to the eminent domain?"

Mr. President, I do not want to read to you all the letters I have here but I do want to read just a few excerpts from some of them. For instance, here is one from up in Butler: "The fishermen in this district voted for the stocking of fish in the Butler Water Company Reservoir and yet we have to pay to catch them."

This is the point I want to drive home to this Senate, Mr. President, when you speak of polluting waters that are impounded for public consumption or domestic consumption you do not know the whole fact and the whole truth in the case. These waters are being shed today but they are being fished only when the utility company, or whatever the corporation happens to be that owns the water, permits persons to fish, either for political favor or for a stated fee or sum.

Mr. President, if it is pollution of that water for a person to fish, then it should not be permissible for private corporations to allow fishing if you pay. The general fishing public can now fish in a stream—any fisherman can fish in most any reservoir where the company has a fee system set up, where they charge fifty cents or a dollar and allow you to fish in that reservoir.

Mr. President, there are many arguments against this bill which I have read recently. Some of them are sound and some of them are unsound to my mind but the right I am asking in this legislation is a right which belongs to every citizen in this Commonwealth. Over six hundred thousand members of the fishing fraternity belong to organizations that have endorsed the passing of every piece of legislation that I have introduced not once, but on three separate occasions.

I want to say, Mr. President, I am sorry to see this bill going back to committee because I know full well that that is where it will rest and that is where it will die. You are not being fair to the fishermen of this state.

I want to tell you that it is not only the water used for domestic consumption in the matter of public utility but they will take the many reservoirs that may belong to a coal company, whose only public service or domestic purpose is that the water goes into a coal patch; in some instances it is filtered and they allow fishing but do not allow the residents of the coal patch to fish in there although they have licenses.

I want to say to you this is a very important piece of legislation and in a county as large as mine, with the hundreds and hundreds of miles of trout streams there are in that county, there is not a decent trout stream you can fish in simply because they all belong to the watershed that may be served or to fill up some reservoir that belongs to some company or corporation.

The fishermen should be allowed to fish. Mr. President, I want to give my boy the same right to fish I had when I was a kid. When I was a youngster I was happy to fish in any way I could, but today my kid and nobody else's kid has any place to go to fish. Mr. President, we have instances in my county, for example, there are picnic grounds adjacent to the water reservoir and after the picnickers leave there are all sorts of garbage and all sorts of paper and filth left lying around by the picnickers and any man will tell you who knows anything about purity of water that the dirt and filth may be fifty miles away from the reservoir and if it is in the watershed that fills that reservoir, when the water hits that dirt and filth, when the water hits that corruption of dirt, the disease will spread and go into that reservoir, the same as if you took the filth and corruption and threw it into the main body of water.

Mr. President, it is not fair to say this bill is going to corrupt waters or the people are going to pollute the waters of the state and I would not say that six hundred thousand fishermen of the State of Pennsylvania are a dirty group. Sportsmen as a whole are clean, sportsmen as a whole do not do anything to deteriorate the value of the land or the water.

You will find the sportsmen go out and try to beautify the area in which they enjoy the sport and do nothing to injure it. I want to see the children go out on the streams, the little youngsters who have not had the opportunity to go out and fish, let those youngsters go out and fish; it is better for them to do that than to do the other things we know they have to do now for recreation.

I want to say, Mr. President, I oppose this motion. I know my opposition will not get me any votes and I venture to say that half the Republicans that vote for this measure will be voting to send this bill back to committee, and it is only fair to say that this bill is being sent back to committee for killing, that is what it is going back for, to be killed; it is going to be pickled. You are polluting the streams and the sportsmen's organizations of the State of Pennsylvania by your vote right now. You are not in any way giving me a decent argument and at no time has any person with whom I have talked given me a decent reason for sending this bill back to committee.

I therefore, Mr. President, rest the case of the fishermen and the sportsmen and clean-living citizens of this State of Pennsylvania in the hands of the Senate and I trust we do not vote to send this bill back to committee.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to say I agree with several of the statements of the gentleman from Westmoreland and I disagree with other statements he has made.

In the first place, Mr. President, I want to disillusion the gentleman from Westmoreland on the first things he said, because he did not get any of his bills passed in the Senate. The bill he got passed in the Senate was a Republican bill—because it changed control of the State Government Committee from the hands of a Democratic controlled House to make it an evenly divided committee and there was no reason why the Republicans should not vote for this bill—so I am hoping the gentleman from Westmoreland will not get any ideas of grandeur of his legislative ability because that bill passed first and quickly.

Secondly, Mr. President, I want to agree with the gentleman from Westmoreland that this bill is apparently going to die in committee. I am going to vote against recommitting the bill because I prefer to do my killing outside in the open, and I do not think it is fair to misunderstand the profession of the gentleman from Warren, Dr. Chapman—he is a doctor and not an undertaker, and there should be no bills sent to his committee for killing purposes—for curing yes, but killing, no.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I would like to support the gentleman from Westmoreland on the points he had made. It seems to me that the main argument in opposition to this bill is the fact they say it will tend to pollute water for domestic purposes. Now, Mr. President, I am glad I was born not far from the banks of the Monongahela River, that river that had been flowing for so many centuries down through the western part of the State of Pennsylvania. In that river we throw our dead cats and dogs and many a dead human body is found floating down that river.

The sewage of city, town and hamlet is poured into the waters of the Monongahela, and, Mr. President, we who live on the banks of that river drink that water. The water companies that furnish us the water take the water out of the Monongahela river, and no one yet has raised the argument that serving us the water of the Monongahela River is dangerous to our lives, and so I say, Mr. President, that the argument in opposition to this bill on the question of sanitation is fallacious and is not sound. Water impounded in those reservoirs must be filtered and treated before it is put in pipes for domestic consumption.

Now, Mr. President, in my part of the country, in Fayette County, this water of the Monongahela River, as I have stated and I reiterate, the river in which we throw our dead dogs and our dead cats and all of the sewage that is gathered along that river, that water is taken out of that river and the most that is done to it is chlorinate it and then put it into the pipes. It may be that sometimes it does not taste very good, but nobody complains about any danger to life. Other companies take the water out and they filter it, so that it does not have a very bad taste when you drink it.

So, Mr. President, I do wish to go along with the gentleman from Westmoreland, that the argument raised against this bill is absolutely puny, unsound, and I doubt, Mr. President, whether the gentleman from Warren, Dr. Chapman, really thinks he is sending this bill back or referring it to the Committee on Health and Sanitation, for the purpose of health and sanitation; it is probably being sent back to the lethal chamber where it may be asphyxiated and put away for future preservation.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I have gone over this bill very carefully because as a physician, like my good friend, Dr. Chapman, over there, I am very much interested in medical prophylactics, very much interested in disease prevention.

I can not quite agree with my colleague, Senator Dent, on some of the things he said. Of course, he may sense the measure as a discriminatory measure, but by the same token I believe this bill will open the reservoir and the streams to innumerable people, and I believe the Senator himself will agree with me that no organization, even the sportsmen's organization, would want to be responsible for the individual conduct of each individual who would participate in the fishing of that particular reservoir. We know too that in the conduct of various human beings there will be some soiling of this water by the addition of human excretions, and we do know that men and women of certain types are carriers of certain diseases; particularly we have the injurious typhoid carrier. I have found this to be a fact, so I do agree with the Senator from Westmoreland that the corporations and the water companies have been making a practice of giving to certain individuals the right to fish in these streams, and in that sense it is discriminatory. There should be either a complete prohibition of fishing in its entirety or else permission to every individual to fish.

Now, on the other side, I say to my colleague that study—to you gentlemen from Philadelphia, and, Senator Cavalcante, from Pittsburgh, or rather from the neighborhood of Pittsburgh, Fayette County—has brought forth a very important point, in saying that most of the sources of our water supply throughout the state come from areas which can not be otherwise than soiled, and we therefore require aeration plants and filtration plants and chlorination plants, and in my opinion, and I have gone over this with some of the medical authorities, I can not see where there is a grave danger or injury to the health of a community consuming this water; providing the corporation has installed proper aeration, proper filtration and proper chlorination plants. Let me impress upon you that as this filtration, this aeration, this percolation and this chlorination is performed, actually the water goes through this process after it leaves the main body of the stream, so that the bacteria which might enter by permitting people to fish in there should be thoroughly taken care of under proper sanitary precautions, and while I waver between my duty as a physician and an extreme prophylactist and my love for fishing and hunting now I think I will only explain by vote, in voting against committing this by voting and supporting the motion of Senator Dent, by saying I believe that the thing we need most is not discrimination, but absolute prohibition if we are going into that, or freedom entirely to fish, and we must say to those corporations you must install better plants to take care of any infection that may occur in the stream.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I just wanted to call attention of the Senate to the fact that the City of New York, with its millions of people, must get its water supply outside of the area known as the City of New York, and the five boroughs; its water supply comes from the Catskill Mountains. They have an act in New York which permits fishing, under the same conditions permitted in this bill. No water can be sold or given out for domestic use or consumption unless it is first treated and filtered. Chlorinated water cannot be sold if they allow—rather, they can not fish in a reservoir where only chlorination takes place in water before it is sent for human consumption.

So far as trespass is concerned, the bill has been amended to take care of that. The owners, in agreement with the Fish and Game Commission formulate rules which must be obeyed by the fishermen. We all know that when men go out to fish they do not go out to destroy anything, they go out and in most instances they are of the better class of Americans and they take time out to go out and fish and take their children with them, and I say we are doing a grave injustice to decent American citizens of this state, who for years have fought an honest fight for anti-pollution legislation.

Now, Mr. President, as the sponsor of this legislation—I did not sponsor this bill on my own, it is sponsored after many many requests by organized sportsmen, and by individual sportsmen from all over the state who know that as the years roll by, more and more of our streams are being tied up into water systems. It is not alone the reservoirs, it is the miles and miles of feeder streams that go into the reservoirs, the use of which is prohibited today, and if the City of Pittsburgh goes up into Central Pennsylvania and ties up miles and miles of such streams for their water supply, and Philadelphia does the same thing—bills have been introduced for both purposes—and if they do that, you will have to go out of the State of Pennsylvania to fish unless you are a friend of a friend who is a friend of these utilities.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to recommit Senate Bill No. 65?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DENT and were as follows, viz:

YEAS 29

The bill is recommitted to the Committee on Public Health.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 144, entitled:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation out of the Motor License Fund to the Department of Highways.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 266, entitled:

An Act to further amend clause (i) of section four hundred ten, of the act approved the seventeenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 682), entitled "An act relating to insurance; amending, revising, and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies, and the regulation, supervision, and protection of home and foreign insurance companies, Lloyds associations, reciproral and inter-insurance exchanges, and fire insurance rating bureaus, and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies, associations, and exchanges, including insurance carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund; providing penalties; and repealing existing laws," by further regulating the computation of extended term insurance in the uniform policy provisions of life insurance policies.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 268, entitled:

An Act to further amend section three hundred one of the act approved the seventeenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 789), entitled as amended "An act relating to insurance; establishing an insurance department; and amending, revising, and consolidating the law relating to the licensing, qualification, regulation, examination, suspension, and dissolution of insurance companies, Lloyds associations, reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges, and certain societies and orders, the examination and regulation of fire insurance rating bureaus, and the licensing and regulation of insurance agents and brokers; the service of legal process upon foreign insurance companies, associations or exchanges; providing penalties, and repealing existing laws, "further regulating the computation of the reserve liability of life insurance companies and the issuance of life insurance policies.

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 Section three hundred one of the act approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 789) entitled as amended "An act relating to insurance establishing an insurance department and amending revising and consolidating the law relating to the licensing qualification regulation examination suspension and dissolution of insurance companies Lloyds associations reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges and certain societies and orders the examination and regulation of fire insurance rating bureaus and the licensing and regulation of insurance agents and brokers the service of legal process upon foreign insurance companies associations or exchanges providing penalties and repealing existing laws" as amended in part by the act approved the twenty-sixth day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 793) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 301 Computation of Reserve Liability The Insurance Commissioner shall each year compute the reserve liability as of the thirty-first day of December of the preceding year of every company authorized to make insurance on lives in this Commonwealth in accordance with the terms of the policy contract and rules following

(a) The net value of all outstanding policies of life insurance issued by the company prior to the first day of January one thousand eight hundred and ninety shall be computed upon the basis of the American experience table of mortality with interest at not less than four and one-half and not more than six per centum per annum

(b) The net value of all outstanding policies issued between the first day of January one thousand eight hundred and ninety and the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and three on the combined experience or actuaries' table of mortality with interest at four per centum per annum

(c) The net value of all outstanding policies of life insurance issued on and after the first day of January nineteen hundred and three on the American experience table of mortality with interest at three and one-half per centum per annum Provided however That any company may value its group term insurance policies under which premium rates are not guaranteed for a period in excess of five years according to the American men ultimate table of mortality with interest at three and one-half per centum per annum

(d) The net value of all policies of life insurance issued on and after January first one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one where the premiums are payable monthly or oftener shall be valued according to the American experience table of mortality with interest at three and one-half per centum per annum But any company may voluntarily value its industrial policies according to the standard industrial mortality table with interest at three and one-half per centum per annum

The net value of a policy at any time shall be taken to be the single net premium which will at that time effect the insurance less the value at that time of the future net premiums called for by the table of mortality and rate of interest designated

The legal minimum standard for valuation of annuities issued after January one one thousand nine hundred and twelve shall be McClintock's table of morality among annuitants with interest at three and one-half per centum per annum but annuities deferred ten or more years and written in connection with life or term insurance shall be valued upon the same mortality table from which the consideration or premiums were computed with interest not higher than three and one-half per centum per annum

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order.

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 300, entitled:

An Act to further amend subsection (h) of section one hundred two of the act, approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 797), entitled "An act to establish a Bureau of Forest Protection within the Department of Forestry; designating the officers who shall constitute the Bureau, their duties and salaries; prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; and repealing all laws, general, special, or local, or any parts thereof, that may be inconsistent with or supplied by this act," authorizing the Department of Forests and Waters to dispose of telephone lines by sale or lease.

And said bill having been read at length the second time,
On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Crowe.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CROWE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Monroe state for the information of the Senate what is the purpose to be effected by this bill?

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, the purpose of this bill is to permit the Department of Forests and Waters to lease or sell telephone lines that have been used in the state forests, that they no longer have use for, to turn them over to private individuals who can give the proper service.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Have they already leased services for themselves.

Mr. CROWE. No, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Isn't it true that the Department of Forests and Waters has its own telephone service and at the same time serves small cottages or cabins on the various grounds?

Mr. CROWE. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the gentleman from Monroe tell us how they are going to get their service after this?

Mr. CROWE. In many cases it will be desirable for a private company to take that over because they can give better service and make something out of it.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, does the gentleman know whether this arrangement is going to cost the Department of Forests and Waters more money or is it going to result in a saving to the Department of Forests and Waters?

Mr. CROWE. In a saving, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, has the Department of Forests and Waters been consulted in connection with this bill?

Mr. CROWE. This is a bill which was suggested by them.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CROWE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Monroe have any objection to including in this bill an amendment that these same lines may not be resold or released back to the Department of Forests and Waters?

Mr. CROWE. Will the gentleman repeat that question?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the gentleman have any objections to placing an amendment in this bill that the same lines shall not be resold or released thereafter to the Department of Forests and Waters.

Mr. CROWE. I do not think that is necessary, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. The gentleman from Monroe does not think so?

Mr. CROWE. No.

And the question recurring,
Will the Senate agree to the motion?
It was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, sometime ago I introduced Senate Bill No. 12 known as the sixty at sixty old age pension assistance plan.

Mr. President, I had no intention of taking up the time of the Senate tonight to speak on this bill, up until the time that I noticed in the papers that the chairman of the Committee released to the press a certain statement as follows: "Senator Bartlett says the sixty at sixty Haluska bill is dead."

Now, Mr. President, this might be a laugh to some of you, but I intend to place my story before this body if it takes me until morning. I think this is one of the most important bills introduced in this session. I do not think that the members of that committee gave that bill any study or any thought. I am wondering whether the Chairman of that Committee himself read the bill, and I am wondering why he reached down into the barrel and dragged out Senate Bill No. 12 and magnified it and told the entire Commonwealth the bill is dead because it will take seven hundred and fifty million dollars to finance the program. Therefore, I am assuming that the Chairman of that Committee has full knowledge of what he said.

For that reason, Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Northampton.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northampton permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BARTLETT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, according to the Associated Press release, the gentleman from Northampton has stated that it will take seven hundred and fifty million dollars to finance my proposed sixty at sixty plan; is that correct?

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, that is substantially correct.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Northampton know how many persons we have in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that are above sixty years of age?

Mr. BARTLETT. I do not know, Mr. President. That information is in the hands of the Department of Public Assistance, however.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Northampton state whether Mr. Russell made this release rather than himself?

Mr. BARTLETT. I did not understand the question, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, is it a fact the Secretary of Public Assistance gave the gentleman from Northampton those figures?

Mr. BARTLETT. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. And did the gentleman from Northampton inquire whether or not they were correct?

Mr. BARTLETT. I inquired, Mr. President, from the department, and I am told they are correct.

Mr. HALUSKA. Then it is a fact that Mr. Russell gave the gentleman those figures, is that right?

Mr. BARTLETT. That is correct.

Mr. HALUSKA. And did the gentleman from Northampton convey those figures to his committee?

Mr. BARTLETT. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Northampton know how many persons we have in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania today that are receiving some type of public assistance, above the age of sixty, whether it be a pension, a blind pension, direct relief, or a widow's pension?

Mr. BARTLETT. I can not answer that question, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, does the gentleman have knowledge of how many persons will become eligible under my act, as outlined in Senate Bill No. 12?

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, I believe that can be calculated; by dividing the sum necessary by the figure of 120, which would give a figure of approximately six hundred thousand.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, does the gentleman say that about six hundred thousand persons received some type of public assistance, above the age of sixty?

Mr. BARTLETT. No, Mr. President, I did not.

Mr. HALUSKA. My question was, does the gentleman know how many persons above the age of sixty are today receiving some type of public assistance in Pennsylvania?

Mr. BARTLETT. I can not answer that, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. The gentleman from Northampton does not know that, either?

Mr. BARTLETT. No, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Northampton tell me how he arrived at the figure of seven hundred and fifty million dollars?

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, that figure was given me by the Secretary of Public Assistance.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, will the gentleman state whether it was given to him orally or in writing?

Mr. BARTLETT. It was given to me in writing, Mr. President, and for the benefit of the gentleman from Cambria, I will read the letter.

Mr. HALUSKA. Will the gentleman read the letter?

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. Russell says under date of March 11, referring to Senate Bill No. 12:

"This bill appears to go beyond the scope of the Federal Social Security Act, under which Pennsylvania receives 50% reimbursement for Old Age Assistance grants, in several major respects. First, it provides a $60 maximum grant, whereas Federal participation is available only for grants up to $40. Second, it sets a minimum age of 60 as against the Federal minimum of 65. Third, Federal law and regulations provide that Old Age Assistance must be granted on a basis of 'need,' taking into consideration resources and income of the individual and of the family of which he is a part. This bill does, of course, provide for consideration of family income but it does so on such a liberal basis that an aged person living with his son and daughter-in-law would apparently still be eligible for as much as a $20 monthly Old Age Assistance grant if the son's income were $550 a month. In my opinion Federal participation would not be forthcoming on such a basis. Considering the scale of payments and the portion of the population likely to be eligible, I would estimate conservatively that this bill, if enacted, would entail State costs of some $740,000,000 per biennium. Even assuming Federal participation, State costs would still run in excess of $500,000,000 per biennium, as compared with the present rate of $25,000,000."

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, did I understand the gentleman from Northampton to read seven hundred and forty million dollars rather than seven hundred and fifty million dollars, as he gave to the paper.

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, seven hundred and forty million dollars is the statement of the secretary.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, was seven hundred and fifty million dollars the statement that the gentleman from Northampton gave to the press?

Mr. BARTLETT. I am not sure, Mr. President, if I said seven hundred and forty million dollars or seven hundred and fifty million dollars.

Mr. HALUSKA. The press says seven hundred and fifty million dollars. Mr. President, does the gentleman have any knowledge of any bill pending in Congress today relative to lowering the limit from sixty-five to sixty?

Mr. BARTLETT. I have no personal knowledge of any such bill, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. If any such bill is pending and should pass, would the gentleman from Northampton still say that my bill is dead?

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, if such a bill were passed, it might put a new light on Senate Bill No. 12.

Mr. HALUSKA. Then, Mr. President, the gentleman from Northampton would say that my bill is not dead, that it still has some life in it.

Mr. BARTLETT. It is sleeping, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I will submit for interrogation to any member of this chamber, if he is able to answer the question that I asked the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Bartlett. Is there a member of this body who can tell me how many persons we have in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who are sixty years or upward? Is there a member who can tell me that?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, if I may, I will volunteer the statement that the census of 1930 shows there were 10,300,000 people in the United States above the age of sixty. You can ordinarily take those figures. Putting Pennsylvania's share between nine and ten per cent, if there are 10,300,000, nine per cent of that would mean about 900,000 or 950,000 in Pennsylvania are above the age of sixty.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, that is correct. Can the Senator from Montgomery tell me how many persons we have in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who are sixty years and older, who are receiving some type of public assistance?

Mr. EDMONDS. I can not answer that, Mr. President; I have never seen any figures along that line; I think those figures can be had over in the Department.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, is there anybody else on that side of the House that could enlighten me on this subject?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I call the attention of the gentleman from Cambria to the fact that the letter which Senator Bartlett read stated seven hundred and forty million dollars for the biennium, and as I see the figures, there are about 900,000 individuals at $720 a year. That is not such a bad calculation on the part of the department.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I might say to the gentleman from Montgomery that my bill does not refer to individuals. My bill states—I am sorry to say I believe that very few of my colleagues have read that bill—because my bill states every household where one person has reached the age of sixty and whose income is less than sixty dollars a month, would be entitled to these benefits. Therefore, assuming we have 950,000 persons, my bill does not relate to the entire amount.

Now, Mr. President, this is an important matter, because the day is coming when we must face the issue, and I believe all of my colleagues, both Democrats and Republicans, realize that something must be done sooner or later to take care of the aged of our Commonwealth, and that is why I mentioned the act pending in Congress. This afternoon I called Senator Downing from California, and he informed me now that bill is being sponsored and it has the blessing of the Democratic administration, lowering the limit from sixty-five to sixty. It will be a participating bill, wherein the federal government will grant the first thirty dollars, provided the states will participate for the other thirty dollars. That is why I asked the question that if that bill should pass, will the gentleman say that my bill is dead. I do not believe we can afford to put ourselves on the spot in that manner.

Mr. President, for the information of this Senate, we have 140,000 persons residing in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania today who are receiving some type of public assistance; to be more specific to my colleagues, we have one hundred thousand persons in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania receiving old age assistance; we have eleven thousand persons receiving blind pensions; we have twenty-nine thousand persons who are receiving direct relief, that are over sixty years of age; we have thirty-five thousand families wherein someone in that family is employed in W.P.A., so all totaled, we have 175,000 persons who are dependent upon this Commonwealth for some type of public assistance, and I maintain under my act, and if read you will agree with me, you will have around 200,000 to 225,000 families, possibly five hundred thousand persons, who would be eligible under my act, and this figure of seven hundred and fifty million dollars to me is nothing but political chicanery, that is all it is; it is a gross deception of the truth, because I maintain that my bill could become a law and the Commonwealth would not pay over eighty-five million dollars per year, and this would be far from seven hundred and fifty million dollars. I say you are trying to create a smoke-screen, trying to tell the aged of our Commonwealth that it is impossible to pass my bill because of that figure, which is not true. I say to you if you read my bill you will agree with me it will cost less than ninety million dollars per year, and if the Federal Government passes a pending bill, it will cost much less, and we will be in position to enact some type of legislation that will take care of the aged of our Commonwealth.

Some time ago, Mr. President, one of my colleagues asked me the question on this floor, "when did you become the self-appointed God of the people of this Commonwealth?"

Now, Mr. President, I am only one human being, I am not a self-appointed god, but I do have their cause in mind and I am in sympathy with the man who reaches the age of sixty, the man in the sunset of life, the man in the twilight of life, the man that knows that never again will industry ever hire him, and it is our duty as humans to help that man, because as I said before once you show a streak of gray hair in your head they say to you, "You are too old," whether you be forty-five or fifty. Therefore, Mr. President, we must confront this issue as it confronts us; something must be done and it is our duty to do, and I hope and pray that that bill receives more consideration, that it will not be dead; I hope it is sleeping peacefully, Mr. Bartlett, until Congress passes that bill.

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, at the meeting of the committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions last week, we had a very full meeting, the minority party was well represented, and the bill was given thorough consideration. I want to allay any suspicions of the gentleman from Cambria that the bill was pocketed without consideration. It received due consideration from all members of the committee present.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. COX. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator Stiefel, and myself, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. COX and STIEFEL read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 361, entitled:

An Act to protect the obligors or guarantors of debts for which judgments are entered and owners of real property affected thereby, and others indirectly liable for the payment thereof, by prohibiting, for certain periods, the sale on execution of property at less than its fair market value; and prescribing the method of fixing the fair market value of said property.

Which was committed to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, because of the schedule on the part of the Senators for tomorrow we have had some difficulty in arriving at the proper time for our session.

We have on the schedule the trip over to the new industrial school at Whitehill tomorrow morning until lunch time. We have a public hearing tomorrow afternoon on the home rule bill and the Irish remind us that we have a Saint Patrick's day dinner tomorrow night.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Tuesday, March 18, 1941 at 9:30 o'clock, a. m.

Mr. CRIDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 6:47 o'clock, p. m. until Tuesday, March 18, 1941, at 9:30 o'clock, a. m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, March 17, 1941

The House met at 9:00 p. m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. DONALD McFALL offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for all men who have not only heard Thy voice, but who have gone out into fields of service and sacrifice in order that men might come to know Thee. To-day, there are those who are thinking of one, St. Patrick, who because of his zeal for Thee, left Scotland, crossed the channel, and in Ireland began a great work resulting in the establishment of schools and Monasteries. Many centries have passed since his day, others also have come and gone, each leaving a memorial of great worth in the minds and hearts of those unto whom they ministered.

It is our prayer that This Legislative Body might leave its imprint upon the citizenry of this State for that which is upright and worthy of Thy richest blessing. May it be conscious of the fact that disobedience to Thee will invite Thy displeasure and bring sorrow and disappointment into the hearts of men. Hear our Prayer, O God. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of Wednesday, March 12, 1941.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Wednesday, March 12, 1941, when, on motion of Mr. DOLON unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. TAYLOR. HOUSE BILL No. 792.

An Act to add sections 418, 419, 420, 421, 422, and 423 to the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. KOMOROFSKI. RESOLUTION No. 53.

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1941.

Whereas, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania appropriates large sums to the Nanticoke State Hospital in order that the unfortunate ill may receive adequate hospital care; and

Whereas, it is a matter of public knowledge that the administration of said hospital is not efficiently conducted to the best advantage of the community.

Whereas, as a result thereof, there have been many dismissals of and resignations by employees due to unknown or undisclosed causes; and

Whereas, various organizations in Luzerne County have petitioned the State Secretary of Welfare requesting an investigation of said hospital; and

Whereas, notwithstanding this public interest, neither the trustees of said hospital, nor the Secretary of Welfare have given any consideration to such requests, therefore be it

Resolved, that the five members of the House of Representatives, be appointed as a committee, by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, to investigate the affairs of the Nanticoke State Hospital and its operations by the trustees thereof; and be it further

Resolved, that said investigating committee report the result of its investigation to this House, as speedily as possible, with appropriate recommendations.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. RUSSELL E. REESE and WILLIAMS. RESOLUTION No. 54.

In the House of Representatives, March 12, 1941.

Whereas, There is now pending in the Congress of the United States a bill designed to eliminate poll taxes in certain states; and

Whereas, The passage of this bill will result in the enfranchisement of thousands of citizens, and result in a true expression of the will of the people; and

Whereas, The elimination of such practice is thoroughly consonant with the American democratic tradition; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby memorializes Congress to assure the passage of this Anti-Poll Tax Bill as quickly as possible; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States and the Chief Clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

RESOLUTION

BRIAN O'MARA PRESENTED TO HOUSE

Mr. MORAN offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, March 17, 1941.

Whereas, This day is one that is set apart in reverence and affection by the descendants and friends of Ireland all over the world to pay honor and tribute to their patron saint, Patrick; and

Whereas, Much of the greatness of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was made possible by the sons of Erin, who, in the early days of its history, blazed pioneering trails to the West, fought the savage Indians, took part in the early frontier wars and in the subsequent battles in which this State and America engaged for the preservation of freedom; and

Whereas, On every hand, in every county of the Commonwealth are to be found evidences of the brain and brawn and culture of those who trace their ancestry to the Emerald Isle who helped to build our first railroads, dig our first coal mines and oil wells, establish churches and institutions of learning and in other ways aided in the creation of Pennsylvania's proud reputation for its high place in the world's commerce and culture; and

Whereas, Wherever the members of the Celtic race and their friends gather on this happy day of March 17th it is a matter of historic record that they have always raised their voices in song or listened to the melodious voice of one of their distinguished sons whom God, in His infinite wisdom and grace, had favored more than others in the bestowal of the vocal arts, and among whom are numbered such men as the beloved Chauncey Olcott, Andrew Mack, John McCormack and others of equal renown; and

Whereas, There is in this capital city of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania tonight a young man who, by reason of his talents and training, has during the past year been acclaimed the greatest Irish tenor of his time, the distinguished Brian O'Mara, who is now present in or about this Capitol building; and

Whereas, The House of Representatives would be remiss in its appreciation of the richer and finer gifts and traditions of our State if it neglected to formally commemorate this great day by availing itself of the privilege of having the illustrious Mr. O'Mara take part in our brief St. Patrick's Day exercises; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of this House instruct the Sergeant-at-Arms to command Brian O'Mara, Irish tenor extraordinary, to appear before the House of Representatives, and that the said Brian O'Mara be escorted to the rostrum by a committee of Members of the House, acting as a guard of honor, such committee to be appointed by the Speaker; and be it further

Resolved, That the said Brian O'Mara be, then and there, presented by the Speaker with a certified copy of this Resolution, together with the admiration and appreciation of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

The SPEAKER appointed Messrs. Moran and Turner to escort Mr. Brian O'Mara to the rostrum.

Mr. Brian O'Mara was escorted to the rostrum.

The SPEAKER. It is with profound pleasure that the Chair presents to the House Brian O'Mara the famous Irish tenor from County Waterford, Ireland, who I am sure will sing his way into the hearts of the Members of this House as he has already done to music lovers here in America and abroad.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair will declare a recess for fifteen minutes. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and declares a recess for fifteen minutes.

Mr. Brian O'Mara, for the entertainment of the House, accompanied on the piano by Mr. William Simmers, sang "A Little Bit of Heaven" and "Ireland, Mother Ireland."

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER. (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks Mr. Simmers, the accompanist of Mr. O'Mara.

Mr. O'Mara, as a token of our sincere approciation, I am directed by the House to present to you a copy of the Resolution which was adopted this evening in your honor.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

Mr. Hirsch for Mr. McGRATH for the week on account of illness in the family.

Mr. Samuel Rose for Mr. FINNERTY for the week on account of illness.

Mr. Baker for Mr. HOLLAND on account of death in the family.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Appropriations to meet during the session of the House.

SENATE MESSAGES

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 17, 1941.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, March 24, 1941, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, March 24, 1941, at 9:00 o'clock p. m.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was unanimously concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

AMENDED RESOLUTION RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced returned resolution from the House of Representatives as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 26, 1941.

Whereas, The Joint State Government Commission of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania has, within the past few days published its "First Report on the Tax and Financial Problems of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the General Assembly," which contains information and studies of great value to the General Assembly and to the people of the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, The appropriation made for the use of the Joint State Government Commission permits the printing of a limited number of copies only of this report, which will be greatly inadequate to meet the demand for the same; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly hereby authorizes and directs the printing of 2500 additional copies of the "First Report on the Tax and Financial Problems of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the General Assembly by The Joint State Government Commission of The General Assembly," and directs that the cost thereof be charged against the appropriation for printing required by the General Assembly.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with an amendment, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend last resolved clause by inserting at the end of said clause after the word "Assembly" the following: "1000 of said copies shall be for the use of the Joint State Government Commission."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendment made by the Senate?

The amendment was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

HOUSE BILLS CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bills from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 320.

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the sixth day of April one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine (P. L. 387), entitled "An act to authorize execution of process in certain cases in equity concerning property within the jurisdiction of the court and on defendants not resident or found therein" authorizing execution of process in certain cases for the perpetuation of testimony.

HOUSE BILL No. 402.

An Act providing for the organization, government, discipline, maintenance and regulation of an additional land force to be known as the Pennsylvania Reserve Defense Corps, for the defense of the Commonwealth during any period of time in which the National Guard of Pennsylvania or any part thereof shall be in active service of the United States.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same without amendment.

AMENDED SENATE BILL CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced informed that the Senate has concurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives to Senate Bill numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

SENATE BILL No. 79.

An Act to amend subsection (a) of section twelve of the act, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. L. 447), entitled as amended "An act relating to the administration and distribution of the estates of decedents and of minors, and of trust estates; including the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties, liabilities, accounts, discharge and removal of executors, administrators, guardians, and trustees, herein designated as fiduciaries; the administration and distribution of the estates of presumed decedents; widow's and children's exemptions; debts of decedents, rents of real estate as assets for payment thereof, the lien thereof, sales and mortgages of real estate for the payment thereof, judgments and executions therefor, and the discharge of real estate from the lien thereof; contracts of decedents for the sale or purchase of real estate; legacies, including legacies charged on land; the discharge of residuary estates and of real estate from the lien of legacies and other charges; the appraisement of real estate devised at a valuation; the ascertainment of the curtilage of dwelling houses or other buildings devised; the abatement and survival of actions, and the substitution of executors and administrators therein; the survival of causes of action and suits thereupon by or against fiduciaries; investments by fiduciaries; the organization of corporations to carry on the business of decedents; the audit and review of accounts of fiduciaries; refunding bonds; transcripts to the court of common pleas of balances due by fiduciaries; the rights, powers, and liabilities of nonresident and foreign fiduciaries; the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties, and liabilities of trustees durante absentia; the recording and registration of decrees, reports and other proceedings, and the fees therefor; appeals in certain cases; and, also, generally dealing with the jurisdiction, powers, and procedure of the orphans' court in all matters relating to fiduciaries concerned with the estates of decedents," by authorizing the orphans' court to allow and set aside the widow's or children's exemption without notice or appraisement where the property claimed is of apparent or readily ascertainable value

The SPEAKER. The resolution is re-referred to the Committee on Highways.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. MELCHIORRE from the Committee on Rules reported as committed Senate Resolution Serial No. 113.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE (Serial No. 113)

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 5, 1941.

Whereas, On April 2, 1943 our Nation will celebrate the 200th Anniversary of the birth of its Luminary of Luminaries, Thomas Jefferson, who by general consent shares only with Dr. Franklin the honor of being the most versatile and accomplished of Americans and whose immortality, to use the expression of Woodrow Wilson, "does not lie in any one of his achievements, but in his attitude toward mankind"; and

Whereas, Preparatory to the celebration of the 200th Anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson, a Bicentennial Commission was established by Congress last year; and

Whereas, In these days of strain and stress, of gloom and vaccilation, a celebration revolving around the immortal draftsman of the Declaration of Independence will result in the reaffirmation of Jefferson's teachings, the salubrious and tonic values whereof have been already universally acknoweldged; and

Whereas, The ringing phrases of the Declaration of Independence, intended according to Jefferson's expression "to be an expression of the American mind", are together with Lincoln's Gettysburg speech the greatest monuments of the English language, as well as limpid springs of political rejuvenation, from which our Republic had drunk heretofore and shall continue to deeply drink henceforth; and

Whereas, The February report of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation shows that the last cent of mortgage on Monticello has been paid as a result of its devoted work over a period of eighteen years; and

Whereas, Under the direction of Mr. Fiske Kimball, the most sympathetic and learned scholar in Jeffersonian draftsmanship and architecture, the interior and exterior of Monticello have been restored and the gardens thereof made beautiful according to Jefferson's plans and drawings, thus restoring to our Nation one of its Shrines; and

Whereas, The preservation and recovery of Jefferson's beautiful historic house and estate at Monticello is a memorable work of patriotism and public spirit, that will enrich not only Virginia but the whole United States of America; now be it therefore

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), that the General Assembly of Pennsylvania appoint a Commission, to be known as the "Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania", to consist of six members, three of whom shall be appointed by the Speaker of the House on the part of the House of Representatives, and three of whom shall be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate on the part of the Senate of the General Assembly, and the task whereof shall consist in evolving plans in collaboration with the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission established by Congress for Pennsylvania's part in the celebration of the 200th Anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson, in order that said plans may be submitted in the form of a report to the General Assembly of Pennsylvania in 1943 for proper action; and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania commend the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation for its work of restoration of the Shrine at Monticello and its pious care thereof, and call upon the citizenry of Pennsylvania to lend its moral and material support thereto.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILLS SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bills numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 320.

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the sixth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine (P. L. 387), entitled "An act to authorize execution of process in certain cases in equity, concerning property within the jurisdiction of the court, and on defendants not resident or found therein," authorizing execution of process in certain cases for the perpetuation of testimony.

HOUSE BILL No. 402.

An Act providing for the organization, government, discipline, maintenance and regulation of an additional land force to be known as the Pennsylvania Reserve Defense Corps, for the defense of the Commonwealth during any period of time in which the National Guard of Pennsylvania or any part thereof shall be in active service of the United States.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, this being the day of St. Patrick and the Speaker coming from Philadelphia, I notice that all the Members of the House from Philadelphia are wearing green ties. I would ask the Speaker to declare a recess until he changes his tie.

Mr. SHEPARD. I think, Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as you are wearing a green flower with an orange tie it shows, in the language of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien, that you are just a professional Irishman.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Shepard, a few years ago a gentleman boxer by the name of Battling Siki, who is of the same color as the gentleman from Philadelphia, had the courage to go to Dublin on the seventeenth day of March and fight for the light-heavyweight championship of the World, trying to take the title from Mike McTighe. The Speaker similarly has shown courage in coming here tonight wearing a yellow tie.

Mr. SHEPARD. I think that the Speaker is color blind if he thinks I am the same color as he is.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 64, entitled:

An Act imposing regulations and restrictions upon persons, associations, partnerships and corporations owning, leasing or having control over electric light or power lines, conduits, telephone and telegraph wires located near certain public highways or near flying fields.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. BOIES. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Public Utilities for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 604, entitled:

An Act to amend section three of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2045), entitled "An act relating to the support of indigent persons publicly cared for or assisted; providing for the support of such persons by certain relatives, and for the recovery of public moneys expended for care and assistance from the property and estates of such persons; providing for guardians of the person and property of such persons; providing for the arrest and seizure and sale of the property of deserters; and providing procedure, "by defining further the duty of support of indigent persons by children or grandchildren.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 690, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections 402, 411, 703, 704, 705 and 903 and to repeal section 706 of the act approved the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine, (P. L. 905) entitled, "An act for the protection of the public safety, regulating the use of highways, and the operation of vehicles, tractors, street cars, trackless trolley omnibuses, bicycles, pedestrians, and the riding of animals upon the highways of this Commonwealth; providing for the titling, including liens, encumbrances, and legal claims; registration of certain vehicles and licensing the operators thereof, upon payment of prescribed fees; prescribing and limiting the powers of local authorities to deal with the subject matter of this act; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue, the Department of Highways, peace officers, mayors, burgesses, magistrates, aldermen, justices of the peace, the courts and the clerks thereof, owners of vehicles, and garage keepers; providing that records are admissible as evidence; imposing upon owners, counties, cities, boroughs, incorporated towns, townships, within the Commonwealth, liability for damages caused by the negligent operation of their motor vehicles; imposing penalties; imposing certain costs upon counties; providing for the disposition of fines, forfeitures, fees, and miscellaneous receipts; making an appropriation and providing for refunds," providing for the registration and fixing registration fees of commercial motor vehicles, truck tractors, trailers and semi-trailers according to gross weight; fixing the maximum gross weight of such vehicles which may be used and operated on the highways; and eliminating existing provisions relating to the chassis of such vehicles.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 180, entitled:

An Act providing that every county, city, borough, town and township, may, upon application, furnish meeting rooms for war veterans and sons of veterans' organizations.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Military Affairs for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman his reason for recommitting this bill.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, as stated in my motion, for further study. I am inclined to believe the measure is giving the authorities power which they already have. If I am correct in that supposition, certainly there is no reason for the passage of this particular measure.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 182, entitled:

An Act to amend section two of the act, approved the twenty-sixth day of May, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven (P. L. 106), entitled "An act prohibiting the discharge from public positions of Union soldiers without reasonable cause, and prohibiting the abolishment of or changing the emoluments of public offices occupied by Union soldiers except for good reason," by extending the provisions thereof to veterans and nurses of any war in which the United States has engaged.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Military Affairs for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 89, entitled:

Authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies to allocate, or provide, rooms for State Headquarters of the United Spanish War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, American Legion, and Disabled American Veterans of the World War; and providing that expenses for heat, light, water, and janitor services, shall be borne by the Commonwealth.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Military Affairs for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, before this session started, we had been advised that the majority was going to send back to committee those bills which were sponsored by Republican members. The practice which now being followed indicates that that is true and that that is the real purpose for sending these bills back to committee.

As a matter of fact I understand these bills are sponsored by the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Spanish-American War Veterans, the Disabled American War Veterans, and the Jewish War Veterans. The reason that these bills are being sent back is that they happen to be sponsored by Republican Members.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am very sorry but somebody has apparently misinformed the minority leader. You will find that we do have good reasons for recommitting the bill. As to the one I made my motion on in this instance, the American Legion at the present time maintains headquarters in the city of Philadelphia. I have been advised by various veterans that the American Legion is not particularly interested in moving its headquarters from the city of Philadelphia to the city of Harrisburg. To take advantage of this particular measure, if passed, it would be necessary for the Legion to do so. Whether that subject has been discussed, I have grave doubt. I am equally certain that legislation should not be rushed out for the sole purpose of compelling the veterans organizations to move their headquarters from the city of Philadelphia to the city of Harrisburg because perhaps a particular sponsor is interested in seeing them located here. That, for example, is my reason for the present motion.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, all of these bills have been approved by all of the organizations mentioned by the majority floor leader. In the capitol building about two years ago a committee met representatives of the American Legion and the chairman of their Legislative Committee of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the chairman of their Legislative Committee, the Spanish American War Veterans and the representative of their Legislative Committee and the representatives of the other groups that have been mentioned by the minority floor leader. These bills have the absolute endorsement of these organizations and they should be moved on to final action. I think it is an insult to these organizations representing a great body of men in the state of Pennsylvania to send these bills back to committee for further study and possible delay. I think they should have passed on for final action by this House and I intend to inform these organizations of the action of the majority side of this House tonight.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Taylor.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, can the gentleman from Dauphin, tell me whether the American Legion in its last state convention endorsed the removal of its headquarters from Philadelphia to Harrisburg?

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, it did not.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, can the gentleman tell me whether the state executive committee of the American Legion has endorsed or recommended the removal of its headquarters?

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, it has on several occassions.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, can the gentleman tell me when was the last occasion when the state executive committee recommended the change?

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, it was about two or three years ago.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman from Dauphin make any arrangement for the appropriation necessary to maintain the various quarters mentioned in the bill if space is rented in the city of Harrisburg.

Mr. TAYLOR. I might state, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman from Monroe is chairman of the Appropriations Committee and he ought to be able to answer that question.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, has the gentleman himself presented a bill for an appropriation.

Mr. TAYLOR. I have not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I thank the gentleman from Dauphin. Mr. Speaker, I know of no more complete answer than the one given by the gentleman from Dauphin as a reason for recommitting these bills. The American Legion in its state convention never passed on the subject. Three years ago, at the latest apparently the executive committee entertained a proposition to move, but of course that executive committee has changed its entire personnel. In other words, the American Legion as a body, and the American Legion as an executive organization through executive officers has not endorsed and apparently has not supported this particular measure. In addition to that the gentleman from Dauphin has not interested himself at all in the cost of the measure. The bill therefore recommends itself to the House further study, not only by the Committee, but perhaps by the gentleman from Dauphin himself.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WOODSIDE and Mr. WINNER and Mr. HABBYSHAW, and were as follows:

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 561, entitled

An Act to amend section six hundred and eight of the act, approved the fifteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 624), entitled "An act relating to the business of banking, and to the exercise of fiduciary powers by corporations; providing for the organization of corporations with fiduciary powers, and of banking corporations, with or without fiduciary powers, including the conversion of National banks into State banks, and for the licensing of private bankers; defining the rights, powers, duties, liabilities, and immunities of such corporations, of existent corporations authorized to engage in a banking business, with or without fiduciary powers, of private bankers, and of the officers, directors, trustees, shareholders, attorneys, and other employes of all such corporations or private bankers, or of affiliated corporations, associations, or persons; restricting the exercise of banking powers by any other corporation, association, or person, and of fiduciary powers by any other corporation; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the courts, prothonotaries, recorders of deeds, and certain State departments, commissions, and officers; imposing penalties; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts," by making further provision concerning the voting of shares held by incorporated institutions.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 6, entitled

An Act to amend the act, approved the twenty-first day of April, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 331), entitled "An act directing the Department of Military Affairs to select, procure, award, and provide for the furnishing of certain service medals," providing for the issuance of such medals free of charge, and for the reimbursement of the cost thereof heretofore paid.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Military Affairs for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I know that there can be no reason for sending this back but I am rather anxious to know the excuse for doing so.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, there may be even more than an excuse, there may be a very substantial reason. This House should in the first instance ascertain the cost of the particular medals they expect to distribute free of charge.

I am advised, Mr. Speaker, that it would require medals in excess of three hundred thousand and that the cost may exceed one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. I believe legislation of this nature should receive in the first instance careful consideration, and in the second instance the cost should be considered, and it should not be reported out until efforts are made to take care of the cost as well as the granting of free medals.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WOODSIDE and Mr. TAYLOR and were as follows:

BILL ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 104, entitled:

An Act to further amend section seven of the act, approved the fifth day of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four (P. L. 223, 1933-34), entitled "An act providing compensation to certain persons who served in the military or naval forces of the United States during the World War, the war between the United States and Spain, the China Relief Expedition, or in the Philippines or Guam; providing the method of making payment to representatives or persons who, because of death or incapacity, cannot personally receive compensation; imposing certain duties on the Adjutant General; making an appropriation; and repealing inconsistent legislation; and providing penalties," extending the time during which application may be filed for veterans' compensation.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Military Affairs for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, they always say that actions speak louder than words. I think by this time everybody in this room is thoroughly convinced that we were not misinformed before this session began but that we were properly informed.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WOODSIDE. In the calendar I notice that Printers No. 81, House Bill No. 104, which we now have before us, has as sponsors Mr. Taylor and Mr. Matthew J. Welsh. I notice in the list of House Bills, Printers No. 81, House Bill No. 104, the sponsor is Mr. Taylor. I understand the pink copy also has as sponsor Mr. Taylor. I am wondering whether the calendar is correct.

The SPEAKER. The Chair now has before it the official bill. The calendar is in error. The sponsor of the bill is the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Taylor.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker I am wondering whether the same is true with reference to House Bill No. 90. The same situation seems to exist in regard to that bill.

The SPEAKER. It appears from information received from the Chief Clerk that one of the copies was signed by both gentlemen.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Does the Speaker mean the original copy of the bill which was introduced?

The SPEAKER. One of the copies was signed by both gentlemen.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, was that name put on after the bill was introduced? Mr. Taylor advises me that that was the case, that the name was not put on prior to its introduction. If so, I would like to know, Mr. Speaker, whether it is possible for someone to add his name to a bill after it has been introduced.

The SPEAKER. Not after introduction and reference.

Mr. WOODSIDE. That is what I mean, Mr. Speaker. I understand that has not been done in this case, the consent of the sponsor was not obtained to add another name.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will make further inquiry from the Chief Clerk, and would suggest that the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Taylor, also confer with the Chief Clerk.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Dauphin pointed out certain irregularities, some of which, of course, were in the back of my mind in connection with my motion, regarding the name on the calendar which does not appear on the bill.

There are other reasons that are even more serious than that. I have been advised by the Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs that one and possibly two of these bills have been repoted out without his knowledge. It seems as though what we have here is a case of a general mix up, a bill being reported out without the knowledge of the Chairman. I am very frank to say that that situation should not be permitted to exist. Certainly all these bills should go back to the Chairman of that Committee for the purpose of ascertaining which ones he desires, and which ones the Committee desires to report out. When the Committee does have this particular bill, concerning which I made my motion, I would suggest that they give some thought to the extension of time for filing applications for bonus for a period of two years instead of one year. It has always been the custom in this House in the past to extend that time for a period of two years instead of one year.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, do I understand from the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, that these bills were reported out without action by the Committee? If so I think we ought to have a House investigation of the matter immediately. The charge made by the gentleman from Monroe is a serious one, and I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman to say that these bills were reported out without Committee action?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I made the statement that the Chairman of the Committee told me several of these bills pointing out one in particular, on which we have already acted, have been reported out without his knowledge. I am repeating the language.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I am still inquiring from the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, whether they were reported out without Committee action?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, it is rather difficult for me to understand how a bill could be reported out without the Chairman having knowledge of it. Whether that Committee ran away from the Chairman, I do not know.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, whether the bills were not in the possession of the Chairman.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have no particular knowledge of that.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Chairman of the Committee, the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Welsh.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Fayette permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know from the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Welsh, whether any of these bills were reported out of Committee without Committee action.

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, none of the bills were reported out of Committee without Committee action, but one of the bills, it seems to me, the number of which I cannot now recall, has not officially been reported out of Committee.

Mr. WOODSIDE. I would like to inquire of the gentleman from Fayette, whether or not he has a record of the minutes of that committee and if so I would request that he refer to them to determine the fact. The gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, has made a very serious charge on the floor of this House and I would like to have the gentleman from Fayette determine the facts by referring to the minutes of the Committee.

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, the minutes of the committee are in the custody of the secretary. They can be readily looked over at any time. The real purpose of recommitting these bills is to have a meeting of the Committee on Military Affairs to ascertain whether or not there have been some mistakes made.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the secretary of the Committee is present and the minute book is in his possession. I think he should refer to it immediately to determine whether that situation is true or not.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Monroe will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, would a suggestion such as has been made by the minority leader be pertinent in an investigation or on a motion before the House?

The SPEAKER. The proper course to pursue would be to introduce a resolution providing for an investigation. The question before the House is on the motion to recommit this bill.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, argument has been made that one of the reasons why this bill should be recommitted was because there was no Committee action on it, at least the chairman does not remember any Committee action. I think it is very pertinent to determine whether or not there was Committee action. That matter should be given immediate consideration by the House, inasmuch as it was stated as one of the reasons why this bill should be recommitted.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parlimentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know whether it would be possible to ascertain the information requested by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, without the House resolving itself into a committee of the whole?

The SPEAKER. The House resolving itself into a committee of the whole is not pertinent to the question now before the House, which is on the motion to recommit.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Welsh.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Fayette permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know from the gentleman from Fayette whether these bills were in his possession as Chairman of the Committee.

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, the bills referred to were in my possession, to the best of my knowledge. As the Committee decided to report these bills out, they were handed to one and to another of the Members of that Committee.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, after action by the Committee?

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, upon which of these bills, if any, was no action taken?

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, we have a couple on which no action was taken.

Mr. WOODSIDE. In the Committee, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Which ones on the Calendar?

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, they are not on the Calendar, no. Those were not reported out.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that these bills on the Calendar were reported out, after action was taken by the Committee?

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, I said to the best of my knowledge, they were reported out.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, they were not any of the bills that appear on the Calendar?

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, did I not tell the gentleman from Dauphin to the best of my knowledge they were reported out by the Committee.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, then the statement made by the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, that some of these bills were not reported out after action, but were reported out without action by the Committee, is not correct, is that right?

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, I wish to say that there has been some confusion about some of these bills, and for that reason we want them recommitted.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I am trying to ascertain from the gentleman what the confusion is. The only confusion that seems to exist is the confusion in the mind of the Chairman of the Committee.

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Dauphin has all the information I can give him and further questioning is unnecessary.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I want to know whether the gentleman, in consideration of the statement made by the Chairman of the Committee that all these bills were acted upon in Committee, he now wants to withdraw his motion to recommit.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman, I have already stated that the Chairman told me he did not have knowledge as to some of the bills being reported out. Under those conditions I certainly have no intention of withdrawing my motion.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, which bills did the Chairman of the Committee tell the gentleman from Monroe he had no knowledge of having been reported out, which are now on the Calendar?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, he mentioned one bill I believe House Bill 89. He said he believed there was another one but was unable to tell me which one it was.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Monroe mean to tell this House that the Chairman of the Committee told him he had no knowledge of two bills being reported out but did not know which were the ones he did not know about?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Dauphin certainly has not followed my statement carefully. I mentioned specifically one bill. I told him there was another bill of which the Chairman was unable to tell me the number.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Malloy.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MALLOY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 89, Printers No. 77, according to the bill, was reported by the gentleman from Luzerne. I desire to ask the gentleman from Luzerne whether he did so with the authority of the Committee or without the authority of the Committee.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Monroe will state his point of order.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is out of order in asking the gentleman to divulge what occurred in Committee.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that the point of order is not well taken. The gentleman is endeavoring to determine whether that action was authorized by the members of the Committee. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Malloy, please answer my question then?

Mr. MALLOY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, repeat his question?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, House Bill No. 89, Printer's No. 77, shows that it was reported by the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Malloy, from the Committee on Military Affairs. I am wondering whether the gentleman from Luzerne did that with the authority of the committee.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER, the gentleman from Monroe will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. ACHTERMAN, Mr. Speaker, is there anything before the House except the consideration of the motion to recommit?

The SPEAKER. There is nothing before the House except the consideration of the motion to recommit House Bill 104, Printer's No. 81.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Monroe will state his point of order.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I submit that the gentleman is out of order for the reason that his interrogation is directed to a bill other than the one now before the house.

Mr. WOODSIDE. On the point of order, before the Speaker rules—

The SPEAKER. The Speaker recognizes the gentleman from Dauphin Mr. Woodside.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, my contention is that this has become relevant to the motion to recommit because the gentleman from Monroe, who made the motion to recommit, stated that as one of the reasons for the recommitting of this bill. Therefore, we are entitled to follow his statement and to find out whether the statement he made is correct.

The SPEAKER. The Chair advises the gentleman that Rule 15 of the House provides:

> "No business regularly before the House shall be interrupted, except by motion—
> For adjournment.
> For the previous question,
> For the previous question, namely, 'Shall the main question be now put?'
> For postponement.
> For committment.
> For amendment.
> To lay on the table."

The question before the House is on a motion to recommit House Bill 104 Printer's No. 81. That motion was made by the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, therefore, the chair rules that the gentleman from Dauphin is out of order in discussing another bill.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the reason Mr. Achterman gave for his motion to recommit was that this and other bills had been confused and reported out of Committee without Committee action. Therefore it has become relevant to the motion to recommit this bill to ascertain whether or not that situation is correct.

The SPEAKER. If there has been any irregularity insofar as the reporting of bills which appear on this calendar is concerned, the gentleman's recourse would be to present a resolution providing for an appropriate inquiry. Such an inquiry however cannot be conducted on the question on a motion to recommit.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, since that was given as a reason for the recommitting of this bill, may I not debate that motion and in that debate inquire relative to the situation as a whole, inasmuch as the gentleman gave that as one of the reasons for this motion to recommit, or suggested that as a reason?

The SPEAKER. The Chair has given a great deal of latitude in this debate. The question before the House is on the motion to recommit House Bill 104. The Chair requests the gentleman to confine himself to the question before the House.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, in consideration of the fact that the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, has raised this question in his statement of reasons why the bill should be recommitted, I am wondering whether the gentleman will agree to withdraw his point of order and permit interrogation to continue without unanimous consent of the House being given.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I unfortunately did not hear what the gentleman from Dauphin said.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin wishes to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know from the gentleman from Monroe whether in consideration of the fact that he used as a reason for the recommitting of this bill a statement that there was confusion concerning the reporting out of all these bills, he will permit me to interrogate the gentleman concerning the bill or bills upon which confusion seems to exist.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman from Dauphin desires to interrogate me?

Mr. WOODSIDE. No, Mr. Speaker, just to answer that question, whether he will agree to permit me to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Malloy, because I think it is in answer to the question which the gentleman from Monroe originally raised in his motion to recommit this bill.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I cannot answer the gentleman's question until I propound one to the gentleman from Dauphin.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman intends to ask questions relating to a bill other than House Bill 104?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I expect to ask the question which I previously asked.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I will most earnestly object for certainly that was the reason for my raising the point of order.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know the intention of the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman. I would like to know from the gentleman whether in his consideration, based on the report from the Chairman of the Committee there is any question about the regularity of the reporting of the bill now before the House.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, on the contrary, it is my feeling that there has been so much general confusion with each of these bills that it is more advisable to send each one back to the Committee, and I trust when they are reported again, we will not have the same confusion attending their report.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Wayne, Mr. Dix.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Wayne, Mr. Dix, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DIX. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I notice on House Bill 104, Printer's No. 81, the gentleman from Wayne reported the bill from the Committee on Military Affairs. I would like to know from the gentleman whether he did that with the authority of the Committee.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I certainly did.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman give the Members of the House his excuse for recommitting this bill back to committee.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, it was not an excuse. It was a substantial reason that I gave for recommitting the bill.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, may I have his reason?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Yes, Mr. Speaker, I will give it again if the gentleman did not hear it the first time. There was general confusion in the reporting of this bill as well as five other bills. I have detailed some of the confusion heretofore and I think possibly the gentleman did not follow. I then made a suggestion which I believe is a concrete and advantageous one, that when the bill is considered again in the Committee it should be amended to provide for a two year period instead of a one year period. A two year period has been customary amendment and I believe the gentleman might agree to that amendment.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Monroe whether or not he read this bill.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, most assuredly I did.

Mr. TAYLOR. All of it?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Yes, all of it.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether the gentleman read the part that extends it to July 1st 1943.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. That is correct, and I also noticed it was extending from July 1st, 1942.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know that the Veterans organization requested of the Joint Veterans Legislative Committee an extension of two years and that to be a final extension.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I didn't know that, I assure you, but I do know that undoubtedly in the next session of the General Assembly, we will very likely have a bill of this nature and the Legislature generally in its kindly feeling toward veterans will very likely grant their wishes again.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, we have had a fine exhibition of the kind attention given to veterans here tonight. I ask for a roll call.

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker as a member of the American Legion and a World War Veteran, I want to go on record against the reprehensible conduct of the gentlemen on the other side of the House in making a political football of the organization to which I have the honor to belong and also the other Veterans organizations of the state of Pennsylvania. Their conduct has been clearly demonstrated by the answers which they have made. It shows, I think, very clearly that they have contravened the rules of this House in reporting bills out of the Committee without the action of the Committee itself. I want to ask the Members of the House, all of them, and especially those who have any regard for the rights of the World War Veterans, that they vote against this motion to recommit.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to answer briefly the gentleman who just spoke. He alleges that our action here this evening was one motivated by politics. What I have been actually trying to do is not to tell the House all the facts relating to the recommitting of these bills. May I just make one brief statement as to one of the bills we have already recommitted in which—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. Therefore, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that the gentleman is about to discuss a bill that is not before the House.

The SPEAKER. The only question before the House is on the motion to recommit House Bill No. 104, Printer's No. 81. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Then Mr. Speaker, may I say that one of the most reprehensible things that a man may do on the floor of this House is to make a certain statement relative to particular legislation pending before the House, and representing to the House that the Legislative Committee of certain Veteran Organizations suggested to him and recommended to him the passage of that particular legislation; then later we find that as a matter of fact members serving upon that committee had no knowledge of that action. Would you call it a political football? Would you call it reprehensible action? Wouldn't you say that legislation conceived under conditions like that should be recommitted to the Committee from which it came for a complete and thorough airing.

I hoped that I would be able to recommit these bills without making that statement but since the gentleman on the other side wanted it, I have given it to them.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. TAYLOR and Mr. WOODSIDE and were as follows:

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 98, entitled:

An Act to further amend section four of the act, approved the twenty-fifth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (P. L. 1024), entitled "An act to protect the public health and welfare, by regulating the employment of females in certain establishments, with respect to their hours of labor and the conditions of their employment; by establishing certain sanitary regulations in the establishments in which they work, by requiring certain abstracts and notices to be posted; by providing for the enforcement of this act by the Commissioner of Labor and Industry and others; by prescribing penalties for violations thereof; by defining the procedure in prosecutions; and by repealing all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions thereof," by further regulating the employment of females in certain establishments with respect to their hours of labor.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 581, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Agriculture for laboratory research in the prevention of the transmission and in the cure of mastitis in cattle.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. NORMAN WOOD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend sec. 1, page 1, line 6, by inserting after the word "mastitis" the following: "and other transmissible diseases."

Amend sec. 1, page 1, line 7, by striking out the word "disease" and insert in lieu thereof "diseases."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the House vote against this amendment.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Moul.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York permit himself to interrogated?

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether the gentleman understands the purpose of this amendment? I gave a copy of it to the majority floor leader.

Mr. MOUL. I think I do, Mr. Speaker. I have a copy of the amendment here.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know why the gentleman is opposing the amendment.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, the amendment would have the tendency to give the Department of Agriculture an opportunity to divert the money that is appropriated for the study of mastitis to some other purpose, and it is the desire of the sponsor of the bill that the money shall be used for mastitis alone.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know from the gentleman whether he does not think it would be a good idea for the Department of Agriculture to have the power to spend at least a part of this appropriation for the purpose of looking into, making tests, and examinations in connection with other diseases of cattle for the simple reason it may happen that this amount of money not be needed for mastitis examination alone. There may be other investigations that would be very helpful to the farmer and they could be made out of this appropriation.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Dauphin please tell this House what particular disease he has in mind that is not now covered by the Department of Agriculture?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I do not know much about the different diseases of cattle and I cannot tell him any particular disease, but I do know that cattle have diseases and it may be very important to the farmers to have other investigations made concerning them.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman does not know of any diseases that are not covered I don't see why he wants to amend our bill so that it could take care of anything else. I think the gentleman has answered the question when he said he didn't know of any.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from York desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin.

Mr. MOUL. No, Mr. Speaker I think the gentleman has answered the question when he said he does not know of any other diseases.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I thought the gentleman was answering my interrogation.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I rose to answer the interrogation of the gentleman from Dauphin. If he is through, I am sure I am.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I have been advised that "scab" vaccination is one of their problems that might be well considered. It is one of the problems that might be well recommended by the Federal Government and I imagine the farmers could think of more.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise for the purpose of opposing this particular amendment. I have had the opportunity of discussing this measure with the Secretary of Agriculture. While he made the statement that mastitis was now being studied by the University of Pennsylvania and perhaps partially subsidized by the Department of Agriculture, he was hopeful of having the University of Pennsylvania report a cure. He was also quite positive that the study of mastitis should continue. I agree with the gentleman from York, Mr. Moul, that certainly since some headway has been made on the subject no effort should be made to divert some of the money for the study of another disease. If there is some particular disease that the gentleman on the other side are interested in and feel should be studied by the Department or by some university subsidized by it, I respectfully suggest that they introduce another bill with that thought in mind. Certainly there is no reason for diverting this money from this particular subject to one of their own choosing.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. NORMAN WOOD and Mr. SNYDER and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

Mr. NORMAN WOOD. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my amendment to the title.

The title was read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

THE SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Delware, Mr. Turner, for presiding.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 468, entitled

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Agriculture for the payment of indemnities for animals appraised and destroyed to prevent the spread of Bang's disease.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 550, entitled:

An Act to repeal the act, approved the twenty-eighth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (P. L. 9), entitled "An act relative to the employment of females in hotels, taverns, saloons and eating houses, or other places for the sale of intoxicating and other drinks, and the penalty for the violation thereof."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Liquor Control for the purpose of a public hearing.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 83, entitled

An Act to further amend section five hundred and three of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 343), entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State government; providing for the settlement, assessment, collection, and lien of taxes, bonus, and all other accounts due the Commonwealth, the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale, the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth; and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth, the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts, refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth, auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof, of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties; affecting every department, board, commission, and officer of the State government, every political subdivision of the state; and certain officers of such subdivisions, every person, association, and corporation required to pay, assess, or collect taxes, or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes, or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth, or any agency therof, every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth," by allowing interest on refunds due from the Commonwealth.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on State Government for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker we are still interested in the excuses that are being offered.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker does the gentleman from Dauphin desire to interrogate me in that matter.

Mr. WOODSIDE. I don't want to interrogate the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, but I think what I said at the beginning of the calendar has been borne out as being true. I just wanted to know whether the gentleman wants to offer any excuses for this particular bill.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, not wishing the implication of the gentleman's words to remain as they appear on the record, I desire to state that this particular bill was reported out of Committee on State Government on March 11th. On March 12th I received a letter from the Chief Counsel of the Department of Revenue, which I believe is a Republican Department, requesting that the Department be given the chance to express its views on this particular bill. For that reason I asked to have the bill recommitted.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Berks permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker I shall.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether the gentleman has said anything to the sponsor of this bill concerning his intent to move that the bill be recommitted and his reason for doing so?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker prior to the present motion I have not.

On the question recurring.

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 578, entitled

Section 5 Creation of Soil Conservation Districts

* * * *

E The board shall publish the result of such referendum and shall thereafter consider and determine whether the operation of the district within the defined boundaries is administratively practicable and feasible If the board shall determine that the operation of such district is not administratively practicable and feasible it shall record such determination and deny the petition If the board shall determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible it shall record such determination and shall proceed with the organization of the district in the manner hereinafter provided In making such determination the board shall give due regard and weight to the attitudes of the owners of lands lying within the defined boundaries the number of land owners eligible to vote in such referendum who shall have voted the proportion of the votes cast in such referendum in favor of the creation of the district to the total number of votes cast the approximate wealth and income of the land owners of the proposed district the probable expense of carrying on erosion-control operations within such district and such other economic and social factors as may be relevant to such determination having due regard to the legislative determinations set forth in section 2 of this act Provided however That the board shall not have authority to determine that the operation of the proposed district within the defined boundaries is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least [sixty-five per centum] a majority of the votes cast in the referendum upon the proposition of creation of the district shall have been cast in favor of the creation of such district

F If the board shall determine that the operation of the proposed district within the defined boundaries is administratively practicable and feasible it shall appoint two (2) supervisors to act with the three (3) supervisors elected as provided hereinafter as the governing body of the district such district shall be a governmental subdivision of this Commonwealth and a public body corporate and politic upon the taking of the following proceedings

The two appointed supervisors shall present to the Secretary of the Commonwealth an application signed by them which shall set forth (and such application need contain no detail other than the mere recitals) (1) that a petition for the creation of the district was filed with the State Soil Conservation Board pursuant to the provisions of this act and that the proceedings specified in this act were taken pursuant to such petition that the application is being filed in order to complete the organization of the district as a governmental subdivision and a public body corporate and politic under this act and that the board has appointed them as supervisors (2) the name and official residence of each of the supervisors together with a certified copy of the appointments evidencing their right to office (3) the term of office of each of the supervisors (4) the name which is proposed for the district and (5) the location of the principal office of the supervisors of the district The application shall be subscribed and sworn to by each of the said supervisors before an officer authorified by the laws of this State to take and certify oaths who shall certify upon the application that he personally knows the supervisors and knows them to be the officers as affirmed in the application and that each has subscribed thereto in the officer's presence The application shall be accompanied by a statement by the State Soil Conservation Board which shall certify (and such statement need contain no detail other than the mere recitals) that a petition was filed notice issued and hearing held as aforesaid that the board did duly determine that there is need in the interest of the public health safety and welfare for a soil conservation district to function in the proposed territory and did define the boundaries thereof that notice was given and a referendum held on the question of the creation of such district and that the result of such referendum showed [sixty-five per centum] a majority of the votes cast in such referendum to be in favor of the creation of the district that thereafter the board did duly determine that the operation of the proposed district is administratively practicable and feasible The said statement shall set forth the boundaries of the district as they have been defined by the board

The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall examine the application and statement and if he finds that the same proposed for the district is not identical with that of any other soil conservation district of this Commonwealth or so nearly similar as to lead to confusion or uncertainty he shall receive and file them and shall record them in an appropriate book of record in his office If the secretary shall find that the name proposed for the district is identical with that of any other soil conservation district of this Commonwealth or so nearly similar as to lead to confusion and uncertainty he shall certify such fact to the State Soil Conservation Board which shall thereupon submit to the Secretary of the Commonwealth a new name for the said district which shall not be subject to such defects Upon receipt of such new name free of such defects the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall record the application and statement with the name so modified in an appropriate book of record in his office When the application and statement have been made filed and recorded as herein provided the district shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this Commonwealth and a public body corporate and politic The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall make and issue to the said supervisors a certificate under the seal of the Commonwealth of the due organization of the said district and shall record such certificate with the application and statement The boundaries of such district shall include the territory as determined by the State Soil Conservation Board as aforesaid but in no event shall they include an area included within the boundaries of another soil conservation district organized under the provisions of this act

* * * *

H Petitions for including adding territory within an existing district may be filed with the State Soil Conservation Board and the proceedings herein provided for in the case of petitions to organize a district shall be observed in the case of petitions for such inclusion The board shall prescribe the form for such petitions which shall be as nearly as may be in the form prescribed in this act for petitions to organize a district Where the total number of land owners in the area proposed for inclusion shall be less than twenty-five the petition may be filed when signed by [sixty-five per centum] a majority of the owners of such area and in such case no referendum need be held In referenda upon petitions for such inclusion all owners of land lying within the proposed additional area shall be eligible to vote

Section 5 Section seven of said act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 7 Appointment Qualifications and Tenure of Supervisors The governing body of the district shall consist of five (5) supervisors elected or appointed as provided hereinabove who shall be residents of the district The two supervisors appointed by the [board] State Soil Conservation Board shall be persons who are by training and experience qualified to perform the specialized skilled services which will be required of them in the performance of their duties hereunder

The supervisors shall designate a chairman and many from time to time change such designation The term of office of each supervisor shall be three (3) years except that the supervisors who are first appointed shall be designated to serve for terms of one and two years respectively from the date of their appointment A supervisor shall hold office until his successor has been elected or appointed and has qualified Vacancies shall be filled for the unexpired term The selection of successors to fill an unexpired term or for a full term shall be made in the same manner in which the retiring supervisors shall respectively have been selected A majority of the supervisors shall constitute a quorum and the concurrence of a majority in any matter within their duties shall be required for its determination A supervisor shall receive no compensation for his services but he shall be entitled to expenses including traveling expenses necessarily incurred in the discharge of his duties

Section 15 Discontinuance of Districts

* * * *

The State Soil Conservation Board shall publish the result of such referendum and shall thereafter consider and determine whether the continued operation of the district within the defined boundaries is administratively practicable and feasible If the board shall determine that the continued operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible it shall record such determination and deny the petition If the board shall determine that the continued operation of such district is not administratively practicable and feasible it shall record such determination and shall certify such determination to the supervisors of the district In making such determination the board shall give due regard and weight to the attitudes of the owners of lands lying within the district the number of land owners eligible to vote in such referendum who shall have voted the proportion of the votes case in such referendum in favor of the discontinuance of the district to the total number of votes cast the approximate wealth and income of the land owners of the district the probable expense of carrying on erosion control operations within such district and such other economic and social factors as may be relevant to such determination having due regard to the legislative findings set forth in section 2 of this act Provided however That the board shall not have authority to determine that the continued operation of the district is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least [sixty-five per centum] a majority of the votes cast in the referendum shall have been cast in favor of the continuance of such district

Section 9 Section seventeen of said act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 17 Allocations to the Districts Budget Reports [The State Soil Conservation Board shall make allocations from time to time out of the moneys appropriated to it among the several soil conservation districts organized in accordance with th eprovisions of this act for the purposes provided in the act on the basis of the number of acres affected by the ordinances and regulations of the district supervisors or on any other equitable basis to be established by the board and payments shall be made under such system of requisition and accounting as the Governor Auditor General and State Treasurer shall determine]

[The moneys so allocated to a district shall be available for expenditures in that district authorized by the provisions of this act as the State Soil Conservation Board shall determine] A Unless otherwise provided by law all moneys that may from time to time be appropriated by the General Assembly for the use of soil conservation districts shall be available to pay the administrative and other expenses of soil conservation districts organized under the provisions of this act and shall be allocated by the State Soil Conservation Board among the districts already organized or to be organized during the ensuing biennium in the following manner Seventy-five per centum (75%) of all moneys so appropriated shall be allocated by the board in direct proportion to the total acreage of land within each such district The remaining twenty-five per centum (25%) of said moneys shall be allocated by the board among the districts organized or to be organized during the ensuing biennium on such basis of allocation as shall be fair reasonable and in the public interest giving due consideration to the greater relative expense of carrying on operations within the particular districts because of such factors as unusual topography unusual severity of erosion special difficulty of carrying on operations special volume of work to be done and the special importance of instituting erosion control operations immediately In making allocations of such moneys the board shall reserve an amount estimated by it to be adequate to enable it to make subsequent allocations in accordance with the provisions of this subsection from time to time among districts which may be organized after the initial allocations are made but within the ensuing biennium

B On or before the first day of November in each even numbered year the State Soil Conservation Board shall transmit to the budget secretary on blanks to be furnished by him itemized budget statements and estimates of the expenditure requirements for each fiscal year of the next succeeding biennium The statements and estimates shall include the following information The number and acreages of districts in existence or in process of organization together with an estimate of the number and probable acreages of the district which may be organized during the ensuing biennium a statement of the balance of funds if any available to the board and to the districts and the estimates of the board as to the sums needed for its administrative and other expenses and for allocation among the several districts during the ensuing biennium

The supervisors of the respective districts shall submit to the board such statements estimates budgets and other information at such times and in such manner as the board may require

Section 10 The following sums or so much thereof as may be necessary are hereby specifically appropriated out of the General Fund to the State Soil Conservation Board for the objects and purposes hereinafter set forth in connection with carrying out the provisions of the act to which this is an amendment during the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and forty-one and ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and forty-three

For the administrative and other expenses of the State Soil Conservation Board the sum of twelve thousand five hundred dollars ($12,500)

For the administrative and other expenses of soil conservation districts the sum of forty-five thousand dollars ($45,000)

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I am very greatly interested in the last two paragraphs of this bill with reference to the appropriations which read as follows, "for the administrative and other expenses of the State Soil Conservation Board the sum of twelve thousand five hundred dollars and the second paragraph for the administrative and other expenses of Soil Conservation Districts the sum of forty-five thousand dollars.

I am not so much concerned about the first item of twelve thousand five hundred dollars for the administrative and other expenses of the Soil Conservation Board, but I am concerned about the second item of forty-five thousand dollars for the administrative and other items of soil conservation districts. You will recall that a committee was named several weeks ago to investigate the operation and procedure of the Soil Conservation Board and the Extension service of State College. I was named a minority member of that Committee. Hearings have been held each week since that time and they have been very fair. Much of the evidence given thus far has had a bearing on this bill to my way of thinking.

I asked the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from York, if he would not send this bill back to the Committee after the second reading for further study, or until we completed the hearings. He told me that he would have gladly done so if he had known it before the Caucus had taken action on it, but that it would be sent to the Committee on appropriations after second reading and I interpreted from that it would be held over until our hearings had been concluded. I was very much surprised to find that this bill came out from the Appropriations Committee so soon.

I have no serious objections to the bill except the appropriation of forty-five thousand dollars for the districts. I would like to have more information as to the necessity for this amount. We have found where referendums have been held that only a small percentage of the farmers in the districts have voted in the last six districts where referendums were held, less than sixty-five percent of those having voted in favor of the program. We are trying to find out among other questions, who is responsible for this adverse vote and until I am convinced that the farmers want these districts and why this forty-five thousand dollars is needed, I cannot justify my vote in favor of this bill.

A few weeks ago when the resolution was being considered, the matter of holding up the appropriation for State College was questioned and the majority floor leader assured us that the investigation would be over in plenty of time to take care of the appropriation. If that was so, I think the same answer could apply to this bill.

However, Mr. Speaker, I want to call your attention to the last paragraph of Resolution No. 15 which reads as follows:

> "Resolved that the Speaker of the House appoint a committee of three from the House of Representatives to investigate into the operation and procedure of the Soil Conservation Board and the extension service of Pennsylvania State College so that the findings of said investigating committee may be made available to the House of Representatives—"

Mr. Speaker, please note the last line in this paragraph "before any appropriation is approved for said board and college."

I am still of the opinion that we are getting the cart before the horse if you vote for House Bill 208 which approves of an appropriation of twelve thousand five hundred dollars for the administrative and other expenses of the State Soil Conservation Board before the investigation is completed.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I hate to disagree with my good friend from Tioga, Mr. Snyder, but I think the gentleman knows from the information which he has been receiving from the various people who testified before our investigating committee that there certainly is a need for a bill such as this one before us at this time. The gentleman will recall we had people from York County, Lancaster County, Indiana County, Jefferson County, Adams, Lehigh and Westmoreland and he also knows that we have requests from others who wish to be heard. An overwhelming majority of the people who testified, gave evidence that would indicate that there was a reason for having such a bill as House Bill 208 passed. This is especially true when it comes to a question of the State Board. Person after person testified before the Committee to the effect that the present State Board refused to give any assistance whatsoever to those persons who were interested in having soil erosion work done in their section. The districts that have been organized and are now operating their own districts, namely: York, Lancaster, Indiana testified that in their section the State Board absolutely refused to cooperate with them in any shape whatsoever and in those sections where they tried to vote recently we had some very interesting facts presented; facts that showed that the present State Board was definitely antagonistic to the farmers whenever they tried to organize a district. They told us in Jefferson County that they brought men from Harrisburg to conduct the election. When they were asked to tell who those gentlemen were, they referred to them as "dog catchers." They said they were brought down by the Department of Agriculture and when the farmers asked them who they were, they said they were the "dog catchers." When they went to cast their ballots the farmers were refused the opportunity to see what was on the ballots. They said the "dog catchers" took the ballots from them and refused the farmers admission while the ballots were being counted. In the end, newspapers indicated certain results were obtained.

If the act of 1937 and the amended act of 1939 mean anything, the language is certainly clear when it is stated that the State Board is supposed to assist the farmers in organizing their districts. They do not seem to have done that.

In answer as to the question of the appropriation of forty-five thousand dollars, I believe Mr. Snyder must agree, that there were enough people who testified before the committee, up until this time, from enough districts that would indicate that there is a desire to create a great many additional districts in sections of Pennsylvania that do not have districts at the present time. A gentleman who testified before that committee said that in the counties that now have districts, there was a great demand for more service. If you consider fifteen counties that will probably be under the district system if this becomes a law, forty-five thousand dollars for two years is mighty little money to give those districts for their work. We are appropriating money not for a one year period but for a two year period, and if there should be fifteen districts out of sixty-seven counties within the next two year period, then if we appropriate forty-five thousand dollars, we are only appropriating three thousand dollars for a particular district which would mean fifteen hundred dollars a year. You cannot buy very much service and you cannot buy very much equipment for fifteen hundred dollars a year. I want to urge all the Members of the House to vote for House Bill 208 and give the people an apportunity to decide for themselves whether they want the districts, and if they want the districts give them an opporunity to go ahead with their work.

We are asking you to change the membership of this board so that the control will lie with the people who are interested in these districts. If this bill becomes a law, there is no question, they will get a fair chance and certainly it is in line with the subject that has been brought up time and time again by the gentlemen on the other side, the question of home rule. For once we find the gentlemen on the other side in a peculiar difficulty in advocating centralization and this bill to reconcile that with their feeling on the home rule bill. This bill is a home rule bill. We want to turn back to the district the ruling authority so that they will have an opportunity to do what they would like to do. That is certainly the home rule principle to decide that fact in your home districts.

I want to urge all of you gentlemen to vote for the bill exactly in the form that it is here tonight.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Moul.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I am not so much concerned about the different parts of the bill. I have no serious objection to the bill, but I do not think the bill should have been sent out until we completed our investigation.

I want to ask the gentleman from York this question. How do you get away from the last paragraph of the resolution which says "before any appropriation is approved for said board and college."? How can we vote on this bill and why should we vote on this bill when according to the resolution it states that no appropriation shall be made until after these hearings have been finished.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Tioga before answering that question.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Tioga permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman feel that if we voted for this bill tonight we, as a House of Representatives would be making this appropriation without the consent of the Senate?

Mr. SNYDER. I did not, Mr. Speaker. However, this is a House investigation and not a Senate investigation. According to this resolution we are not supposed to make any appropriation until we have completed this investigation according to the resolution which we endorsed.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman feel that we are not making an appropriation if we vote on this bill?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, we are approving an appropriation of twelve thousand five hundred dollars for this Soil Conservation Board, when we vote for this bill, because that is included in this bill.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I'll be glad to answer the question if the gentleman will repeat it.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, we are approving this bill and this appropriation when we vote for this bill because it includes this appropriation of twelve thousand five hundred dollars for the Soil Conservation Board.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, no, I don't think that is correct. In my opinion the answer the gentleman gave a moment ago leaves out the fact that there is no inconsistency in our action, because it states we shall make no appropriation until such time as the investigation is completed. I agree that that is correct. However, we make no appropriation until the Senate concurs in the action and I believe everybody here will agree that that will be quite some time.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman from York to refer to the last part of that resolution, "so that the findings of the said investigating committee may be made available to the House of Representatives before any appropriation is approved for said board and College." We are certainly approving this appropriation if we vote for this bill as far as the House is concerned.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I do not think we are. As far as that particular interpretation is concerned, we are lawyers and when lawyers disagree, who shall decide? You have an opinion and I have an opinion. So, who shall decide?

Mr. SNYDER. Then Mr. Speaker, what is the objection to appropriating to State College or approving an appropriation for State College to State College the same as we are doing now to this State Board for Soil Conservation.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker I suppose it is permissible if we want that action taken. It is my understanding that the House can take any action it chooses to take by a majority vote.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he does not feel that he has the cart before the horse in this resolution?

Mr. MOUL. No, Mr. Speaker, I do not.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, the way I interpret that English, certainly we are approving an appropriation which in the resolution says we do not intend to do, or are not going to do until the investigation is completed. That is all, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Moul.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MOUL. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Moul, the provisions that you have in the amendments of the Soil Conservation Act, have you any reaction from the Farm Organizations of Pennsylvania such as the State Grange as to their approval or dissapproval of these amendments.

Mr. MOUL. No sir, Mr. Speaker, they did not, we have no communications of any kind whatsoever from the State Grange.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. That is all, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to read from an editorial in the "Pennsylvania Grange News," the March 1941 issue regarding this subject that we are on.

> The position of the Pennsylvania State Grange in this matter has been very definite and was clearly expressed at our annual meeting at Wilkes-Barre in the report of the Legislative Committee as follows: The Pennsylvania State Grange is in hearty accord with the policy which has been followed consistently by our Agricultural Extension Service in maintaining that important work as a strictly educational activity. The work of the so called action agencies of the Federal Department of Agriculture is administrative and regulatory. The distinctions between their programs and agricultural extension should continue to be definite and clear cut. There should be no official tie up. Each should stand on its own merits. Hence we commend the authorities of the Pennsylvania State College for their policy of keeping our institutions and extension service free from all administrative and regulatory functions.
> "Since its very inception our extension service has had a definite program of soil conservation. In line with the recent national emphasis on the prevention of soil erosion losses, a definite, inexpensive, and helpful program based on sound principles of both economics and farm practice was adopted. We support this program just as strongly as we disapprove of the duplication of effort and tremendous expenses represented by the enlarged activities being undertaken by the Federal Soil Erosion administration, officially known as the Soil Conservation Service. This national agency was established primarily to demonstrate on certain picked areas methods of soil erosion control. That object has been accomplished and completed. Now with the placing of its men to work in several counties, it enroaches upon and duplicates at the taxpayers' expense our agricultural extension service of many years proved worth. As taxpaying citizens we demand the abandonment of this unnecessary and expensive duplication on the part of the Federal Soil Conservation Service."

Then, Mr. Speaker, we have heard considerable conversation regarding the cooperation of Pennsylvania in taking hold of the soil conservation service as offered by the federal government and I would just like to read into the record a report of the United States Department of Agriculture, soil conservation service as of January 2, 1941 which reported 307 soil conservation districts organized in thirty-six states. It is interesting to note that Pennsylvania is credited with four districts and New York, is credited with one district, New Jersey with four districts, Delaware with none, Maryland with five and Ohio with none. I certainly feel in line with that report that Pennsylvania has certainly not taken any practical steps in trying to cooperate in this service which is offered to farmers throughout the country.

Act No. 557 approved by the Governor on the second day of July 1937 is presumably a standard federal law passed on the statute books of Pennsylvania for the formation and operation of so-called conservation districts. This act carried an appropriation of ten thousand dollars, and even though the act was approved on July 2, 1937 and the Committee and executive Offices set up, no districts were organized until the fall of 1938. In the last months of that year four districts were reported, namely Black Lick, where 12 percent of the eligible vote was in favor of the district; Lancaster County, where seven percent of a total three thousand seven hundred fifty eligible owners voted in favor of the districts; Clarion County, where twelve percent of a total three thousand two hundred forty five eligible owners voted in favor of the district, and York County where sevent percent of a total eligible vote of five thousand favored the district.

It would appear from these reports that the farmers in the counties of the districts that were created were not very strong for this proposition. In 1939 the General Assembly amended the law regarding sixty-five percent of those voting as a requisite for a favorable determination for a district, and required that only land owners should vote. Bill No. 208 now before the House asks that this sixty-five percent should be amended to the original requirement of fifty-one percent, and you will note that if this bill was amended to the fifty-one percent that of the six districts that voted and rejected this program, namely Jefferson County, Fulton County, Lehigh, Franklin and Adams, only one of these districts would have been organized in those six counties, because there was only one that even carried by a majority vote. Inasmuch, as there seems to be so much interest on the part of farmers for this type of soil conservation, it would seem that sixty-five percent is not too high a figure as a requirement for favorable determination.

House Bill 208 would substitute "land occupier" "for land owner" instead of the act as now written and in many instances enter agreements with supervisors to come on the farm and set up projects. This is unfair, as I said, to the land owners, inasmuch as the land owner should be the only person to determine what he desires to have done on his property, and also to enter into all agreements relative thereto. Many times tenants and land occupiers do not work in harmony with the owner of the land who is obliged to pay the taxes, repair buildings, and gets little or no return from his investments.

And then the method of allocating money as prescribed on page eighteen of House Bill 208 is unsound inasmuch as no one can determine the percentage that should be allocated to the districts in accordance with the provisions of this bill. Another objection is that there is no justification to include on the State Board any federal employes to assist in administering an act which is supported by funds paid out of the State Treasury. On page four of this bill it provides the ripping out of the Secretary of Forests and Waters of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I am particularly interested in this because I feel that if there is one department which should be represented on the Conservation Program in Pennsylvania it is the Department of Forests and Waters. I wish to report now that during the years nineteen thirty-five and thirty-six the only protection to our soil has been the trees which have been planted on the hillsides of Pennsylvania. Under the program of the Department of Forests and Waters, the nursery production of trees in nineteen thirty-five and nineteen thirty-six was sixteen million trees; in nineteen thirty seven and nineteen thirty-eight it was twenty-five million and in nineteen thirty-nine, nineteen forty it was thirty-four million. The plantings by the State were in nineteen thirty-eight six million and in nineteen thirty-nine seven million seven hundred thousand and in nineteen forty, the greatest amount of any year since nineteen eighteen. From an experimental standpoint the Department of Forests and Waters is now sponsoring a Conservation Project of tree planting and forestry with the farmers of Adams County. Here is a department that has had a lot to do with agencies of the Federal Government and I believe the relationship has always been a fine one and I certainly object to seeing the Secretary of Forests and Waters removed from the State Board of Soil Conservation, because there is one officer of the Commonwealth by experience and by his knowledge who certainly can be a great help to the farmers of Pennsylvania in the settlement of this problem.

I would like to refer to Act No. 557, which is presumably the standard federal law passed by Pennsylvania for the formation and operation of so called soil conservation districts.

> "Provisions requiring the observance of particular methods of cultivation including contour cultivating, contour furrowing, lister furrowing, sowing, planting, strip cropping, seeding and planting of lands to water, conserving and erosion preventing plants, trees, and grasses, forestation and reforestation."

Why shouldn't the Secretary of Forests and Waters therefore remain upon that board, when you find that the act as passed in 1937 provides for the very work that this Department is trying to do and accomplish in Pennsylvania?

Again, on this board, supervisors who have a personal interest in a district and who are partly appointed by a State board should not be allowed to assist in the administration of an act in which they are personally interested. Besides, the multitudinous duties set forth in the present act No. 557 give them so much to do that no further demands should be made upon their time in the administrative end, and I in company with many of the men in this House favor a program of soil conservation, who agree and believe that you cannot continually take from the soil without putting something back into the soil. We agree with that kind of a program, and I say that the purpose of every good farmer is to maintain the fertility of his soil, and if farmers were given a chance to work out their problems on soil conservation in collaboration with federal authorities, without force, coercion and intimidation, I dare say that it would be easy to sell to the farmers of Pennsylvania the need of the help offered by the Federal Government under the present act. I feel that the appropriation set forth in House Bill No. 208 is grossly in excess of the needs required for the purpose of administrative purposes and other expenses for the coming two years. Twelve thousand five hundred dollars is a lot of the taxpayers' money and before this Legislature appropriates that amount, we should be sure that the money will be well spent.

In the 1939 session I was a member of the Agricultural Committee and I recall the time when the man representing the Federal Soil Conservation District came before that committee, after it had passed the House, and had been amended in the Senate, and they discussed at that time at length certain things that they said would make this bill unworkable, and certain members of this Committee at that time looked at the recommendations of the Federal Soil Conservation man then and said they were satisfied to have a sixty-five per cent vote and said that it would give them a workable and feasible act, in Pennsylvania, and I agree with my colleague, Mr. Snyder, that until we have a report from the Committee that shows otherwise, this bill should not pass. The present soil conservation law covers all the needs and more that are required in the State of Pennsylvania and I am asking this House of Representatives to vote against this measure because it is unnecessary and not needed. You have a law now that is operative and enforcable.

Mr. GYGER. Mr. Speaker, as a Member of this House who is engaged actually in the pursuit of agriculture, and as one who is in touch with the men who make a profit from tilling the soil, I wish to express my views on this subject. First, one reason why a great many of the farmers are against this bill is that section ten of the Act reads as follows:

> "Enforcement of Land-use Regulations The supervisors shall have authority to go upon any lands within the district to determine whether land-use regulations adopted under the provisions of section 9 of this act are being observed Any person firm association copartnership or corporation who shall violate any of such regulations shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than . . . "

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York will state his point of order.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not speaking on the bill before the House. He is speaking about an act that is now the law, and insinuating in his argument that that is a part of this act.

Mr. GYGER. This is one of the reasons that agriculture as a whole is not in favor of this bill. That is the reason I am reading it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the gentleman's discussion is relevant to the bill before the House. The gentleman is confining himself to the subject of soil conservation.

Mr. GYGER. If all the money spend in the last twenty-five years in the United States for propoganda work in the name of agriculture had been devoted to building good roads between farm and its marketing town, to extend rural free delivery, to create efficient marketing bureaus that do more than theorize on the problem of economical distribution of food from producers to consumer, we might be out of the so-called depression.

The right to individual property ownership, honestly accumulated and legitimately conserved, has always been a fundamental principle of American agriculture.

That principle is now being savagely attacked from a variety of angles, and it seems incredible that people have not yet awakened to this danger, which underlies all the upheavels we are now witnessing.

Property rights must be safeguarded. For one hundred fifty years, agriculture in southeastern Pennsylvania has from one generation to the next prided itself that the land must be conserved, and many, many farms are in a better state of production now than ever before. Every true farmer's aim is to conserve the soil for future generations.

As far as contour farming is concerned, we have practiced that on our farms for more than thirty years, and any good farmer certainly tries to leave his farm in a better condition than when he received it.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr LICHTENWALTER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MOUL. Does the gentleman think that the present State Board is doing a good job for the farmers of Pennsylvania?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I am going to withhold that decision until I hear the report and see the report of the investigating committee to which the gentleman from York had referred.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, I believe that the gentleman in his discussion made the statement that he did not want to see the Department of Forests and Waters removed from the present Board, and he went into quite a discussion about the present Board being able to take care of the work. I do not insist upon an answer to that question if the gentleman does not care to do so. However, it has been shown, and the gentleman heard a part of the discussion today himself, it has clearly been shown that the present State Board has not cooperated with the farmers but has definitely fought the farmers at every turn. I do not see how he can come to the conclusion that it is perfectly all right to continue the present board. At one part of the argument he says it is all right to get a new one and at another point he says that they do not need it.

He also made the statement that the State Grange is opposed to this particular piece of legislation. I do not think that the House of Representatives, when it comes to a final vote, need decide whether or not the State Grange is in favor of a particular bill. It is a question whether the House of Representatives is going to vote in favor of a particular bill, and had the State Grange asked for some consideration or asked for a public hearing they probably would have been given that opportunity. In view of the fact thay did not ask for such a hearing, I see no reason why they should come up at this time and expect us to stop the procedure.

I want to urge again all the members to vote for this bill.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the House adopted a resolution on February 18, House Resolution No. 36. In that resolution the last resolve paragraph says:

> "That the Speaker of the House appoint a committee of three members of the House of Representatives to investigate into the operation and the procedure of soil conservation and the extension service of Pennsylvania State College so that the finding of that investigation committee may be made available to the House of Representatives before any appropriation is approved for said Board and College."

Therefore, I ask, Mr. Speaker, whether the House can proceed to act upon House Bill No. 208 before the report of the investigating committee has been made to this House?

The SPEAKER. That is a question for the House to decide. If the House wants to postpone action on this bill it may do so. The Chair has no jurisdiction in the matter.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a further question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his further question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, how can the House decide the question as to whether it has the right to pass upon this bill without some motion or action upon the resolution, Serial Number 36?

The SPEAKER. The procedure is first by a motion to postpone action upon the bill.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a further question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his further question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, has the House not already taken action by adopting on February 18th a resolution, Serial No. 36?

The SPEAKER. The House has taken that action.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a further question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. Is not this a question calling for a ruling by the Chair, the House already having adopted the Resolution?

The SPEAKER. It is not a question for a ruling by the Chair. The Chair cannot stop consideration of bill. on the calendar. That must be done by a motion from the floor.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from York Mr. Moul.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MOUL. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, has a report of the investigating committee, created under House Resolution No. 36, been made to this House?

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, it has not been made to the House.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, has the Soil Conservation Board been called before the investigating committee?

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, the Soil Conservation Board has not been called before the committee to date but I assure you that the Soil Conservation Board members will be called before the committee.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I take it then that the Soil Conservation Board has not as yet testified before the committee.

Mr. MOUL. That is correct Mr. Speaker. Many other people have asked for the privilege to testify. This Board has not asked for the privilege to testify before the committee. We are taking the requests as they come along. If the Board would have requested such a privilege we probably would have given them that opportunity but they have not requested it as yet.

Mr. TURNER. It seems to me that the Chair has placed us in a very peculiar position. The House has already taken action on Resolution 36, in which it says that the finding of the executive committee must be made available to the House of Representatives before any appropriation will be approved for such Board and College. The purpose clearly of that resolution was to give the House of Representatives the advantage of an investigation, the advantage of knowing what the witnesses had to say, to give them the determinations and findings of the investigating committee in order that the House might intelligently act upon this proposition. The gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Snyder, was entirely correct when he said this was putting the cart before the horse. We have here, it seems to me, a most unusual spectacle.This was one in a series of moves in that play which I think runs from Smith to Moul, to the Democratic Caucus, to the floor of the House. The Speaker understands those terms perfectly, being an old base ball player. This is a part of this great farm program announced by the proponents of this measure. This resolution is a part of that program. You will recall that we opposed that resolution, not because we were opposed to investigating something about soil erosion, which we all favor and in which we all are deeply interested.

Mr. Speaker, the Hibernians seem to have a little trouble keeping quiet. This evening seems to be a typical Saint Patrick's Day Session of the Legislature. There has been a lot of fighting and rowing going on. It sort of reminds me of an old story—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland will state his point of order.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not speaking on the question before the House.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will confine himself to the question before the House.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, in talking about soil erosion I want to refer to an Irishman on a certain day who was having a discussion with his pastor on the problem of the day when Gabriel would blow his horn and everyone would step out of his grave. That is soil erosion.

The good father said to him, "On that day there would be judging of all of those as to their conduct here upon this earth."

The Irishman said to the good father,' "Do I understand there is to be judging?"

The good father said, "Yes, there is to be judging."

The Irishman said," Are the sons of Saint Patrick going to be there?"

"Yes," said the good father, "the sons of Saint Patrick are going to be there."

He said, "are the Orangemen going to be there?"

The good father said, "Yes, I am afraid that the orangemen too will have to be there on that judgment day, the same as the rest of us."

The Irishman said, "There ain't going to be no judging for the first three days."

Mr. Speaker, I think the judgment day has come upon our friend from York. He has got his feet all tangled up. He is rushing along like that train on the Pennsylvania railroad the other night that ran on to a couple of broken rails, somebody having pulled the spikes, except in this instance the gentleman from York got the spikes out himself and derailed the train.

Here is what we are presented with today. Here is a committee of this House to investigate. It has heard witnesses only on one side. Yet having heard witnesses only on one side of this question, the gentleman from York has come into this House and expounds as an argument for the passage of this bill the fact that witnesses have complained about the present board. But the board itself has yet to be heard. What kind of an investigating committee is that? What kind of a report is that to this House? This evening we sat here for over an hour and listened to the gentleman from Monroe move that bills be sent back to committee because we did not have full information about them, because some of them seemed to have been mixed up and because all the people have not been consulted, who should have been consulted. Yet we have here a resolution before this House which we fought bitterly because of the provision as to State College appropriations and not because we feared the result of any investigation. The gentleman insisted that we go ahead with that resolution and we put it through, and it was railroaded through the House by the Democratic majority. Now on top of that is a bill that makes an appropriation to the very board that the resolution said no appropriation should be made to until we have that report.

It seems to me this House should be consistent at least once in a while. It seems to me if the Democratic side of the House is going to say that these bills are to go back to committee because of some possible confusion, in fairness to every one in this House, in fairness to your own colleagues, before you vote upon this bill you ought to give it proper consideration and ought to consider both sides of the question. You ought to give them an opportunity to hear both sides of the question and to hear what this board has to say, and not come into this House with this House Bill, and ask us to back it up with that specious argument that we are not passing any appropriations. It doesn't say anything about passing an appropriation. It says, "before any appropriation is approved." Approved by what? Approved by the House. When an appropriation goes through this House, to all intents and purposes, so far as we are considered, it passes out of our hands and into the Senate to be there approved. I think this is the most astounding and the most disgraceful proposition that we have had presented to us. You present us with a bill and then you come down and ask us to put it through because you have heard some people who have said that this board is wrong and you believe it to be so, without any other investigation or without any other testimony and we must pass upon it.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I, therefore, move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations until the report is made on Resolution No. 36.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I ask the Members of the House to vote against the motion to recommit and I want to call to the attention of the members of the House the fact that the gentleman made an eloquent speech, but he missed one point. He says we are appropriating money to the same board. That is absolutely not true. This bill, House Bill 208, if it becomes a law, will have an entirely different board than the one operating under the present act. I think that all of that eloquent speech goes for naught because we are not going back to the same board. This bill specifically sets up a different board. All of the gentlemen who have argued on that side of the House have argued we had not put in a new board. Now he comes along and tells you we are dealing with the same board.

The gentleman is wrong. This will be an entirely new board made up of different people, if this bill is passed. I ask you to vote against the motion to recommit.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from York has used an argument that does not seem to me to even pay lip service to logic because the resolution, while I did use the words, "same board," I meant the Soil Conservation Board. It is still a soil conservation board, if you want to get technical. That is number one. Number two, is we are asked to change the personnel of that board and we therefore are entitled to an investigation and the testimony and to know what was said before this investigating committee before we vote upon it. I do not think that argument merits even as much of an answer as I have given it.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. TURNER and Mr. WOODSIDE and were as follows:

REASON FOR VOTE

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE filed the following reason for his vote:

I am voting in the negative on House Bill No. 208 in the hope that defeat of the bill may result in an opportunity to consider the questions contained therein at another time after the report of the Committee appointed to study them, is available for study.

INTERROGATION

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TURNER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Delaware, the "dirty farmer," know that Saint Patrick's Day is now over?

Mr. TURNER. From what I know of Irishmen, I know that Saint Patrick's Day is never over.

Session 1941. 135th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 25. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 1941. No. 23.

SENATE

TUESDAY, March 18, 1941

The Senate met at 9:30 o'clock, a. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. FRANK W. RUTH offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, we come to Thy presence this morning with thanksgiving and gratitude for the blessings which Thou hast showered upon us. We pray that during these troublous times we may recall that Thou didst love us to the extent that Thou didst give Thine only son to die for us, Who came into this world to bring peace, and as we look forward to these troublous times may we pray together and after these times have passed may we rebuild our world upon the foundation of love and brotherhood which he has laid for us.

We feel we are just one or just a few but if we do our part in the formulating of Thy plan that a world peace and goodwill and brotherhood will eventually come and we pray for the guidance and help of Thy Holy Spirit that with determination we may go forward to do our part to make this world a better world.

We ask it in Thy Holy name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WADE and Mr. GELTZ, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

NAYS—1

Shapiro,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 266, as follows:

An Act to further amend clause (i) of section four hundred ten of the act approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws 682) entitled "An act relating to insurance amending revising and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies and the regulation supervision and protection of home and foreign insurance companies Lloyds associations reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges and fire insurance rating bureaus and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies associations and exchanges including insurace carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund providing penalties and repealing existing laws" by further regulating the computation of extended term insurance in the uniform policy provisions of life insurance policies

Section 1 Clause (i) of section four hundred ten of the act approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 682) entitled "An act relating to insurance amending revising and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies and the regulation supervision and protection of home and foreign insurance companies Lloyds associations reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges and fire insurance rating bureaus and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies associations and exchanges including insurance carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund providing penalties and repealing existing laws" as last amended by the act approved the fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1634) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 410 Uniform Policy Provisions No. policy of life or endowment insurance except policies of industrial insurance where the premiums are payable monthly or oftener shall hereafter be issued or delivered by any stock or mutual life insurance company in this Commonwealth unless it contains in substance the following provisions

* * * *

(i) A provision which in event of default in premium payments after premiums shall have been paid for three years shall secure to the owner of the policy a stipulated form of insurance the net value of which shall be at least equal to the reserve at the date of default on the policy and on any dividend additions thereto specifying the mortality table and rate of interest adopted for computing such reserves less a sum not more than two and one-half per centum of the amount insured by the policy and of any existing dividend additions thereto and less any existing indebtedness to the company on the policy Provided That if the reserve on the policy is computed upon the American men ultimate table of mortality the net value of any stipulated form of insurance on the extended term insurance plan granted under the terms of the policy may be computed upon rates of mortality not greater than one hundred thirty per centum of those shown by said table Such provision shall stipulate that the policy may be surrendered to the company at its home office within one month from date of default for a specified cash value at least equal to the sum which would otherwise be available for the purchase of insurance as aforesaid and may stipulate that the company may defer payment for not more than six (6) months after the application therefor is made This provision shall not be required in term insurance of twenty years or less.

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, we have before us for consideration two bills, the present bill, No. 266 and the next bill, Senate Bill No. 268, both of which are slightly technical in their nature and I would therefore like to say a word about them.

These bills come from the life insurance companies which operate in Pennsylvania and the insurance commissioner is also in harmony with the point of view they represent.

They involve three things. The first is that up until this time we have always been using the American experience table of mortality. That American experience table of mortality is based upon conditions before the Civil War and it has gradually become antiquated as times goes on, because there has been a great change in longevity of people.

One of the provisions in Senate Bill No. 268 is that the insurance companies under regulations adopted by the Insurance Commission are allowed to use the American men ultimate table, a new table developed about twenty-five years ago, and which is far more accurate in dealing with longevity and the expectation of life than the other table.

The second point involved in this bill is the question of changing these reserves. The insurance companies now can no longer earn on their investments what used to be earned in previous periods and whereas today the reserve is computed on a three and one half per cent rate they ask in this bill that it be shifted from three and one half per cent to two per cent, in between those two figures, according to the development of business and the regulations of the insurance commissioner. As a matter of fact, Mr. President, that practice is in existing contracts but it does affect the basis upon which future contracts may be made. I am told in New York it is two and one quarter per cent at the present time.

Now, Mr. President, the advantage of these two bills is that they enable our insurance companies today to do business in other states, which are gradually toning up in their requirements, in which it is necessary for them to do business providing they can meet those requirements. There was even the suggestion in some places only those insurance companies that used the American men ultimate basis should be allowed to do business in that state, and if that law had passed in New York it would have had the effect of ruling out the Pennsylvania insurance companies from doing business.

Now, Mr. President, there is a third point involved in the bill immediately under consideration and that is this; that you know in a life insurance policy there is an alternative, a cash surrender value or an extended insurance, or other things of that kind. Experience has shown to them that where a party takes extended insurance their life is longer than their expectation of life; in other words, having had insurance continued for a period of time it has had the effect of making them feel a little freer from responsibility and they live longer. Mr. President, they ask a change in this special percentage of 130 per cent in considering that alternative under the policy.

I might add in the old American men table of mortality these tables have endured for a great many years because they were very inaccurate; there was a very wide margin for the insurance company.

Now, Mr. President, if you get down to the new American ultimate men table you get down to a more accurate table and there is no longer the margin that used to exist and that is the reason why this new legislation is needed.

I might say, Mr. President, these two bills were carefully considered in committee, the committee meetings on which were attended by representatives of the insurance companis and also by the Insurance Commissioner and all of the parties, who have a far better knowledge of these technicalities than either the Senator from Allegheny or myself, were all agreed this was in the line of wise legislation.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in the last eight years I have found that the insurance commissioner too often reflects the views of the insurance company instead of the insurance policy holder. I am firmly convinced the only thing that would save insurance companies would be for them to get out of the investment business and mind their own business, which is insuring and pure insurance.

I am opposed to these bills because this is another method of cutting down the reserve which insurance companies would set up. Under the Homan's table of 1869, the insurance companies set up a reserve of mortality until the end of the year. At the end of the year whatever the difference between the actual mortality and the mortality set up happens to be the insurance company can use that as a profit. Under the proposed bill the reserve will be less than it is under Homan's table, as is obvious from what the gentleman from Montgomery has said.

I do not like these changes in the insurance company laws made here in Pennsylvania every time an insurance company gets into difficulties, which is basically the difficulty arising out of the fact they do two kinds of business, one of which they have no right to do and never should have been permitted to do, and that is shown by reports from a recent Federal investigation.

An insurance company cannot make a profit of three and one half per cent, that is true, with investment interest rates at the present rate, but it still goes on selling annuities, it still goes on promising three and one half per cent interest on investments, it still goes on doing an investment business without half of the supervision that a banking institution in Pennsylvania gets. There is not a banking institution in Pennsylvaia that could invest one tenth of the amount of money these insurance companies invest and have as little investigation or curtailment by proper authorities.

The way to correct that situation is not to allow them to reduce their interest rates, but to keep them out of the investment business.

You can go to some insurance companies and get pure insurance for ten dollars at a given age and then you can go out and then get what they call an ordinary life policy by paying twenty-two dollars, and all your family gets when you die is the same face value of the policy. They tell you a story that you have an accumulated borrowing capacity, you have a surrender value, they tell you that after ten years if you pay the twenty-two dollars instead of the ten dollars, you have a two hundred dollar value and you can borrow, but if you borrow on that two hundred dollars you pay interest on your own money. And if you die your wife, instead of getting one thousand dollars, gets one thousand dollars less the two hundred dollars which you borrowed, or eight hundred dollars, and that is your money, and when the insurance company charges you a premium on that policy and there is two hundred dollars reserve, which they say is yours from investments, they are really only giving you eight hundred dollars insurance because the two hundred dollars is yours and is in the investment department, yet they charge you the same premium as though you were getting a thousand dollars.

All these bills are doing, Mr. President, as we continue to amend the law, is to make it easier for them to stay in a business which they long ago should have been out of. They cannot possibly carry out their existing contracts and pay three and one half per cent because there is not a safe investment today that will pay them three and one half per cent. This business of letting them charge two per cent and go on is the wrong way to cure the disease from which they are suffering, and I am going to vote no on these bills in the hope some protest will result in getting a real solution to the problem. In my opinion the only solution is that we ought to make them mind their own business, which is insurance, and keep them out of the investment business.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I had not intended to speak on this bill or Senate Bill No. 268; however, I am going to speak on both of these bills while I am on my feet.

Mr. President, I do not mind Senate Bill No. 268, which allows insurance companies to change from the present motality table to the American men's table.

However, Mr. President, I had not meant to comment on Senate Bill 268 which allows insurance companies to change from the present mortality table, but I do oppose Senate Bill No. 266, and if you will read Senate Bill 266 you will see what happens in that bill, and I think we are going to be in a funny position here.

When a man for any reason at all cannot carry on his insurance any longer he has one of four procedures that he can follow. He can turn the insurance in to an extended term or he can take a paid up life or can get the surrender value for the amount he has paid into it.

Now, under this bill, Mr. President, they set up a provision changing from one table to the other. Under the present law they use one hundred per cent mortality and that is the basis upon which they compute how many days of extended life insurance you will have, if you have so much in reserve you have paid into a life insurance policy, and now they say in this bill instead of using one hundred per cent mortality they are going to use a basis of 130 per cent mortality, which means simply that a person instead of receiving say a hundred days of insurance would receive about seventy days on an 130 per cent mortality basis instead of a one hundred per cent mortality basis.

Mr. President, there can only be one hundred per cent mortality. If there are one hundred men in this room and they should all die that is all that can die and that is one hundred per cent mortality.

The idea of using one hundred thirty per cent as a mortality basis upon which to figure out extended insurance that they are going to give to persons because of the fact they can no longer pay premiums on insurance is ridiculous. They are changing from one table to the other or automatically switching from one table to the other, because that gives them a higher mortality figure. As I understand it the American men ultimate schedule is a lower schedule and lower mortality table so we are giving the insurance companies in this bill thirty per cent leeway which they take and deprive the individual of thirty per cent of the insurable days to which he is entitled under the present insurance policies that are written in the State of Pennsylvania, and we are really passing an insurance company bill which to my mind makes each and everyone of us look ridiculous, adding thirty per cent penalty on those policy holders.

I am going to vote no on the bill.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I hesitate to prolong the discussion on these life insurance bills except to say at this time that in the discussion which has just been made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, it would indicate a lack of knowledge regarding life insurance.

Mr. President, if there is any one thing that came out of the T.W.E.C. investigation in Washington it was that sixty-five million policy holders of America have something real that they can depend on in the future and secondly, that the life insurance business is one of the safest fundamentally in America.

Now, Mr. President, as far as Senate Bill No. 268 is concerned, let me say before we come to that, in the gentleman's discussion regarding these bills, the gentleman from Philadelphia would lead you to believe the premium you pay bears three and one half per cent interest or in other words the life insurance company which takes your money agrees to give you a return of three and one half per cent on all the money you pay them. That is not correct.

Life insurance premiums are constructed by adding three component parts. The first part is this reserve, which is computed as the gentleman from Montgomery has told you, on a reserve basis and now the life insurance companies want, in order to keep the policies fundamentally sound in years to come, and not affect the obligations now on their books or to affect the obligations they incur in the future, that they be allowed to come down in accordance with the trend of the times, which we believe have been affected very seriously by the administration in Washington, and that is so they can be safe, sound and solid investments to back this reserve in years to come.

Secondly, Mr. President, this reserve portion is computed on the same reserve table, by the American experience table of mortality, which takes into consideration all of the people as they walk down the street. The American men ultimate table takes into consideration pretty much those that are insurable and computes that reserve so that at the time of your death or the death of the average man, that reserve will clear the face of the policy and then pay an old age death claim.

The second component part of the premium is the mortality table. The mortality table considers all deaths caused by disease and by accident and by all other causes except that of old age.

The third portion of the premium is the portion necessary to pay the just expenses of conducting the life insurance business; that has to do with the reserve.

The next matter that has been brought up is that of the pure endowment extended insurance, automatic paid up life insurance or cash value.

Now there is a selection against a company's automatically extending insurance, as a provision that carries the face of the policy over for a certain number of years, but that depends upon how long the premiums have been paid. Thereafter the policy expires because it is term insurance and it is this form of insurance the gentleman from Philadelphia has referred to as being so cheap a form of insurance, that lasts for a length of time and then stops as fire insurance does, without any value.

Secondly, paid up insurance lasts for the length of the life of the policy holder and is then paid. Of course, it is on a reduced basis; the premiums are not continued. The third of course is the cash value when the policy holder stops paying premiums.

Mr. President, actual experience and records prove there is a selection against the company and therefore they have asked for the privilege of keeping life insurance in the years to come on a safe, sound and solid basis, by changing to 130 per cent mortality, which has been their actual experience.

That concludes what I have to say but, Mr. President, I should like to say I would be very glad to answer any question that I can with regard to these bills.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will be glad to, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to ask the gentleman from Cumberland to tell us, on the basis of 130 per cent, whether the extended term insurance will be for a less period or for a greater period?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, that would reduce the length of time that the automatic extended insurance would be carried. However, as I said previously, it is giving the opportunity to the company to keep the insurance on a sound basis.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Cumberland state whether or not it is true on the basis of the present Homan's mortality table every insurance company in Pennsylvania makes a profit on its mortality set up?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, the thing known as dividends in life insurance is the distribution of the profits from mortality that the gentleman from Philadelphia has just mentioned, as well as surplus earnings over and above the reserve rate used, whether three per cent, three and a half per cent, two per cent, or two and a half per cent.

Mr. SHAPIRO. The gentleman has not answered my question. Isn't it true every insurance company's statement contains on the profit and loss side of the balance sheet, or earnings sheet, an item known as gains on mortality.

Mr. WADE. No, Mr. President, that is not true. Some companies do make a profit from that source. One of the large New York companies, now shows a loss, through mortality written up to what we call seventy per cent mortality. That company shows a loss, because they did not anticipate the mortality would be that high.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is the gentleman now speaking of the new table or of the old table?

Mr. WADE. I am speaking of the old table, the American experience table of mortality, which is still used by ninety per cent of the companies.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the gentleman state whether or not the insurance companies still charge five per cent on loans to policy holders?

Mr. WADE. I can not answer for all companies; most companies I think charge five per cent.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there has not been a bill introduced in this Senate chamber since I have been here, and certainly not in the last four years, reducing the rate of interest which insurance companies are charging, and I will meet the gentleman some other time, I have been intending for some time to discuss this insurance question, and I will be glad to meet him, and as to whether or not I know anything about the report on the United States investigation, I suggest to the gentleman that he look at any one of the large major companies' statements in Pennsylvania, the New York Life Insurance Company, for instance, or such companies, and he will find that their experience table, using the Homan's table, has earned them a profit of at least fifty per cent of their anticipated mortality and he will find during the last twenty-five years, including the war, no insurance company has listed a mortality rate of over sixty-five per cent and he will find if he looks at the statements of insurance companies that the major portion of their profit is earned from charging policy holders five or six per cent interest on their own money.

He will also find one of the troubles of life insurance companies today, is that the banking interests have gotten together and are lending the policy holders on their policies loans at three per cent and two and a half per cent, with the result that the insurance companies' earnings are decreasing not because of death rates but because of anything else, because no insurance company ever went broke by paying death rates.

Insurance companies that lose and go defunct are those companies which lose on their investments. There is no reason why an insurance company should lose money on paying death rates because insurance companies know under the Homan's table 7.9 people die at age thirty-five and the insurance company does not care who those 7.9 people are, because they have collected in the premiums the $79.80 that will be necessary to pay that mortality but the vice in the situation is that 7.8 per cent of that added expense is because of excessive salaries paid to officers of the company, and an additional amount which they arrived at by taking the fact a man living to be ninety-two years of age, not seventy years of age, but they take ninety-two years of age and make an average premium every year on the basis of ninety-two.

That additional amount of money allows them to make investments which they put in their investment department, and if the gentleman knows anything about insurance he knows every year as the amount of money in the investment department increases the amount of insurance which the companies have is decreased through reinsurance, so that when I have thirty dollars in the investment and I have a policy of a thousand dollars I only have $970 insurance. If I die the company takes thirty dollars out of this investment department and $970 out of the mortality reserve fund, and if that goes on, as the period goes on, I have three hundred dollars investment and seven hundred dollars insurance. The company reinsures, through reinsurance, on the basis of seven hundred dollars but they charge me on the basis of one thousand dollars and if I die the company does not give a thousand dollars life insurance, they give me three hundred dollars of my own money, which they accumulated by overcharging me, and then give me seven hundred dollars insurance which they take from some other account, that they have reinsured.

Mr. President, here is a man who cannot pay premiums; he has overpaid, many, many years he has overpaid and after he has overpaid all those years they now say we are going to give you less extended insurance if you cannot pay any more. I do not think that is the way to solve the problem.

The difficulty arises, as I say, from the fact that banks are encroaching on the insurance companies preserves, and what they are doing is to lend me money at three per cent, so I do not go to the insurance company and pay them five per cent, and if the insurance company cannot get five per cent from me on the one real investment they have, which is to lend me money on my own money and charge me interest, then of course the $30,000,000 all large companies made last year on six per cent and five per cent interest is going to add up to $20,000,000 or $25,000,000.

The trouble of the matter is the more the banks take the loans the more they undermine their own security, because if the insurance companies can not earn this money necessary to pay actual expenes these insurance companies become insolvent, and eventually the banks will be stuck with a great deal of security not worth the paper it is written on.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I certainly do not want to prolong this argument but I say with all due apologies to the gentleman from Philadelphia many of his statements lack experience or knowledge regarding the insurance business.

In the first place, Mr. President, I might say to the gentleman from Philadelphia the Homan's table was not compiled—and this is a mere technicality—in 1869; it was compiled in 1857.

In the second place, Mr. President, the figure shown by the American table of mortality is not 7.6; it is 7.19; and that means that there are 719 deaths expected out of every one hundred thousand people.

Now, on the other hand, Mr. President, life insurance companies do not take that mortalities, or they do not expect one hundred per cent mortality. Competition in the life insurance business has long since forced rates down below that. They only expect a portion of that mortality because they make a selection of their risk; they do not insure everybody who comes down the street. Many of you gentlemen here probably have been compelled to undergo strict examinations in order to obtain life insurance.

Next, in connection with banks may I say, and not boastingly, I am associated as president of a bank, and there is not the competition between the banks and the life insurance companies the gentleman thinks there is. The banks because of the administration in Washington—and I say that advisedly—have been forced to hunt investments and in looking over the field of investments they can find nothing finer than life insurance on which to make loans and because of that and because life insurance companies have been bound by contract to charge five per cent interest on their loans the banks have been holding out their hands and saying we will be glad to make loans to you, at a less interest rate than you must pay under your contract with the life insurance company.

Now, again, Mr. President, I want to make a slight correction, and it is only a technical correction; the American table of mortality shows the last death at the age of ninety-six and not at the age of ninety-two.

On the other hand, as to the gentleman's statement that as the years go by this reserve is built up and the risk is lessened for the life insurance companies, that is quite correct, but you must remember that the mortality rate does not stay at 7.19 all the way through. As men and women get older the mortality rate increases and some safe scientific basis must be devised to take up the slack on the increased mortality table and reserve. As the years go along it lessens the life insurance risk, and because of that they are able to give you a contract that will last thirty, forty or fifty years without an increase in premium. On the other hand if you talk about the cheap insurance the gentleman from Philadelphia has mentioned, then as the years go by your insurance premium increases until finally you reach the age of sixty or sixty-five, and instead of getting the pension which you will get, which many men here in American today are receiving from legal reserves of life insurance, then the mortality rate has gone up so far and the earning power has gone down to the place where because of necessity they are compelled to drop the life insurance they have and that leaves that family without the protection they deserve.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am glad to prolong this discussion because I think it is important. I do not think anyone should complain about the fact we are discussing one of the most important economic factors in our lives.

I am quite sure the gentleman from Cumberland has had considerable experience with life insurance companies and probably some connection with them. I will say very frankly when I talked about 7.9 I talked about a thousand deaths and not a hundred thousand deaths, and it may be Homan's table was originated in 1857.

There is no question the life insurance companies have been making a profiit through the use of the Homan's table because when Homan made his survey he took a thousand cases indiscriminately and when the companies insure they have selective cases and that results in a lesser mortality than they anticipated. If you will pardon a personal allusion, I will suggest to the gentleman from Cumberland that I personally in 1929 changed from investment life insurance to pure life insurance, and my premiums have not gone up; when I get to be sixty-five years of age I will not need an insurance company because the savings which these gentleman say they would have made for me I have made for myself, and when I reach the age of sixty-five, paying into the fund the same amount which the insurance company would have charged me for the policies, I will not need any insurance because I will have saved and earned enough money to clear the face of the policies which I now have.

I make that statement for a very real reason, Mr. President, and that is that the insurance compaines for years have preyed upon a weakness of human nature, that is they could sell you a policy for ten dollars, which is pure insurance, and you could take the extra amount which they would charge you and invest it and you could make the same investment they do and you would get a better return, because there would not be any charge for services; you could invest that surplus in government bonds, which is where the insurance companies invest their funds, if you had the will power to put it away and not touch it.

So, because of that weakness, that the average person does not have the will power and the insurance company preys on him and sells him an insurance policy that is burdensome for him to carry, because the man who wants protection is not looking at the same time for savings and if he is he does not get the saving because the saving he is talking about after you take it you lose the life insurance and if you keep the life insurance you lose the saving.

No man can walk into an insurance office and take a policy which has a surrender value and say give me four hundred dollars and let me have six hundred dollars insurance. They will not do it; no man can say to them, "I will take my four hundred dollars out and I want my insurance to be extended for a certain period of time at six hundred dollars." No man can do that.

What I mean, Mr. President, is that you cannot get your saving and keep your insurance at the same time, what I am complaining about is that the people are entitled to protection, they are entitled to what they get in the way of life insurance surety but we should not encourage life insurance companies to continue in the investment business.

You can talk and you can raise all the technicalities you want to, but I have my own experience and I have given the matter a great deal of study. I have not gone into the technicalities arising out of extended life insurance at one hundred and thirty days of mortality, I assure you I have not done that, but for over a period of ten years I have studied life insurance company reports and I have read very carefully such information as is available from the United States investigation and I assure the gentleman if he will read that report very carefully he will not get any comfort as far as life insurance companies are concerned. I am quite concerned over the fact that in my opinion the truth of the investigation has not been published because of the fear it might instill.

The best illustration I have of what I am talking about is I have thirty per cent more life insurance today for less premium than I paid ten years ago, with the same compaines in which I insured before. In other words, Mr. President, in 1929 I changed my policies to pure insurance and I have twenty-five to thirty per cent more life insurance at thirty to forty percent less premium. That is a concrete illustration of what I am talking about, stripped of all technicalities and why this Senate has any right to say to insurance companies you can base your savings on two per cent because no man needs an insurance company to give him two per cent, he can buy government bonds; he may get one and three quarters per cent and be a hundred and fifty per cent better off because he has got a government bond back of him, which is the same thing the insurance companies will invest in, and he does not have to pay the insurance company officers high salaries.

Mr. President, I propose to vote against every bill which strikes against this condition piecemeal. That is what I am talking about, this piecemeal effort to protect life insurance companies and which will not give them protection. In my opinion the only protection the life insurance company can get is to get out of the investment business.

Now, when I say 7.9 deaths in a thousand that means that the insurance company charges you 7.9 or $7.90 and adds legitimate expenses and adds a portion for reserve; then they are in the insurance business and that is all they should be in. But when they add more to it by taking from ninety-two to ninety-six years as the ultimate span of life, then they are loading the premium and they are using it for investment purposes. Look at the history of insurance companies and you will find that those companies which went broke did not go broke on the basis of figuring their mortality wrong but they went broke on the basis of making investments of surplus premiums which resulted in their having mortgages on apartment houses and things of that sort when a crisis came along they were stuck with investments that could not be turned into cash and they could not meet their obligations. Under the circumstances I say it would be much better for us to wait until the final completed report from Washington is prepared so we can ascertain the real condition and then try to correct it.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I very much appreciate the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia. I would like to renew this conference with him, as he suggests, to further discuss this proposition we are discussing here publicly this morning. I am going to say to him if since 1929 he changed his policies I am going to take the liberty of having my rate book along with me because I think I can convince him he might well make some changes again in his insurance program. However, Mr. President, that is personal.

I want to say with apologies to the gentleman from Philadelphia, that not all the people in America have the superior intelligence of the gentleman from Philadelphia—and I mean that sincerely—not all the men and women in America have the opportunity to compare these different investments, and while he admitted in his discussion that if he were investing his surplus money in United States government bonds, they would yield much less than two per cent for him, whereas on the other hand he can go to a sound, solid and secure life insurance company in America today and get a guarantee of two and one half per cent and a dividend beside.

Now, Mr. President, regarding the T.E.M.C. investigation the gentleman from Philadelphia has mentioned, that report is practically completed. The gentleman would lead us to believe the report is not completed but it is and there are two things that it pointed out. The first is that sixty-five million policy holders of America have something they can depend on in the future, and I say to you members of this Senate and Mr. President that is something that the life insurance companies can be justly proud of.

The second thing I would like to mention in connection with this T.E.M.C. investigation, a report of over six thousand cases proved conclusively that the people that own life insurance policies have a larger saving there available in liquid cash to them and their families than they have from any other course or combination of sources. In other words, their holdings in life insurance companies are worth more to them today and cost them less than their savings in all other lines combined.

Now again, Mr. President, just to bring up a technicality as to the history of mortality losses or gains, profits have been distributed in the form of dividends, except of course where there have been losses, and in concluding this discussion as far as I am concerned I say to you not one policy holder in the last ten depression years has lost a single dollar. As a matter of fact I can increase that figure to twenty-five years, not one policy holder of Pennsylvania life insurance companies has lost a single dollar. In the case where a company got into difficulties those companies have been reinsured and their obligations carried on in the future by other companies that were sound and secure.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I just want to say a word in connection with this discussion. As I understand the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro's cricitism of life insurance companies, it seems to me that has nothing to do with this legislation.

It will be admitted first that the old American experience table is out of date and there ought to be a new one substituted. Is there any objection to that?

It is admitted secondly that the insurance companies cannot earn three and one half per cent on their investments at the present time, and is there any objection to reducing the amount of that percentage, which only has its effect upon the reserve; on the two per cent basis they must establish more of a reserve, which would be good financing. Is there objection to that?

Is there objection Mr. President, to the statement when extended insurance is taken upon surrender of a policy, on the failure to make payment on it, that the life return is greater than is expected in the table, and that under those circumstances there ought to be some larger overage in order to adjust it?

If there is no objection to those three points, Mr. President, then these two bills should pass.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL RE-REFERRED

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON, from the Committee on Labor and Industry, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 361, entitled:

An Act to protect the obligors or guarantors of debts for which judgments are entered and owners of real property affected thereby, and others indirectly liable for the payment thereof, by prohibiting, for certain periods, the sale on execution of property at less than its fair market value; and prescribing the method of fixing the fair market value of said property.

and asks that it be re-referred to the Committee on Law and Order.

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 79, entitled:

An Act to amend subsection (a) of section twelve of the act, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred seventeen (P. L. 447), entitled, as amended "An act relating to the administration and distribution of the estates of decedents and of minors, and trust estates; including the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties, liabilities, accounts, discharge and removal of executors, administrators, guardians, and trustees, herein designated as fiduciaries; the administration and distribution of the estates of presumed decedents; widow's and children's exemptions; debts of decedents, rents of real estate as assets for payment thereof, the lien thereof, sales and mortgages of real estate for the payment thereof, judgments and executions therefor, and the discharge of real estate from the lien thereof; contracts of decedents for the sale or purchase of real estate; legacies, including legacies charged on land, the discharge of residuary estates and of real estate from the lien of legacies and other charges; the appraisement or real estate devised at a valuation; the ascertainment of the curtilage of dwelling houses or other buildings devised; the abatement and survival of actions, and the substitution of executors and administrators therein; the survival of causes of action and suits thereupon by or against fiduciaries; investments by fiduciaries; the organization of corporations to carry on the business of decedents; the audit and review of accounts of fiduciaries; refunding bonds; transcripts to the court of common pleas of balances due by fiduciaries; the rights, powers, and liabilities of nonresident and foreign fiduciaries; the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties, and liabilities of trustees durante absentia; the recording and registration of decrees, reports and other proceedings, and the fees therefor; appeals in certain cases; and, also, generally dealing with the jurisdiction, powers, and procedure of the orphans court in all matters relating to fiduciaries concerned with the estates of decedents," by authorizing the orphans' court to allow and set aside the widow's or children's exemption without notice or appraisement where the property claimed is of apparent or readily ascertainable value.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

NOMINATIONS BY THE GOVERNOR

NOTARIES PUBLIC

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, nominations for appointment as Notaries Public.

CONSIDERATION OF NOTARIES PUBLIC

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of nominations for appointment as Notaries Public, sent to the Senate, March 18, 1941, by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth.

Two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Governor be informed accordingly.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Washington will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. REED. Mr. President and members of the Senate, on February 17, 1941, I introduced Senate Resolution No. 27 relating to the study and the repeal of unnecessary and burdensome legislation. At that time I stated on the floor of the Senate that at a later date I would discuss in more detail some of the phases of this problem.

Today, Mr. President, I desire to direct my energies to this task and as the gentlemen of the Senate are in some degree of hurry to get away I will cut down somewhat on my remarks with the right reserved to myself and one or two of my colleagues to discuss this resolution in greater detail.

Unusual and exceptional are the times. Deep and destructive currents are forcefully pounding at our social and economic order, and while we sit idly by in self-satisfied security, the dangers multiply and salvation each day becomes more difficult and remote.

The time is ripe for impartial and courageous public action. The people are crying for economic reform. They are searching the political horizon for manifestations of help. Too frequently in the past has pure and wholesome public service been impeded and suppressed by political bosses and party organizations. The Tweed Ring of New York; The Thompson Organization of Chicago, the Penrose Crowd of Philadelphia; the Pendergrast Machine of Kansas City; the Kline Organization of Pittsburgh; the Tammany Ring of New York; are potent and historical examples of this assertion.

In a recent editorial in the Pittsburgh Press speaking on returning the government back to the people it was stated in part:

"But for eighteen years the politicians in and out of the Legislature, have reduced that action to a mere gesture. In those eighteen years the Legislature has been run by all kinds of politicians—Vare Republicans, Grundy Republicans, Mellon Republicans, Pinchot Republicans, assorted species of Democrats, coalitions and other varieties."

To-day, in a great measure, this practice still prevails. Survey your own official surroundings, and the chances are that you will discern some political boss hidden in the back ground attempting to control and direct your official action. Such a policy is distinctly distasteful and reprehensible when applied to the legislative branch of our government; for legislation at its best must have in it the unbiased and independent thought of all.

Listen to me, as I inform you that it is reliably reported that there are members in our law making Assembly of Pennsylvania that are employees on their County or City payroll, some receiving as high as $3000.00 a year. Are they selected because they are members of the Assembly? If so, can they give to both employments the pure, independent, efficient service that the public requires of them? Ponder this question and answer it yourself, and in so doing, consider what part, if any, the County or City political boss will play in shaping and controlling the legislative conduct of such employees.

I have prefaced my remarks with these observations in order to emphasize the present need of independent and courageous thought and action. A few weeks ago, in discussing present day conditions, one of the Senators on the other side remarked to me, that he believed that one of the outstanding needs of the day was men of courage and integrity. I agreed with him, and I believe that all of you are in accord with his views. Charged with this belief let us consider the matter before us, the repeal of unnecessary legislation.

I have been told that in the attempted political build-up in the State back through the years every conceivable group was marked for organization in order that complete party solidarity might result. This plan has tended towards centralization, with the removal of power from the people at home.

In that connection, Mr. President, I want to read again from this editorial in the Pittsburgh Press:

"The politicians never have had a better chance to give the government back to the people—all the people—than now."

One of the first Acts passed under this program was the Act of May 10, 1913, P. L. 199 authorizing and empowering the County Commissioners and the County Solicitor, and the Chief Clerk of said Commissioners, of each County, to organize themselves into a State Association, for the purpose of holding annual meetings, and providing for the payment of the expenses thereof.

Section 2 of the Act provides as follows:

"The actual expenses of the county commissioners, county solicitor, and chief clerk, attending such meetings of said State Association, including traveling expenses and hotel bills actually paid by them, expenses of committees, together with the necessary expenses of the convention, including printing and the employment of stenographers, shall be paid by the various counties by orders drawn on the county treasurer. The time spent in attending said meeting shall not be more than four days, exclusive of the time employed in traveling thereto and therefrom. The expenses herein mentioned as the necessary expenses of the convention shall not be more than ten dollars to any county per annum."

This Act was amended by the Act of May 17, 1917 P. L. 202 increasing the expenses of the convention from $10.00 to $25.00 per annum for each County; and by an Act of 1921 P. L. 76 this expense was increased to $50.00 per annum. See also Act 1929 P. L. 1278.

Commencing with the year 1915 and ending with, and including, 1939 I have estimated that $679,832.92 of the peoples' money have been spent in Pennsylvania under these Acts of Assembly.

By the Act of June 14, 1923, P. L. 774 the Sheriffs of the several counties of this Commonwealth were authorized to organize themselves into a State Association.

For the years 1924 to 1939, both inclusive, I have estimated that there was expended in the Commonwealth under this Act of Assembly $80,400.00 of the peoples' money.

By the Act of April 23, 1927, P. L. 380 the Register of Wills of the several counties of this Commonwealth were authorized to organize themselves into a State Association.

For the years 1928 to 1939, both inclusive, I have estimated that there was expended in Pennsylvania under this Act of Assembly $60,300.00 of the peoples' money.

By the Act of 1929, P. L. 1278, No. 447, the County Controllers of the several counties of this Commonwealth were authorized to organize themselves into a State Association.

For the years 1930 to 1939, both inclusive, I have estimated that there has been spent in the Commonwealth under this Act of Assembly $54,000.00 of the peoples' money.

For the periods of time enumerated these four groups have spent the estimated amount of $874,532.92 of the peoples' money. This is just a small segment of this phase of the problem. There are many other groups in this class, which some legislators have classified as pressure groups. It might not be out of order, in passing, to call your attention to Senate Bill No. 8 which provides for the organization of County Treasurers in the State; and also to House Bill No. 286 which provides for the organization of Prothonotaries and Clerks of Courts into State organizations.

The question then recurs should these laws be repealed as unnecessary legislation? Have they advanced economy and efficiency in government? A careful study of governmental problems shows that economy and efficiency are best promoted by those officials that cling tenaciously to their local problems and listen attentively to the wishes of their people. In the first place, a person seeking public office should be qualified to perform the duties of such office, if elected. When elected, he should scrupulously employ his time in giving the best service possible to the people, for he is amply paid for such service. In the more important offices, he is given the right to select an attorney, whose compensation is paid by the people. In my County legal services for the County Commissioners, Sheriff and Controller cost the people $5,000.00 a year. I could never understand how the people were benefited by the organization of these various groups. Back through the years I have talked to many officials who have attended State meetings and many of them have told me that the only benefits they received were in the form of a good time. In these times of economic stress, with the cupboard almost bare, the people should not be required to pay for such good times. It is regrettable, however, on the other hand, that so few taxpayers know that such state meetings are set up and conducted from hard earned moneys contributed by them in the form of taxation. If they were cognizant of this fact, and inquired of a person seeking public office whether he was in favor of such expenditures, I am sure that such office seeker in most cases would give him a negative answer. In conclusion I desire to inform you that I am bringing these things to your attention for the sole and only purpose of promoting the welfare of the people of the Commonwealth. I realize that such groups might contest the repeal of these statutes, but in our consideration we must remember that an office holder is but a servant of the people whose interest should at all times be paramount. This thought should give us the necessary courage to do our duty. Let us then fearlessly and impartially move forward in a solution of this important problem.

Mr. President, I have talked with many people relative to these matters since the introduction of this resolution and it seems to me they are unanimously in favor of the abolition of these phases of burdensome legislation. I had intended to take up another segment of this problem but I want to give a few minutes of my time to my colleague from Fayette, Senator Cavalcante.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, in harmony with the clarion remarks of the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Reed, I desire to make a few remarks on my question of personal privilege, touching upon the integrity of this Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Fayette will proceed.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, under the Constitution of this Commonwealth and the laws enacted thereby it is the sworn duty and power of His Excellency, the Governor of this Commonwealth, to make appointment to many important and serious public offices in this Commonwealth. Under our Constitution His Excellency is given the power to nominate the persons who shall hold these offices. That same Constitution then gives the Senate of this Commonwealth the duty of passing upon the wisdom of those nominations and whether they shall be confirmed or approved. It happened no later than this Session that when a nomination has been made by His Excellency public sentiment has required the withdrawal of that nomination.

We can see the wisdom in the provisions of our Constitution that give His Execellency the right to nominate and the Senate the duty and power to confirm or not confirm the nominations made.

Mr. President, there is now dormant in the Committee of Executive Nominations the nominations to two very important posts in our Commonwealth and the gentlemen nominated by His Excellency to those posts are gentlemen who have served on the floor of this Senate, men who have their own distinct and personal philosophies, philosophies that are founded in sincerity. I have no fault to find with any man who is sincere in his beliefs. His beliefs and his philosophies may have courses far different from mine, his philosophies may pursue a conservative course and my philosophies may pursue a more progressive and liberal course, but nevertheless it is unquestionable that these two men, these two gentlemen nominated by the Governor to these two posts are men of intergrity and men whose moral character can not be questioned, nor can their qualifications to fill the posts to which they have been nominated by His Excellency, the Governor be questioned, and yet, Mr. President, those two nominations, despite the fact they were sent to the Senate quite some time ago, are still in the Committee on Executive Nominations. I tell you frankly, Mr. President, that it is not the fault of the chairman of the Committee on Executive Nominations, nor of any member of that committee, but the fault and the reason why those nominations have not been confirmed heretofore, before this time, is due to those political bosses that the gentleman from Washington stated are hidden in the background and as one member of this Senate with all the energy in me, I intend to oppose that kind of pressure upon the activities of this Senate.

Now, Mr. President, the gentleman from Washington has given warning that some of his colleagues are going to take up the phases of the question so liberally and so well stated by him, some time in the future. Let me assure the members of this Senate that the colleagues who will treat the phases of that question in the very near future are not going to be so polite as the gentleman from Washington, but his colleagues are going to name names, are going to name orginizations, and I charge right here and now on the floor of this Senate that the confirmation of those two gentleman is being now prevented by a venal pressure—spelled v-e-n-a-l, and I am emphasizing that because I have chosen that word deliberate and with my full senses, and, Mr. President, I assure you that we are not going to wait much longer before we do name names on this question.

It is the desire of many on the floor of this Senate that these two gentleman nominated to posts on the Liquor Control Board, be brought to the floor of this Senate before the end of next week, and if anything against their moral fitness or other fitness to fill those posts is present, many of us want to know it now, for we are tired and sick of these corrupt and venal pressures brought to bear upon these activities of this Senate by these political bosses and these political organizations hidden in the background.

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 5:00 o'clock, p. m.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDEENT. The time of recess having elasped the Senate will be in order.

An Act to validate and quiet the title to real estate in this Commonwealth held by a foreign corporation unauthorized to hold the same, and heretofore conveyed to a citizen of the United States or a corporation authorized to hold such real estate.

with the information that the House has passed the same without amendments.

HOUSE MESSAGE

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

He also informed the Senate that the House has concurred in Resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, March 17, 1941.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday, March 24, 1941, at 4:30 o'clock, p. m.; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday, March 24, 1941, at 9 o'clock, p. m.

HOUSE CONCURS IN AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE RESOLUTION

He also presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has concurred in amendments made by the Senate to House Resolution, Serial No. 202, as follows:

PRINTING ADDITIONAL COPIES OF THE "FIRST REPORT ON THE TAX AND FINANCIAL PROBLEMS OF THE COMMONWEALTH"

In the House of Representatives, February 26, 1941.

Whereas, The Joint State Government Commission of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania has, within the past few days published its "First Report on the Tax and Financial Problems of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the General Assembly," which contains information and studies of great value to the General Assembly and to the people of the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, The appropriation made for the use of the Joint State Government Commission permits the printing of a limited number of copies only of this report, which will be greatly inadequate to meet the demand for the same; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly hereby authorizes and directs the printing of 2500 additional copies of the "First Report on the Tax and Financial Problems of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the General Assembly by the Joint State Government Commission of The General Assembly," and directs that the cost thereof be charged against the appropriation for printing required by the General Assembly. 1000 of said copies shall be for the use of the Joint State Government Commission.

200TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION OF BIRTH OF THOMAS JEFFERSON

He also informed the Senate that the House has concurred in Resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, March 5, 1941.

Whereas, On April 2, 1943 our Nation will celebrate the 200th Anniversary of the birth of its Luminary of Luminaries, Thomas Jefferson, who by general consent shares only with Dr. Franklin the honor of being the most versatile and accomplished of Americans and whose immortality, to use the expression of Woodrow Wilson, "does not lie in any one of his achievements, but in his attitude toward mankind;" and

Whereas, Preparatory to the celebration of the 200th Anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson, a Bicentennial Commission was established by Congress last year; and

Whereas, In these days of strain and stress, of gloom and vaccilation, a celebration revolving around the immortal draftsman of the Declaration of Independence will result in the reaffirmation of Jefferson's teachings, the salubrious and tonic values whereof have been already universally acknowledged; and

Whereas, The ringing phrases of the Declaration of Independence, intended according to Jefferson's expression "to be an expression of the American mind," are together with Lincoln's Gettysburg speech the greatest monuments of the English language, as well as limpid springs of political rejuvenation, from which our Republic had drunk heretofore and shall continue to deeply drink henceforth; and

Whereas, The February report of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation shows that the last cent of mortgage on Monticello has been paid as a result of its devoted work over a period of eighteen years; and

Whereas, Under the direction of Mr. Fiske Kimball, the most sympathetic and learned scholar in Jeffersonian draftsmanship and archtecture, the interior and exterior of Monticello have been restored and the gardens thereof made beautiful according to Jefferson's plans and drawings, thus restoring to our Nation one of its Shrines; and

Whereas, The preservation and recovery of Jefferson's beautiful historic house and estate at Monticello is a memorable work of patriotism and public spirit, that will enrich not only Virginia but the whole United States of America; now be it therefore

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania appoint a Commission, to be known as the "Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania," to consist of six members, three of whom shall be appointed by the Speaker of the House on the part of the House of Representatives, and three of whom shall be appointed by the Persident Pro Tempore of the Senate on the part of the Senate of the General Assembly, and the task whereof shall consist in evolving plans in collaboration with the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission established by Congress for Pennsylvania's part in the celebration of the 200th Anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson, in order that said plans may be submitted in the form of a report to the General Assembly of Pennsylvania in 1943 for proper action; and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania commend the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation for its work of restoration of the Shrine at Monticello and its pious care thereof, and call upon the citizenry of Pennsylvania to lend its moral and material support thereto.

BILLS SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Samuel S. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

House Bill No. 402, entitled:

An Act providing for the organization, government, discipline, maintenance and regulation of an additional land force to be known as the Pennsylvania Reserve Defense Force, for the defense of the Commonwealth during any period of time in which the National Guard of Pennsylvania or any part thereof shall be in active service of the United States.

NAYS 0

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to explain my vote. I am voting "aye" on this bill, because I am told there are a number of activities which the Governor is anxious to begin in connection with national defense, and I hesitate, because of my objection to this bill, to vote "no" in view of that circumstance, but I should like to make record of the fact that this bill has been, in my opinion, very loosely drawn, in that it gives the Governor the right to disband this committee and then reinstate it again without any provision as to the methods under which it should be reinstated.

I am relying, however, on the fact that this is a matter of national defense, and will be treated accordingly.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 297, as follows:

An Act To further amend section 10 of the act approved the twenty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-one (P. L. 149) entitled "An act imposing a State tax payable by those herein defined as distributors on liquid fuels used or sold and delivered within the Commonwealth which are ordinarily practically and commercially usable in internal combustion engines for the generation of power providing for the collection and lien of the tax and the distribution and use of the proceeds thereof requiring such distributors to secure permits to file corporate surety bonds and reports and to retain certain records imposing duties on retail dealers common carriers county commissioners and such distributors providing for rewards imposing certain costs on counties conferring powers and imposing duties on certain State officers and departments providing for refunds imposing penalties and making an appropriation" by limiting the amount of the liquid fuels tax payable to counties and the uses for which such moneys may be expended

Section 1 That section 10 of the act approved the twenty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 149) entitled "An act imposing a State tax payable by those herein defined as distributors on liquid fuels used or sold and delivered within the Commonwealth which are ordinarily practically and commercially usable in internal combustion engines for the generation of power providing for the collection and lien of the tax and the distribution and use of the proceeds thereof requiring such distributors to secure permits to file corporate surety bonds and reports and to retain certain records imposing duties on retail dealers common carriers county commissioners and such distributors providing for rewards imposing certain costs on counties conferring powers and imposing duties on certain State officers and departments providing for refunds imposing penalties and making an appropriation" as last amended by the act approved the twenty-first day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 635) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 10 Disposition and Use of Tax (a) During each year seven million five hundred thousand dollars ($7,500,000) of the permanent tax collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund of the State Treasury Payments shall be made into such fund each month in the amounts of $625,000 and such moneys paid into said fund are hereby specifically appropriated for the purposes hereinafter set forth

The moneys so paid into the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund except those that are refunded as hereinafter provided shall be paid to the respective counties of this Commonwealth on the first day of June and December of each year in the ratio that the average return made during the three (3) preceding years to each county bears to the average amount returned to all counties for the three preceding years

All moneys received by the counties hereunder shall be used only for the purpose of construction reconstruction maintenance and repair of roads highways and bridges including the payment of property damage now due or hereafter to become due occasioned by or the relocation or construction of highways and bridges and for the payment of interest and sinking fund charges on bonds issued or used for highways and bridge purposes or on so much of any bonds as have been used for such purposes and all such payments heretofore made are hereby validated Any county may reallocate or reappropriate and pay any of the moneys so received under this act to any city borough town or township for road highway or bridge purposes The county commissioners of each county shall make to the department on or before the first day of May and November of each year on forms prescribed prepared and furnished by the department a report showing the receipts and expenditures of such moneys received during the preceding six months by the county from the Commonwealth under the provisions of this section Such reports shall be transmitted to the Department of the Auditor General for audit Upon the failure of the county commissioners to file any such report the department shall withhold further payments to the county out of the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund until the delinquent report is filed

(b) The remainder of the permanent tax collected under the provisions of this act all penalties and interests and all interest earned on deposits of the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund shall be paid into the Motor License Fund and are hereby specifically appropriated for the same purposes for which moneys in the Motor License Fund are appropriated by law

(c) The entire amount of the additional emergency tax of one cent per gallon or fractional part thereof collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the State Treasury by and through the department and all such tax paid into the State Treasury shall be credited to the General Fund

Section 2 This act shall become effective on the first day of June one thousand nine hundred and forty-one

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, in view of the importance of this bill, I feel that I should make some remark concerning it. It is an endeavor to aid, in a measure, the over burdened tax payer in the cities—and when I say cities, I mean all of the cities of the Commonwealth, cities of the first class, second class, second class A, third class cities, towns and all of the boroughs and townships of the first class, as well as townships of the second class and the counties.

Mr. President, from information which I have received from the Highway Department, I am advised that there are at present on the state highway system 40,522 miles of roads; in the second class townships, there are 44,564 miles of road; there are 1,047 miles of county roads; 1,634 miles of first class township roads; 5,899 miles of borough streets or roads; and 5,723 miles of roads in third class cities.

I would call to the attention of the members of the Senate that there are 13,256 miles of roads in the Commonwealth found in townships of the first class, in the boroughs, and in all of the cities which do not now receive any share of the liquid fuel tax fund. Of the 67 counties in the state, but 15 of those counties have any county roads.

Allegheny County has 493.77 miles;
Beaver County has 19.22 miles;
Blair County has 47.45 miles;
Cambria County has 5.28 miles;
Centre County has 7.17 miles;
Clearfield County has 2.45 miles;
Fayette County has 63.54 miles;
Jefferson County has 1.82 miles;
Lackawanna County has 2.05 miles;
Luzerne County has 102.39 miles;
Montgomery County has 70.07 miles;
Pike County has 3.98 miles;
Washington County has 65.71 miles;
Wayne County has 6.71 miles;
Westmoreland County has 76.44 miles of roads.

Now, Mr. President, in order to keep up the county roads, the Legislature heretofore has provided that one-half cent of the gasoline tax shall be refunded to the counties in support of these county roads. I have before me the amounts allocated each year from 1921 until 1940, inclusive; I am not going to read those figures, but this paper or chart will be available to any member of the Senate who desires to see it.

I have before me, Mr. President, a report which shows the number of gallons of gasoline on which the one-half cent tax was paid to the counties beginning with the year 1922.

In 1922 the number of gallons was 290,398,730 and that has increased every year until in 1940 the amount was 1,575,077,718 gallons.

Mr. President, Senate Bill No. 297 is an amendment to the act of 1931, Pamphlet Laws 149, and I quote from section 10 on page 158: "Disposition and Use of Taxes. One half cent per gallon of the tax collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the liquid fuel tax fund by the State Treasurer and such monies paid into said fund are hereby specifically appropriated for the purposes hereinafter set forth."

In 1938 the number of gallons of gasoline sold in Pennsylvania was 1,397,068,219, and in 1939 the gallonage was 1,476,077,410 gallons or an increase of 5.5 per cent.

In 1940, the gallonage was 1,575,077,718, an increase in 1940 over 1939 of 6.7 per cent.

The estimated revenue to be obtained on the three cents gas tax for the year 1941, not taking the increase of 6.7 per cent, but merely a five per cent increase, would amount to 1,653,831,603 gallons.

In 1942 there should be sold in Pennsylvania 1,736,523,183 gallons. There was available in 1939 and 1940, $91,534,653 from the three cents tax on the gasoline sold in 1939 and 1940. That money was distributed as follows:

To the counties was paid the sum of $15,256,000
To the townships was paid the sum of .....$ 8,500,000
Leaving to the State Highway Department $67,778,653

This bill, Mr. President, instead of appropriating the one-half cent per gallon on all of the gas sold in Pennsylvania to the counties, freezing the amount of seven and one-half million dollars a year, that of course is a reduction in the amount which the counties will receive, but it is an amount larger than the counties have ever received heretofore, and inasmuch as the needs of the counties are somwhat static, that is, there is no appreciable number of roads being added to the county highway system, it is believed that seven and one-half million dollars a year will be adequate for county purposes.

Now, Mr. President, under the estimated yield for 1941 and 1942, there should be realized from this three cents tax on gasoline sold in the state, the sum of $101,710,643.

Distributing that money under Senate Bills Nos. 297 and 298, the money would be distributed for the biennium as follows:

To the counties $15,000,000;
To all municipalities $15,000,000;
And to the Highway Department $71,710,643

In other words, it will be seen, Mr. President, that the Highway Department will receive in 1941 and 1942, an amount of approximately four million dollars more than it had in 1939 and 1940, and in addition thereto, Mr. President, I want to call your attention to a statement which I have received from the Department of Revenue, giving the amounts received for the years 1938, 1939, and 1940 from commercial motor truck and tractors licenses, manufacturers, jobbers and dealers licenses, motor bus and omnibus licenses, motorcycle and motorbicycle licenses, motor vehicle licenses, tractor licenses, trailer and semi-trailer licenses, transfer of registration fees.

The receipts for the year ending May 31, 1938, were $29,977,683.22;
For the year ending May 31, 1939, the receipts were $30,407,003.05;
For the year ended May 31, 1940, the receipts were .....$31,911,567.44.

In other words, Mr. President, you will note that the receipts have increased each year almost one million dollars over the preceding year.

The receipts from operators' licenses for the year ended May 31, 1938, were $3,290,487.50;
For the year ending May 31, 1939 the receipts were $3,104,143.00;
For the year ending May 31, 1940 the receipts were .....$3,299,878.50.

Mr. President, the members of the local government commission together with other interested parties, citizens of the state, representatives, particularly of the State Association of Boroughs, State Association of Townships and the State Association of Cities of the Third Class, have cooperated in the preparation of this bill, and one thing that the committee had always in mind was not to do anything that would tend to upset the program of the Highway Department. We know and realize that Pennsylvania has, as was stated, 40,522 miles in the state highway system, and in the State of New York I believe they have something like twelve thousand miles, in their state highway system. So, Mr. President, we realize that the State Highway Department has a big job in looking after these forty odd thousand miles of road, and in the preparation of this bill we were careful to see that the townships of the second class received approximately what they have been receiving; likewise we have taken care to see that the counties receive as much as they have ever received heretofore, and as I have pointed out, the Highway Department will have as much money available during the next biennium as it ever had in the past, and they will have more.

Now, Mr. President, I want to remind my colleagues that much has been said about home rule on this floor, and much has been said about the overburdened taxpayer. Like Mark Twain said about the weather, "We do a lot of talking about it but we don't do much about it," and now is our opportunity, it seems to me, and I would respectfully ask my colleagues to support the bill.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Blair.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Blair permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MALLERY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I should like to ask the gentleman from Blair how this bill changes the existing law?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I presume the gentleman from Washington refers to Senate Bill No. 297?

Mr. REED. Yes, the bill we are voting on at the present time.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, under the existing law, the counties receive one-half cent a gallon on all gasoline sold in Pennsylvania. Under this bill the amount will be fixed, as I have just stated, and as the figures show, the gallonage has increased each year. In 1940 it increased 6.7 per cent over the number of gallons sold in 1939. Instead of the counties receiving the increase each year, the amount will be frozen at $7,500,000, so as to enable some distribution to all of the cities, and the boroughs and the first-class townships, which are not receiving anything from the Liquid Fuel Tax Fund.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, under this amended bill, what provision is there that a certain township will get any part of that $7,500,000?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, that is taken care of in Senate Bill No. 298. Under that bill, $7,500,000 a year will be allocated to all of the cities, the boroughs, the towns and townships of the first and second classes, on the basis of sixty-five per cent of the number of miles in each municipality, and on the basis of thirty-five per cent of the population.

Might I say to the Senator from Washington that there is nothing scientific about this. That percentage was arrived at in order to give the townships substantially what they are receiving now. The sponsors of the bill do not claim there is anything scientific to the bill; it is a practical bill. We feel that the townships are entitled to and deserve the amount they are getting, and that is the reason this formula of sixty-five and thirty-five was adopted.

Mr. REED. Still another question, Mr. President. Suppose the first bill passes and the second bill falls?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I might say to the Senator from Washington these are companion bills, and if they do not both pass, neither one should pass.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the purpose of this bill is laudable and I am satisfied that the motives of the sponsors are proper and sincere, but I do not share their optimism that the appropriation of this money will work any reduction in the taxes of the property owners.

We have been in the past led in the belief that the grading of appropriations to townships and other municipalities would result in a lowering of taxes to home owners, but a careful survey of those appropriations will disclose how far mistaken we were in our beliefs.

Mr. President, in 1937, we passed a law that abolished what we then called the county homes, and created institution districts, and the hue and cry for the abolition of county homes was that it would result in a lowering of taxes to the property owners. All we need to do today is to survey our surroundings and check up on whether or not the abolition of the county homes brought any relief to the property owners. We will find that instead of lowering taxes in many of the institution districts, taxes have been jacked up, have increased.

Mr. President, in 1937 we enacted an appropriation bill appropriating money out of the motor fund for township aid. The purpose of that bill was to help reduce the taxes on real estate; it was the intention of the legislators that this contribution to townships would be reflected in a lowering of taxes to the property owners, but in order to make sure that that purpose was achieved, there was included in that appropriation bill the provision that before a township could share in the appropriation they had to show that their levy was not over seven mills.

In 1939 we made a similar appropriation for aid to the townships, and I opposed that appropriation because it did not contain a provision similar to the one in 1937. Mr. President, the law as it now stands does not prohibit the township supervisors from increasing the millage or levy.

Here we have another bill, and as I have stated, the purpose is laudable and I think the sponsors are properly motivated, and their optimism is that it will be reflected in a lowering of taxes to the property owners. I think that the ultimate purpose of this bill will never be realized, because the bill does not contain any provision that before a county may share in the appropriation, they shall see to it that there is some reduction in the taxes to the home owners and the property owners. There is no use in chiding ourselves at all. What will result is this: the appropriation is made, the money will be apportioned to the counties, the county commissioners will be the ones who will say how it shall be spent, because section ten on page sixty specifically says that any county may reallocate, reappropriate or pay any of the moneys so received under this act, to any city, borough, town or township for road, highway or bridge purposes. There is no compulsion or any duty upon the county commissioners to reallocate or reapportion the money. What will result here will be that we will put into the hands of politicians, and I trust that there will not be much serious contention, especially whenever we keep in mind the remarks of the gentleman from Washington this morning, of how the county commissioners are organized into a powerful pressure group at the expense of the taxpayers, that those county commissioners are angels and they are not politicians, and the result of this appropriation will just mean that more money is put into the hands of politicians who will spend it, not to reduce the taxes on real estate, never will this money be reflected in any reduction of taxes to the home owners at all, but it will be used to create more political jobs for politicians in this Commonwealth.

However, Mr. President, I took a chance on the other bills and know the results. I am willing to take another chance although I feel certain that the home owners or the property owners will never derive one single benefit from the payment of this money to the counties. This money will never be reflected in any lowering of taxes.

Mr. President, I have made these remarks in order to explain my vote. I will vote for the bill, intend to vote for it, but I am certain it will not be reflected in any savings to the real estate owners of the counties.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 300 on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend subsection (h) of section one hundred two of the act approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (Pamphlet Laws seven hundred ninety-seven), entitled "An act to establish a Bureau of Forest Protection within the Department of Forestry; designating the officers who shall constitute the Bureau, their duties and salaries; prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; and repealing all laws, general, special, or local, or any parts thereof, that may be inconsistent with or supplied by this act," authorizing the Department of Forests and Waters to dispose of telephone lines by sale or lease.

be recommitted to the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish for the purpose of amendment.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I would like to have the indulgence of the sponsor of this bill, and ask that it be recommitted to committee for the purpose of amendment.

I would like to call the attention of the Senate to the fact that this bill gives the Department of Forests, Waters, Game and Fish the right to sell any telephone lines or parts thereof that they may have in forest preserves.

I understand the Department of Forests, Waters, Game and Fish has about nine hundred miles of obsolete lines that are expensive to maintain and replace, and they are asking authority to sell it and install a much better service at a much cheaper rate.

Unfortunately, Mr. President, in this bill there is not the same provision we find in the administrative code; where other departments are permitted to sell or exchange or destroy property. Every other department under the administrative code has this provision in it, that it must be with the approval of the Governor, and there is obsolutely no check up in this bill to protect the Commonwealth in case the Department of Forests, Waters, Game and Fish would sell these lines for less than their value or sell lines that they really need and replace them with public utility lines.

Mr. President, with the indulgence of the sponsor of this bill, I move that Senate Bill No. 300 be recommitted to the Committee on Forests, Waters, Game and Fish in order that there may be inserted in this bill the proper amendment.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and were as follows, viz:

SENATE BILL No. 268 CALLED UP

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resume consideration of Senate Bill No. 268, which went over in its order.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 268, as follows:

An Act to further amend section three hundred one of the act approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws 789) entitled as amended "An act relating to insurance establishing an insurance department and amending revising and consolidating the law relating to the licensing qualification regulation examination suspension and dissolution of insurance companies Lloyds associations reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges and certain societies and orders the examination and regulation of fire insurance rating bureaus and the licensing and regulation of insurance agents and brokers the service of legal process upon foreign insurance companies associations or exchanges providing penalties and repealing existing laws" further regulating the computation of the reserve liability of life insurance companies and the issuance of life insurance policies

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows.

Section 1 Section three hundred one of the act approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws 789) entitled as amended "An act relating to insurance establishing an insurance department and amending revising and consolidating the law relating to the licensing qualification regulation examination suspension and dissolution of insurance companies Lloyds associations reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges and certain societies and orders the examination and regulation of fire insurance rating bureaus and the licensing and regulation of insurance agents and brokers the service of legal process upon foreign insurance companies associations or exchanges providing penalties and repealing existing laws" as amended in part by the act approved the twenty-sixth day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (Pamphlet Laws 793) is hereby further amended to read as follows.

Section 301 Computation of Reserve Liability The Insurance Commissioner shall each year compute the reserve liability as of the thirty-first day of December of the preceding year of every company authorized to make insurance on lives in this Commonwealth in accordance with the terms of the policy contract and rules following

(a) The net value of all outstanding policies of life insurance issued by the company prior to the first day of January one thousand eight hundred and ninety shall be computed upon the basis of the American experience table of mortality with interest at not less than four and one-half and not more than six per centum per annum.

(b) The net value of all outstanding policies issued between the first day of January one thousand eight hundred and ninety and the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and three on the combined experience or actuaries' table of mortality with interest at four per centum per annum.

(c) The net value of all outstanding policies of life insurance issued on and after the first day of January nineteen hundred and three on the American experience table of mortality with interest at three and one-half per centum per annum Provided however That any company may value its group term insurance policies under which premium rates are not guaranteed for a period in excess of five years according to the American men ultimate table of mortality with interest at three and one-half per centum per annum.

(d) The net value of all policies of life insurance issued on and after January first one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one where the premiums are payable monthly or oftener shall be valued according to the American experience table of mortality with interest at three and one-half per centum per annum But any company may voluntarily value its industrial policies according to the standard industrial mortality table with interest at three and one-half per centum per annum

The net value of a policy at any time shall be taken to be the single net premium which will at that time effect the insurance less the value at that time of the future net premiums called for by the table of mortality and rate of interest designated

The legal minimum standard for valuation of annuities issued after January one one thousand nine hundred and twelve shall be McClintock's table of mortality among annuitants with interest at three and one-half per centum per annum but annuities deferred ten or more years and written in connection with life or term insurance shall be valued upon the same mortality table from which the consideration or premiums were computed with interest not higher than three and one-half per centum per annum

Any such company may however at any time elect under any of its policies of life insurance to reserve on the American experience table of mortality with a lower rate of interest but at a rate not less than two per centum or on the American men ultimate table of mortality (with such modification and extension below age twenty as may be approved by the Insurance Commissioner) with interest at a rate not more than three and one-half per centum and not less than two per centum and its obligations under such policies shall thereafter be valued accordingly

The aggregate net value so ascertained of the policies of any such life insurance company shall be deemed its reserve liability to provide for which it shall hold funds in secure investments of an amount equal to such net value above all its other liabilities The Insurance Commissioner shall after having determined as above the net value of all the policies in force see that the company has that amount in safe legal securities after all its other debts and claims against it have been provided for The provisions of this section for the valuation of policies and for premium rates shall not apply to companies or associations transacting business on the mutual assessment plan

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 50, entitled:

An Act providing that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its political subdivisions employ only citizens of the United States.

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I offer the following amendment and move its immediate adoption.

The amendment was read as follows:

Amend, page 1, between lines 5 and 6, after the word "States" and before the word "Section", by inserting the following: "or who has not been a resident of the United States for the past ten years or who has not taken out first citizenship papers to become a citizen of the United States."

Mr. CROWE. I object, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I second the motion.

Mr. KEPHART. I withdraw the amendment.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I withdraw my seconding of the motion.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 50 on second reading go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

It is so ordered.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise on a question of parlimentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I should like to inquire as to the exact status of Senate Bill No. 50. As I understand it the amendment offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia has been withdrawn and the bill will go over in its order, on second reading.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair so understands.

MOTION TO READ BILLS THE FIRST TIME

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of all bills reported from committees for the first time at today's session.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 343, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the twenty-eighth day of April, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 417), entitled "An act relating to milk and the products thereof; creating a Milk Control Commission: establishing its jurisdiction, powers and duties; regulating the production, transportation, manufacture, processing, storage, distribution, delivery and sale of milk and certain products thereof; providing for the licensing of milk dealers and the payment of fees therefor; requiring milk dealers to file bonds to secure payment for milk to producers and certain milk dealers; authorizing the holding of hearings and the issuance of subpoenas by the commission; conferring jurisdiction upon courts to punish contempts and to prohibit violations of this act and of rules, regulations and orders of the commission; authorizing the commission to adopt rules, regulations and orders, and to enter into interstate and Federal compacts; requiring persons who weigh, measure, sample or test milk to produce permits or certificates, to take examinations, to pay fees therefor, to furnish certain notices, records and statements, and to use certain methods of weighing, measuring, sampling and testing; authorizing the commission to examine the business, papers and premises of milk dealers and producers, requiring the keeping of records and the filing of reports by milk dealers, and permitting, with limitations, the use of information obtained thereby; authorizing the commission to fix prices for milk and certain milk products subject to the approval of the Governor, and conferring certain powers upon the Governor with respect thereto; providing for appeals to the courts from decisions of the commission, and for the burden of proof upon such appeals; prescribing penalties, fines and imprisonment for violations of this act, and rules, regulations and orders of the commission; dening perjury, defining remedies, repealing legislation supplied and superseded by this act, and saving rights, duties, and proceedings thereunder; and making appropriations," by providing that milk delivered or made available, or received or handled on consignment, or otherwise, shall be subject to all the provisions of said act; further defining the power of the commisison to fix minimum prices to be paid producers for milk; defining certain violations of said act; and providing that milk dealers shall be held responsible for actions of persons employed by or acting for them.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,
Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The CHAIR. If there is no objection, the gentleman from Warren may proceed.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE UNITED STATES?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Recently I sat in a group listening to a radio broadcast of the British Broadcasting Company. The announcer told of the landing of an invisible army in France from airplanes. Men of France who had fled to England and who were now returning to their native land to bolster morale and also to send word to the British of conditions there. I remarked, "An army of Nathan Hales." In the group was a young man twenty years of age, a high school graduate now attending a business college. "Nathan Hale?" said he, "Who was Nathan Hale?" Somewhat astounded I waited for others in the group to answer and out of three High School graduates only one knew the story of Nathan Hale.

Pursuing the matter still, I spoke in another group of how Robert E. Lee led the Blue on the march through Georgia and my statements went unquestioned by the group of young people until an older man smilingly said, "Senator yu misspoke, didn't you? Didn't Sherman lead that march to the sea?"

These instances have caused me wonder and to ponder on why our young people are so woefully ignorant of American history. These are not isolated cases. I have tested it again and again and I urge that all within hearing of my voice do the same.

Is it our schools? Is it the reading matter available to the young people now or is it our way of life with its many activities that preclude the time to reading of our land, of the deeds of its heroes? It is something to cause a tinge of fear in the heart.

Perhaps it is the spirit of commercialism abroad in the land. I was told just a few days ago of a bell boy, twenty-one years of age, in a large hotel who while talking with others of the Quisling's of Norway and of their selling out to the German remarked, "That's all right, isn't it? They got well paid for it." How far has that thought imbedded itself in the youth of our land? For the old Proverb is still true that "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

And thinking along this line I recalled the Fourth of July celebrations when I was a lad. The reading of the Declaration of Independence was always a big feature and then some local orator gave a patriotic address and later a parade and a balloon ascension. And now at how many celebrations is the bulwark of our liberties read? I feel that perhaps we are living too fast and that into our thought is being spread by calculating groups ideas that are not truely American.

I feel that there is room to return to the old time text books that gave attention to our land, its heroes and its ways of life. The town meeting that once held sway could readily be again summoned to order in every corner of our land. We need faith!

Are we too far from the soil to revere and love our native land? Have we forsaken home for the automobile and have we paraphrased the good old song, "My auto, 'tis of thee?" How many men and women today have in their hearts the love of liberty that would cause them to lay down their lives for it? I see a need for patriotism in this land of ours. Not lip service but deeds. It has been pointed out within the past few days that we are following the path that led France to its doom. Plenty of appropriations, plenty of cheers, plenty of plans but poor production. The safety of the nation lies not only in ships, guns, planes and ammunition but in the hearts of our people.

Are we inclined to "let George do it?" Have we grown smug and greedy and grasping? France was filled with strikes that tied up vital defense schemes and left the door open to the dictators. God forbid that we follow the same course here! I shudder when I pick up my papers and read that defense production is not up to program. Every man, woman and child in our fair land should sit down and think of what befell the fourteen nations of Europe that are now raped by the dictators, its gold stolen and the people slaves to the Hitler gangsters.

I appeal for a revival of the spirit of Americanism. The spirit that made men free. For the love of country that will cause a man to leave all and follow the flag. There are thousands of young men who are doing that very thing. Our navy quota is being filled by enlistments of the sturdy men of the nation. God bless them! Uncle Sam needs the loyal support of his nephews.

And to the end that insidious words and deeds do not undermine their efforts every citizen who loves the Stars and Stripes must constitute himself an officer to see that sabotage and propaganda are quickly handled. Our State is fortunate in having its splendid State Police. This group of highly trained and efficient men is small and somehow I feel that more men could be used to deal with subversive elements. Major Lynn G. Adams, tried and true, is a great leader of this force and his hands should be upheld by all in the war on crime and Un-American forces.

People without jobs are especial prey of the Red and the Nazi and the Fascist. It is our duty to aid in every way in the encouragement of industry to afford the jobs needed. Our Department of Commerce has aided in bringing to Pennsylvania scores of new industries and has helped to hold the ones that threatened to leave the State. Let its efforts be redoubled. The survey under way to locate idle plants, idle machines and idle men will be a great help in the putting of men to work. Our road building program will soon be under way and it will absorb more and more. We must find work for idle hands to do.

Today one of our biggest problems is the handling of malcontents, misguided and deluded people who have absorbed ideologies that are not American. I feel that over our land must go sweeping a great revival of American teachings, of the tales of our heroes (too often besmirched by the smart debunkers of present day literature) and of the love of country. Give us men unfettered in mind, heart and soul who place country first above all petty political bickering. Let there be more of the spirit of Decatur who said, "Right or wrong—My Country."

RESOLUTION MEMORIALIZING STUDENT CONGRESS

Mr. COX. Mr. President, because of the lateness of the hour, I will speak very briefly to explain the resolution I am about to introduce at this time.

Mr. President, on March 7th and 8, 1941, the California State Teachers College, of California, Pennsylvania, held the second session of the Annual Student Congress of the Western Pennsylvania District of the National Forensic League.

This, Mr. President, is an attempt on the part of the Forensic League to give practical experience to the students of the high schools of Pennsylvania in their form of government. It has a Senate with representatives from the various high schools, it has a House of Representatives, there are pages, there is a Speaker of the House, there is a President Pro Tempore of the Senate, there is a majority leader and a minority leader.

Mr. President, this was one of the most interesting things I have ever witnessed from the standpoint of practical education, and it was an amazing thing.

Several years ago Senator Reed was invited to this Congress and acted as the Governor of Pennsylvania. I this year was invited to act as the Governor of Pennsylvania, and I think that is a pretty rapid promotion, gentlemen—ten weeks in the Senate and then the Governor for two days.

It was all so very unsual, due to the fact that the Senate and the House in this Student Congress both had a majority of Republicans, which, of course, gave me the opporunity of vetoing many bills which I would not have the oportunity to veto here.

It seems to me, Mr. President, that this assembly is a great contrast to another assembly which was held in the Senate chambers of this Commonwealth that week. I refer of course to the hearing which was held here on the so-called Anti-Communist bill, and when I saw the freshness, the vigor, the vitality and the avidity with which those youngsters seriously approached their duties as senators and as representatives, I was amazed, and I thought then and I know that you will agree with me that when a person has reached maturity, that they have become so embiterted, so defeated by their life up until that time, there is not much that we can do about it, but with those people, of course, they are plastic, they are idealists, they have great energy and tremendous interest, and, Mr. President, anything that we in the Senate can do to encourage them, I feel should be done.

For that purpose, Mr. President, I present the following resolution and I move its immediate adoption.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to have the opportunity to second the motion made by the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Cox and particularly so, because I have a high school in my district, the Glassport High School, which was fortunate enough to participate in the congress which the gentleman just mentioned.

Mr. COX offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 18, 1941.

Whereas, On March 7 and 8, 1941, at California State Teachers' College, California, Pennsylvania, was held the second session of the Annual Student Congress of the Western Pennsylvania District of the National Forensic League, and

Whereas, Students representing high schools from Beaverdale, Bentleyville, Brownsville, California, Cumberland Township, Centerville, Charleroi, Derry Township, East Pike Run, Glassport, Monessen, Hurst of Mount Pleasant Township, Munhall, Point Marion, St. Vincent, Waynesburg, and West View participated in this Congress, and

Whereas, This Congress affords training for more than 150 high school students in the proper methods of legislative procedure, and

Whereas, It is necessary in these perilous times that the citizens of the United States do their utmost to insure the Democratic form of government for the future citizens of this nation. Therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concur),That the Sponsors of this Student Congress together with the students themselves be highly commended for their efforts to preserve democracy, and be it further

Resolved, That it is the sentiment of the Assembly of Pennsylvania that the Student Congress be continued and, if possible, broadened to include a larger number of students, and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to all schools participating in the Student Congress and to every student who took part.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, because of the great number of students and sponsors participating in the Student Congress I did not include their names in the resolution. I would ask permission at this time to have their names included in the Legislative Journal.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection it is so ordered.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I also ask that the resolution be printed.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection it is so ordered.

RESOLUTION PROCLAIMING MARCH 25TH AS HELLENIC DAY IN PENNSYLVANIA

Mr. BARR offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 18, 1941.

Whereas, "The Glory that was Greece," is a term well known to educated men the world over. Greece of antiquity was the cradle of our civilization. From Greece we have derived our laws, our literature, our art, our concepts of justice and of the dignity of man. Indeed, Greece belongs to all mankind;

Whereas, that treasured pearl of our language, the word democracy, meaning the rule of the people, is derived from the ancient Greek, Democracy was founded in ancient Athens. When Greece of the early Christian era, the home of so many Saints, Fathers and Doctors of the Church, fell to the pagan conqueror, the word democracy vanished through the ages to be revived by our own glorious nation at its foundation.

Whereas, on March 25, 1821, the Greece of modern times became an independent nation through the never-ending faith, hope, and courage of her people. In the century that followed, Greece all too often has been the battle ground of nations, but the spirit of indominable courage of the Lacedaemonians at Thermopylaie has been handed down through centuries. Indeed, the word Spartan is synonymous with courage. Today, Greece again struggles to maintain her liberty and freedom as a nation; she defends not only her soil, but those classical treasures of antiquity of which she is the world's custodian; once ruined in the havoc of modern war, they can never be restored. It is to be hoped that when peace is restored that the nations of the world will remember the "Glory that is Greece" and restore all Greek territory to the blue and white cross of St. George.

Whereas, the Greeks have been associated with the United States since the early days of the Republic. In 1804 the first challenge to our infant nation embroiled us in war with the Barbary States of Northern Africa. Our slogan of that day, "Millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute," brought us the respect of the nations of the world. The slogan is still valid in our day! Our young navy crossed the seas and wrote glorious chapters of our history under Decatur and Bainbridge. Wars are not won by naval victories alone; our infant republic could not send a military expedition across the seas. However, a military force was organized under the command of General William Eaton, U.S.A., and Colonel Tobias Lear who had been military secretary to George Washington: this force was composed mainly of Greeks supported by a small force of Neapolitan gunners. These Greek Companies fought valiantly alongside the United States Marines. Their repeated assaults brought the war to a successful conclusion in 1805 by the capture of the Tripolitan Capitol of Derne. Our Greek companies were repeatedly mentioned in the dispatches for their courage and sacrifice. Thus General Eaton in his dispatch to Commodore Samuel Barron concerning the assault on Derne on April 29, 1805, states, "Our forces ashore successfully assaulted Deren, led by Patrick N. O5Bannon of the Marines along with our Greek companies. The loss in killed and wounded this day were mostly Greeks. They well supported their ancient character." Thus the Greeks made the supreme sacrifice and contributed their lives in the early days of our republic.

Whereas, people of Greek origin or descent have greatly contributed to the progress of the United States as citizens of the republic. They have been loyal, progressive and law abiding. They have entered the various phases of American life and contributed greatly thereto. They have been noted for their community spirit in matters of charity and human kindness. Their campaign in education for American citizenship has been outstanding. In the early days of our present economic depression, having engaged extensively in the food trades in the United States, they willingly fed thousands of persons out of their love for their fellow man before either private or governmental social agencies could bring themselves to the realization of the catastrophe that had overtaken us.

Whereas, a campaign is now in progress in the United States for the purpose of raising funds for the distressed women and children of Greece. Such relief as has been afforded has been most thankfully received. The campaign has been conducted with dignity and restraint. Our citizens of Hellenic origin have steadfastly refused to indulge in a campaign of recrimination and hate, or tell us what we should do on their behalf. This is eminently befitting an ancient and cultured people. They realize that our nation is derived from many peoples and that our national unity is of paramount importance. Now be it therefore

Resolved, (if the House concur), That the Legislature of this state acknowledge the contribution made to our nation by persons of Hellenic origin by endorsing the celebration of Greek Independence Day on March 25th as Hellenic Day, and be it further

Resolved, (if the H. R. concur), that his Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania shall issue, publish and declare an appropriate proclamation to the people of Pennsylvania, designating for observance this year, the twenty-fifth day of March, as Hellenic Day.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

ERRATUM

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I desire to make a correction in the Legislative Journal, on page 671 in the left hand column, line 30, where it shows. "three hundred appendices." It is impossible to have three hundred appendices in a report; it should have been three appendices.

I therefore, Mr. President, ask that the Journal be corrected from three hundred to three appendices.

The PRESIDENT. The correction will be noted.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Wednesday, March 19, 1941, at 11:00 o'clock, a. m.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to,

The Senate adjourned at 6:30 o'clock, p. m., until Wednesday, March 19, 1941, at 11:00 o'clock, a. m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, March 18, 1941

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The SPEAKER. Prayer will be offered by the Rev. Percy R. Stockman, Dean of the Episcopal Convocation of North Philadelphia, who is the guest of the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Stockham. The invocation will be delivered by Rev. Stockman at the invitation of the Chaplain of the House.

The Rev. PERCY R. STOCKMAN, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray. Almighty God, the author and giver of all good, without whom nothing is strong, nothing is holy, enable us in all things to commit our ways unto thee, that Thou being our ruler and guide, we may so pass from things temporal and enjoy things eternal.

Be with the President of these United States, the Governor of this great Commonwealth of ours, and all others in authority in these very serious times of great international and national import. Especially we pray for those engaged in this Legislative Assembly, that their deliberations may be for the well being of all our people and their law making be found in accord with Thy eternal good.

To the honor and glory of Thy holy name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when on motion of Mr. ALLMOND, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. HOUSE BILL No. 876.

An Act to amend the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2051), entitled "An act relating to public assistance; providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children, aged persons, blind persons and other persons requiring relief; providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose; authorizing the Department of Public Assistance to cooperate with, and to accept and disburse moneys received from, the United States Government for assistance to such persons; providing for the liquidation of the State Emergency Relief Board, Boards of Trustees of the Mothers' Assistance Fund, and Boards of Trustees of Pension Fund for the Blind; and repealing laws relating to mothers' assistance, pensions for the blind, old age assistance, and the State Emergency Relief Board," as amended, by regulating the use or disclosure of public assistance lists and records, and adding to penal provisions.

Referred to the Committee on Welfare.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. EDWIN A. LEE. RESOLUTION No. 55.

In the House of Representatives, March 18, 1941.

On January 7th, this House of Representatives passed a resolution extending its thanks to the Honorable Ellwood J. Turner for his untiring efforts in securing additional facilities and comforts for the members and officers of the House.

Among the improvements brought about through his efforts, was the remodeling and refurnishing of the suite of offices occupied by the Speaker of the House, but this suite still lacks the embellishments that form so important a part in the decorative scheme of offices occupied by officials of the Executive branch of the State Government.

In order that there shall no longer exist this difference between the Executive and Legislative branches, arrangements should be made to hang on the walls of the Speaker's office portraits of the Speakers of this House, starting from the time of its remodeling, and nothing could be more appropriate than having the first portrait to be placed therein, that of the Speaker responsible for the improvements; therefore be it

Resolved, That this House hereby suggests to the Appropriations Committee of the House that, in the preparation of the General Appropriation Bill, the following item should be inserted therein:

For the payment of the cost of painting a portrait of former Speaker Ellwood J. Turner to be placed in the office of the Speaker of the House in the Capitol Building, the sum of seven hundred and fifty dollars ($750); and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk to the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 17, 1941.

Whereas, Principles of free government are being assailed throughout the earth; and

Whereas, the flag of the United States is a symbol of American liberties and privileges; and

Whereas, this flag is an inspiration to all citizens and an assurance that the privileges of liberty are everywhere present in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur) That the American flag shall be displayed in every public office in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and in every institution receiving state aid; and be it further

Resolved, that all private factories, stores and commercial institutions be requested to comply with the spirit and purpose of this resolution.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section four of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (P. L. 1024) entitled "An act to protect the public health and welfare by regulating the employment of females in certain establishments with respect to their hours of labor and the conditions of their employment by establishing certain sanitary regulations in the establishments in which they work by requiring certain abstracts and notices to be posted by providing for the enforcement of this act by the Commissioner of Labor and Industry and others by prescribing penalties for violations thereof by defining the procedure in prosecutions and by repealing all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions thereof" as amended by the act approved the ninth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 306) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 4 No female shall be employed or permitted to work in any manufacturing establishment before the hour of six o'clock in the morning or after the hour of ten o'clock in the evening of any day [except that in manufacturing establishments operating not more than two shifts females may be employed between the hours of six o'clock in the morning and twelve o'clock midnight Provided That employment in such cases shall not exceed eight (8) consecutive hours in any one day (exclusive of meal period) or five (5) days in any one week The provisions of] Provided That this section shall not apply to managers superintendents or persons doing clerical or stenographic work

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, this bill amends the law to permit the employment of women in certain establishments between the hours of ten and twelve o'clock in the evening. Two years ago the law was amended to permit the employment of women between the hours of ten and twelve o'clock in the evening in certain establishments, particularly manufacturing establishments. At that time it was pointed out that it would be an advantage to industry and would not do any serious harm to labor in any respect to pass that legislation.

I have made inquiries of the Department of Labor and Industry and of the Department of Commerce concerning the effect of this legislation, and although they have received in each department, thousands and thousands of letters complaining about most everything in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, I understand they have received no complaint, or any communication, objecting to the operation of the law as it was passed in the session of 1939.

They tell me that particularly in certain defense industries women are much more competent in certain routine inspection work than men, either because they have more patience than we do or from some inherent physical ability they are able to make routine inspections time after time on the same type of work with a much greater degree of efficiency than most men can. As industry is now being stepped up, and as we cannot foresee in the future how necessary it is going to be to extend it even beyond anything we may now consider, it seems to me it is foolish for us at this time to hamstring the possibilities of employing women during two separate working shifts in the manufacturing establishments. No state in this great country of ours will be depended upon to produce in the defense industries like the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. No state has the resources, has the trained people, has the manufacturing establishments to produce the materials for defense that we have. We should not hamstring these industries by passing legislation which will prevent them from employing women during those two extra hours, which means not only employment during those two hours, but means employment during a second shift. There will be a great number of men who will be called out of industry for the service. There will be a great number of men who will be called out of industry to carry out certain phases of government work. There will be a great number of men who will be called out of particular types of industry to accept positions in other types of industry which they as men, alone can do. Those places must be filled. They must be filled by people who are competent to carry out the type of work these men do and which the defense program demands.

For these reasons it seems to me it would be foolish at this time to pass this type of legislation and I think that this House should defeat this bill.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I come here today and ask for the passage of House Bill No. 93. This bill in the form as presented to the House will put us back to the 1913 act. I recall very vividly the picture which was painted in this House in 1939 by the then Republican majority. They came before this Legislature and asked that this particular bill be amended so that they could extend the working time until twelve o'clock midnight in plants of industrial production. Their arguments on the amendments were of this nature, that they had industries waiting on the border of our Commonwealth, that were going to come into this Commonwealth to build factories and mills and were going to solve the unemployment problem of this Commonwealth. I ask any member of the House has this materialized? Has the Department of Commerce through this particular amendment of the 1913 act brought industry into the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania? I do not believe they can show one iota as to where this has been done.

There are several reasons why I can ask for the repeal of this particular act. I can argue it on health standards, labor standards, working conditions and a number of other things that I do not care to mention at this time. I feel that the amendment in 1939 was just a part of an entire program dovetailed to break down labor standards in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. At that particular time we asked for a public hearing on this bill and it was granted. I recall very vividly that the only persons who came before the Labor Committee, in sponsorship of the amendments to the act of 1913 were the Chamber of Commerce in Philadelphia and the then Secretary of the Department of Commerce of Pennsylvania, Mr. Brown. Mr. Lewis failed to take a stand on this bill. Some of the Members who were for the bill spoke to him about it and he said he was for it. Somebody against the bill spoke to him and he was against the bill. Nobody knew where he was on the bill. Nevertheless, the glass industry, the hosiery industry, the textile industry and the automobile industry, and by that I mean the workers in those industries came and protested the amendment in 1939. They are still presenting protests and they are asking that the bill be put back into the form it was in 1913. I ask the Members of the House to vote for this bill.

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. Mr. Speaker, I had not intended to speak upon this bill, and as a matter of fact I had not paid very much attention to it until a few minutes ago. I want to call to the attention of those on the other side of the House, who are anxious to have this law, or portions of it repealed, especially to what the last gentleman who spoke said, in essence, that he could justify, the passage of this bill regardless of what standards you wanted to discuss. I would like to have him tell the Members of this House how the canners of Pennsylvania, those who process foods, both vegetables and fruits, perishable products can operate their plants if they do not have night shifts. Will he please explain how they can do it? If he thinks he can answer that, I'll have something to say following it. I would like to have him explain, if he can, how the canneries can operate.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I might answer that question by asking the gentleman a question. How did the canning industry carry out their work between the years 1913 and 1939?

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. Mr. Speaker, they carried it out as best they could and I want to say that I personally took part in throwing into the dump heap approximately ten thousand bushels of tomatoes in two weeks time during that period because we could not get the necessary help day and night to take care of those products. That is the condition they are facing.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I might say that between the hours of six in the morning and ten o'clock in the evening, they have ample time in which to do this particular work. The extension of time is not for the particular purpose of helping the canning industry. The real purpose of this bill was in the glass industry in particular. They were going to work women three shifts and they were going to work men one shift. The pressure on the bill was so great that they finally amended the bill so that it would only take in industries working three shifts. Nevertheless industries already in Pennsylvania working more than two shifts, naturally came back to the next session of the Legislature and put up a howl and therefore they amended the bill to suit these particular industries, because we did not think that they should not have equal treatment just because of the fact that they did not work three shifts.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker I think this question is entirely out of order in that particular case.

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG. Mr. Speaker, the great difficulty that comes up when we come to legislate for this group or that group is the fact that we are either neglecting entirely certain other groups or we are working a great or unjust hardships on them. I want to call your attention to the fact that perhaps at no time in the history of this Commonwealth will it be so incumbent on all types of industry to operate their plants to the full and I refer especially to the canning industry which provides for that can be shipped and used for defense purposes. I want to tell you if you think you are making friends on the whole by the passage of this bill, I am sure you are making a mistake and I am sure you will get a backfire from the people back home because you are making it impossible for them to operate. It is very unjust. Therefore, I oppose this bill.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I did not inted to say anything on this bill, but I think there are questions that have not been answered. While I do not say I have all the answers, I think I have some.

In 1939 the then act was amended to its present form. This act sets us back to where it was in 1939. The real purpose of this act in 1939 was to put women in men's jobs, or in other words, to get cheaper labor. As you know women work from seventeen to twenty-five cents an hour less than men. The people that were behind this work in 1939 were not interested in whether it was men or women that worked night turn or day turn. What they were interested in was that they were getting cheaper labor. We do not have, any of us, objections to women working night turn or working on other work if they receive the wages that are paid to men. In other words let us have equal pay for equal work. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I would ask the members to vote for this bill.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I rise particularly to ask my colleagues on this side of the House to vote for this particular bill. Prior to 1939 there had been enacted in 1913 this very wonderful and humanitarian bill. It was on our statute books from 1913 to 1939. It was enacted into law by a Republican Legislature. It was enacted into law by a Republican Senate and it was signed and made an Act by the signature of John K. Tener a Republican Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. In 1939 we were amazed to find that this bill came out on the floor of this House. If you will recall on the first vote eighty-three persons voted for this bill and eighty-one voted "nay." Then on the following day the big billiwigs of certain interests got busy and put pressure on certain men who had voted one way and forced them to vote another. They had another hearing on this particular bill. I well recall two men in this House who voted on the proposition and voted "no." The following day they came to my desk and told me they had to change their vote, because certain interests had forced them to do it. One fellow had a brother employed with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, with a wife and two children. He was afraid to vote his honest conviction for fear that particular brother would lose his job. We had a public hearing on this most important measure and as you have heard, only two men in the state of Pennsylvania appeared in favor of the passage of that amendment. Mr. Richard P. Brown, who flew in from New York to attend that meeting by aeroulane, finally made this remark that he thought eventually, after hearing both sides of the case, the enactment of this bill into law would do more harm than good.

The Young Men's Republican Organization, one of the strong Republican organizations of western Pennsylvania appeared against the enactment of this particular bill, but because certain people in the Commonwealth had taken it upon their shoulders to say that they are the Republican Party in this great State does not mean my friends, that the rank and file of the honest to God Republican people in the State of Pennsylvania stand for this particular amendment when it has to do more with the moral situation of the women of my Commonwealth than any other bill that could be enacted in the House of Representatives.

May I say to you that in words very much better than I can express, I would like to read the testimony of one woman that was given in this House in 1939.

> "Mr. Speaker and Members of the House all of the speakers who have preceeded me have emphasized one point, perhaps two it has to do with the replacement of men by women and the menace that is represented by women and the menace that is represented by the employment of women to the wage standards of men.
> "There is another aspect of this situation, Mr. Speaker, that I would like to emphasize also, and which I think we ought to give at least a moment's thought to, and that is the menace of the exension of the working hours of women until twelve o'clock at night to the home life of thousands of families in this Commonwealth."

I wish you might all have been present and heard some of the testimony of these women working in manufacturing plants in the outer districts of larger cities after midnight. I think you would be less anxious to save those few paltry dollars and would be more anxious to save the honor of the women of this Commonwealth.

> "I think we sometimes fail to use our imagination in connection with women as workers in industry. I think we sometimes fail to remember the long, bitter costly struggle it has taken to bring the conditions of work, the wages and the hours involving women to the point where they are today. I think we fail to understand exactly what the effect is on the average home where the mother has to go out to work. I think it is time for us to remember that in pratically all the factories where women are employed, seventy-five percent of these women are married and are mothers with children. The hours that we know about and that have been achieved in connection with women are these, they start at six o'clock in the morning and conclude at ten o'clock at night. I feel that any one of us if we stop to think about this situation of the woman can realize that no woman can leave her home and arrive at her job at six o'clock without having to get up perhaps either four-thirty or five o'clock, take care of the family's breakfast, travel to the spot and arrive there by six o'clock. I think many of us have never stopped to think of the effect upon the children. We are so concerned, some of us in the House, to see to it that the children are given milk in connection with relief, but there are also those children who need milk whose mothers have to go out to work every day and have no one to give it to them after the mother has gone to work at perhaps five o'clock in the morning, and will be away from her home until ten o'clock at night so that she will not be able to arrive home until eleven o'clock which means her relationship with her family has been disrupted. Were we to pass this bill, which means that a woman will have to stay away from her home until twelve o'clock at night, we would make it utterly impossible for a woman to have any sort of a normal relationship with her children, with her husband, and with her friends, because she has to prepare to leave home at four o'clock in the afternoon at about the time her children are coming home and an hour before her husband arrives. It seems to me, Mr. Speaker, were we to make it possible for a woman to work until twelve o'clock at night, we would be taking a backward step not only as far as the working conditions of women are concerned, but also so far as the maintainence of decent family relationships are concerned. As a matter of fact, if we were to use our intelligence in connection with the employment of women in industry today, we would make every effort to enact laws to see to it that the hours of work of women coincide more closely with the hours that the children are at school, during which their husbands are at work, because the average woman who is working in industry today is working because she must do so to maintain the family budget, not because she necessarily wishes to do so or to replace men in any way."

Mr. Speaker I want to go from that and read from another portion of this great talk.

> "I said a few things last night about what happens when a woman, has to get up so early in the morning, before she leaves her home, her husband and her children, to go to work. In an effort not to speak too long, and I sincerely hope I did not do that, I said nothing about the other end of the story, about the women leaving the factories at twelve o'clock at night and arriving at their homes possibly at one or two o'clock in the morning when the rest of the family is asleep. It means that she disturbs the whole family, they are not able to sleep as soundly as they should. When she ought to be able to go to bed to get her necessary rest her family is getting up. It means that they have a disruption of the normal family relationship. I would have the men of this House think in different terms about what their attitudes should be toward human beings, toward even that despised group, on the part of some of the men of this House, in connection with social workkers. True they have their faults, but, Mr. Speaker, this much is true too, the whole field of social workers today does represent some attempt on their part to bring about a new relationship among human beings, to create psychologically some of those things that man has been able to create materially for the improvement of human life. I stated last night that it seems to me this bill which would take a woman out of her home during these abnormal hours is a backward step. If we are at all interested in maintaining decent relationship in the home, we should strive to have the women come out of the home at the time when the children and husbands are away from home. That is not possible, I understand, due to the industrial set-up as it exists today. I do think, Mr. Speaker, without feeling that I am in any sense being sentimental, that the men of this House as they sit around and smoke their cigars, and as they get a great sense of well-being from doing so, should think what their ideas would be if some day their own economic status should change and their wives for some reason or other should be compelled to work, whether or not they would be willing to see their wives go out of their homes at four o'clock in the afternoon, with the knowledge that they would not return until one or two o'clock the following morning."

Mr. Speaker, I will conclude my plea to my Republican colleagues to support this bill on a strictly moral basis for the uplift of the women of the state of Pennsylvania.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I did not intend to speak on the bill myself, but the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Gates, has cast a reflection that may affect some members on this side of the House which would not be true and just for the purpose of the record, as far as I am personally concerned, I voted for this particular amendment in 1939 and there was not any pressure whatsoever brought upon me, and I intend to vote against this bill as it stands now on the calendar and there is not any pressure brought upon me to vote "no" on this measure. I still have not been able to see or hear from the proponents of this bill where it is going to correct that situation they say will be corrected. I have not heard of any immoralities being committed upon women by being allowed to work until 12 o'clock. I have not heard of any women being corrupted or any homes broken up or that sort of thing nor have they put forth any evidence that such things exist. I think it is a good bill and I intend to vote "no" on this particular measure.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I had not intended to say anything on this particular measure, mindful of my admonition the other night to the majority floor leader that Abraham Lincoln said that nobody should explain, your friends do not need it and your enemies wouldn't believe you. I am nevertheless constrained to say something in reference to the remarks of the gentleman from Armstrong which I think are not only a misstatement of the facts, but are casting a reflection upon those members on this side of the House who were Members in 1939 and who voted for this measure. I know of no pressure at any time that was brought by an manufacturer, any big business man or anyone else concerned with business or industry in Pennsylvania to secure the passage of this act. The facts were very plainly stated at the time. They were very well known by all the people.

A large industrial concern wanted to come into Pennsylvania and this industrial concern would have employed about five thousand people at a time when we needed employment very badly in Pennsylvania. They employed as a part of their group of employes women, and because of the product which they manufactured and the shifts under which they had to operate they could not come into Pennsylvania under the laws that existed in Pennsylvania pertaining to the employment of females. Consequently, Mr. Richard Brown, the Secretary of Commerce, came before us and said that he thought if we could modify this law—that it might enable us to get other industries of a similiar character or those that needed benefits of such a law, to come into Pennsylvania and to create greater employment. If that is any influence on the part of a great industry, I fail to see it. I think Mr. Brown was actuated by the desire to help the people of Pennsylvania by the creation of more work for them. He was anxious to help the people of Pennsylvania, because a reduction of our unemployment load would give us an opportunity to reduce the burden of taxation upon the people of Pennsylvania. If that is fostering immorality, if that is doing something wrong in behalf of industry, if it is improper influence, as far as I am concerned, I'll be charged with improper influence because I do not concede that there is any improper influence in an attempt to secure industry for Pennsylvania in order to give employment to the people of Pennsylvania. I think my good friend from Armstrong has been carried away with his enthusiasm in the matter and has made statements which are unfair to the members on this side of this House; are unfair to those who were Members during the 1939 session, and had the responsibility of putting through this legislation.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I am really quite sorry that Mr. Turner saw fit to make the statements that he did. I have disagreed with him on many occasions on matters of public welfare. Honest difference of opinion should be prevalent in this House. I respect his opinions; I respect his views. I ask him also to respect mine and believe that when I make a statement, I make it from the heart and not from the head.

In answer to Mr. Auker I am sorry he spoke, because he happens to be one of the men who on the first day this bill was under consideration voted "yes" on the bill and he was consistent in his vote and I have no objection to that. He also has an honest difference of opinion with me and with that I have no fault to find. So with that statement I ask each of the members of this House, whether he is a Democrat or whether he is a Republican, that when I rise in this House on any question, may I say to you as I stand here and face each and every one of you, I shall never speak on any bill unless it is from my heart, with a sincere conviction in my heart that I am speaking for the best interests of the people of the Commonwealth in which I was born, in which my father was born and in which my grandfather lived.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I did not feel that I should speak on this particular bill, but due to the fact that my good friend, Mr. Gates on the other side of the House has taken up the cudgel in support of this bill, I want to rise in defense of Mr. Gates in his statement, that I well know and you men here know that during the last session of the Legislature when the bill that we are now repealing was before us, my good friend Mr. Turner said there was no pressure. I might say at that time that I stated to this House that we found men on the opposite side of this House going through the aisles to change the minds of those men who had voted their true convictions the day before on this particular piece of legislation. History repeats itself. We find those same men today in opposition to this bill and I, like Mr. Gates, find no fault with those men using their own convictions, but I say to you that during the last session of the Legislature they did insist upon changing the minds of men on the other side of the House to vote for that particular bill. I want to say to you that I am now ready to make a seat over on this side of the House for my friend Mr. Gates who has finally agreed and who has always agreed to a certain extent when it came to legislation in the interest of the working men and women of the State of Pennsylvania, to vote with the men who vote their convictions on this kind of legislation. I am very willing and glad to welcome that kind of man on any side of the House.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. FLEMING, COOPER and RHEA asked for a verification of the roll.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair at this time welcomes to the House a delegation of Republican women from the first district of Montgomery County, who are the guests of the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Cadwalader.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 581, as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Agriculture for laboratory research in the prevention of the transmission and in the cure of mastitis in cattle

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The sum of fifty thousand ($50,000) or as much thereof as shall be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Agriculture to be used by the Department of Agriculture in laboratory research work designed to prevent the transmission of the disease of cattle known as mastitis and to effectuate a cure for such disease

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, although the sponsorship of this bill is different from the series that have gone before us, it seems to me to smell of that great agricultural program which I spoke about last night, from Smith to Moul, to the Democratic caucus, to the floor of the House.

The Department of Agriculture tells us that they have been carrying on experiments in cooperation with the University of Pennsylvania. I understand the University of Pennsylvania, I think they said, has six more cows to test before they will state whether they have found a cure or a prevention for mastitis. The amount expended by the Department of Agriculture is the sum of five thousand dollars for this present biennium in conjunction with the University of Pennsylvania. In answer to a question the Department of Agriculture said, of course, if the University of Pennsylvania did not find a cure in this experiment which they are making in research at the present time, that then the University would carry it on during the next biennium under a similar arrangement. I think we are all in favor of research on these cattle diseases. I think all of us farmers realize the necessity to carry on this research, but gentlemen, I want to point out that this sort of appropriation has almost always heretofore been a part of the general appropriation bill. We now see this list of bills coming out on the calendar, which have raised to the "nth" degree the amount that will be necessary to spend, five thousand dollars, fifty thousand dollars—although of course we all know in reasearch you can expend any amount, you can expend five hundred thousand dollars, if can get it; you can expend one million dollars, if you can get it, but the reasearch that you can carry on is limited to the institutions that have the ability to carry on the research that is necessary. Therefore, while we all on this side of the House, I believe, are going to vote in favor of this measure, we just feel that we have to point out that this is just another little bit of sugar candy to attract the farmers of Pennsylvania, making them believe that you are starting out with an appropriation for research on mastitis, when the present Department has been carrying on a program of reasearch in the first place, and in the second place when the appropriation rightfully belongs in the general appropriation bill with other appropriations of this kind.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to make a few brief remarks on this part of the Democratic program in relation to farmers and their cattle. I am saying this in all sincerity and not because of anything cynicism or sarcastic.

At the present time the Department of Agriculture is in a small measure, and only in a small measure, subsidizing the University of Pennsylvania in connection with the study of preventive medicine for mastitis.

The Secretary of Agriculture advised me that he felt and had been told that progress was being made in the study, and that he hopes, mind you he only hopes, that they would be able to state affirmatively that a cure might have been discovered. However, that was based on just another one of the hopes that we have heard so much of in this House under the present administration. I then asked him what he thought with regard to the study, whether it should be discontinued, and he said, "By all means, no." He felt this study was essential and that it was necessary. Nor did he raise any objection in my discussion with him as to the amount of the appropriation, and he knew the amount involved. So I say to you, Members of the House, this is not handing out any sugar candy to anyone. When I am saying that I am using as authority for that statement the Secretary of Agriculture who comes from the party on the other side of the House. He believes the study is essential; he believes that the study is necessary and he does not believe that it should be discontinued. I can understand the willingness of the members on the other side to vote for this bill but I cannot understand either their cynicism or their sarcasm in expressing their intention to support the bill.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I for one on this side of the House expect to support this bill because I think it has the interest of the farmers in my district at heart. If I thought this bill, as one previous speaker said a "smelly" bill that it was sugar coated, I certainly would not vote for the bill. I can't understand any man's getting up on this floor with any degree of intelligence, and saying that it is a "smelly" bill, and it is sugar coated, and in the next breath saying he expects to vote for it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 468, as follows:

Making an appropriation to the Department of Agriculture for the payment of indemnities for animals appraised and destroyed to prevent the spread of Bang's disease

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The sum of three million dollars ($3,000,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Agriculture for the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and forty-one for the payment of indemnities for animals appraised and destroyed to prevent the spread of Bang's disease

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, the first appropriation by the Legislature for Bang's Disease was made in 1937, and one thousand two hundred dollars was appropriated for that purpose. In January 1939, when this administration took office, four counties in Pennsylvania were Modified Accredited Areas. The testing had ceased in November 1938, and the appropriation by the 1939 Session of the Legislature was not available until June 1, 1939.

Since June 1, 1939, thirteen counties have been tested and are now Modified Accredited Areas, and by the close of this biennium, two additional counties, Huntingdon and Blair, will be added to this list, making a total of nineteen counties tested as of the close of the present biennium.

In the control of Bang's Disease, Pennsylvania, during the past two years, has been brought from seventh to fourth place among the States of this country in the number of blood tests conducted, and from tenth to fifth place in the number of counties accredited for Bang's Disease. During this biennium forty-five thousand herds representing four hundred eighty nine thousand cattle were tested and when Huntingdon and Blair counties will be tested, that number will be approximately five hundred thousand cattle.

Testing this large number of cattle taxed the laboratory at Summerdale to capacity. A total of one million two hundred fifty thousand specimens of blood, tissue, and so forth, were received and analyzed. This was two hundred fifty thousand specimens more than in the year 1938.

On December 31, 1940, Pennsylvania had under supervision for Bang's Disease Control 64,518 herds, with a cattle population of 555,032 animals. On December 31, 1940, there were on the waiting list 201,253 cattle awaiting tests.

The counties of Luzerne and McKean are fully signed up and awaiting tests, and aside from this, on December 31 there were 444 townships in other counties awaiting tests.

During the biennium 1937 to 1939, 36,653 cattle were tested monthly, and during the present biennium, the monthly testing averaged 43,554. As is well known, the tests include both initial and retests, and it should be noted that in some cases, as many as eight retests of the same herd is required before the Disease is entirely eliminated. During the present biennium, January 1, 1939 to December 31, 1940, 1,450,305 cattle were tested. This number included all tests and retests of cattle.

Under the present program of testing cattle in Pennsylvania, every available man and all the laboratory facilities were put into use. In addition, the Department had the cooperation of the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry and the assistance of seventeen veterinarians paid entirely by the Federal Government, besides some clerical help and technicians in the laboratory.

To date, as of February 28, 1941, the Commonwealth paid for indemnities since June 1, 1937, $1,832,070.75, and the Federal Government paid since August 1, 1934, $2,407,151.37 for cattle indemnities. It is noted that the Federal Government paid indemnities for Bang's Disease testing beginning with 1934 whereas the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania started on June 1, 1937.

It is interesting to note that in1937, when the proposition was before the Legislature to appropriate money for Bang's disease eradication, the Administration forces then in power insisted that one million two hundred thousand dollars was the highest amount that could be used economically because of the limited facilities of the laboratory at Summerdale, after a survey made by the Committee from the Assembly. At that time, the Republicans in this House stood out and recommended an appropriation of $2,000,000.

The progress made by the Department of Agriculture in the eradication of Bang's disease has been the greatest stride ever made in testing cattle. On March 1, 1938, when a great many farmers in the state pushed for testing, there was a waiting list of one hundred eighty-eight thousand cattle. By May 31, 1941, nineteen counties will be completely tested and the waiting list will be reduced beyond what it has been at any point in the history of cattle testing. And by the end of this biennium the number of cattle on the waiting list will be one hundred eighty-one thousand as compared to one hundred eighty-eight thousand at the same time in 1938.

Mr. Speaker, I am going to vote on this bill, because I refuse to be misunderstood as being opposed to an appropriation for Bang's disease.

I could have voted for an amount of two million with much more grace, since I believe the Department could have come much nearer using this amount than the three million in this bill. If this amount prevails it will be necessary to increase office space; nearly double the number of Veterinarians, and enlarge the laboratory space.

As a matter of fact the back bone of Bangs testing will be broken in another two years even at the present rate of testing .

Mr. McFALL. Mr. Speaker, after listening to the lengthy debate last night and going along so peacefully this afternoon, I was just on the point of arising and begging that some little tiny bit of opposition to this bill be offered, when, lo and behold, our good friend from Tioga, Mr. Snyder, got up and read a very lengthy statement, which is very nice, but at the conclusion of it he said he is going to vote for the bill.

This bill carries with it an apropriation of three million dollars,—and just now three million dollars of anybody's money is a whole lot of money. This bill says that three million dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Agriculture. In other words, this bill says it may take three million dollars, if they can use it, or it may not take that much money, and from the information I have gleaned I understand this perhaps will go along for quite some years before this dread disease among cattle will be under control. I have spoken with quite a number of veterinarians and one of them particularly told me that if he could come before a body such as we represent and tell the true story of what Bang's disease means to cattle, and then finally to the health of human beings, we probably would be shocked tremendously. Therefore, I cannot understand why we cannot go along with a program of this kind, and once and for all get an organization that will work and wipe out this dread disease completely. I know from actual experience, because I have been working among the farmers for a good many years, and I know their troubles and their difficulties, and in my own county I have been making a plea for a young farmer who took over his father's farm, who has a herd of forty-eight head which have Bang's disease. He is on the list as number seven hundred. The test will probably be made some time next summer, perhaps as late as during the month of August. During this time Bang's disease in going to continue in his herd. The scientific fact of this disease is that a herd of forty-eight head in three years time can be inoculated with this disease, everyone of them. Therefore, it is of vital importance that we take this step now, and I am going to ask the Members of this House to vote "yes" on this bill.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I desire to make a few remarks in support of this measure. It has not been stated but it is estimated by the Department of Agriculture that there are approximately one million four hundred thousand dairy cattle in Pennsylvania. At the time of the close of this biennium approximately one third of that number will have been tested for Bang's disease. As has been pointed out, there has been approximately one million eight hundred thousand dollars which will be paid by that time for indemnities. There remains two-thirds of the cattle to be tested in Pennsylvania. That means certainly that the amount appropriated here, if the same rate of indemnity holds true, would not be an excessive appropriation. Perhaps it would not be sufficient to carry on the extra work. The Secretary of Agriculture advises me that in southeastern Pennsylvania, and as a matter of fact in almost all of eastern Pennsylvania, the territory has not been touched, and the conditions there are far more serious in that particular area than they are in that part of Pennsylvania in which the tests have already been made.

Now then, as to whether or not the Secretary could carry out the program. He was asked that specific question and he said, "Well, it would be a big program." The fact that it is a big program is certainly no excuse to say that it could not be carried out. Then he mentioned to me the thought that it would be necessary for him to secure additional help from the Federal Government in the form of inspectors, and I asked him whether or not he thought there would be any difficulty in that respect and he said he did not believe there would be any difficulty in getting the Federal Government to cooperate with the enlarged program. He stated that it would tax his laboratory facilities. That was the one reason he advanced in favor of perhaps a curtailed program, and that is a reason which I certainly feel carries little weight when we understand the urgent necessity for the completion of this program in Pennsylvania. I haven't arisen today for the purpose of criticizing the Secretary of Agriculture in what he has done in his two years of office. It is commendable but certainly his job is not nearly done when two-thirds of Pennsylvania are still waiting for the benefit of this law.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I favor appropriating to the Department of Agriculture such moneys for the indemnity on Bang's disease as they can reasonably and efficiently expend. I propose to vote against this appropriation, not because I am against appropriating a proper amount, nor do I think that this is not a proper amount, but because I think this bill was put out not with full study and in full sincerity. In the first place, the conference about which the gentleman from Monroe has spoken was held after the bill had been referred to the Appropriation Committee and considered by them and reported out, or at least reported out by them.

The information which is given us by the Secretary of Agriculture concerning this situation, I think is important for us to consider. In the first place let me say in reference to the statement made by the gentleman, Mr. McFall, concerning the appropriation of three million dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary, the fact is, of course, if we appropriate three million dollars we cannot use any of that money for any other purpose and as the budget has been operating in the last six bienniums, or at least in the last four bienniums, the balance which is left after meeting the other necessary expenses of the government is appropriated for relief, so that of course if you appropriate more money for any governmental purpose than is necessary, that much less money can be appropriated for general assistance.

I think it is important for us to understand the situation concerning these cattle indemnities. When the cattle are tested and found to be suffering from the disease and are destroyed, the Federal Government pays for ordinary cattle the sum of twenty-five dollars and the state government pays thirty-two dollars and fifty cents, providing of course that that does not represent more than ninety percent of the valuation of the cattle; if they are a special breed, fifty dollars from the Federal Government and fifty dollars from the state government.

Here is something that is very important. According to information received from those people who deal with this problem in the Federal Government they expect, mark you, they expect to receive less money in the next biennium than they have received in the past biennium in federal appropriations. Pennsylvania now stands in the foreground of this Bang's disease, and as stated by the gentleman from Tioga, now ranks third among all the states of the country. The other states which are now picking up in their program are going to the Federal government and demanding more money. As a matter of fact, some of them have a pretty good argument to the effect that they are entitled to more money, so that even if the next appropriation of the Federal government is as much as the appropriation has been in the past biennium, it is still doubtful whether the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will receive any more money than it has received during the past biennium. If they do not and the state goes ahead and tests these cattle, condemns them and they are killed, what will happen? What are you doing to the farmer? You are doing this: those farmers are going to be paid thirty-two dollars and fifty cents by the state, but they are not going to get the twenty-five dollars from the federal government, or if they are a special breed of cattle, fifty dollars from the State, but not fifty dollars from the Federal government. There is one other thing that can happen by moving this faster than the market can take it. It happened during the tuberculosis clean-up.

I might point out to you that during the tuberculosis clean-up, which clean-up covered a period of twenty years or longer, there were times when the program was hurried and then what happened? These cattle were auctioned off for as low as fifty cents a piece and today they are receiving thirty-two dollars and fifty cents. That means two things. It means more expense for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the first place, and it means, in the second place, greater loss to the farmers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The Department of Agriculture, in order to carry out a program of an expenditure of three million dollars, providing of course, that the Federal Government will give them an equal amount of money, which they probably could not do, would have to increase its laboratories, it would have to go into a building program, it would have to go throughout the state and hunt employes. The Secretary has told me that it requires a special type of technician. True, they have received aid from the federal government. It might be possible they might receive more in the way of technicians but at the present time technicians as well as veterinaries are being taken away from the Department very rapidly because they are being called into the federal service, into the army. So, the problem, it seems to me, is the problem of the Department of Agriculture. They know how much they can efficiently and effectively expend.

Mr. Speaker, under the circumstances it seems to be that appropriating three million dollars is appropriating more money than actually can be efficiently and effectively used during the next biennium. I think a proper amount could be determined after full consultation with the Department, and at that time we should place in the general appropriation bill the proper amount. That is the way it has been handled in the past; that is the proper and orderly way to handle it, and I might say in the general appropriation bill introduced by me there is an item for such an appropriation to the Department of Agriculture in the sum of one million four hundred thousand dollars for the payment of indemnities for cattle destroyed because they are suffering from Bang's disease. It seems to me if that amount is not correct after full consultation with the Department, the correct amount ought to be ascertained and put in the bill. If the sum of three million dollars cannot be efficiently and effectively spent, I am for putting the correct amount in the general appropriation bill. I believe that is the efficient, and proper, and orderly way for this House to act upon this question.

Mr. Speaker, I am going to vote "no" on this bill.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, may I say that the Committee on Appropriations prior to the time of reporting this bill out, consulted the sponsor of the bill and others interested in the measure, and were assured that the amount mentioned was essential and necessary for the work to be done. Subsequently, Dr. Leidy appeared before our Committee and certainly his testimony justifies the statements which the sponsor and the others interested in the bill made. Now, to allay the fears of the minority leader of the House, I have been advised by the federal government that they will be glad to cooperate and that the fund will be available.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE: Mr. Speaker, I want to know what information the gentleman has as to the amount which will be appropriated by the federal government for this purpose during the next bi-ennium.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have been advised that there will be a sufficient fund, without any mention as to what the federal appropriation will be, to meet a program of three million dollars on the part of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know the manner of allocating these funds between the states and whether or not all of the funds now being appropriated are being allocated.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I do not know the methods of federal allocations.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman think the federal government is going to cut the allocations to other states in order to give Pennsylvania a greater sum during the next bi-ennium, and does the gentleman have any information from the federal government that they intend to do so?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I do know that they are very much interested in Pennsylvania because this is one of the states that has shown real progress in this problem.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I realize they are interested also in our W.P.A. projects. I do not think the gentleman has answered my question. Certainly, there is a certain amount appropriated for this purpose. That amount is allocated throughout the United States to various states. As I have pointed out, a number of these states are just coming into the step of this program. They are making efforts to obtain a larger appropriation in comparison to the amount received in Pennsylvania. Many of them are actually in some respects entitled to a larger appropriation. The Department itself which is dealing with this problem has said definitely that no man knows today whether they will receive as much of an appropriation during the next bi-ennium as they received during this bi-ennium or not, but from what information they now have, they think they are going to receive less, and certainly not any more. Therefore, certainly, Mr. Speaker, there can be no assurance from the federal government, nor can we properly expect, that they will give us more money in the next bi-ennium than they gave us during the past bi-ennium.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the information mentioned by the minority leader in his last remarks, is contrary to the information I have. May I say, for the information of the House that Doctor Leidy who appeared before our Committee, did not for one moment indicate that that problem faced him, but on the contrary he stated that he believed he would receive federal cooperation.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, in Wayne County we have a real problem in connection with Bang's disease. A great number of our farmers have come to me and asked that the county be cleared up a great deal faster than it has been in the past. However, while I intend to vote for this bill, it is my opinion that about one million five hundred thousand dollars or some such figure is enough for this season: In my observation I have found that a Republican administration can do as much work for one million five hundred thousand dollars as a Democratic administration can do for twice that amount of money. I have also observed as I have looked around the House here, that the fundamental difference, as far as finance is concerned, between the Democratic party and the Republican party is this, that the Republican party believes in the philosophy of Benjamin Franklin "a dollar saved is a dollar earned," and the Democratic party believes in the false philosophy that a dollar squandered is a dollar earned.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Tiogo, Mr. Snyder.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Tiogo permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SNYDER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MOUL. Will the gentleman please state to this House how many counties have been tested?

Mr. SNYDER. You mean as a Modified Accredited Area?

Mr. MOUL. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I think about seventeen, and two more will be completed by the end of the bi-ennium.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, that is nineteen counties out of sixty-seven?

Mr. SNYDER. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, how many cattle have been tested in Pennsylvania?

Mr. SNYDER. I think about five hundred thousand.

Mr. MOUL. How many cattle are untested?

Mr. SNYDER. I think that information was furnished by the majority floor leader, and as I recall he said about a million and a half; in other words, about two thirds of the cattle were still untested.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Tioga have any knowledge as to what it would cost approximately to test the balance of the cattle in Pennsylvania?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I could only make a guess as to that cost myself. It might cost six million and it might cost ten. It has been stated in a former discussion here that it took from twenty to thirty years to clear up "T. B." tests, and it is pretty hard to say how long it would take to clear up this Bang's test.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, is it practical to make a Bang's disease test in a county, a test of an individual farmer, and not test the herds around it?

Mr. SNYDER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MOUL. Is it practical?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, no I would not say it was too practical. I understood the gentleman to ask me if it was possible. It is not practical.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, is it practical to test an individual herd?

Mr. SNYDER. No, it is not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MOUL. What is the proper way to handle it, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. SNYDER. I would say the proper way to handle it is to get the townships signed up as Modified Accredited Areas.

However, I wonder if the gentleman from York is familiar with the work that it takes to get a township signed up or to get a county signed up? I have been in some of that work and I wonder if the gentleman from York realizes that the southeastern part of the state of Pennsylvania is not so anxious for Bang's testing. It may be possible to even enforce the Bang's disease test the same as it was the "T. B." tests but it is not a very good way to do it, that is, to force the farmers to do it when they do not want to do so.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, if an individual farmer makes test of his herd, or has a test made of his herd, and his neighbor farmers are not in a position to make that test, what effect does it have on his ability to sell cattle from his area?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, not very much, because personally I have had an individual test for the past ten years, and only one or two of our neighbors' herds have been tested. However, as I said a while ago, it is better to have the surrounding farmers tested, but that is not absolutely necessary.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, on the basis of an appropriation of three million dollars for the next biennium, how long does the gentleman think it would take to test the rest of the herds in Pennsylvania?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, probably four or five years, if it were possible to take care of the tests in the available laboratories they have here now.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, if the appropriation were reduced to the figure of two million dollars, which the gentleman has suggested, how long would it take?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, in reply to that question I think I referred to it in the last part of my address when I said I thought the backbone of Bang's testing, where there was a pressure or desire or demand to have the townships as well as the counties cleaned up so as to become modified accredited areas, that in two years' time all of the work will be taken care of, along with all the individual tests which we have in other parts of the State. I do not say that it will be entirely taken care of, but I do believe that the pressure or demand will be relieved within a couple of years, for the reason that a large part of the state of Pennsylvania has made no effort, or made no demand to be tested.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, just one more question, I understood the gentleman to say that he has tested his own herd. Did I understand him to say that the herds around him were not tested?

Mr. SNYDER. That is correct. We started testing. Some of them are and some of them are not

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, is there not a great chance that the gentleman might have his own herds infected because of those around him that have not been tested?

Mr. SNYDER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker. However, we have been fortunate enough not to have too much infection during the last eight years, since many of the herds around us have not been tested. We have just been fortunate, we have not been contaminated.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, would it not have been much better for the gentleman to have had all the herds around him tested?

Mr. SNYDER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker. That is what I was referring to when I said that it requires some work to get ninety per cent of the farmers in a township to agree to a test, and that is some of the work I have been doing. It is very difficult to have a township signed up.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, in the opinion of the gentleman from Tioga, does he think the chance for infection of his herd from some of the cattle that have not been tested for Bang's disease is greater than in the case of cattle of his neighbors being tested for tuberculosis. In other words, would the possibility for infection of his herd be greater than it would be if the other cattle had been tested in the case of tuberculosis?

Mr. SNYDER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, there would be a much greater chance for infection in connection with the Bang's disease than there would be in the case of tuberculosis.

Mr. SNYDER. That would be correct, so far as it would be possible to take care of the work.

I might add this: I am wondering what will happen in a couple years providing we have not increased our personnel of veterinarians, and I wonder what we will do in a couple years with this three million dollar appropriation?

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, that is a question for future sessions of the Legislature to decide. We are facing a problem and trying to solve it at this particular time.

I would like to ask another question which I believe is of vital importance to the members who represent the city districts.

In the case of Bang's disease in a herd of cattle, what effect, if any, will that milk transferred to humans have in case they use the milk that is infected by Bang's disease?

Mr. SNYDER. There isn't any question about that. There have been cases of undulant fever as a result of herds infected with Bang's disease. However, I am inclined to think if this uniform inspection goes through and the state standard is raised that that probably will be taken care of properly.

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, probably that would be fine, but until such time as it is done we have got to face the problem we have before us. That is all I have in the line of questioning.

Mr. Speaker, there was one point that was missed in the previous discussion on this particular bill, and that is the fact that unless you tackle the problem on a wide front there is a great chance of infection of the cattle of the farmer who does make the test.

The county of York is not fortunate enough to be one of the counties where we have a test throughout the county. Those farmers who asked for a test have had great difficulty in the past to get the test. There has been extreme delay in getting individual tests. The farmer who has had a test made of his herd is constantly in danger of his herd being infected by animals on neighboring farms. For instance, if you have a farm and you test your own cattle, and there is a farm above your particular property, on which there may be a stream, and the farm has cattle on it infected with Bang's disease, your herd may be affected at any time. Once one animal on that farm is infected within a very short time there is a possibility of infecting your entire herd. The problem of eradication of Bang's disease is one of speed. It certainly looks more like economy to attack the problem with large amounts of money, tackling the problem at once and eradicating it throughout the State of Pennsylvania as quickly as possible than it would be to linger over a period of the next ten or twelve years, because we can readily see over a period of time of ten or twelve years there will be a great opportunity for infecting many herds that would not be infected if it were done in a shorter period of time.

Now looking at the side of the question of the human who buys the milk, certainly there is going to be less chance of taking the disease of undulant fever if we can eradicate it within the next four or five years, as compared with a period of ten or twelve years, which would be the case if the policy suggested by the gentleman from Tioga were carried out.

I will ask the members of the House to vote for the bill, and I hope that the gentlemen on the other side will see to it that they do not cut that appropriation to two million dollars. I urge the gentlemen on the other side to leave the appropriation at three million dollars, and if necessary raise it at the next session of the Legislature, so that the disease can be eradicated quickly.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I want to make a very brief statement. I would like to suggest to the gentleman from York that if he goes into York County and tries to sign up the townships and the county to become a Modified and Accredited Area, he will probably come to the conclusion that he would not even need five hundred thousand dollars for Bang's disease eradication. He will find what a job it is to get farmers to sign up on this program.

PREVIOUS QUESTION

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker, I don't know much about these different diseases, but I was interested in the last paragraph of Mr. Moul's statement, that whatever action is taken requires speed, because if we keep on like this there will be other infections in this Commonwealth, and in the interest of speed and in the interest of preserving our own health too, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Kolankiewicz, Baker, Edwin F. Thompson, Jefferson, Harmuth, Stank, McDermott, Matthew J. Welsh, Verona, Breth, D'Ortona, Cochran, Chervenak, Nagel, Hamilton, Skale, Cullen, Modell, Boies, Harkins and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 578, as follows:

An Act providing for the disposition of property where there is no sufficient evidence that persons have died otherwise than simultaneously and to make uniform the law with reference thereto

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 No Sufficient Evidence of Survivorship Where the title to property or the devolution thereof depends upon priority of death and there is no sufficient evidence that the persons have died otherwise than simultaneously the property of each person shall be disposed of as if he had survived except as provided otherwise in this act

Section 2 Beneficiaries of Another Person's Disposition of Property Where two or more beneficiaries are designated to take successively by reason of survivor under another person's disposition of property and there is no sufficient evidence that these benificiaries have died otherwise than simultaneously the property thus disposed of shall be divided into as many equal portions as there are successive beneficiaries and these portions shall be distributed respectively to those who would have taken in the event that each designated beneficiary had survived

Section 3 Joint Tenants or Tenants by the Entirety. Where there is no sufficient evidence that two joint tenants or tenants by the entirety have died otherwise than simultaneously the property so held shall be distributed one-half as if one had survived and one-half as if the other had survived If there are more than two joint tenants and all of them have so died the property thus distributed shall be in the proportion that one bears to the whole number of joint tenants

Section 4 Insurance Policies Where the insured and the beneficiary in a policy of life or accident insurance have died and there is no sufficient evidence that they have died otherwise than simultaneously the proceeds of the policy shall be distributed as if the insured had survived the beneficiary

Section 5 Act Not Retroactive This act shall not apply to the distribution of the property of a person who has died before it takes effect

Section 6 Act Does not Apply if Decedent Provides Otherwise This act shall not apply in the case of wills living trusts deeds or contracts of insurance wherein provision has been made for distribution of property different from the provisions of this act

Section 7 Uniformity of Interpretation This act shall be so construed and interpreted as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law in those states which enact it

Section 8 Short Title This act may be cited as the Uniform Simultaneous Death Act

Section 8 Repeal All laws or parts of laws inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

Section 10 Severability If any of the provisions of this act or the application thereof to any persons or circumstances is held invalid such invalidity shall not affect other provisions or applications of the act which can be given effect without the invalid provisions or application and to this end the provisions of this act are declared to be severable.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 704, (Senate Bill No. 198), as follows:

To validate and quiet the title to real estate in this Commonwealth held by a foreign corporation unauthorized to hold the same and heretofore conveyed to a citizen of the United States or a corporation authorized to hold such real estate

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The title to any real estate situate in this Commonwealth which may have been held prior to the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and forty by any foreign corporation not authorized under the laws of Pennsylvania to hold the same the title to which real estate has been heretofore conveyed by such foreign corporation to a citizen of the United States or to any corporation incorporated under the laws of this Commonwealth or of any other state or commonwealth in the United States and authorized to hold such real estate is hereby declared to be good and valid and free and clear of any right of escheat by the Commonwealth and such citizen or corporation guarantee as aforesaid and his or its respective heirs successors and assigns shall hold and may convey such title and estate indefeasibly as to any right of escheat which the Commonwealth might otherwise have by reason of said unauthorized holding and conveyance by such foreign corporation and all such conveyances heretofore made are hereby ratified and confirmed

Section 2 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Warren, Mr. Muir, and I think also the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shephard, both are insisting that this bill is on the calendar in the wrong spot. They both think that it should have been the first bill on third reading because it is "an act to validate and quite"

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendments.

BILL SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bill numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 79.

An Act to amend subsection (a) of the act, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. L. 447), entitled "An act relating to the administration and distribution of the estates of decedent and of minors, and of trust estates; including the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties, liabilities, accounts, discharge and removal of executors, administrators, guardians, and trustees, herein designated as fiduciaries; the administration and distribution of the estates of presumed decedents; widow's and children's exemptions; debts of decedents, rents of real estate as assets for payment thereof, the lien thereof, sales and mortgages of real estate for the payment thereof, judgments and executions therefor, and the discharge of real estate from the lien thereof; contracts of decedents for the sale or purchase of real estate; legacies, including legacies charged on land, the discharge of residuary estates and of real estate from the lien of legacies and other charges; the appraisement of real estate devised at a valuation; the ascertainment of the curtilage of dwelling houses or other buildings devised; the abatement and survival of actions, and the substitution of executors and administrators therein; the survival of causes of action and suits thereupon by or against fiduciaries; investments by fiduciaries; the organization of corporations to carry on the business of decedents; the audit and review of accounts of fiduciaries; refunding bonds; transcripts to the court of common pleas of balances due by fiduciaries; the rights, powers, and liabilities of nonresident and foreign fiduciaries; the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties, and liabilities of trustees durante absentia; the recording and registration of decrees, reports and other proceedings, and the fees therefor; appeals in certain cases; and, also, generally dealing with the jurisdiction, powers, and procedure of the orphans' court in all matters relating to fiduciaries concerned with the estates of decedents," by authorizing the orphans' court to all and set aside the widow's or children's exemption without notice or appraisement where the property claimed is of apparent or readily ascertainable value.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication from Honorable Ellwood J. Turner, addressed to the Speaker, accompanied by the report of the treasurer of the Joint State Government Commission from August 17, 1939, to February 1, 1941, showing the receipts and expenditures of the Commission during that period which was read by the clerk.

The SPEAKER. In accordance with the request contained in the communication the report will be noted in the Journal of the House, and printed in full in the Legislative Journal.

House of Representatives, Harrisburg,
March 18, 1941.

Honorable Elmer Kilroy
Speaker of the House,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

My dear Mr. Speaker:

Herewith I beg to hand you two copies of the report of the Treasurer of the Joint State Government Commission from August 17, 1939, to February 1, 1941, showing receipts and expenditures of the Commission during that period.

Owing to the fact that the Commission of which I was the chairman carried on until March 12th for the purpose of completing its reports, a supplemental Treasurer's report from February 1st to March 12th will be submitted in a few days.

I think it would be well to have this report printed in the Journal.

Very truly yours,

ELLWOOD J. TURNER.

BILL ON SECOND READING

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection the Chair will return to the second reading calendar. The Chair hears none.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 604, entitled:

An Act to amend section three of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws two thousand forty-five), entitled "An act relating to the support of indigent persons publicly cared for or assisted; providing for the support of such persons by certain relatives, and for the recovery of public moneys expended for care and assistance from the property and estates of such persons; providing for guardians of the person and property of such persons; providing for the arrest and seizure and sale of the property of deserters; and providing procedure;" by defining further the duty of support of indigent persons by children or grandchildren.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. Matthew J. Welsh asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Military Affairs, to meet during the session of the House.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, in the Journal under date of March 12, page 693, I notice on the vote taken on House Bill 450 that I am not recorded as voting. This bill deals with third class cities. I was present in the House and voted "aye" on this bill and I would like to be so recorded.

Again on page 694, the same day, on the vote taken on House Bill 465, also dealing with third class cities, I was present and voted "aye" on this bill but am not so recorded. I would like to have that correction made.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. BRETH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I have in my hand a communication which I understand was sent to all the members. It is from the State Federation of Sportsmen Clubs, and is entitled "Federation Bulletin No. 1", having to do with game legislation before this House.

The reason I rise to speak is because one of the bills they review is Bill 633 introduced by me and Mr. Tarr. Some of the things stated in their bulletin regarding that bill are perhaps based upon not a long study of the bill, and I want to inform the House, or rather to request them, to keep an open mind upon it and at the right time and in the right place we will present our facts as they stand. Thank you.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Messrs. MIHM and POWERS offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, March 17, 1941.

James Murtha, prominent political figure in the Pittsburgh District, and during the legislatures of 1935 and 1937, assistant chief clerk of the House of Representatives, died at the Allegheny General Hospital, early in this year.

His death marked the passing of one of the strongest characters, both in business and politics, his community has ever known. In his early life, he was a newspaper reporter, covering, among other large assignments, the Johnstown Flood in 1889. He later became a real estate broker and promoter.

During the World War, Mr. Martin served as overseas secretary for the Knights of Columbus, which carried him to every battle front in France; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby express its sorrow over the passing of a good and able man, and express its appreciation of his services rendered to it in the past; and be it

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House, under whom Mr. Murtha served, to the son and daughter of the deceased, Mr. T. R. Murtha of Dallas, Texas, and Mrs. Fred B. Latham of Tuscon, Arizona.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Mr. BAKER offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, March 18, 1941.

Whereas, We have learned with a profound sense of sorrow of the passing of Mary Holland, sister of the Honorable Elmer J. Holland, member of this House from Allegheny County; and

Whereas, We who knew Mary Holland realize the great loss the City of Pittsburgh has suffered in her passing; and

Whereas, Mary Holland for forty years was a teacher in the South High School in the City of Pittsburgh, where she was revered by all her pupils, many of whom today are among the distinguished citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, During her lifetime she devoted herself to the civic betterment of her community and was active in all movements designed to make Pittsburgh a greater city; and

Whereas, We as friends of the Honorable Elmer J. Holland sympathize with him in so great a bereavement; therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of the House by this resolution express their profound respect for the memory of Mary Holland; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the surviving brothers and sister of the deceased by the Chief Clerk of the House as an expression of the sincere sympathy of the members of the House to them in their bereavement.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Messrs. SHEPARD, ALLMAND, BROWN, EDWIN F. THOMPSON, YOUNG and JEFFERSON offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous concent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, March 18, 1941.

Whereas, Marian Anderson last night was the recipient of the Edward W. Bok award as Philadelphia's outstanding citizen for the year 1940; and

Whereas, Marian Anderson is preeminent as the greatest living contralto and equally outstanding for her contribution to the cultural development of her race; and

Whereas, She is a Philadelphian, born and reared in this great metropolis and a citizen of which this city is extremely proud; and

Whereas, She again exhibited her greatness in stating she would contribute the ten thousand dollars she was awarded to enable poor but talented individuals to receive the training which would give them their opportunity in life; and

Whereas, The House of Representatives desires to salute her and join with Philadelphia in honoring so great a personality and so magnificent an artist; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives send a copy of this resolution to Marian Anderson conveying the congratulations of the House of Representatives to her on her receipt of this award, and the wishes of the House of Representatives that she may long continue her work which reflects such great credit on her and her people.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TURNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I overlooked the fact that today is the natal day of my Republican colleagues who has been a member of this House for some time. I deeply regret that we did not prepare a resolution which could have been read from the desk of the House.

The gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Snyder, is today celebrating one of his birthdays. He is one of the real youths; he is one of the dependable and solid men of this House and you men who have not had a chance to know him as some of us on this side do, have not had any opportunity to realize what an asset he is to this Legislature of Pennsylvania and what a fine associate and colleague he can be.

The SPEAKER. The chair wishes Mr. Snyder many returns of the day.

Mr. SNYDER. I wonder if the Members on the other side of the House realize that yesterday was Grover Cleveland's birthday, one of your great Democratic presidents and also the birthday of St. Patrick. I am just wondering if I had been born one day sooner whether I might have been a Democrat and an Irishman.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Session 1941. 135th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 25. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 19, 1941. No. 24.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, March 19, 1941

The Senate met at 11:00 o'clock, a. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. FRANK W. RUTH, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our heavenly Father, as we come to Thy presence this morning we pray that Thy spirit will guide us today in all that we do and say, that we may in a humble way do Thy will. Especially do we bring to Thee this morning our brother, Senator Watkins, and we pray that Thou through Thy fatherly hand will give him courage and faith in his ordeal, and speedily restore him again to health and strength and to his useful place in his community and in the State.

We ask Thy blessing today upon all institutions of healing, doctors, nurses, those who have dedicated their lives to helping humanity, that Thou will guide them, that our nation may realize that all our health and strength comes from Thee. We ask with the forgiveness of our sins, Thy continued guidance in our work. In the Master's Holy Name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. THOMAS and Mr. WADE, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. Edmonds asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. WOODWARD.

Mr. Carr asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Schuylkill, Mr. WATKINS.

PETITION

The PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate communication from the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America, Local 606, Greensburg, Pa., dated March 15, 1941, urging passage of a deficiency appropriation act, covering workmen's compensation claims which will be noted in the Journal.

Two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Governor be informed accordingly.

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 198, entitled:

An Act to validate and quiet the title to real estate in this Commonwealth held by a foreign corporation unauthorized to hold the same and heretofore conveyed to a citizen of the United States or a corporation authorized to hold such real estate.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. SNOWDEN, from the Committee on Municipal Government, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 377, entitled:

An Act validating certain proceedings and elections of counties, cities, boroughs, school districts, or other municipalities or incorporated districts, had and held pursuant to the provisions of an act, approved the twentieth day of April, one thousand eight hundred seventy-four (P. L. 65), entitled "An act to regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalities, to provide for the redemption of the same, and to impose penalties for the illegal increase thereof," and the amendments and supplements thereto; and validating bonds issued or authorized to be issued in pursuance of such proceedings and elections.

BILL RE-REFERRED

Mr. HOMSHER, from the Committee on Education, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 367, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Public Instruction, with the approval of the Board of Trustees of the Millersville State Teachers' College, to contract with the Borough of Millersville for the erection of a sewage disposal plant and the connection therewith and use thereof by the Millersville State Teachers' College, and the payment of part of the cost of maintenance thereafter; and making an appropriation.

with the request that it be re-referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. COLEMAN read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 380, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (1937, P. L. 2897), entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis; requiring employers to keep records and make reports, and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons; providing procedure and administrative details for the determination, payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation; providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies; creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer; and prescribing penalties," by further defining "contributions" to be paid by certain employers; changing the procedure and administrative details for the determination and payment of compensation; further regulating the appointment, promotion, dismissal, suspension and furlough of civil service employes; and further defining the powers of and procedure before the board.

Which was committed to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, one of the outstanding citizens of the fifth Senatorial district of Pennsylvania died on Sunday, March 16, 1941, a man who formerly as Senator represented the fifth senatorial district in Philadelphia, the honorable Richard V. Farley.

Mr. STIEFEL offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 19, 1941.

The Honorable Richard V. Farley, former member of this Senate, representing the Fifth Senatorial District, Philadelphia, died at his home, 2423 N. Tenth Street, in Philadelphia, on Sunday, March 16, 1941.

Born in the city from which he came to the Senate, he was educated in the public schools of Philadelphia and, at an early age, apprenticed to a printer, following that business during his lifetime. He completed his education after starting to work by attending the evening classes of the Central High School. He was an active member of Typographical Union No. 2, serving two terms as vice-president of that organization, and also serving as delegate to the Cleveland Convention of the International Typographical Union in 1912.

At one time, he served as a member of the Democratic City Committee of Philadelphia. He was elected to the Senate in 1912 and served during the sessions of 1913 and 1915.

Resolved, That the Senate hereby expresses its deep regret at his death and extends its sincere sympathy to the members of his family who survive him.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate transmit a copy of this Resolution to the family of the deceased.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order.

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 50, entitled:

An Act providing that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its political subdivisions employ only citizens of the United States.

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I offer the following amendments:

Amend title page 1, line two of the title by inserting after the word "citizen" the following: and certain residents; amend title page 1, line 3 of the title by inserting at the end thereof the following: on a yearly salary basis; amend page 1, between lines 5 and 6, after the word "States" and before the word "Section," by inserting the following: or who has not been a resident of the United States for the past ten years or who has not taken out first citizenship papers to become a citizen of the United States. Provided, however, That citizenship may be waived in the case of exchange teachers not permanetly employed for the purpeose of teaching foreign languages.

Mr. REED. I object to the amendment.

Mr. McCREESH. I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. There is no motion before the Senate, other than the request for immediate consideration. A motion is now in order, if the Senator desires action taken. Otherwise the bill will go over in its order.

MOTION TO ADOPT AMENDMENT

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I move the immediate adoption of the amendments.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I am in favor of the adoption of these amendments, which have been prepared with great care. After consulation I am wondering if the gentleman from Washington would tell us just what his objections are to the amendment.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Washington permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REED. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I was wondering whether the gentleman from Washington would be good enough to tell us just what is the basis of his objection.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I listened to the reading of the amendments very carefully and the part that relates to teachers is satisfactory, but the other part is not satisfactory. It takes, as I understood the reading of the amendments, the very heart out of the bill.

Now, Mr. President, last week we had up for consideration the birth certificate bill, and arguments in favor of those amendments were chiefly based on the ground that we wanted to make the obtaining of a birth certificate hard in order to keep out of our industries during this war those who might have subversive thoughts and would engage in subversive activities.

Here is a bill which provides for not employing people in our governmental deparments or agencies who are not citizens. I see no objection to that bill. I cannot understand why certain members of this body who argued last week for the amending of the birth certificate bill to head off those who might be aliens from employment in our industries should object to this bill.

Mr. President, here is a bill, I repeat, which wants to keep out of our governmental agencies people who are not citizens and this amendment will tear out the very purposes of the bill. That is why I object to this amendment and that is why I want it to go over, so that we may have more time to study it.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in the last six or seven years we have witnessed the migration of a great many scholars, men whose information and experience has been most valuable to the development of the culture of Europe, coming from Europe, driven out to this country. A great many of these men have already been employed in New York and Pennsylvania in positions which were valuable to the Communities, places which will become vacant, diseminating information and experience which is of the most valuable nature to this country.

The bill in its original form, to which I objected, provided that no aliens could be employed, not only by any state department but by any political sub-divisions of the state. At the same time we were listening to arguments that certain persons who were citizens but could not prove their citizenship or who wanted to become citizens and could not become citizens because their birth records were deficient, were being protected by Senate Bill No. 9, we were met with Senate Bill No. 50, which prohibited those very persons from engaging in employment or continuing in employment in the state, and it seemed to me a rather inconsistent situation to say on the one hand that persons who wanted to become citizens but could not prove their birth in this country, should be given relief and then at the same time, since they were aliens, within the next breath pass a law preventing them from holding positions, that is obviously inconsistent.

Mr. President, I was therefore opposed to the bill; I was opposed to the bill because it kept out of work people who were very anxious and desirous of becoming citizens of the type I have discussed, doctors, physicists, engineers, who have come to this country, looking to it as the haven many of our ancestors found in this country, people who were willing to become citizens, who are essential in many walks of life for the benefit of this country, who have made application to become citizens, but because of our laws a certain period of time must expire before they become citizens.

The amendments as I understood them, when read, provide that this bill shall not apply to a person who has been a resident of this country for ten years. It does not apply to persons who have declared their intention to become citizens; it does not apply to exchange students, scholarships which have heretofore been exchanged between various countries, and it seems to me therefore to meet all of my objections to the bill, because I am opposed to anyone occupying a position in the Commonwealth who is not willing to declare his intention to be a citizen or who is unwilling to become a citizen if he has the opportunity and the ability to become a citizen of this country, and for that reason I shall vote for these amendments.

I understand that when we vote for these amendments, the bill does not pass finally, and when they are voted for and adopted they will appear in the bill so that the gentleman from Washington can then read them, in the only intelligible way we can read and understand the amendments.

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, the purpose of the amendment with regard to the ten years and first citizenship papers was to prevent this bill from being too drastic. At the present time there are approximately, I understand, four hundred thousand aliens in this state. A lot of those people have been residents of Pennsylvania for many, many years and a lot of them thought they were citizens of Pennsylvania, I imagine; a lot of them have at one time or another been employed by the state or municipality, and maybe some are now.

They are good honest citizens, and why we should cut them off at a moment's notice from their employment is more than I can understand, without giving them a fair chance to save their employment. This amendment merely does that. This amendment merely does that; it makes this bill operate more fairly for this great body of our citizens.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, there is one further fact I should like to offer in connection with these amendments and that is this: last week when we were discussing the birth certificate bill it developed there were many people in this state that were held out of industry because of the procedure now in vogue in Pennsylvania to get a proper certificate, and then the argument was advanced in the face of that situation that we should make the obtaining of these birth certificates more stringent in order to protect our industries.

Today, Mr. President, we have coming to this country a lot of other people who are not in the class, perhaps, that the Senator from Philadelphia meant, a whole group of people fleeing from other shores in order to get into the haven of this great democracy, and I say to you many of that class we do not want in our governmental agencies, because of their subversive activities and their subversive thinking. We have too many of them here now and I say to you there is nothing wrong with the bill presented by the gentleman from Monroe, in its present form, particularly for those who want to stand for a high and strong democracy.

As I stated before, I favor that clause which refers to the exchange of teachers and relates to scholarships, but as to the rest of those amendments I still maintain that they will take the very purpose from this bill which the sponsors and those back of him intended.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, no matter what has been said we have in this country party government. I am not worried about any man who could not vote getting a position in public life, unless he is very much needed, and occasionally we need some special service and some special training in some particular work, and I feel that this bill would stop it. I am not worried but I feel to clutter our books with legislation of this kind, to prevent people from working when they should be called—I am glad this did not happen in the past because many of us would not be here today. These men or women would be idle here and why make it more difficult to secure work here when they are here, and have a right to secure work when they are here and they have a right to be here. I hope we will not clutter our books with laws that will prevent people from working, especially when we need them.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I spoke at length on the birth certificate bill last week when it came up before this body for action, and I pleaded for a bill that would not penalize those who were born in this Commonwealth, and who because of no fault of their own, their births were not registered according to law.

The argument advanced by the majority at that time was that we should not make it too lenient for people to effect their birth registration, and in line with that argument the original Chapman bill was so amended that it is almost impossible for anyone to have his birth registered honestly and fairly without court litigation.

Mr. President, now we have this bill before us that is intended to prevent the employment of non-citizens by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its political subdivisions. That was the original purpose of the bill as stated in its title, but now these amendments are offered which greatly divert this bill from the purpose stated in the title. The amendments do not provide that only citizens may be employed now, but the amendment will permit non-citizens to be employed. The title is not so amended so as to provide for that but the title merely provides that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its political sub-divisions employ only citizens of the United States. These amendments will now take away from that title, and the amendments provide that non-citizens may be employed and if the bill is passed and the Commonwealth and its political sub-divisions may employ a non-citizen then you have this anomalous situation that in Pennsylvania a man must prove his citizenship and his birth before he is employed in the defense program, but in the Commonwealth, departments of the Commonwealth and its political sub-divisions, they do not have to be citizens, they do not have to be born here, they may be employed.

Mr. President, that is hardly fair to the honest American who was actually born here and who, through no fault of his own, his birth was not registered. The gentlemen who sponsored the amendments says that he did not want this bill to be too drastic, yet last week he was not so concerned about how drastic the birth certificate bill was made, a bill that was intended to give relief, not to aliens and refugees from these foreign countries, but it was a bill to give some degree of relief to American citizens, Americans who were born here in this United States of America.

I agree fully with the gentleman from Washington in the position that he has taken, that if any bill ought to be made drastic, this is one of the bills that we ought to make pretty drastic for the non-citizen, a person born in a foreign country, to obtain employment, and especially in the agencies of government.

Mr. President, we had a very extended hearing on Senate Bill No. 172, aimed at excluding from our political structure individuals that may be inimical to our form of government, but this bill will make it perfectly legitimate for the Commonwealth, its departments and its municipal sub-divisions to employ non-citizens.

We can hardly justify our actions of the past week with the action that we are being called upon to take at this time. These amendments should not be put in this bill, and in fairness to many of us who are interested in this subject, at least the courtesy ought to be extended that the amendments be printed in the bill and the bill be placed on our desks so that we can carefully examine it and see just what import these amendments may have to the bill in its original state. Why try to force this thing through here now with these amendments, force us to vote upon it without our having before us the amended bill and without being given some opportunity to give it some mature consideration as to just how far-reaching these amendments are and what effect they really have on the title of this bill and the provisions as originally introduced.

Mr. EDMONDS. As I understand the question, Mr. President, this is a motion to amend on second reading. If the amendment is carried, the bill will then be printed and we will have it in our files. I think if it is once printed and we have it in our files, a great deal of the objection that has come about this morning will disappear because we will see what the amendments do.

Mr. President, as the gentleman from Philadelphia said, first, it exempts exchange teachers and those who teach foreign languages; secondly, it exempts those who have applied for first citizenship papers: in the third place, it exempts those who have been in this country for ten years; and in the fourth place it exempts those who are employed on a per diem basis. It applies only to those who are on a yearly salary basis.

Mr. President, I would be inclined to think the proper course of action might be to adopt the amendments and put them in the bill, and then let us have the debate next Monday or Tuesday when the bill will be before us for third reading and we can see what we are actually discussing.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I rise to a question of Parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, may I ask whether or not the amendments could be adopted and the bill not be given second reading?

The PRESIDENT. That would be out of order.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I submit the point of order raised by the gentleman from Allegheny is correct.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny asked whether or not the amendments could be adopted and the bill not be given second reading.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, until these amendments are adopted the bill is still on first reading, and after the amendments have been adopted, the bill does not have to be read the second time, and therefore a motion that it should not be read is not necessary.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct. The Chair understands the question now is on the adoption of the motion of the Senator from Philadelphia to amend section one.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and were as follows, viz:

YEAS 34

Barr,	Edmonds,	Mallery,	Stevenson,
Bartlett,	Farrell,	McGinnis,	Stiefel,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, may I inquire how the gentleman from Luzerne voted, Mr. Miller?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I voted "aye".

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 No department bureau commission or office of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or of any city borough township school district or of any other political subdivision shall employ any person who is not a citizen of the United States.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I move to amend Section 1, page 1, line 5, by inserting after the word "person" the following: on a yearly salary basis; amend page 1, between lines 5 and 6, after the word "States" and before the word "Section", by inserting the following: or who has not been a resident of the United States for the past ten years or who has not taken out first citizenship papers to become a citizen of the United States. Provided, however, That citizenship may be waived in the case of exchange teachers not permanetly employed, and teachers employed for the purpose of teachnig foreign languages.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Cavalcante and were as follows, viz:

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill as amended on second reading?

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 50, on second reading, go over in its order.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I do not know whether I am in order. I did not hear the Chair submit to the Senate the bill as amended.

The PRESIDENT. That was a vote on the title as amended. The question now would be, will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading as amended, but the motion is made to have it go over in its order.

Mr. COLEMAN. In other words, Mr. President, do I understand that the bill has been approved as amended and somebody has made a motion that it go over before second reading?

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 343, on second reading, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the twenty-eighth day of April, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws four hundred seventeen) entitled "An act relating to milk and the products thereof; creating a Milk Control Commission; establishing its jurisdiction, powers and duties; regulating the production, transportation, manufacturing, processing, storage, distribution, delivery and sale of milk and certain products thereof; providing for the licensing of milk dealers and the payment of fees therefor; requiring milk dealers to file bonds to secure payment for milk to producers and certain milk dealers; authorizing the holding of hearings and the issuance of subpoenas by the commission; conferring jurisdiction upon courts to punish contempts and to prohibit violations of this act and of rules, regulations and orders of the commission; authorizing the commission to adopt rules, regulations and orders, and to enter into interstate and Federal compacts; requiring persons who weigh, measure, sample or test milk to procure permits or certificates, to take examinations, to pay fees therefor, to furnish certain notices, records and statements, and to use certain methods of weighing, measuring, sampling and testing; authorizing the commission to examine the business, papers and premises of milk dealers and producers, requiring the keeping of records and the filing of reports by milk dealers, and permitting, with limitations, the use of information obtained thereby; authorizing the commission to fix prices for milk and certain milk products subject to the approval of the Governor, and conferring certain powers upon the Governor with respect thereto; providing for appeals to the courts from decisions of the commission, and for the burden of proof upon such appeals; prescribing penalties, fines and imprisonment for violations of this act, and rules, regulations and orders of the commission; defining perjury, defining remedies; repealing legislation supplied and superseded by this act, and saving rights, duties, and proceedings thereunder; and making appropriations", by providing that milk delivered or made available, or received or handled on consignment, or otherwise, shall be subject to all the provisions of said act; further defining the power of the commission to fix minimum prices to be paid producers for milk; defining certain violations of said act; and providing that milk dealers shall be held responsible for actions of persons employed by or acting for them.

go over in its order.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, before this motion is voted on, I should like the gentleman from Delaware to give us some information for the benefit of the Senators, so that we will be able to think about the matter over the weekend. I do not understand the necessity of this bill as to one point.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, do I understand the first purpose of this bill is to correct the condition created by the decision of the Supreme Court to include in the jurisdiction of the Milk Control Board cases where milk is sold on consignment?

Mr. HEYBURN. That is right, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. And the second provision, Mr. President, is to make the dealers responsible for the acts of their agents?

Mr. HEYBURN. That is true, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. And the third one deals with certain areas in which prices may be fixed by the Milk Control Board, and when I say areas, I refer to areas where milk mix is sold.

Mr. HEYBURN. Ice cream mix, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the gentleman tell us whether the effect of that is that the Milk Control Board will have the right or will have the obligation to fix the prices to manufacturers who use milk in manufacturing ice cream?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, under the present act, the Board may fix the prices of milk used for manufacturing purposes. This provides that they shall fix the prices of milk used for manufacturing purposes. The reason for it is that section is under attack before the courts and it is to do away with the possibility some dealers who may move their milk into the manufacturing bracket where there is no price fixing operation, thereby cheating the farmers out of money, in plain language.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware further.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the gentleman suggested this is a bill to fix the prices of ice cream mix. Will the gentleman state whether or not it is not true that the section to which this amendment is added is not a price fixing section but is an area section and affects merely the areas in which the board has the right to fix prices.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I am afraid the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, has not read Section 804 very carefully. I think it is a section where the power to fix prices is given. The suggestion is that the bill go over in its order until Monday, when after having had time to read it, we can discuss it with intelligence.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to say for the information of the Senate, that I know very little about the milk business, and I therefore made it my business this morning to inquire with respect to this bill and I find—I am told by as able an authority as John Fertig in his opinion that is not a price fixing section, but merely an area fixing section, and that therefore this does not change the existing law at all except to specify that in this area the board may fix prices for milk mix. Now, the only price fixing authority for manufacturers of milk, milk manufacturers, as I gather it from the act, is a discretionary authority and they do not have to use it. Now, if they do not have to use it and they have the authority, I see no reason for singling out a particular group and inserting that as a price fixing area if they have the right under the act to do it and I suggest that that matter be very carefully gone into, because this is one of the things that I have been objecting to for some time. A bill goes into committee on one day and comes out the next day; it is an important piece of legislation and nobody is able to tell us the exact effect of the bill. I think the people who are affected by the bill are entitled to have the legislation acted upon with an understanding of the effect of the legislation on those persons.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, this is to correct an evil outlined in the Governor's joint address back in January and we have been working on it ever since.

I am not a big corporation lawyer, like my friend from Philadelphia; in fact I am not a lawyer at all, but this has been checked on by a Deputy Attorney General assigned to the Milk Control Board. He is of the opinion that this does exactly what we desire it to do.

However, Mr. President, it is desired that this bill go over in its order until Monday and it does not make much difference what we put on the record. There is a war on now and nobody is reading anything, so I think on Monday we will get down to business.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the Senate Bill No. 50, going over in its order?

It was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President and members of the Senate, as a member of this General Assembly, I deem it my public duty to place before this Senate, from time to time, certain pertinent facts involving the stand of Labor in the defense program and the position of Labor in case of War as I see them.

First, I sincerely believe that the vast majority of Labor is opposed to war, I believe that Labor bears the brunt of physical suffering because the vast majority of the fighting forces is made up of workers, and second, because the worker and his family are the first to feel the effects of higher food costs, higher rent, and higher personal taxes and third, because the worker is the first to lose his personal rights and in many instances he loses, through legislative action, many social and labor gains because of war hysteria. Therefore, it is only natural for Labor to be opposed to War from an economic standpoint, along with the natural desire for peace and good will towards man of all nations.

This, I say, is Labor's natural position and yet it is unfair to assume that because of a natural dislike for war, that Labor is not patriotic and that Labor will in any way shirk its duties in a National Emergency.

One cannot help but pause and consider for a moment the man charges made because labor is involved in so many labor disputes at this time. Many so called Defense Strikes are, as much or more, the fault of the employer than they are of the employee.

When you find an employer like the Mayor of Norfolk, whose position on Labor is inbred and who tries to hide behind the Defense Program then, naturally, you will find strikes, lockouts and in many cases unreasonableness and hopelessness.

I quote from a National magazine the following story, "SOME NEW ALIBIS! All the old alibis, and a couple of new ones, were used by the Mayor of Norfolk—who owns and operates the Wood Towing Co.—during negotiations with a committee representing the Natl. Maritime Union. The mayor told the group wage increases were out of the question, since his first duty was to stockholders and his second to the consumers, who would allegedly be affected by price rises if the firm lifted its wage rate. The closed shop, the union committee was informed, was opposed by the mayor because it was against his principles—and because, since his firm had received some national defense orders, any American should have a right to work for him. After the first conference, the mayor began to weaken. He said he'd be willing to sacrifice his principles about the closed shop if the union would give up its wage increase demands. The answer was no."

This employer of course feels that public sentiment will be on his side because of the Defense Program, but I ask in all fairness, Is labor to blame in this case?

Again, lets look at the record of a strike that has been prominently featured in the news for the past few months. I refer to the Vultree Aircraft Strike. The ordinary citizen was led to believe that Labor was sitting down on the Defense Program. As a matter of fact, this employer was trying to get increased production without considering the rights of his workers or the relationship between increased Industrical activity, increased living costs and payroll earnings. However, Labor was falsely accused of halting work and interfering with airplane production. The record speaks for itself and again I am quoting from authentic sources, quote, "Vultree Aircraft Ahead of schedule Despite '40 Strike. Remember the propaganda at the time of the Vultree Aircraft strike last fall that the CIO was causing fatal delay in the national defense program? Well, officals of the United Automobile Workers wrote "finis" to that story today. They pointed to the fact that Asst. Sec. of War Robert Patterson has announced that Vultee finished its first contract for 300 basic U. S. Army training planes 40 days ahead of schedule. Work on the second batch of trainers is already under way. Declaring that the record delivery is proof that well-paid, union workers "are the most competent in America," Lew Michelner, UAW regional director added: "This should end for once and for all the lie that the CIO is not interested in national defense or that CIO workers are guilty of holding up the defense program. "Work at Vultee is going ahead full blast and chief credit should be given to stabilized labor relations as guaranteed by the CIO contract."

Another bubble that needs puncturing is the false impression caused by the amount of publicity given to any and all Labor disputes large or small. Many Senators will be surprised to hear what the Bureau of Labor Statistics has to say in this connection, quote, "STRIKES TRAIL ACCIDENTS AS CAUSE OF TIME LOSS. Industrial accidents caused more than four times as much loss of working hours as strikes during 1940, Sidney Hillman, associate director-general of the Office of Production Management, said this week in announcing the results of a special study of the status of industrial relations. Less than two hours per worker were lost because of strikes, he said, and only a few of some 300 threatened disputes actually resulted in appreciable stoppages, all of short duration. The study, made by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics at Hillman's request, also shows that the number of man days lost by strikes during the first six months of the defense program is only half that lost during the corresponding period for 1939, and 47 per cent less than the time lost by strikes when the U. S. was at war 24 years ago, although total non-agricultural employment is 22 per cent greater today than 1917. "Chief credit for this remarkable record," Hillman said, "should go to the patriotism of organized labor and to that vast majority of responsible industrialists who have accepted the orderly processes of collective bargaining."

I may add that the impression is generally accepted that Labor has no responsibility in Union Contracts. May I point out that in the United Mines Workers Contract any person participating in an illegal strike is fined $1.00 per day, said fines, becoming the property of the Coal Control Commission. Many other Labor Contracts assume full responsibility for the conduct of the Union Membership in respect to the contract provisions.

In the face of increased earnings by Coporations, it is only natural that there should be consideration for increased wages for the employees. The financial pages of the papers are full of reports of soaring profits. The U. S. Steel reported profits of more than $100,000,000 in 1940 or 148% higher than in 1939. Republic Steel doubled its profits to more than $21,000,000. The Du Ponts reported net profits of $87,000,000 and before deductions of Federal taxes their profits amounted to more than $144,000,000. And yet the total payroll of the Du Ponts for 63,800 employes in 1940 including all high salaried executives amounted to $129,600,000 which was nearly $15,000,000 less than the total profits. In other words, the company reaped a profit of $2,250 from each worker and yet the wage earners averaged considerably less than $1,500 per year.

In the face of these conditions is it unreasonable for labor to ask higher wages with the employer hiding behind the defense issue and cry that increased wages mean increased consumer price. Labor calls for the raising of wages not only because the workers are entitled to higher wages and industry can afford to pay them—not only to offset rising living costs—but also because the failure of labor to get its fair share results in serious trouble to our whole economy. While national income has been rising since 1932. Labor points out, a decreasing percentage of this income has been going to wages and salaries. Labor's share, in fact, has declined from 77.2% in 1932 to about 61% in 1940.

The declining percentage of national income going to labor is "one of the serious causes of depressions." It means that the American people become less and less able to buy what they can produce. A sound economy depends upon an expanding domestic market. But the present trend to huge and huger profits, while wage costs per unit of production decline, means a lopsided economy. To right this situation, more purchasing power must be given to the people with the greatest consuming power. That means higher wages, payable from present profit surpluses—and Labor is performing a socially beneficial duty when it negotiates such increases.

In summing up this statement I want to say that American Labor is patriotic and that if all Americans will serve as faithfully and unselfishly as the members of Organized Labor as a whole, there is no danger of our future and no question of our American solidarity and unity of purpose. Labor enjoys great privileges in our American form of Government and Labor stands ready to make any sacrifice necessary to maintain for ourselves and to preserve for our children the American Democratic Way of Life.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, on his remarks.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. DENT. I will be glad to, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Westmoreland have any data concerning who are the controlling stockholders of the Vultee Aircraft Corporation?

Mr. DENT. I do not, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. I thank the gentleman from Westmoreland.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. MILLER read in his place and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 381, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the second day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 1278), entitled "An act relating to counties of the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes; and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" by authorizing the acquisition and operation of aviation landing fields and airdromes.

Which was committed to the Committee on County Government.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce bills at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. MUNDY read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 382, entitled:

An Act validating certain deeds and conveyances made by trustees without setting forth their authority to conevy.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

He also read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill no. 383, entitled:

An Act safeguarding public health by prohibiting cross connections by mains of pipes between any source of public water supply, and any foreign source; and imposing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. LETZLER. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Clearfield will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. LETZLER. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I rise in defense of a citizen of Centre County who has always proven himself to have the best interests of his home community, his county and his State at heart. The defense is prompted by a statement contained in the Philadelphia Record of Thursday, March 12, as follows:

"The superintendent of the 121 bed Connellsville Hospital, whose appointment is the latest fantastic development in the State hospital situation, is Miss Anna Lauman.

"A board consisting of seven James appointees and two Pinchot Republican holdovers elected Miss Lauman last June to succeed Miss Emily Holmes, West Chester, who resigned.

"As the facts came to light through a Philadelphia Record investigation, there was a growing belief in political circles here that 'someone in Harrisburg pulled a fast one' on the local board.

"For Board Chairman Harry G. Brown said at Connellsville that Miss Lauman was recommended through 'official channels at Harrisburg' and that she had been superintendent at Phillipsburg—but that he and other board members knew nothing of her work there."

Phillipsburg is about 105 miles northeast of Connellsville.

"'She came highly recommended and things have been going 100 percent since she arrived', said Brown, a retired coal company official. Asked if the recommendation was made through the Department of Welfare, the supervisory agency for State hospitals, he said 'No.'"

In 1936, records show, the Department of Welfare dismissed Miss Lauman as Superintendent at Philipsburg after disclosures that she permitted former State Senator Harry B. Scott, long an influential Republican at Harrisburg, virtually to run the Philipsburg institution.

Scott, Centre county G.O.P. boss who was defeated for the Lieutenant Governorship in 1934, opened mail, obtained free service for political constituents and otherwise ruled the hospital in his home county, according to Commander John D. Pennington, then Secretary of Welfare.

The Philipsburg Board was unanimous in its protest against the dismissal of Miss Lauman and contended that the affairs of the hospital had been conducted in an efficient manner, and to the entire satisfaction of the staff as well as those who were served by the institution. This was a political dismissal by the Earle Administration and was the first experience of its kind in our district. It was loudly protested as being unfair but to no avail.

I have known Honorable Harry B. Scott of Philipsburg for a great many years—and I have yet the first time to ever hear him say or know of him to do a thing that would indicate anything but a sincere concern to be helpful and a desire to lend constructive assistance to any undertaking that would be helpful to the people of this state and to the people in his home town. It was in this spirit that he devoted so much of his time to the Philipsburg State Hospital. He was an active member of the Board until he became State Senator and served as secretary-treasurer. Senator Scott was the moving spirit in all that tended to benefit and improve this Hospital It was his child, his dream, and he was privileged to see much of what he had visioned become reality. His untiring effort saw old wooden ramshackle buildings replaced by new structures. He gave unstintingly of his time and seemed to live solely to see completed what he had so thoughtfully conceived as a boon to the sick and the maimed in that area of our State. He was unanimously supported by the Board of Trustees in all of his efforts. I say the Philipsburg State Hospital is an enduring monument to the untiring efforts of Harry B. Scott and the Board of Trustees. To put him in the light of an intruder, a trespasser, a violater of the rules which he helped to administrate, should be treated with contempt. He gave of his substance to maintain services that otherwise could not have been maintained. There are items of record amounting to between fifteen and sixteen thousand dollars that were paid for by Senator Scott personally. It was a generally accepted supposition that when something was needed it would be supplied by Senator Scott. He took great pride in the beautification of the grounds. He assigned a man who was on his payroll to give his time to this work. His benefactions were continuous—regular. He was a sponsor of the crippled childrens society, and many a child is the beneficiary of his benevolence because of this activity. Clinics for crippled children were a part of the effective program of the hospital and a part of the cost was borne by the crippled children's society. His leadership in this phase alone has been much missed. His deep interest in this work made him State President of Crippled Childrens organizations in Pennsylvania, and a director of the International Soicety for crippled children. What I have said records but a pitifully small part of the generosity practiced by this valuable citizen, and even those who are his opponents politically, admit that he was ever concerned about the welfare of the hospital staff, the classes in nursing and the employees generally. If criticism is the reward for such service, then we are to be pitied more than censured for a perverse appraisal of service to humanity.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. LETZLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I am glad to hear of the many virtues of Senator Scott. I was wondering if the Senator, after having extolled all those virtues and all of those accomplishments of the former Senator, if it would be possible for the gentleman from Clearfield to list the Senator's record in inducing the Republican majority, the Secretary of Welfare, the Secretary of Health and the Governor of Pennsylvania to open the Butler Sanatorium.

Mr. LETZLER. Mr. President, I think that is entirely beyond his ability, because of the distance between the two.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE BILL FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented for concurrence bills of the House, as follows:

House Bill No. 463, (Senate Bill No. 384), entitled:

Making an appropriation to the Department of Military Affairs for the acquisition by purchase or condemnation of lands, the payment of labor and the purchase of supplies, materials and equipment to enlarge and improve the Military Reservation at Indianatown Gap; and imposing certain duties upon the Department of Property and Supplies.

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 1:30 o'clock, p. m.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

HOUSE MESSAGES

HOUSE BILLS FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented for concurrence bills of the House, as follows:

House Bill No. 561, (Senate Bill No. 385), entitled:

To amend section six hundred and eight of the act, approved the fifteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 624), entitled "Banking Code," by making further provision, concerning the voting of shares held by incorporated institutions.

Which was committed to the Committee on Banking.

House Bill No. 604, (Senate Bill No. 386), entitled:

An Act to amend section three of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2045), entitled "The Support Law," by defining further the duty of support of indigent persons by children or grandchildren.

Which was committed to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

CONGRESS MEMORIALIZED TO EXTEND THE EFFECTIVE PERIOD OF THE BITUMINOUS ACT OF 1937

He also presented an extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives which was twice read as follows and referred to the Committee on Mines and Mining.

In the House of Representatives, February 17, 1941.

Whereas, the stabilization of the bituminous coal industry through price fixing and the elimination of unfair competition is of greatest importance throughout many portions of the United State and particularly in the bituminous region of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, the Act of Congress known as the "Bituminous Coal Act of 1937" (April 26, 1937 c. 127; 50 Stat. 72), has operated effectively to eliminate detrimental overproduction and savage competition in the bituminous coal industry; and

Whereas, the constitutionality of this Act of Congress has been finally sustained by the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Sunshine Anthracite Coal Co. v. Adhins 310 U. S. 381 84 L. ed 1263 (1940); and

Whereas, the operation of this Act of Congress ceases by its own terms on April 26, 1941; and

Whereas, if the provisions of this Act of Congress are not extended for an additional period, free competition in the bituminous coal industry may again degrade into anarchy, now therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), that the General Assembly memorialize the Congress of the United States to further extend the effective period of the "Bituminous Coal Act of 1937", and be it further

Resolved, that one copy of this resolution be forwarded to each of the following:

The President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt

The Vice-President, Henry A. Wallace, President of the United States Senate

Speaker Rayburn, House of Representatives

Senator Joseph Guffey

Senator James P. Davis and

All members of the House delegation from Pennsylvania

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

House Bill No. 225, entitled:

An Act relating to the national and State defense, providing for the establishment of a State Council of Defense and of local and district councils of defense, prescribing the powers and duties thereof, and making an appropriation therefor.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Clair hears none.

Mr. STIEFEL from the Committee on Appropriations reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 384, (House Bill No. 463), entitled:

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Clair hears none.

Mr. KEPHART from the Committee on Corporations re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 291, (House Bill No. 381), entitled:

An Act to amend section nine hundred eight of the act, approved the fifth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 364), entitled "An act relating to business corporations; defining and providing for the organization, merger, consolidation, reorganization, winding up and dissolution of such corporations; conferring certain rights, powers, duties and immunities upon them and their officers and shareholders; prescribing the conditions on which such corporations may exercise their powers; providing for the inclusion of certain existing corporations of the second class within the provisions of this act; prescribing the terms and conditions upon which foreign business corporations may be admitted, or may continue, to do business within the Commonwealth; conferring powers and imposing duties on the courts of common pleas, and certain State departments, commissions, and officers; authorizing certain State Departments, boards, commissions, or officers to collect fees for services required to be rendered by this act; imposing penalties; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to corporations," by further prescribing the procedure to be followed by shareholders who desire to become dissenting shareholders of a corporation which becomes a party to a plan of merger or consolidation; limiting the rights and remedies of shareholders who desire to object to or dissent from any merger or consolidation, and making the rights and remedies herein provided for exclusive and providing for notice of said section to shareholders.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce bills at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. EDMONDS (By request) read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 387, entitled:

An Act to further amend clause (8) of subsection A of section one thousand two hundred eight and section one thousand two hundred nine of the act, approved the fifteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 624), entitled "An act relating to the business of banking, and to the exercise of fiduciary powers by corporations; providing for the organization of corporations with fiduciary powers, and of banking corporations, with or without fiduciary powers, including the conversion of National banks into State banks, and for the licensing of private bankers; defining the rights, powers, duties, liabilities, and immunities of such corporations; of existent corporations authorized to engage in a banking business, with or without fiduciary powers, of private bankers, and of the officers, directors, trustees, shareholders, attorneys, and other employes of all such corporations or private bankers, or of affiliated corporations, associations, or persons; restricting the exercise of banking powers by any other corporation, association, or person, and of fiduciary powers by any other corporation; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the courts, prothonotaries, recorders of deeds and certain State departments, commissions, and officers; imposing penalties; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts," by further changing provisions relating to authorized investments of savings banks not under special charter and special charter savings banks.

Which was committed to the Committee on Banking.

He also, by request, read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 388, entitled:

An Act to further amend clauses (e) and (f) of section five hundred seventeen of the act, approved the seventeenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 682), entitled "An act relating to insurance; amending, revising, and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies, and the regulation, supervision, and protection of home and foreign insurance companies, Lloyds associations, reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges, and fire insurance rating bureaus, and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies, associations, and exchanges, including insurances carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund; providing penalties; and repealing existing laws," by changing provisions relating to the investment of the capital of stock fire and stock marine insurance companies.

Which was committed to the Committee on Insurance.

He also, by request, read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 389, entitled:

An Act to further amend clauses (d) and (e) of section four hundred four of the act, approved the seventeenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 682), entitled "An act relating to insurance; amending, revising, and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies, and the regulation, supervision, and protection of home and foreign insurance companies, Lloyds, associations, reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges, and fire insurance rating bureaus, and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies, associations, and exchanges, including insurance carried by the State Workmen's insurance Fund; providing penalties; and repealing existing laws," by further changing provisions relating to the investment of the capital and reserve of mutual and stock life insurance companies organized under the laws of this Commonwealth.

Which was committed to the Committee on Insurance.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 390, entitled:

An Act to amend paragraph eight of subsection (j) of section fifty-nine of the act, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. L. 447), entitled as amended "An act relating to the administration and distribution of the estates of decedents and of minors, and of trust estates; including the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties, liabilities, accounts, discharge and removal of executors, administrators, guardians, and trustees, herein designated as fiduciaries; the administration and distribution of the estates of presumed decedents; widow's and children's exemptions; debts of decedents, rents of real estate as assets for payment thereof, the lien thereof, sales and mortgages of real estate for the payment thereof, judgments and executions therefor, and the discharge of real estate from the lien thereof; contracts of decendents for the sale or purchase of real estate; legacies, including legacies charged on land; the discharge of residuary estates and of real estate from the lien of legacies and other charges; the appraisement of real estate devised at a valuation; the ascertainment of the curtilage of dwelling houses or other buildings devised; the abatement and survival of actions, the substitution of executors and administrators therein; the survival of causes of action and suits thereupon by or against fiduciaries; investments by fiduciaries; the organization of corporations to carry on the business of decedents; the audit and review of accounts of fiduciaries; refunding bonds; transcripts to the court of common pleas of balances due by fiduciaries; the rights, powers, and liabilities of nonresident and foreign fiduciaries; the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties, and liabilities of trustees durante absentia; the recording and registration of decrees, reports and other proceedings, and the fees therefor; appeals in certain cases; and, also, generally dealing with the jurisdiction, powers, and procedure of the orphan's court in all matters relating to fiduciaries concerned with the estates of decedents," by providing for the filing of guardian's accounts in the office of the clerk of the orphans' court.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, March 19, 1941

The House met at 12 m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Donald McFall offered the following prayer:

Hear our prayers O Lord in behalf of those who are ill in body. Comfort those this day whose lives have been overshadowed with sorrow. Breathe upon us thy blessing that we may continue to do Thy will. Bless we pray Thee this assemblage of men. May each give careful consideration to all problems relating to our great State, so that when final action is taken there may be no regrets in the line of duty. May it be said of each of us as was said of the Christ, "He met the needs of all men." In His Name we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. BRETHERICK, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. SARRAF. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 56.

In the House of Representatives, March 19, 1941.

Whereas, "The Glory that was Greece," is a term well known to educated men the world over. Greece of antiquity was the cradle of our civilization. From Greece we have derived our laws, our literature, our art, our concepts of justice and of the dignity of man. Indeed, Greece belongs to all mankind:

Whereas, that treasured pearl of our language, the word domocracy, meaning the rule of the people, is derived from the ancient Greek, Democracy was founded in ancient Athens. When Greece of the early Christian era, the home of so many Saints, Fathers and Doctors of the Church, fell to the pagan conqueror, the word democracy vanished through the ages to be revived by our own glorious nation at its foundation.

Whereas, on March 25, 1821, the Greece of modern times became an independent nation through the never-ending faith, hope, and courage of her people. In the century that followed, Greece all too often has been the battle ground of nations, but the spirit of indominable courage of the Lacedamonians at Thermopylae has been handed down through centuries. Indeed, the word Spartan is synonymous with courage. Today, Greece again struggles to maintain her liberty and freedom as a nation; she defends not only her soil, but those classical treasures of antiquity of which she is the world's custodian; once ruined in the havoc of modern war, they can never be restored. It is to be hoped that when peace is restored that the nations of the world will remember the "Glory that is Greece" and restore all Greek territory to the blue and white cross of St. George.

Whereas, the Greeks have been associated with the United States since the early days of the Republic. In 1794 the first challenge to our infant nation embroiled us in war with the Barbary States of Nothern Africa. Our slogan of that day, "Millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute," brought us the respect of the nations of the world. The slogan is still valid in our day! Our young navy crossed the seas and wrote glorious chapters of our history under Decatur and Bainbridge.

Wars are not won by naval victories alone; our infant republic could not send a military expedition across the seas. However, a military force was organized under the command of General William Eaton, U. S. A., and Colonel Tobias Lear who had been military secretary to George Washington; this force was composed mainly of Greeks supported by a small force of Neapolitan gunners. These Greek companies fought valiantly alongside the United States Marines. Their repeated assaults brought the war to a successful conclusion in 1805 by the capture of the Tripolitan Capitol of Derne. Our Greek companies were repeatedly mentioned in the dispatches for their courage and sacrifice. Thus General Eaton, in his dispatch to Commodore Samuel Barron concerning the assault on Derne on April 29, 1805, states, "Our forces ashore successfully assaulted Derne, led by Patrick N. O'Bannon of the Marines along with our Greek companies. The loss in killed and wounded this day were mostly Greeks. They well supported their ancient character." Thus the Greeks made the supreme sacrifice and contributed their lives in the early days of our republic.

Whereas, people of Greek origin or descent have greatly contributed to the progress of the United States as citizens of the republic. They have been loyal, progressive and law abiding. They have entered the various phases of American life and contributed greatly thereto. They have been noted for their community spirit in matters of charity and human kindness. Their campaign in education for American citizenship has been outstanding. In the early days of our present economic depression, having engaged extensively in the food trades i the United States, they willingly fed thousands of persons out of their love for their fellow man before either private or governmental social agencies could bring themselves to the realization of the catastrophe that had overtaken us.

Whereas, a campaign is now in progress in the United States for the purpose of raising funds for the distressed women and children of Greece. Such relief as has been afforded has been most thankfully received. The campaign has been conducted with dignity and restraint. Our citizens of Hellenic origin have steadfastly refused to indulge in a campaign of recrimination and hate, or tell us what we should do on their behalf. This is eminently befitting an ancient and cultured people. They realize that our nation is derived from many peoples and that our national unity is of paramount importance. Now be it therefore

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the legislature of this state acknowledge the contribution made to our nation by persons of Hellenic origin by endorsing the celebration of Greek Independence Day on March 25 as Hellenic Day, and be it further

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), that his Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania shall issue, publish and declare an appropriate proclamation to the people of Pennsylvania, designating for observance this year, the twenty-fifth day of March, as Hellenic Day.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

Mr. McMillen for Mr. HEWIT for today's session.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. LESKO, from the Committee on Counties, reported as committed House Bill No. 112, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the second day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 1278), entitled "An act relating to counties of the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes; and revising, amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto," authorizing counties of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth classes to acquire by lease, purchase or condemnation, land within the county for the purpose of establishing and maintaining airdromes and aviation landing fields; authorizing the leasing of such facilities and the joint operation by said county of such facilities with other political subdivisions; and authorizing appropriations for such purposes.

Mr. McFALL, from the Committee on Counties, reported as committed, House Bill No. 314, entitled:

An act to repeal certain local laws relating to The Berks County Prison and relating to the Board of Prison Inspectors and Prison Inspectors of said prison.

Mr. HEATHERINGTON, from the Committee on Highways, reported as committed, House Bill No. 107, entitled:

An Act to amend section eleven of the act, approved the twenty-seventh (P. L. 395), entitled "An act empowering the Department of Highways to acquire certain toll bridges within the Commonwealth; providing the procedure therefor; providing for the reimbursement of the Commonwealth from tolls and charges; and making an appropriation," as amended, by providing that such toll bridges heretofore or hereafter acquired by the Department of Highways shall be free bridges from the effective date of this act or from the date they are so acquired.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. There appears to be a misapprehension as to the rights of members in becoming co-sponsors of bills.

Rule 18 of the House provides

> "All bills shall be presented in triplicate, and signed by the members introducing the same, and date of filing entered thereon. The original copy is for the use of the committee, the second copy is for the use of the printer and the third copy is for the use of the members of the press. No House bill shall have more than two sponsors."

No member may become a co-sponsor of a bill after its introduction and reference. Immediately following introduction and reference, the original copy of the bill is sent to committee, the second copy has gone to the printer and third copy is already in the hands of the press, in addition the history has been compiled and the official Journal entries made therefore, it must be obvious to the members that it is impossible to recall the original copies of the bills to permit adding a sponsor.

It is very important that both sponsors and co-sponsors endorse all three copies of the bills when presented—this is the only time they can be signed.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. CORDIER. I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Lackawanna will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker, is it possible to have a co-sponsor on a resolution after it has been referred to committee?

The SPEAKER. The same procedure applies to resolutions that applies to bills.

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker, is it possible to have a co-sponsor of a bill after it has reached committee?

The SPEAKER. Not after it has been referred to committee.

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker, then the House established a precedent two weeks ago, when a co-sponsor was added to Resolution 43, providing for the adjourning of tax sales in the Commonwealth.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is giving this information to the House for future guidance. What has happened in the past is beyond control of the Chair.

SPECIAL ORDER—HOUSE BILL 463

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 63, Printer's No. 82, on page 9 of today's calendar, bills on third reading, be made a special order of business at this time.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 463, as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Military Affairs for the acquisition by purchase or condemnation of lands the payment of labor and the purchase of supplies materials and equipment to enlarge and improve the Military Reservation at Indiantown Gap and imposing certain duties upon the Department of Property and Supplies

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The sum of fifty-seven thousand dollars ($57,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Military Affairs for the acquisition by purchase or condemnation of additional lands to be used for or in connection with the Military Reservation at Indiantown Gap and for the payment of labor and the purchase of supplies material and equipment deemed necessary for the improvement of the said military reservation and for enlarging and making the same suitable and proper for military reservation purposes. No lands shall be purchased or condemned for such purpose except by the Department of Property and Supplies in the manner provided by the Administration Code of 1929

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the prvisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 656, entitled:

An Act to amend the third paragraph of article seven of the act, approved the seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and one (P. L. 20), entitled "An act for the government of cities of the second class," permitting the city treasurer to collect delinquent taxes under the act approved the thirtieth day of March one thousand nine hundred and three (P. L. 106).

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 583, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies, with the approval of the Governor, to sell and convey two certain plots of land.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 259, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections four hundred eleven, and six hundred ten of the act, approved the twenty-ninth day of November, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (Pamphlet Laws fifteen—three (P. L. 15, 1933-34) entitled as amended "An act to regulate and restrain the sale, manufacture, possession, transportation, importation, traffic in, and use of alcohol, and alcoholic and malt or brewed beverages; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board and its agents, the Department of Public Instruction, other officers of the State Government, courts. and district attorneys; authorizing the establishment and operation of State stores for the sale of such beverages not for consumption on the premises, and the granting of licenses, subject to local option, to sell such beverages for consumption on and off the premises; forbidding importation or bringing of such beverages into the State except as herein provided; prohibiting certain sales or practices in, connection with, and transactions in such beverages by licensees and others; providing for the forfeiture of certain property; making disposition of the receipts from State stores and of fees; and imposing penalties," by further fixing the hours during which liquor, malt or brewed beverages may be sold; and imposing further penalties.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 487, entitled:

An Act to repeal clause (o) of section seven of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2051), entitled "An act relating to public assistance; providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children, aged persons, blind persons and other persons requiring relief; providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose; authorizing the Department of Public Assistance to cooperate with, and to accept and disburse moneys received from, the United States Government for assistance to such persons; providing for the liquidation of the State Emergency Relief Board, Boards of Trustees of the Mothers' Assistance Fund, and Boards of Trustees of Pension Fund for the Blind; and repealing laws relating to mothers' assistance, pensions for the blind, old age assistance, and the State Emergency Relief Board," by eliminating requirement that the names of general assistance recipients be made public.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on first reading?

Mr. WOODSIDE. On the reading of this bill I would like to make a remark or two, on the form of the bill. In section 1 of this proposed bill states it seems that clause 0 in section 7—

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman ask unanimous consent to discuss this bill? The rules do not permit debate on bills on first reading.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to discuss this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to discuss this bill? The Chair hears no objection and the gentleman will proceed.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 487, section 1 reads, "Clause 0 of section 7 of an act approved the twenty-fourth day of June 1937, P. L. 2051, entitled an act," and then quotes the act, "and the amendments thereto are hereby repealed."

In my opinion that is not only bad form but is illegal and improper. Whether it is illegal or improper or not it certainly is a practice which should not be adopted by this House, because the situation as it develops is this: you want to know what has been amended, and you refer to the act of 1937, if you happen to have the Pamphlet Laws in front of you. You will find if you refer to that act that there is no clause 0 in the act at all. Then you look at the acts passed in subsequent sessions of the Legislature to determine in which session this section of the act was amended and 0 clause added. Under those circumstances, if you do not happen to have the act of 1790, you must either refer to a Digest, which may or may not be correct, or you must review the Pamphlet Laws of every session of the Legislature from 1790 to date.

I make this statement on the floor of the House rather than calling it to the attention of the sponsor for the reason that I think it should be called to the attention of all the Members of the House, as well as the Legislative Reference Bureau, so that hereafter in drafting this type of legislation reference will be made to the amendments and parts to be repealed. It is my opinion in a situation of this kind, where the part to be amended is only one clause, the clause itself should be in the bill so that it will not be necessary for the Members of the Legislature when they are studying the bill to go to their Pamphlet Laws to see what the amendment is they are repealing.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. LEVY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, I will say that Bill No. 487, Printers No. 91 repeals a section of the Act of 1937. The question in my mind is: how the Legislative Reference Bureau could possibly call to the attention of the Members of the House in drafting the act the section repealed other than to refer in the title to the Act of 1937 and the number of the act in the Pamphlet Laws.

I would also say, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, that that has been the practice as I understand it, and it certainly could not be written in any other way and convey to the Members the fact that we are attempting to repeal an act that was repealed by a subsequent session of Legislature.

In further answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, I would say that I, as sponsor of the bill, was in accord with the Legislative Reference Bureau in drafting this bill, and to date I am not convinced that the bill is in any manner faulty or erroneous.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, this is a matter of procedure and I believe it is important enough to the House to take time to discuss it. I ask unanimous consent to discuss the matter further and to interrogate the sponsor of the bill, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection and the gentleman will proceed.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LEVY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I again apologize to the sponsor for not having discussed this matter with him privately before this interrogation, but since he has answered as he has, I would like to ask him whether he realizes that clause "0" is not in the 1937 act, clause "0" of section 7 is not in the 1937 act?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, he is perfectly right in his statement, clause "0" is not in the 1937 act as passed by this Assembly.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, should not reference be made to the 1939 act which amends the 1937 act and puts clause "0" into the 1937 act, which is the only place in the Pamphlet Laws of Pennsylvania where you can find this clause "0" which is being repealed, and should not reference to the 1939 act be placed in the body of bill 487?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman, I would say that in my estimation he is correct in one way, however, he is incorrect in another. The fact remains that in the 1937 relief act, clause "0" is not in the act itself. But the gentleman from Dauphin knows full well that in 1939, in amending the 1937 act, the sponsor of the bill at that time added another section to his amendment, and clause "0" was then inserted. Therefore, I say to the gentleman from Dauphin that he is correct in his assertion that clause "0" was not in the original act of 1937. However, in the amendments offered in 1939, which were enacted into law, clause "0" was inserted in the 1939 amendments, but how could we intelligently debate an amendment offered in 1941 if we do not make reference to a section which was added in 1939 as an amendment to the original act of 1937?

Mr. WOODSIDE. That is exactly the point, Mr. Speaker. How can we intelligently discuss this subject unless you make reference to the Act of 1939, which shows this section, and which is the only place in the Pamphlet Laws of Pennsylvania where you can find this section.

The gentleman is right, in that the bill should refer to the Act of 1937 because, of course, that is the act which was amended by the Act of 1939, but the bill is in bad form unless it also refers to the Act of 1939, because in no other way can any of the members of this House find clause "0" except by referring to the act of 1939.

Let us take an example. I am talking about form generally, not this particular bill, but generally in relation to all bills. Suppose it happened to be, instead of an Act of 1937, an act of 1837. It would then have been impossible to find where it had been amended unless you happened to konw, went through all the Pamphlet Laws of Pennsylvania or were a lawyer and had digests or access to them such as "Purdons" or "West." Then you would refer to the Digest and find the amendment.

For that reason it seems perfectly evident to me that any bill which amends a section or repeals a section ought to make reference, not only to the original act, but to the amendment, and that is doubly true in any case where the section to be repealed or amended is not contained in the original act. It is a matter of form which ought to be perfectly evident. I consulted with the Attorney General's office briefly and obtained a curb-stone opinion. I was advised that although they feel it is proper to amend an act by reference, as is done here, there certainly should always be a reference made to any section which is to be repealed or amended by a bill before the House or Senate.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, again in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, as he I do not wish to take up too much of the time of the House in discussing this matter but I think it is of such importance that it warrants further discussion, inasmuch as it might have an important bearing in the future. I would say, in all fairness, that the title of the bill should have included reference to the 1939 amendment, but apparently the Legislative Reference Bureau in framing the title, being such competent lawyers as they are, thought the Members in the well of the House were of the same timber.

I would say to the gentleman from Dauphin it might be difficult and cumbersome for new Members in glancing over the bill to refer to the 1939 act without a great deal of research, and I can assure the gentleman that on second reading of the bill I will include a reference to the 1939 act.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on first reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the first time.

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 604, as follows:

An Act to amend section three of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws 2045) entitled "An act relating to the support of indigent persons publicly cared for or assisted providing for the support of such persons by certain relatives and for the recovery of public moneys expended for care and assistance from the property and estates of such persons providing for guardians of the person and property of such persons providing for the arrest and seizure and sale of the property of deserters and providing procedure" by defining further the duty of support of indigent persons by children or grandchildren

Section 1 Section three of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws 2045) entitled "An act relating to the support of indigent persons publicly cared for or assisted providing for the support of such persons by certain relatives and for the recovery of public moneys expended for care and assistance from the property and estates of such persons providing for guardians of the person and property of such persons providing for the arrest and seizure and sale of the property of deserters and providing procedure" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 3 Relatives Liable for the Support of Indigent Persons Procedure to Enforce Support (a) The husband wife child father mother grandparent and grandchild of every indigent person shall if of sufficient financial ability care for and maintain or financially assist such indigent person at such rate as the court of the county where such indigent person resides shall order or direct

(b) The courts shall have power to hear determine and make orders and decrees in such cases upon the petition of such indigent person or of any other person or any public body or public agency having any interest in the care maintenance or assistance of such indigent person except no support order or decree shall be made in favor of an indigent parent or grandparent when the children or grandchildren established by satisfactory evidence that such parent or grandparent wilfully refused to support such children or grandchildren when under a legal duty to do so under the laws of the Commonwealth

(c) In all cases where an order has been made by the court for the care and maintenance or assistance of a husband wife father mother child grandfather grandmother or grandchild whether or not confined in any public institution and the said order has not been complied with the court or any judge thereof upon affidavit or petition filed setting forth that the person on whom the said order has been made has not complied with the said order shall issue an attachment directed to the sheriff or other proper officer of the county directing and commanding that the person named as having failed to comply with said order be brought before the court at such time as the court may direct If it shall appear to the court after hearing that the person on whom the said order was made has wilfully neglected or refused to comply with said order the court may adjudge said person in contempt of court and in its discretion may commit said person to the county jail for a period not exceeding six months

Mr. BAKER, from the Committee on Workmen's Compensation, reported as committed, House Bill No. 251, entitled:

An Act to amend section eleven of the act approved the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2532), entitled "An act to establish funds to provide security for the payment of benefits in event of the insolvency of an insurance carrier authorized to write workmen's compensation insurance in this Commonwealth; and to provide for the administration thereof," by providing that payment of an award from the funds established by said act shall not provide any right of recovery against the employer; and that the employer may pay the award in advance of payment from the fund and shall thereupon be subrogated to the rights of the employe or any other party in interest against the fund.

Mr. LEONARD, from the Committee on Workmen's Compensation, reported as committed, House Bill No. 364, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the twenty-first day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 566), entitled "A supplement to the act, approved the second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (Pamphlet Laws, seven hundred thirty-six), entitled, as amended 'An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment; establishing an elective schedule of compensation; providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder; and prescribing penalties,' as reenacted and amended, providing for the payment of compensation to volunteer firemen or their dependents," amplifying the provisions thereof as tc persons entitled to such payments.

Mr. NAGEL, from the Committee on Education, reported as committed, House Bill No. 50, entitled:

An Act to repeal section four hundred eight of the act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith."

Mr. GOODWIN, from the Committee on Townships, reported as amended, House Bill No. 226, entitled:

An Act to reenact and amend the title and the act, approved the second day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2803), entitled "An act providing a method of annexation of townships of the first class, and parts thereof, to cities and boroughs, and regulating the proceedings pertaining thereto," providing for the annexation of townships of the first class or parts thereof to other townships of the first class.

RESOLUTIONS

THANKS EXTENDED

Mr. JAMES offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, March 19, 1941.

When we are privileged to listen to an inspiring flow of oratory such as that delivered at the St. Patrick party last evening by the Honorable Clare Gerald Fenerty, Judge of Common Pleas Court No. 5 of Philadelphia, it is indeed fitting that we take formal action in expressing our appreciation and our gratitude.

Judge Fenerty's exposition of the ancient culture, science and art of Ireland was such as to stir the heart of every son of Erin, and of every other listener as well, whose good fortune it was to celebrate the Day of St. Patrick with the General Assembly of Pennsylvania; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby thanks Judge Fenerty for coming to Harrisburg and for his magnificient oration at the dinner in honor of the Patron Saint of Ireland; and be it Resolved, That a certified copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk to the Honorable Clare G. Fenerty at Philadelphia.

THANKS EXTENDED

Mr. GERARD offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, March 19, 1941.

An occasion that will linger for years in the happy memories of its participants in the St. Patrick's Day dinner of the General Assembly of 1941, held at the Penn-Harris Hotel on the evening of March 18th.

The unprecedented success of the party was due in the first instance to the tireless efforts of the committee on arrangements, who overlooked no detail to make the function the best in every respect of all similar affairs heretofore attempted, and Thomas J. Griffen, Secretary of Darby Borough in Delaware County, Walter L. Miller, of the Chief Clerk's Office and Thomas J. Callahan, Chief Clerk of the House are to be especially commended for their work in providing an evening's entertainment which inter alia included a debate between a Senator from Philadelphia and the Governor, an apoplectic head-waiter, a most gifted story teller and more dignitaries than you could shake a stick at.

Particularly fortunate was the committee's selection of Jack Cummings, Honorary Chairman of the Sons of St. Patrick, as toastmaster for the dinner. His humor, personality and choice of language contributed so largely to its splendid success.

Most commendable also was the committee's choice of speakers and the entertainment, both spontaneous and which planned, added much to the mirth and gaiety everywhere prevalent; be it therefore

Resolved, That the House of Representatives give a rousing vote of thanks to its committee, both individually and collectively, for its and their outstanding service in giving us a celebration worthy of the great and good personage, whose birthday it commemorated, and worthy of the great and stalwart people, whose Patron Saint he is, and of the State and Nation adopted by many of its most loyal sons as their own; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be presented by the Secretary of the House of Representatives (the Chief Clerk being a most industrious member of the committee) to each of the members of the committee to arrange a celebration of the Birthday of St. Patrick, and to Jack Cummings, in appreciation of his splendid services as toastmaster.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Mr. GILLAN offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, March 19, 1941.

Within a few months of the end of his allotted span of three score years and ten, John A. Finafrock, a well known educator of this Commonwealth, died at his home in Mercersburg in Franklin County, on Saturday, March 15th, after an illness of four months, leaving to survive him his wife, Mary Fallon Finafrock.

Mr. Finafrock was born December 16, 1871, in St. Thomas Township in Franklin County. At the age of seventeen, he began teaching in Hamilton township, and later taught in St. Thomas township, and for nineteen years was principal of the Mercersburg schools. Mr. Finafrock was a thorough student and supplemented his preparation for teaching by summer courses at Cornell University and the University of Pennsylvania.

During the summer of 1915, Mr. Finafrock was nominated by Superintendent L. E. Smith to be the first assistant county superintendent of Franklin County. His nomination was confirmed by the Executive Committee of the School Directors' Association of Franklin County. He served in this capacity until 1922 when he was elected to the superintendency. He served most efficiently as county superintendent of schools for twelve years (3 terms) until his voluntary retirement in 1934.

Mr. Finafrock was a local historian of wide reputation, was in demand as a speaker and was the author of numerous historical papers. At the time of his death, he was president of the Kittochtinny Historical Society, and the Enoch Brown Memorial Association. He was also a member of the board of trustees of State Teachers' College, Shippensburg, the Board of Regents of Mercersburg Academy, past president of the Southern Convention District of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, a member of the Board of Directors of the Children's Aid Society of Franklin County, an elder in the Trinity Evangelical and Reformed Church, Mercersburg, and a teacher of a Women's Bible Class; therefore be it

Resolved, That as a mark of respect to the memory of one who unselfishly devoted the years of his life to the furtherance of the interests of the community in which he lived, this House hereby directs that this resolution be spread upon the records of the House and that a copy thereof be transmitted by the Chief Clerk to the widow of this outstanding Pennsylvanian as an evidence of the esteem and high regard in which he was held by those acquainted with his work in the Commonwealth.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 28

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Resolution No. 28, Printer's No. 102.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 12, 1941.

Whereas The stablization of the bituminous coal industry through price fixing and the elimination of unfair competition is of greatest importance throughout many portions of the United States and particularly in the bituminous regions of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and

Whereas The Act of Congress known as the "Bituminous Coal Act of 1937" (April 26 1937 c 127 50 Stat 72) has operated effectively to eliminate detrimental overproduction and savage competition in the bituminous coal industry and

Whereas The constitutionality of this Act of Congress has been finally sustained by the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Sunshine Anthracite Coal Co v Adhins 310 U S 381 84 L ed 1263 (1940) and

Whereas The operation of this Act of Congress ceases by its own terms on April 26 1941 and

Whereas If the provisions of this Act of Congress are not extended for an additional period free competition in the bituminous coal industry may again degrade into anarchy now therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly memorialize the Congress of the United States to further extend the effective period of the Bituminous Coal Act of 1937" and be it further

Resolved That one copy of this resolution be forwarded to each of the following

The President of the United States Franklin D Roosevelt

The Vice-President Henry A Wallace President of the United States Senate

Speaker Rayburn House of Representatives

Senator Joseph Guffey

Senator James J Davis

All members of the House delegation from Pennsylvania

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BIRTHDAY CONGRATULATIONS

Messrs. DENNISON and HELM offered a privileged resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 19, 1941.

Whereas, The Almighty Creator in his Infinite Wisdom hath created and permitted many things to exist, to the consternation and bewilderment of us mortals, and

Whereas, There exists today one of these creatures who is a member of this august House, and

Whereas, It is well known that in many instances "mighty oaks from little acorns grow," and

Whereas, No public recognition has ever been given to the "little acorns" that do not grow, and

Whereas, Today is the natal day of the "little acorn" that did not grow, therefore be it

Resolved, That the House extend to the Honorable William R. McMillen its congratulations on this anniversary date, and wish him many happy returns of the day.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as these fellows have gone to all the trouble of mentioning acorns that grew and acorns that didn't grow, I would like to have Mr. Jefferson get up and let us see whether there are other acorns that didn't grow.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Jefferson please stand up.

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would also suggest that this House recommend to the gentleman that he take the curl out of his hair before he stands up to get into this sort of argument.

Mr. DENNISON. Mr. Speaker, the reason for using the word "acorn" in the resolution was because an acorn is one kind of nut.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

The following Committee meetings were announced:

There will be a Public Hearing before the Committee on Professional Licensure on House Bill No. 227 on Tuesday, March 25, 1941 at 10 a. m. in the New House Caucus Room.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. WRIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, March 24, 1941, at 9 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 1:10 p. m.) the House adjourned.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1941. 135th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 25. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, MARCH 24, 1941. No. 25.

SENATE

MONDAY, March 24, 1941.

The Senate met at 4:30 o'clock, p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

O God of purity and light, God of wisdom and peace, God of comfort and joy we thank Thee for our country, the land of the free and the home of the brave. We thank Thee for the heritage which is ours that we may ever guard it with jealous care.

We thank Thee for our Commonwealth, long since settled and maintained by sincere and earnest people and that truly it has become the keystone of our nation. Grant us who have caught the flaming torch slipping from faltering hands, the power and vision to carry on their trust in us undaunted and unsullied.

Numbered among the legislators of this Commonwealth we would recognize the grave responsibilities which are ours in securing the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity through our legislation from day to day. So much depends upon our decisions in the General Assembly that we would be honest in all we do. "To thine own self be true and it must follow as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man," says the poet. Such would be our earnest and honest desires this day. Grant us Thy peace. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WATKINS and Mr. EALY, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President and members of the Senate, on the question of leave of absence I feel I would like to talk about five minutes to explain my absence and perhaps to apologize to the Senators. In order to make my record perfectly clear and have no criticism, I am returning my salary received up to date; I have written a check in the amount of eighteen hundred dollars to the order of Charles H. Ealy, President Pro Tempore. Being a trustworthy Republican I do not like to give this to a Democratic treasurer but I will hand it over to Mr. Ealy for safekeeping for the time I was away.

Mr. President, I was sent away by my physician, and therefore had a good excuse. Any of you who have gone to a modern hospital for observation will know that the diagnosis is almost worse than the disease and I think perhaps it would be a pretty robust person who go through with all the pictures; and also the family is not very much interested in moving pictures of your insides, including the liver and the spleen and so forth; it is not exactly what you you would call a family group.

The doctor ordered me to go south and I went to Jamaica, which is a very beautiful place and I recommend it highly. If I had the time I could tell you a lot about the island of Jamaica and also the fact that before you vote in Jamaica you have to pay taxes. There are only about five thousand white people in Jamaica and about a million and a quarter blacks.

There is a very good newspaper in Jamaica, which has been in existence since about 1806, called the Daily Gleaner and I used to read that paper, thinking perhaps I would find news about the Pennsylvania Legislature. There was very little.

Mr. President, there was nothing printed at all about any eloquence on the part of the gentleman from Cambria, Senator Haluska, or the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Cavalcante, or the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent. I understand that they have at times during the Session been quite eloquent, but there was nothing in the Daily Gleaner about that.

There was one reference to Senator James being turned down by Governor James secretary, but there was also a reference to the gentleman from Cambria, Senator Haluska, the Honorable John J. Haluska, a member of the Pennsylvania Senate, taking exception to a prizefight —that something was wrong with this prizefight and that Senator Haluska said he knew all about it, being a prizefighter himself. The Gleaner very unkindly said it was understood the real truth was Senator Haluska had not received enough complimentary tickets; that was the reason he had objected. I do not know. I came back here, of course, naturally, while I was away I did not hear a great deal, but I was wondering if the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would still go on and of course it was something of a stock for me to come back and find the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania had gone on very well without me.

In that connection, Mr. President, I could not help comparing Pennsylvania with Washington—if it were reported Mr. Roosevelt fell off a boat into the Gulf of Mexico it is quite true everything would come to an end, but that is not the case in my own case.

I first tried honestly to get an honorable discharge from the Senate, knowing I was in very delicate condition. I thought I would like to get an honorable discharge and by so doing avoid such a terrible ceremony as we have heard when anyone then in office, left, of having an eulogy pronounced, and I thought I would go and die outside.

However, I did not want to make a farewell speech here because I saw the awful example of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, whom I have heard give a farewell address on two occassions here in the Senate. I am not making, therefore, a farewell address. In fact, Mr. President, the first person I saw when I entered the Senate was Senator Shapiro right here in the Senate—after making all those farewell addresses.

I promised to take only five minutes so I would like to say that in this long life of mine I have never before at any time met a group of men I liked so much as the members of the Pennsylvania Senate and I am very happy to be back. I think it would be a very nice form of welcome if you would all vote "aye" on all these amendments of mine. I have a bill here, the first one.

Thank you very much.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I certainly appreciate the confidence which the gentleman from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, has reposed in me. He has handed me a check made payable to me, not as President Pro Tempore of the Senate but in my own name, in the amount of eighteen hundred dollars. I am sure the check is good, as it is on a reliable bank in Philadelphia.

However, Mr. President, in order that there might not be any misunderstanding about this I think I will return the check to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, and suggest that he issue a check payable to the State Treasurer.

Mr. WOODWARD. Oh, no, Mr. President. I know Mr. Ross is a Democrat but I will trust him. I have endorsed the check to Mr. Ross.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

PETITION

The PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a communication from the Association of Highway Officials of the North Atlantic States, dated March 18, 1941, urging,

First: Immediate action by the United States government to carry out through the various state highway departments the early construction of the vitally needed super-highway between Washington, D. C., and Boston, Massachusetts:

Second: Requesting that the allotment of federal funds by Congress for highway purposes in the federal states be increased, and opposing the diversion of funds raised for taxation on highway users to any other than road purposes;

Third: Recommending that the practice of diverting motor vehicle revenues to other than highway purposes be discontinued.

The communication will be noted in the Journal.

The resolution is referred to the Committee on Highways.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. CROWE, from the Committee on Education, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 301, entitled:

An Act providing for practical arts and vocational agriculture, home economics, industrial and commercial schools and classes, through public school districts and in cooperation with employment offices, for the training, retraining, instruction, and adjustment of out-of-school, unadjusted individuals, in order to enable them to enter, reenter, or continue employment under changing conditions; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Superintendent of Public Instruction; and making an appropriation.

Mr. FARRELL, from the Committee on Education, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 242, entitled:

A Supplement to an act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," providing for the appointment of a deputy school controller in school districts of the first class; and prescribing duties.

Mr. SNOWDEN, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 205, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Trustees of the Pennsylvania State College for the use of the School of Mineral Industries for research and investigation of problems affecting mineral industries.

Mr. RUTH, from the Committee on Education, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 51, entitled:

An Act authorizing and empowering school districts of the first class to furnish food, including milk, to undernourished and poor school children in their districts.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE ON EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

MEMBERS OF THE PENNSYLVANIA LIQUOR CONTROL BOARD

Mr. JAMES from the Committee on Executive Nominations reported with a favorable recommendation the following nominations, made by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg.

William S. Rial, Greensburg, from June 1, 1940 until November 29, 1945, and until his successor shall have been appointed and qualified.

Frederick T. Gelder, Forest City, from December 9, 1940, until November 29, 1943, and until his successor shall have been appointed and qualified.

ARTHUR H. JAMES

RULE 38 SUSPENDED

By unanimous consent, a motion was made by Mr. JAMES and Mr. GELTZ.

That Rule 38, which requires nominations made by the Governor, to lie on the table one day be dispensed with, and the Senate do now resolve itself into Executive Session, for the purpose of acting upon all the nominations reported at to-day's session.

Which was agreed to.

Whereupon,

A motion was made by Mr. JAMES and Mr. GELTZ.

That the Senate do advise and consent to the nominations reported.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—47

Barr,	Ealy,	Mallery,	Tallman,
Bartlett,	Edmonds,	McCreesh,	Taylor,
Becker,	Farrell,	McGinnis,	Thomas,
Carr,	Frey,	McQuiddy,	Tyler,
Chapman,	Geltz,	Miller,	Wade,
Coleman,	Haluska,	Reed,	Walker,
Cox,	Heyburn,	Ruth,	Watkins,
Crider,	James,	Scarlett,	Wilson, H. I.,
Crowe,	Jaspan,	Shapiro,	Wilson, T. B.,
Deitrick,	Kephart,	Snowden,	Woodward,
Dent,	Lanius,	Stevenson,	Ziesenheim,
DiSilvestro,	Letzler,	Stiefel,

NAYS—0

Two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Governor be informed accordingly.

EXECUTIVE SESSION RISES

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, I move that the Executive Session do now rise.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to just say a word in connection with these two nominations, in fairness to the two gentlemen who are involved. I have not had the pleasure of acquaintance with Senator Rial but I have had with Senator Gelder and I want to say that during all the discussions in the Caucus on nominations and confirmations. there was never a single voice raised against the confirmation of either of these two gentlemen, whatever delay there was in confirmation of these nominations was due to myself in part, and was due in part to procedural difficulties between myself and the gentleman from Bucks, Senator James; he has our consent to some other nominations which I understand it is not convenient for him to bring out today. I want to say of record, so that it may be made a matter of record, there was never a single person in the Democratic Caucus, as far as I know, who was opposed to the confirmation of these two gentlemen, nor was there at any time in my presence in any Caucus meeting a word said against their confirmation.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. EDMONDS read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 391, entitled:

An Act prescribing the nature and kind of investments which may be made by fiduciaries and repealing acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 392, entitled:

An Act to amend section 1202 by adding thereto clause LX, of the act approved the fourth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (P. L. 519) entitled, "An act concerning boroughs, and revising, amending, and consolidating the law relating to boroughs;" authorizing boroughs to appropriate moneys for the support of hospitals.

Which was committed to the Committee on Municipal Government.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 393, entitled:

An Act to add section 435 to the act approved June second, one thousand nine hundred fifteen (P. L. 736) entitled "An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment; establishing an elective schedule of compensation; providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder; and prescribing penalties," providing that hospitals, institutions, physicians, surgeons and others furnishing medical, dental or nursing services, hospital treatment, artificial appliances, medicines and supplies for which the employer is liable, shall be deemed parties in interest to present claims and to enforce awards in Workmen's Compensation proceedings.

Which was committed to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 394, entitled:

An Act to reenact and amend section 441 of the act approved the second day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled, "An act relating to counties of the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes; and revising, amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto;" by authorizing boards of county commissioners to appropriate county moneys for the support of charitable hospitals.

Which was committed to the Committee on County Government.

Mr. WADE read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 395, entitled:

An Act to amend section 699.4 of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 872), entitled "An act to consolidate, amend and revise the penal laws of the Commonwealth," increasing the penalties for performing worldly employment, games or diversion on Sunday.

Which was committed to the Committee on Law and Order.

Mr. CARR read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 396, entitled:

An Act to further amend section thirty-one as renumbered section thirty-two of the act, approved the third day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 252), entitled, as amended "An act to regulate and restrain the traffic in malt and brewed beverages, as herein defined; providing for the licensing of the manufacture, transportation, sale and distribution of such beverages; imposing license and permit fees, and providing for collection and distribution thereof; restricting ownership and interest in licensed places; permitting municipalities and townships, by vote of the electors, to prevent the licensing therein of places where such beverages may be sold for consumption on the premises, and regulating elections for this purpose; imposing duties upon the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, quarter sessions courts, district attorneys, the Department of Justice, proper authorities of political subdivisions of the State and election officers; providing penalties; and repealing existing acts," changing the date for the exercise of local option.

Which was committed to the Committee on Law and Order.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 397, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections five hundred one and five hundred two of the act, approved the twenty-ninth day of November, one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 15, 1933-34), entitled as amended "An act to regulate and restrain the sale, manufacture, possession, transportation, importation, traffic in, and use of alcohol, and alcoholic and malt or brewed beverages; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board and its agents, the Department of Public Instruction, other officers of the State government, courts, and district attorneys; authorizing the establishment and operation of State stores for the sale of such beverages not for consumption on the premises; and the granting of licenses, subject to local option, to sell such beverages for consumption on and off the premises; forbidding importation or bringing of such beverages into the State except as herein provided; prohibiting certain sales or practices in, connection with, and transactions in such beverages by licensees and others; providing for the forfeiture of certain property; making disposition of the receipts from State stores and of fees; and imposing penalties," providing for local option in counties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Law and Order.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 398, entitled:

An Act to further amend section thirty-one as renumbered section thirty two of the act, approved the third day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 252), entitled as amended "An act to regulate and restrain the traffic in malt and brewed beverages, as herein defined; providing for the licensing of the manufacture, transportation, sale and distribution of such beverages; imposing license and permit fees, and providing for collection and distribution thereof; restricting ownership and interest in licensed places; permitting municipalities and townships, by vote of the electors, to prevent the licensing therein of places where such beverages may be sold for consumption on the premises, and regulating elections for this purpose; imposing duties upon the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, quarter sessions courts, district attorneys, the Department of Justice, proper authorities of political subdivisions of the State, and election officers; providing penalties; and repealing existing acts," providing for local option in counties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Law and Order.

Mr. COLEMAN read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 399, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Treasury Department for the use of the Board of Finance and Revenue in granting refunds of "store and theatre" tax.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. SCARLETT read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 400, entitled:

An Act to further amend article twenty of the act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," by designating the type of contract which shall be used for certain employes in the Teachers Colleges, the Cheyney Training School for Teachers, the State Oral School, the Home for Training in Speech, the Soldiers' Orphan School and the Thaddeus Stevens Industrial School in this Commonwealth, and specifying the means whereby they may be dismissed.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 401, entitled:

An Act repealing and abandoning as a State highway, State highway route 15181 in Chester County; and providing for the reversion thereof to the township.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. BECKER offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 24, 1941.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, March 31, 1941, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, March 31, 1941, at 9:00 o'clock p. m.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

RESOLUTION OPPOSING CONSTRUCTION OF THE St. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

Mr. COLEMAN offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, March 24, 1941.

Whereas, It appears that the present Congress of the United States will be called upon to pass upon the construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway; and

Whereas, The project, if completed, would be detrimental to the interest of the anthracite region in two particulars: First, it would permit the shipment of foreign coal, particularly from Great Britain into the Great Lakes district. Secondly, development of water power would mean further curtailment of the demand for anthracite in a territory in which we have a big market for anthracite coal; and

Whereas, Whatever value the project may have for national defense from the long range point of view, it can hardly be contended that it is important immediately from the fact that its completion would require four to seven years; and

Whereas, The project would be paid for in public funds by this country although the coal and railroad industries of America as well as American labor will be damaged by it; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorialize congress to oppose the construction of the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Secretary of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and to each Senator and Representative elected from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I object.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I object to immediate consideration of this resolution. I might state a resolution similar to this one was introduced some time ago by our colleague from Schuylkill, Senator Watkins, and was referred to a committee.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr COLEMAN. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Allegheny repeat his remarks, as I could not hear them.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I said a similar resolution to the resolution just introduced by the gentleman from Lackawanna was introduced in the Senate sometime ago by the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Watkins, which resolution was referred to a committee. Therefore, Mr. President, I object to immediate consideration of this resolution.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I think the gentleman from Allegheny has furnished me with a very sound argument in favor of immediate consideration of this resolution; if a similar resolution was introduced, as I understand it was, by the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Watkins, it certainly has been very carefully examined by the members of the Senate and it ought to be passed on today.

I am assuming, Mr. President, the reason for the failure of the committee to act is the fact the learned and distinguished Chairman of the Committee on Federal Affairs was absent and I am hoping that his presence here today—I do not want to put him to work immediately after his siege of illness—but I am hoping his presence here today is an indication that some time before we adjourn this week there will be action on either this resolution or the resolution introduced previously by the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Watkins.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, for the information of the gentleman from Lackawanna I understand a meeting has been scheduled by the Committee of Federal Relations for some time tomorrow.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution will be referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 291, (House Bill No. 381), as follows:

An Act to amend section nine hundred eight of the act approved the fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 364) entitled "An act relating to business corporations defining and providing for the organization merger consolidation reorganization winding up and dissolution of such corporations conferring certain rights powers duties and immunities upon them and their officers and shareholders prescribing the conditions on which such corporations may exercise their powers providing for the inclusion of certain existing corporations of the second class within the provisions of this act prescribing the terms and conditions upon which foreign business corporations may be admitted or may continue to do business within the Commonwealth conferring powers and imposing duties on the courts of common pleas and certain State departments commissions and officers authorizing certain State departments boards commissions or officers to collect fees for services required to be rendered by this act imposing penalties and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to corporations" by further prescribing the procedure to be followed by shareholders who desire to become dissenting shareholders of a corporation which becomes a party to a plan of merger or consolidation limiting the rights and remedies of shareholders who desire to object to or dissent from any merger or consolidation making the rights and remedies herein provided for exclusive and providing for notice of said section to shareholders

Section 1 Section nine hundred eight of the act approved the fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 364) entitled "An act relating to business corporations defining and providing for the organization merger consolidation reorganization winding up and dissolution of such corporations conferring certain rights powers duties and immunities upon them and their officers and shareholders prescribing the conditions on which such corporations may exercise their powers providing for the inclusion of certain existing corporations of the second class within the provisions of this act prescribing the terms and conditions upon which foreign business corporations may be admitted or may continue to do business within the Commonwealth conferring powers and imposing duties on the courts of common pleas and certain State departments commissions and officers authorizing certain State departments boards commissions or officers to collect fees for services required to be rendered by this act imposing penalties and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to corporations" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 908 Rights of Dissenting Shareholders A If any shareholder of a corporation which becomes a party to a plan of merger or consolidation shall file with such corporation prior to or at the meeting of shareholders at which the plan of merger or consolidation is submitted to a vote a written objection to such plan of merger or consolidation and shall not vote in favor thereof and such shareholder within twenty days after the merger or consolidation was effected shall also make written demand on the surviving or new corporation for the payment of the fair value of his shares as of the day prior to the date on which the vote was taken approving the merger or consolidation without regard to any depreciation or appreciation thereof in consequence of the merger or consolidation the surviving or new corporation shall pay to such shareholder the fair value of his shares upon surrender of the share certificate or certificates representing his shares The demand of the shareholders shall state the number and class of the shares owned by him Unless a shareholder files such written objection and also makes such demand within the twenty-day period he shall be conclusively presumed to have consented to the merger or consolidation and shall be bound by the terms thereof If within thirty days after the date on which such merger or consolidation was effected the value of such shares shall be agreed upon between the dissenting shareholder and the surviving or new corporation payment thereof shall be made in cash within ninety days after the date on which such merger or consolidation was effected upon the surrender of the share certificate or certificates representing his shares Upon payment of the agreed value the dissenting shareholder shall cease to have any interest in such shares or in the corporation

B If within such period of thirty days the shareholder and the surviving or new corporation do not so agree then the dissenting shareholder may within sixty days after the expiration of the thirty-day period apply by petition to the court of common pleas in equity within the county in which the registered office of the surviving or new corporation is situated for the appointment by the court of three disinterested persons to appraise the fair value of his shares without regard to any depreciation or appreciation thereof in consequence of the merger or consolidation The award of the appraisers or of a majority of them shall be submitted to the court for determination and the judgment of the court thereon shall be final and conclusive The costs of such appraisal including a reasonable fee to the appraisers shall be fixed by the court and shall be borne by the surviving or new corporation unless in the opinion of the court the action of any shareholder in refusing the offer of the corporation has been arbitrary vexatious or in bad faith in which case the costs shall be assessed in the discretion of the court The award shall be payable only upon and simultaneously with the surrender to the surviving or new corporation of the share certificate or certificates representing the shares of the dissenting shareholder If the award shall not be paid by the surviving or new corporation within thirty days after the order of the court thereon the amount of the award shall be a judgment against the surviving or new corporation as the case may be and may be collected as other judgments in such court are by law collectible Upon the payment of the award or judgment the dissenting shareholder shall cease to have any interest in such shares or in the surviving or new corporation Such shares may be held and disposed of by the surviving or new corporation as it may see fit Unless the dissenting shareholder shall file a petition within the time herein limited such shareholder and all persons claiming under him shall be conclusively presumed to have approved and ratified the merger or consolidation and shall be bound by the terms thereof

C The rights and remedies at law or in equity of any shareholder who desires to object to or to dissent from any merger or consolidation shall be limited to those prescribed under this section and such rights and remedies under this section shall be exclusive

D A Copy of this section 908 shall be enclosed witn the written notice mentioned in clause B of Section 902 of this act and said written notice shall state that said Section 908 sets forth the exclusive rights and remedies of shareholders who object to the plan of merger or plan of consolidation

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—47

Barr,	Ealy,	Mallery,	Tallman,
Bartlett,	Edmonds,	McCreesh,	Taylor,

NAYS—0

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

BILL ON THIRD READING POSTPONED

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resume the consideration of Senate Bill No. 246, on third reading postponed, entitled:

An Act to amend section two of article five of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (P. L. 581), entitled "An act for the better government of cities of the first class of this Commonwealth" by classifying employees and officers of the Bureau of Police and Fire and certain employees of the Electrical Bureau assigned exclusively for work in connection with the Bureau of Fire, all in the Department of Public Safety for the purpose of fixing minimum salaries for each classification and payment of at least such minimum salaries to all persons with the said classifications

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Northumberland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DEITRICK. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman state the purpose of calling up this bill at this time?

Mr. DEITRICK. For the purpose of having it recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Government, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, has the gentleman from Northumberland obtained the consent of the sponsor of this bill, before making that request?

Mr. DEITRICK. I have not, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. He has not, Mr. President?

Mr. DEITRICK. I have not.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I think it is rather an unusual procedure to call up a bill for the purpose of recommitting it, without first obtaining the consent of the sponsor, and I should like to interrogate the sponsor of the bill.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FARRELL. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Philadelphia state whether or not he has consented to this motion to recommit Senate Bill No. 246?

Mr. FARRELL. I have not, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is the gentleman from Philadelphia prepared to act on the bill today?

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I should prefer that Senate Bill No. 246 go over in its order for another week.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Philadelphia state why?

Mr. FARRELL. Well, Mr. President, I have no good reason excepting that the police and firemen and the park guards have asked me to have this bill go over for another week; I can see no reason for being in a great hurry and I myself am in favor of postponing action on this bill for another week.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, did the gentleman from Philadelphia receive a letter from Mayor Lamberton this morning?

Mr. FARRELL. I received a letter from the Mayor, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in view of what the gentleman from Philadelphia has said with respect to the request of park guards and firemen and policemen, I should like to read a part of the letter from the Mayor of Philadelphia and ask whether the gentleman recalls that and whether it is not inconsistent with the statement he has just made.

The Mayor in his letter says "A conference was held in my office today at which representatives of these employes were present, (that is the policemen, firemen and park guards) but unfortunately we could come to no agreement. (That means park guards, police and firemen.) They will ask Senator Farrell to call the bills for final passage next Monday."

Am I to understand, Mr. President, that this letter which is dated March 21, 1941, when it refers to that date, means this Monday or next Monday?

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, it was my intention to call up for action Senate Bills No. 246 and 247 this afternoon but at the request of the park guards, policemen and firemen I promised that I would continue them for one week, if I could.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia has answered my question.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise on a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I understand, Mr. President, the motion now before the Senate is to merely call up Senate Bill No. 246.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair so understands.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 246, the bill just read, be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Government.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I most strenuously object to Senate Bill No. 246 being put back into the Committee on Municipal Government; if this bill is put back in committee we all know what will happen to it—it will be pickled and it will never come out; and if this bill goes back to committee every member here can be assured that that bill is finished.

Now, Mr. President, I should like to call attention to this fact: we have eight Senators from Philadelphia and this bill affects Philadelphia and Philadelphia only. Seven of those Senators from Philadelphia will vote in favor of this bill—or at least I have every reason to believe they will.

Mr. President, I am only fighting for what I think is a fair bill for these men to get more pay.

In that connection, Mr. President, I would like to read something here. I would like to inform this body that various other cities pay their police and firemen and so on as follows:

New York, N. Y.	$3,000
Yonkers, N. Y.	$3,000
Mt. Vernon, N. Y.	$3,000
Harrison, N. J.	$3,000
New Rochelle, N. Y.	$2,900
Montclair, N. J.	$2,750
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.	$2,750
White Plains, N. Y.	$2,750
Detroit, Mich.	$2,640
Panama Canal, C.Z.	$2,628
Atlantic City, N. J.	$2,550
Chicago, Ill.	$2,500
Hamtrack, Mich.	$2,500
Newark, N. J.	$2,500
Plainfield, N. J.	$2,500
Bayonne, N. J.	$2,500
East Orange, N. J.	$2,500
Dearborn, Mich.	$2,500
Ervington, N. J.	$2,500
Highland Park, Mich.	$2,500
Clifton, N. J.	$2,500
Kearney, N. J.	$2,500
Belleville, N. J.	$2,500
Hackensack, N. J.	$2,500
Long Beach, L. I., N. Y.	$2,500
Cleveland Heights, Ohio	$2,436
Camden, N. J. (Just across the river)	$2,400
Los Angeles, Cal.	$2,400
San Francisco, Cal.	$2,400
Washington, D. C.	$2,400
Oakland, Cal.	$2,400
Trenton, N. J.	$2,400
Sacramento, Cal.	$2,400
East Cleveland, Ohio	$2,400
Elizabeth, N. J.	$2,325
Pittsburgh, Pa.	$2,310
Bridgeport, Conn.	$2,300
Woodbridge, N. J.	$2,300
Euclid, Ohio	$2,300
Rahway, N. J.	$2,300
Patterson, N. J.	$2,300
Pasadena, Cal.	$2,300
Jacksonville, Fla.	$2,268
Medford, Mass.	$2,252
Portland, Ore.	$2,232
Berkley, Cal.	$2,220
Dayton, Ohio	$2,220
San Diego, Cal.	$2,220

Almeda, Cal.	$2,220
Richmond, Va.	$2,220
Buffalo, N. Y.	$2,200
Hartford, Conn.	$2,200
Everett, Mass.	$2,200
Perth Amboy, N. J.	$2,200
Philadelphia, Penna.	$2,190

Now, Mr. President, I admit my bill is not the right way usually to get an advance in pay for men that are underpaid, but this seems to me the only way it can be done, and, Mr. President, I most strenuously object to this bill being taken off the Postponed Calendar.

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, Senate Bill No. 246 has been already taken off the Postponed Calendar.

The question is now on the motion of the gentleman from Northumberland that Senate Bill No. 246 be committed to the Committee on Municipal Government.

Mr. FARRELL. Mr. President, I strenuously object to this bill being placed back in the Committee on Municipal Government.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I want to pay my respects to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, for being frank enough to state his objections. I think that clarifies the situation as it should be.

Usually around election time bills like this crop up, either as party measures or as individual measures, for the purpose of vote getting; sometimes they crop up because certain people feel there is an evil or injustice which should be corrected.

Mr President, which of those two motives prompted the introduction of this bill is unknown to me, and is not important for the purpose of this discussion, but I sat here last week and without going into all the details of the matter of what I said, I repeat again that basically this kind of procedure is not the way in which an increase in salary should be obtained for local officials.

We know that in contagious diseases there are basic treatments at times, but at other times certain other methods and remedies must be resorted to because there is a critical condition which can not be remedied otherwise.

It is because I have felt that way and have voted that way on legislation of this kind that it was generally stated in Philadelphia that I was going to be opposed to this bill and that as a result of my opposition this bill did not have a chance to pass. Mr. President, because I believe those people are entitled to the increase for which they are asking I hurriedly tried to correct that information so that there would be no misunderstanding.

I asked the gentleman in caucus what position they would take on this bill and I explained my position on it and I was able to say to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, that at least sixteen members of the Democratic party would vote in favor of this bill; so there was no misunderstanding of our position on the matter and no doubt that if the Republican organization supported this bill it would receive sufficient votes to pass.

Mr. President, I also made the statement, and I repeat it now, that in my opinion this bill was allowed to go as far as it did in the belief, first, that we would not vote for it on this side of the House or if we did the other side of the Legislative body would not vote for it, or if they did the Governor would veto it. I took the trouble to explain this in my conference with the gentlemen on the other side of the House, representing the Democractic party, that I had no doubt if this bill came over to the House it would pass quicker than it took to get it out of this committee here in the Senate. So, Mr. President, there is no misunderstanding as to our position, either personally or politically.

Now, Mr. President, it is quite obvious this bill is not intended to be passed by the Republican party and they assume the responsibility for its defeat here. I think we could do a better job in a legislative way if, when public officials hold conferences which involve legislation, they call both sides of the Senate or House to the conferences. I had the pleasure of suggesting to the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania early in his term this: that for him to sit down to lunch with the Democratic members of the Senate was in my opinion an unnecessary setting up of a line of demarcation; that while it was true I was elected on the Democratic ticket and some others were elected on the Republican ticket, when we came into the Senate we were Senators for all the people in our district, Republicans and Democrats, and therefore obviously it was not a tactful move to divide the Senate by having lunch with half of them at one time, or the majority of them at one time, and having lunch with a little less than half at another time.

Mr. President, when the Mayor of Philadelphia wrote his first letter to me and to the other Senators, the facts set forth in that letter were well known to me. When he had his conference with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, and the policemen and firemen and parkguards, he did not invite the other seven senators from Philadelphia. It seems to me we were just as much interested in hearing his objections and in telling him our position as were the Republican members of the Senate from Philadelphia, and while it is true, as has been said by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, this bill only concerns the City of Philadelphia, I think it concerns all of the Senators and I think we all have a right to vote, but certainly those gentlemen of the Senate other than those from Philadelphia should listen and give full faith and credit to the opinion of all the Senators from Philadelphia. If those gentlemen advance the argument to me that they advanced to me, that this bill should not be passed, it vitiates the theory of home rule, I would be in a position to take the records of the Senate and show how many of them and how frequently many of them have voted in favor of legislation in violation of home rule.

In fact, Mr. President, every tax abatement bill that was passed for Philadelphia or any other locality violates the principle of home rule. On the same basis, Mr. President, what right have we to tell the City of Philadelphia they should defeat the obligation, to which they looked forward in their budget, so that it should be paid over a period of years? That is just as much a violation of home rule as is the bill that is on the Calendar we are discussing now. I would have said to those gentlemen if they had raised that question, basically you may be right but you have violated that rule and there is no reason why you should not continue in that violation now.

As a matter of fact, Mr. President, that is the very reason why we should vote for this bill, notwithstanding the home rule theory, because I could say very honestly in my opinion that home rule statement is just a convenient thing for voting for or against a particular measure; you can twist the home rule proposition by voting for or against a measure, as it suits your personal or political purpose, but in this case I say frankly I can read between the lines and see the pressure of the Republican party to help the Mayor of Philadelphia out of the position in which he finds himself—which I admit is quite unfortunate—but certainly is not of the making of the Senate or the House but of the people who have governed and controlled Philadelphia for many years past.

Mr. President, it will take two and one half million dollars, or close to that, to pay this money under this bill. There is an important thing back of this, there is back of this the safety and protection of the citizens and the property of Philadelphia, and you only get as much for your money as your money is worth.

I have seen time and again for years how the policemen and the firemen and the parkguards have been underpaid, have been underprivileged and have been compelled to come to the Legislature as a last resort to get relief. If you do not believe that look at the records and see how they got the two weeks' vacation, that they had to come here to get, look at the twenty-four hours rest period that they had to come here to get. You did not refrain from voting on those bills on the ground that was a violation of the home rule principle; you voted for that then either because you thought it was a good bill or it was good politics to do so, depending upon the occasion when the bill came before the Senate or House for action.

Now, Mr. President, at the same time this bill was introduced in the Senate there was a bill introduced in the House, and probably before, a bill containing similar provisions and it was the intention of the Democratic party leaders in the House to pass that bill, but as soon as Senate Bill No. 246 here in the Senate began its passage through the Senate—and we had every reason to believe it was going to be passed—I urged that there be no confusion in the matter and that there be no chance, no excuse rather for delaying this bill and raising a political issue on it, I suggested that there would be plenty of credit for both sides, that the Democrats in the Senate could not claim credit for having passed the bill alone because the majority was on the other side, and when the bill came to the House it could not be passed without the consent and vote of a majority of the Democrats, and therefore I thought there was plenty of glory in the bill and I asked that the bill over in the House be allowed to sleep, to await action here in the Senate, because I suspected something of this kind would come up.

Why? Because, Mr. President, when it comes to raising the two and one half million dollars necessary for this bill I felt sure the City of Philadelphia would not do that which is necessary to raise it, because I contend it can be raised; I contend that Philadelphia has the money to pay the bill and I contend further that these men are entitled to their increase and I say for years they have been promised this increase and I say it is a sad commentary on the proceedings of this Legislature when you take the hopes of men who are risking their lives day and night and bring them up to the top and drop them suddenly, without any hope for them again, because even the mayor says if you do not pass this bill I will give you a million dollars back pay, but I will give it to you in 1944.

Now, Mr. President, in 1944 the responsibility will not be Mayor Lamberton's because unfortunately for the city, I suppose, we have a rule which does not permit a mayor to run in successive terms, so it will be up to someone else to "Let George do it," but if the City government in Philadelphia were run as it should be, then we would not have this bill here today because all that is necessary for the city to recognize, acknowledge and carry out its obligations to these men, is for the council, which is completely Republican except for two men, to sit down and pass a resolution to increase the pay and relieve us of the obligation or burden of doing it and take some of the gentlemen who might feel they are what we call on the spot by this bill off of that spot.

However, Mr. President, in order to do that they would have to do something else; they would have to clear house, they would have to get rid of the unnecessary gentlemen who occupy positions in city hall at salaries far in excess of what they could earn in any private industry; they would have to sit down and put their city on a good business-like basis. They would have to put in economies, which could be done without destroying or affecting a single necessary governmental function, and if they did that they could raise the two and one half million dollars; but to do so they would have to oust some political favorites; they might have to standardize salaries; they might have to classify positions and make a certain position be worth a certain amount of money and no more, irrespective of the political influence of the person who held it; they would have to eliminate some jobs.

For instance, Mr. President, they would have to cut out forty assessors who get two hundred thousand dollars and reduce them to twenty—they assessed for two years all of our properties with twenty assessors, as a result of a bill which was passed during the Democratic regime, but as soon as the Republicans came into control they increased them again and now they are doing exactly the same amount or less work than they should do in 1940 as they did in 1937.

Mr. President, I want to take time once and for all to place on the record my views on this bill and do it probably to the extent of being boring to some of the members of the Senate, because sooner or later we will meet this issue again, and because I want to send my protest to Philadelphia, including the mayor, for whom I have a great deal of respect as a man, because I think he is trying to do a good job and I have no personal complaint to make, except that I say he, like all other candidates of the Republican Party in Philadelphia, can make all the pre-election promises they want as to what they will do in Philadelphia when they become Mayor, but they are on the same footing as everyone of their predecessors, they are not going to be permitted to do that which is right and which is good business in Philadelphia because the people who control the political party in Philadelphia are in power and would not permit one friend or one member of a family to leave the payroll, and that is going to be continued and the men who suffer are the parkguards and when they suffer we suffer.

I say I am going to ask for a record vote rather a roll call on this bill because I want it known publicly who is going to vote to kill this bill, because just as the gentleman from Philadelphia said, a motion to put this bill back into committee means a motion to kill it, because under no other circumstances would members of the Senate who do not live in Philadelphia vote to recommit this bill except for that purpose and because of political pressure brought.

Mr. President, I say this calmly and plainly, I say it without rancor, I say it with all emphasis because I point out nobody has given a single excuse as to why the bill should go back; nobody has said this bill ought to be amended; nobody has said and nobody can say the minimum is too high for the City of Philadelphia, and nobody has told the real reason.

I should like to give you my opinion, Mr. President, of the real reason: the real reason back of it is the mayor has found out he cannot get Mr. Farrell, the gentleman from Philadelphia, or the firemen, policemen and park guards to recede from their position, so he is using what influence he can, which probably extends to Harrisburg, and when it extends to Harrisburg it has become a Caucus matter.

Now, Mr. President, I suppose all the gentlemen from Philadelphia, with the exception of one or two—I mean all the Democratic and Republican Senators with the exception of one or two gentlemen who probably feel they cannot go along to vote to put this bill back into committee, and that goes for Mr. Farrell and men of his type, will vote to send it back.

I ask every member of the Democratic Party here, whether he comes from Philadelphia or not, to vote "no" to send this bill back to committee, because I think the policemen and the firemen of any city are entitled to more decent and more considerate treatment than they have been shown in the passage of this bill. If it does go back to committee I suggest to this Senate here that they take notice of what will happen in the House and before you get through killing this bill it will be revived in the House and you will meet the issue squarely again.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, it is apparent to me now that this bill has become a political football. We are told by the sponsor of the bill fundamentally it is not the proper kind of legislation and we are also told by our colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, that while this type of legislation is fundamentally wrong, he and his colleagues from Philadelphia are going to vote for it, and he might just as well have added the reason, even though they know it is fundamentally wrong, they intend to vote for it because they think it might mean some votes for them when they come up for re-election.

There was one part of the argument advanced by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, that I thought was particularly effective and that was the part where he said this legislation is basically wrong. I am swayed by his eloquence and therefore I ask my colleagues to vote to recommit this bill to the Committee on Municipal Government because Senator Shapiro said it is basically wrong.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, let there be no misunderstanding. I am talking about this bill for two purposes and I do say I am going to vote for it because I want the people to vote for the Democratic Party. There is no secret about that and the reason I want them to vote is because it is pretty nearly time they knew in Philadelphia the only people who give them decent treatment, the only people who can give the City of Philadelphia decent government will be the Democrats and that if they want that kind of government and want to get rid of the kind of government they have had they had better vote for the Democratic Party, because without the Democratic Party they will not get this bill; without the Democratic Party, aside from their rights in this bill, they will not get the other rights to which they are entitled. Certainly, Mr. President, I am making political capital out of this and I am not making any secret about that; I am making political capital out of it because it is important to tell the people at home in Philadelphia if they want to be politically wise they had better see what has happened to them. Look at the history of the Republican Party for ten years back, for twenty years back, and see what you got—and you cannot get much worse from the Democratic Party in Philadelphia—and if that be politics then make the most of it.

Mr. President, the second thing I want to answer is that I am not so naive as to believe any argument I made on this floor today would have the effect of having the gentleman from Allegheny vote for or against a bill; the gentleman's mind was made up for him before he came to this Session today, along with the rest of the gentlemen who in Caucus had decided to vote for this bill. I have not been blinded to the fact the motion to recommit this bill was made by the gentleman from Northumberland, Dr. Deitrick, who has no interest in this bill and probably if he had his own way about it, and was to use his own judgment about the bill, irrespective of the Caucus, he would probably vote for it. Why, you would suspect if the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell, wanted to move for this bill he would move to have it placed on the postponed calendar but, oh, no, it was taken out of his hands—well, I did not take it out of his hands and the gentleman from Allegheny did not take it out of his hands and the gentleman from Allegheny does not hope to have me or anybody else here believe it was because I made a remark or a very intelligent argument on the bill, that he is voting in favor of the motion. I am not that naive yet; the gentleman from Allegheny is going to vote against this bill because the Republican Party is committed to send it back.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, so that we may have this record straight I am interested in knowing, when the gentleman from Philadelphia talks about people knowing that the Democrats would be the only party to give them decent government in Philadelphia, if he refers to the "gag law" type of government which the Democrats gave to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Is that a question, Mr. President?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I only wanted to know whether that is a question directed to me by the gentleman from Allegheny and whether the gentleman from Allegheny wants an answer.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I merely want the record to be kept straight.

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is a job I will not undertake, Mr. President.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I do not claim to be as subtle as the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, and I am just a little bit dizzy in following his logic, but I would like to make a statement. As far as I am concerned I do not mind how many times I am required to vote against this bill, whether it goes sidewise or backwards so long as it does not go forward. I learned in Miami on Thursday, where I took a plane, of the Farrell bill—I spent the night there—so I went out, and got a newspaper, a Philadelphia Record, which I found on a stand and I read right away about this trouble between the mayor and the policemen and the firemen on the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Farrell's bill.

Mr. President, I sent a telegram to the mayor and said I was with him one hundred per cent and would do anything I could to help stop the Farrell bill and lick it, so I am glad I got here.

Of course, Mr. President, we have very few policemen in my district; it may be a selfish reason, for I live in a neighborhood where they do not have to have policemen.

I have always voted against anything that has any connection whatever with the Firemen's Relief Association. I came here in 1919 and ever since then I have been talking against the Firemen's Relief Association and I am not going to talk very long about it now but it is simply a raid on the treasury, as you all know. The premiums of fire insurance companies are two per cent. And why the policemen do not do it themselves I do not know; they could perfectly well do the same thing.

Mr. President, that is one reason that makes me vote in favor of the motion to commit this bill to the Committee on Municipal Government; but the main reason is the Mayor of Philadelphia is my boss and he says this would throw the budget out. The mayor does not want it and the mayor being my boss—without going around in circles like the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro—the mayor is my boss and I am with him.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not come from Philadelphia and I suppose I do not know much about the financial situation of Philadelphia, but I want to say I think the gentleman from Philadelphia is absolutely right.

The PRESIDENT. Which gentleman from Philadelphia?

Mr. DENT. Both of them, Mr. President—all of them are right in some particular instances. I think it is so awfully nice the gentleman from Philadelphia found it convenient to get well and come back from Jamica to obey the orders of his boss.

I think it is perfectly right when the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, says the policemen, firemen and park guards and all the other citizens of Philadelphia ought to learn it is about time they changed their political affiliations, taking orders from the type of boss the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Woodward, listens to.

Aside from the "gag-rule," mentioned by the gentleman from Allegheny, the Democrats did pass a great deal of decent legislation and a great many evils were corrected under the Democratic administration. We even passed the so-called Earle special taxes which have been adopted by the Republican Party. The only thing they have not done is to change the name of them. When they talk about the obnoxious portion of the taxes they are Earle taxes but when they come to pass them they are James taxes.

Mr. President, I want to say if the Republican Party had gone along with the Democrats on the gag-laws, as they call them, they would have saved two hundred thousand dollars spent by Mr. Carl Shelley and the rest of his associates who went fishing—and not in a reservoir.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I would like to answer the statement made by my colleague from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, and tell him the gag-laws were correct, as was proved by the Republican judges and Republican jurors.

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, seems to think perhaps the reason I moved to commit Senate Bill No. 246 back to the Committee on Municipal Government was I was influenced by the thought of the Caucus. For his information let me state there was a lively discussion about this bill and a lot of things were discussed pro and con; we all have our reasons for deciding to do certain things. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, questioned my motive in making the motion to return Senate Bill No. 246 to the Committee on Municipal Government.

During the last three sessions of this Legislature, Mr. President, we have heard a great deal about Philadelphia and Philadelphia finances and it seems to me for two sessions at least we were trying to help Philadelphia solve its financial problems; but whether we succeeded or not is questionable. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, seems to think we have and Philadelphia is on a firm footing and is able to meet added expenditures.

Mayor Lamberton evidently thinks otherwise. For the information of the Senate I would like to read into the record a sentence from Mayor Lamberton's letter, a copy of which we received this morning when we came into the Senate. It reads as follows: "We are anxious to increase the pay of all city employes as soon as our financial position will permit, but this compulsory increase for one group would be disastrous for the city at this time and unfair to other employes who would not participate."

Mr. President, I have known Mayor Lamberton for a great many years; I was associated with him under adverse and under favorable circumstances and he is a man who would not make a misstatement, to my mind. I admire him. I played football with him and I know he can be depended on; I know he is honest and reliable and I know his intentions are if possible to increase the pay of the firemen and policemen and park guards of Philadelphia. I believe he is sincere and I feel sure when this bill goes back into committee, overtures will not stop and this matter will be considered, and I hope the park guards and firemen and policemen of Philadelphia will receive an increase in pay as soon as Mayor Lamberton sees his way clear to do so.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Northumberland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DEITRICK. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, what is the purpose of sending this bill back to committee?

Mr. DEITRICK. The purpose of sending this bill back to committee, Mr. President, is to delay action on the bill and give the mayor and also the committee which visited with him the other day an opportunity to get together and settle the differences and try to ferret out means that will be acceptable to everybody.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, would not the gentleman from Northumberland say the same result would be accomplished by continuing the bill on the Postponed Calendar.

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, if the bill is continued on the Postponed Calendar it may be called up at a moment's notice and perhaps it might be controlled by certain people who might be interested in seeing that this bill went through, when other people were not present. I feel personally we should have majority rule and if the majority sees fit to say the bill should not go back to committee that will be satisfactory to me.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Would the gentleman from Northumberland say frankly the purpose of putting the bill back in committee was so that it shall not pass?

Mr. DEITRICK. As far as my purpose is concerned it is, yes.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, it seems to me to be only fair to remind the Senate that when the Senate was controlled by our colleagues on the left that this or a similar bill was proposed, and as we all know it never became a law; I do not think we want to lose sight of that fact. I recall vividly that possibly no member of the Senate was ever subjected to more pressure than our colleague from Allegheny, Senator Kilgallen, for whom I have always had and still have the greatest respect. Senator Kilgallen was under possibly greater pressure than any man in this Senate ever had been subjected to, but he stood firm for the principles of home rule and I have always been glad that I had the stamina to take the floor in defense of my colleague on the left when I felt that he was taking a proper stand.

Mr. President, I think all my colleagues know my attitude toward the principle of home rule. I am willing at any time to vote for a bill that will give all of the cities more home rule or as much home rule as they feel they should have, providing that the advocates of home rule do not propose to tear down all the good that has been accomplished over a great many years.

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, may I ask the reporter to read back to me the last question directed to me by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. The reporter will read the question.

(The reporter repeated the question as follows: "Mr. SHAPIRO. Would the gentleman from Northumberland say frankly the purpose of putting the bill back in committee was so that it shall not pass?")

The PRESIDENT. Has the question been repeated to the gentleman from Northumberland?

Mr. DEITRICK. Yes, Mr. President. I said, "yes" to that but I meant to say it should not be passed unless a majority of the Senate was in favor of it; that it should not be put through by a majority when a majority of the Senate was not present.

My thought in moving that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Government was so that it could rest there, as I said previously, and the discussion could be carried on in Philadelphia between the parties concerned and perhaps an amicable adjustment could be arranged that would satisfy them all, because naturally the policemen and the firemen and the park guards are after the increase in salaries that this bill would permit, and the Mayor has said in the personal letter which he addressed to us that he is in favor of an increase in salary and I feel he will eventually meet with these gentlemen and take care of them in such a way they will be satisfied and it will be to the advantage of everybody concerned.

Mr. SHAPIRO. That makes it necessary for me to ask the gentleman from Northumberland another question.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northumberland permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. DEITRICK. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Northumberland state how this bill ever could be passed without a majority voting in favor of it? Even if there were only twenty-seven Senators present it would still require twenty-six votes. Isn't that correct, sir?

Mr. DEITRICK. That would be constitutional majority.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Yes.

Mr. DEITRICK. Yes.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Northumberland state whether somebody has given him the impression this bill could be passed without a majority of the Senate being present?

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, perhaps the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, knows how everybody is going to vote on this bill. I do not know how everybody is going to vote but I do know how some people are going to vote; whether the majority are going to vote it down I don't know; whether there will be a constitutional majority, I don't know; but I do know a better chance, on Monday afternoon, to discuss this matter, when we are all here than perhaps on Wednesday or Thursday when some of the members have gone home.

Mr. SHAPIRO. However, Mr. President, if all but twenty-six went home, it would still require twenty-six votes and the Democrats do not have that many votes.

Mr. DEITRICK. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, might have enough Republican votes to make the twenty-six.

Mr. SHAPIRO. That condition will exist no matter when the matter is put to a vote.

Mr. DEITRICK. Perhaps some of them might change their minds.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Doesn't it follow, Mr. President, the purpose of sending it back to committee is so that it shall not pass?

Mr. DEITRICK. According to the point of view, yes, Mr. President.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion to commit Senate Bill 246 to the Committee on Municipal Government.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAPIRO and were as follows, viz:

YEAS 29

Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Scarlett,	Wade,

BILL ON THIRD READING POSTPONED

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resume the consideration of Senate Bill No. 247, on third reading postponed, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Council of the City of Philadelphia to fix the salaries of members of the Park Guards, and authorizing the Park Commission to classify the Park Guards and to pay the salaries as set by the City Council

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill

No. 247, the bill just read, be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Government.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not think there is any need for a lengthy discussion about this bill except to say this is a companion bill to Senate Bill No. 246 and deals with the park guards and therefore the objections I have and have stated before on Senate Bill No. 246, apply also to this bill.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair wants to state a question of parliamentary procedure. On motion to commit a bill, the original subject matter is not debatable, and that was about the only matter that was debated. The Chair assumed the position this has all been done by unanimous consent.

This is to keep the record clear.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. FARRELL and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—29

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 50, on second reading, entitled:

An Act providing that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its political subdivisions employ only citizens of the United States.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 343, on second reading, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the twenty-eighth day of April, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 417), entitled "An act relating to milk and the products thereof; creating a Milk Control Commission: establishing its jurisdiction, powers and duties; regulating the production, transportation, manufacture, processing, storage, distribution, delivery and sale of milk and certain products thereof; providing for the licensing of milk dealers and the payment of fees therefor; requiring milk dealers to file bonds to secure payment for milk to producers and certain milk dealers; authorizing the holding of hearings and the issuance of subpoenas by the commission; conferring jurisdiction upon courts to punish contempts and to prohibit violations of this act and of rules, regulations and orders of the commission; authorizing the commission to adopt rules, regulations and orders, and to enter into interstate and Federal compacts; requiring persons who weigh, measure, sample or test milk to procure permits or certificates, to take examinations, to pay fees therefor, to furnish certain notices, records and statements, and to use certain methods of weighing, measuring, sampling and testing; authorizing the commission to examine the business, papers and premises of milk dealers and producers, requiring the keeping of records and the filing of reports by milk dealers, and permitting, with limitations, the use of information obtained thereby; authorizing the commission to fix prices for milk and certain milk products subject to the approval of the Governor, and conferring certain powers upon the Governor with respect thereto; providing for appeals to the courts from decisions of the commission, and for the burden of proof upon such appeals; prescribing penalties, fines and imprisonment for violations of this act, and rules, regulations and orders of the commission; defining perjury, defining remedies, repealing legislation supplied and superseded by this act, and saving rights, duties, and proceedings thereunder; and making appropriations," by providing that milk delivered or made available, or received or handled on consignment, or otherwise, shall be subject to all the provisions of said act; further defining the power of the commisison to fix minimum prices to be paid producers for milk; defining certain violations of said act; and providing that milk dealers shall be held responsible for actions of persons employed by or acting for them.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to address the members of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Northampton will proceed.

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, there is no more pressing or important problem before the people of the State of Pennsylvania and this Assembly than relief and assistance. Even my short acquaintance and close connection with the Department of Public Assistance has convinced me the people of this Commonwealth have not appreciated what handicaps the state has been under in past years nor at present nor do I believe the people of the Commonwealth appreciate what the state has been able to do in the part and what the department is doing at the present time. I say that, Mr. President, without any partisan implications because I feel and believe those comments apply not only to the present administration of the department but to prior administrations and I think therefore these remarks are fitting at this time.

Mr. President and Members of the Senate: It is fitting at this time, I feel, to bring to your attention the present situation with respect to Pennsylvania's relief program an a brief history of its background and its accomplishments.

It is commonly believed that the passage of the Talbot Act, appropriating $10,000,000 to poor boards for unemployment relief in 1931, signalized the first recognition of State responsibility for the needy.

That belief is in error by a full two and one-half centuries, as is shown by reference to the Great Law of William Penn, passed by the first Pennsylvania Assembly in 1682, from which I quote:

> "If any person or persons shall fall into decay or poverty, and are not able to maintain themselves and children with their honest endeavors, or shall die and leave poor orphans, that upon complaint to the next Justices of the Peace, the said Justices, finding the complaint to be true, shall make provision for them, in such way as they shall see convenient, till the next County Court, and that then care be taken for their future comfortable subsistence."

Other similar legislation followed at intervals, among which may be noted authority granted in 1836 to establish work relief, including road projects. Is it any wonder that we say, "There is nothing new under the sun."

In 1913, this Commonwealth, by the passage of its first Mothers' Assistance Act (Act of April 29, 1913—P. L. 118), recognized State responsibility for the welfare of needy mothers with young children. This Act was one of the most progressive pieces of legislation of its kind adopted by any State up to that time.

Since the effective date of that Act, aid to indigent mothers with dependent children has been continuous, and under that Act alone, hundreds of thousands of dollars were paid out by the State and County treasuries to the needy families qualifying for assistance. Thousands of young children who then looked to the State for their aid have since grown to manhood and womanhood and are providing for children of their own, children who have advantages not received by their parents, and children of whom the parents and the State, too, may well be proud.

There has been so much comment recently on the legal liability of property for repayment of assistance furnished that it is appropriate to remark that this provision of law dates back to the year 1819. For more than a hundred and twenty years, this principle of law has been recognized. And at that time, also, relatives of needy persons of the same degree of relationship as today, were required to furnish support according to their ability. In wisdom it has been said, "Remove not the old landmark."

As far back as 1883, legislation provided for the removal of children from almshouses as unsuitable to care for growing youth.

In 1923, the first Old Age Assistance Act in this country was passed by the Pennsylvania General Assembly and the bill was signed by the then Governor Pinchot. This Act was declared unconstitutional before any grants could be made under it.

These references to earlier law in this Commonwealth are emphasized to show the leadership of the Keystone State in humanitarian efforts in an age when Government is commonly said to have been in the interest of men's property rather than in their souls. No more unfair charge was ever made.

The more modern advancement of the relief program followed the Talbot Act of 1931, before referred to. Following a test of the constitutionality of that Act, which gave a legal basis for subsequent relief and assistance programs, much has been accomplished.

The State Emergency Relief Board was established in 1932 under an Act sponsored by our Colleague, Senator Woodward, of Philadelphia. This Board commenced operations at once and functioned through County Relief Boards until 1937.

In 1933, the electorate approved an amendment to the Constitution permitting pensions to the Blind, and the following year a Pension Act was adopted and payments to the Blind were begun.

The year 1934 also marked the commencement of our present Old Age Assistance program. This important provision for our older citizens without means of support was established by the Act of January 18, 1934.

Larger and more comprehensive changes in the relief programs became effective in 1937 when all existing agencies for public aid were consolidated in the new Department of Public Assistance. Poor Boards were abolished; institutional care was transferred to County Commissioners; and home relief to unemployables became the responsibility of the new County Boards of Assistance.

Minor changes only were made to existing public assistance law during 1939, but in one respect a change made was of supreme importance to recipients of relief funds. The homeowner was given a safeguard in the occupancy of his homestead during his lifetime and that of his surviving family. Prior to this amendment, such a homeowner was without surety that his home and meager belongings might not be taken from him at any time in repayment of grants received. This was a humanitarian step in line with the best thought of all authorities on the subject. Also, in 1939, the Pierson Work Relief bill was passed and received the signature of Governor James, thus enabling conscientious relief recipients to feel that any sums received were definitely earned, and at the same time the community benefited. It is fitting to note that all the dire predictions preceding the passage of the Pierson bill have failed utterly to materialize. It was predicted that the Act would be used to break strikes, to drive down the wage scale, to make the workers slaves of the employers; and other similar disagreeable results were prophesied. On the contrary, the records show that less than one per cent of able-bodied relief recipients have objected to the work allotted them and a vast majority of applicants have continued to express their desire for some method of earning the grants which they need.

During the entire period since late 1932, there has been continuously some form of Federal aid to this State in its relief work. Commencing with loans from RFC and grants from FERA, continuing with CWA and PWA, the latter by far the most comprehensive of the Federal aids, the Federal Government has largely assisted the State in carrying on.

Late in 1938 the WPA was carrying on its Pennsylvania rolls over 275,000 workers, but this record high mark declined within ten months to less than 117,000 workers, thus forcing the State general assistance load to its top peak in September 1939—but the State shouldered the responsibility of meeting the need and carried on.

This, then, is the history of public relief in this Commonwealth. It is against this background that present accomplishments are recorded.

The present policies of relief administration, which have been constantly emphasized since the present Governor assumed office, are:

To keep relief out of politics;

To give assistance promptly to every eligible needy person, and to deny it in the same manner to those not entitled to it;

To make the administration decent, humane, efficient and economical;

To make every effort to move employables to private jobs.

That this latter effort has been accomplished to a high degree is illustrated by the fact that in the two years from February 1939 to February 1941 the total number of employable persons on WPA and on general assistance, excluding children and other dependents comprising their families, has declined from 520,000 to 255,000, a drop of more than 50 per cent.

To indicate that this drop is not simply the effect of the current defense program, it is only necessary to note that a drop of some 200,000 occurred prior to the summer of 1940 and certainly earlier than that the so-called war orders were few and far between.

As the defense program comes into full swing, it is sure that the present load will further decline and perhaps this year arrive at the irreducible minimum, consisting almost entirely of unemployables.

From a total expenditure of more than $2,000,000 per week in State funds for general assistance grants in August 1939 when the rolls were at a peak, the cost has declined to approximately $800,000 per week, a decline of sixty per cent.

All this, I believe, Mr. President, to be an outstanding record—one of which the citizens of this Commonwealth may well be proud. And I believe that the people of Pennsylvania should be informed of this that they may have this report of the stewardship of the funds which they have provided for these noble purposes.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Northampton.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northampton permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BARTLETT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, this is an important subject and I wonder if the gentleman from Northampton in his study has ascertained how much the operating expense has dropped?

Mr. BARTLETT. I have some memoranda on that subject, yes, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, the gentleman from Northampton failed to touch on that subject and I thought perhaps he might have some information.

Mr. BARTLETT. I do have some record, yes, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Does the gentleman from Northampton know how much that is?

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, approximately nine per cent. Does the gentleman from Washington mean the cost of administration to general clients?

Mr. REED. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. BARTLETT. Approximately nine per cent.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Warren will state has question of personal privilege.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH THE UNITED STATES

Mr. CHAPMAN. America today stands committed to the greatest adventure in living that has ever faced the Nation. The passage of the Lease-Lend Bill was a revolutionary step in our history. The fact is plainly shown that the American people are solidly behind the measure. At least vocally so, at the present time, and I hope that they will become physically and spiritually behind the bill. Perhaps we cannot agree with the steps taken by the President in the administration of this bill; perhaps there will be mistakes made and perhaps millions of the money appropriated will be spent without due regard to values, but we are all Americans and duty bound by the acts of our representatives in Congress.

Hence we must lay aside everything that would in any way, shape or manner interfere with the success of the undertaking to which we are committed by our lawmakers. The spotlight of patriotism must be turned on from the hearts of all and it must blazon the doom of the dictators.

Our way of life must be mapped out in accord with the sacrifices that will more and more encompass us. We must realize that slogans of yester-year must go. Belts must be tightened and chins grow more determined. If ever there was a use for the radio, now is that time. There should be plenty of time for the injection of patriotic messages into the hearth groups; fireside chats, straight from the shoulder, talks that will set every face in the right direction. Press and pulpit have a task to bring the mass of thinking Americans to a realization that what confronts them is serious, and not something that is "over there."

As I see it, we are in the war right now. Our aid has been pledged to the embattled Democracies and we must not let them down. To fail in the task to which our Nation has enlisted would mean the failure of the light of freedom. Merchants, capitalists and labor would all find themselves in the same boat, pulling as galley slaves under the lash of the totalitarian taskmasters. Have you noted that every citizen of Norway must pay $120.00 per year for the pleasure of having Hitler's gangsters invading their homes? Have you learned that each Netherlander must pay $95 per year to see Hitler's legions goosestepping through the tulips, and that France, land of Joan of Arc, must pay $105 per citizen yearly to watch the conquerers heel grind into the haunts of once gay Paris? Thyessen, once Hitler's firmest backer is now shorn of his millions, his vast manufactories and great real estate holdings and incarcerated in a concentration camp. And Von Gahlen, once proud labor and guild leader is chafing under a task master's lash in still another of Hitler's camps. Capital and labor both lose under the totalitarian plan. Oh, could some power be given me to show capital and labor the folly of interfering with the defense plan of the Nation!

Herr Hitler has termed the conquest of the United States "an easy inside job?" Did he know of what he spoke? Look around our land—vital plants tied up by labor disputes, fires in airplane factories, explosions in powder plants, nearly completed ships damaged by flames, wrecks on railroads, crashes in unexplained ways of airships undergoing tests, and deaths of test pilots. Is all of this a part of the "inside job?"

America must awaken! Every true nephew of Uncle Sam must gird himself to guard his homeland and his fireside. There must be no quarter given to saboteurs or to those who with malicious design, mislead workers and cause them to leave their workbench and slow down production of defense needs.

Those Germans are thorough. One has only to review in a calm, cool spirit the capture of Norway, the rape of Denmark, the tearing apart of France, the crunch of the oppressors tramp in Belgium and Holland, the falling apart of Rumania and the murder of Poland to see the blight caused by the "inside job."

These are the days when each and everyone "should button up his lip." The insider doing the job may be a neighbor or a friend. We are prone to talk too much and we dearly love to air our views. Most of us have relatives in the various services of the Nation and the number will soon be legion. From them we may learn certain things, and it is an American habit to repeat and to embellish. Such repeating may give information in quarters where a saboteur lurks to plant his bomb or swing his torch. Let discretion be the watchword.

The recent speech of President Roosevelt sounded the knell of the dictators only if we do our part. There must be a united effort and Unity must be shown on every hand. Here in this Senate we must show by example to the people of our State whose trust we hold, that we are united under the flag that boats so proudly above this chamber.

There must be no compromise with the forces of darkness that are laboring for the disintegration of our nation. If laws be needed, let them be presented and passed. If the guilty are to be punished let is be swift and sure. I tell you men of Pennsylvania, that as sure as the chimes of liberty rang out under the skies of this Keystone of the Nation, that our State must set an example.

Ours is an industrial State. Blazing skies betoken the belching of our furnaces fashioning ore into steel; our sun is darkened by the smoke of countless shops and factories where weapons of defense are being forged; our mines are spewing out black diamonds that will cause victory to sparkle for us and yet—we have relief rolls that are causing a drain on our treasury and are a mill stone around our necks.

Industry is doing its part in noble shape and more and more men will be given jobs. There are others that cannot be absorbed into the maw of industry. We must get our highway program under way as soon as possible; we must, with watchful eye, provide public works that will dovetail into the defense plan. More roads and better roads must be built. Flood control to keep rivers from the door of busy shops must be provided. I feel that every member of both Houses of this legislative body should scan the State to see what can be done.

The clang of the hammer on the anvil, the roar of grinding steel, the hum of shuttle and loom, all sing a merry song and it should rise until it becomes a crashing burst of victorious melody that will drown out the sirens song of the Communist, Fascist and Nazi sympathizer. Let them sing their hymn of hate, but a contented people will pay them no heed. Victory may well depend on the unity of purpose and oneness of aim of our people.

I can see in my mind's eye a people imbued with love of the United States marching forward under the Stars and Stripes, putting their shoulders to the wheels of industry and turning them fast and advantageously, so fast that Hitler and his man Friday Mussolini will literally be buried under the avalanche of aid given to the beleaguered countries on which the Twin Dictators have cast their evil eyes.

Speed the day! Hasten the hour when the whole people of America will awaken to the dire dangers that beset us and lay aside their greed for gold, their bickerings and dissentions and fight the good fight in the producing plants of our land. Winston Churchill, iron man of England, seemingly raised by God to guide a people in distress says: "Give us the tools and we'll finish the job." Let there be speed in the furnishing of the tools.

Let Pennsylvania point the way to united action.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, when the gentleman from Northampton spoke he was interrogated as to administrative costs, which he had not covered in his remarks and he was asked whether the administrative costs went up or down during the same period to which he referred, to which he replied that the expenditures had been reduced.

I should like, Mr. President, to give him those figures. In September of 1939 the administrative cost was 7.1 per cent; in December, 1939 the administrative cost was 9.2 per cent; and in December, 1940 the administrative cost was 8.8 per cent. So that the expenses have not gone down but have increased almost two per cent and during the period have increased to points where they were two per cent plus.

I gave those figures in the first remarks I made following the hearing which was attended by Mr. Russell and I should like to point out that in December of 1940 the funds handled were $9,240,000 and the administrative cost was 8.8 per cent. In 1939 the funds handled were $12,000,000 with an administrative cost of 7.3 per cent.

By the way, Mr. President, I want to say I am reading from a report prepared by the Department of Public Assistance through its Bureau of Research and Statistics, published in the last month or two.

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, if we only had one family on relief the percentage of administration would be about six hundred per cent. It is impossible to keep the rate at a low basis when the basis goes down. I believe, also, Mr. President, the employes are under civil service and while there is only so many as they need they are still provided at a fixed rate.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Northampton.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northampton permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. BARTLETT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Northampton know whether during the two year period he has referred to in his very fine speech how many people employed in the department have been released during that same period?

Mr. BARTLETT. I do not have that figure, Mr. President.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, it seems to me it is conceivable both the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, and the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Bartlett, may be in the right, if you take their basis.

As I understand it, suppose at the time of the maximum expenses in Pennsylvania the cost of administration was one million dollars and suppose at the present time the cost of administration is $900,000, then there is a reduction of 9 per cent, but if you take it on the percentage that is being spent for assistance then in that case the ratio may go up a bit although the absolute expense is less.

Now, Mr. President, I may be wrong but I am inclined to think the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, has considered it in the ratio of the amount expended for relief and the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Bartlett, has considered it on the absolute expense for administration during any one period, as compared with the present, and therefore if that be so both of those gentlemen are right in their statements.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, you have the same conditions and you have the same figures. In September of 1937, with the same $8,585,000 total as in December of 1940 the figures for administration are 7.3 per cent; they are now 8.8 per cent.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I did not quite understand what the gentleman from Philadelphia said. Was that the percentage of the amount given out for assistance?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, you can take it either way. I will give you the figures as follows:

In December of 1940 the total figures for relief expenditures were $9,240,000, payable from federal funds $1,925,000, payable from state funds $7,314,000; the percentage is 8.8 per cent.

In September of 1939, two years plus a few months, the total was $8,500,000 instead of $9,000,000; the federal funds were $1,400,000—almost alike; the state funds were $6,700,000 instead of $7,300,000 and the percentage was 7.5 per cent—1.3 per cent less in administrative cost.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, that is the percentage on what?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, that is the percentage on any one of those figures you want to take; it is the percentage of state and local; according to the report here, the administrative state and local percentage was 7.5 per cent in 1937, in September, at a time when the state spent $600,000 less than they spend today, and the percentage today is 8.8 per cent. You can take it any way you wish. Administrative expenses have increased and they only have increased because they have not reduced the pay roll to meet the lowered demands on the fund.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Tuesday, March 25, 1941 at 11:00 o'clock, a. m.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 6:28 o'clock, p. m. until Tuesday, March 25, 1941, at 11:00 o'clock a. m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, MARCH 24, 1941

The House met at 9 p. m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The CHAPLAIN, Rev. DONALD McFALL offered the following prayer:

Gracious God, God of Mercy and of Truth, we would ask Thee to make the door of this House of Representatives so wide that there might pass through it all mankind in need of that which is marked by Love and Friendship; that which is prompted by Thy Spirit, O God.

Yet, at the same time, we desire it to be so narrow, in order that envy, pride, and hate may be shut out.

Make its threshold smooth enough to be no stumbling-block to those who are weak, especially the children and youth of our State; yet rugged and strong enough to turn back all those who would ask to destroy life marked by noble character.

Great God, make the door of this House of Representatives the gateway to a higher and nobler order of living within every home of our beloved State.

We ask it in the name of Christ, Thy Son. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of Wednesday, March 19, 1941.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Wednesday, March 19, 1941, when, on motion of Mr. MODELL, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. ACHTERMAN.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 57.

In the House of Representatives, March 24, 1941.

Whereas, Newspapers have carried reports concerning the operation of certain state hospitals within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which, if true, show an extremely reprehensible situation existing in such state hospitals; and

Whereas, There have been charges made that certain trustees and supervisory officials have committed criminal acts; and

Whereas, Certain state hospitals have lost their official standing and rating with the American Medical Association; and

Whereas, The conduct of certain trustees of state hospitals has resulted in unfavorable criticism of the operation of said hospitals; and

Whereas, If these charges are true, the situation calls for immediate attention by the legislative branch of the government to remedy such a condition; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint a committee of three members of the House, and the President pro tempore of the Senate appoint a committee of three members of the Senate to act as a legislative committee to investigate the maintenance, operation and conduct of all hospitals within this Commonwealth; and be it further

Resolved, That the said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases; and be it further

Resolved, That the said committee, because of the urgency of the situation, report to the House as speedily as possible, with appropriate recommendations.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. TARR. RESOLUTION No. 58.

In the House of Representatives, March 19, 1941.

It has long been a custom in the United States and in other countries throughout the world to observe the first day of May as May Day, and to mark such observances by various kinds of celebrations, which sometimes have taken the form of demonstrations against our established democratic form of government.

Almost a decade ago the American Legion organization in Fayette County inaugurated a new and more appropriate observance of the first day of May, by staging a parade and celebration in the name of Americanism.

The first day of May has since been annually observed and celebrated as Americanism Day by patriotic societies, veterans' organizations and other groups, both in Fayette County and throughout the Commonwealth, and it has been the custom of the Governor of the Commonwealth to issue his proclamation signifying the observance of Americanism Day.

The present world crisis constitutes a serious threat to those American principles of life and government, which were established with such great sacrifice and which have since been maintained and protected so valiantly, thus making it particularly significant and appropriate the observance of May first as Americanism Day in the year of 1941, now therefore be it

Resolved, By the Members of the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that a committee of five members be appointed by the Speaker to arrange appropriate ceremonies at the hour of 12 o'clock noon on August 30, 1941, in anticipation of the observance of May first as Americanism Day, and be it further

Resolved, That the Members of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the officers of the American Legion Post No. 51 and Veterans' of Foreign War Post No. 47 of Uniontown, Fayette County, and the state officers of the various other veterans' and patriotic organizations throughout the Commonwealth be invited to attend such ceremonies, and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby urged to issue his proclamation signifying May 1, 1941 as Americanism Day, and calling upon all patriotic, veteran, fraternal and civic organizations to hold celebrations of this day in such a manner as will bring to the people of the Commonwealth the full realization of the benefits, privileges and blessings that come to them through the continuance of our American form of government, and be it fourther

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania further urges all persons in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to join in a real American celebration of May 1, 1941 as Americanism Day.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

SENATE MESSAGES

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 18, 1941.

Whereas, "The Glory that was Greece," is a term well known to educated men the world over. Greece of antiquity was the cradle of our civilization. From Greece we have derived our laws, our literature, our art, our concepts of justice and of the dignity of man. Indeed, Greece belongs to all mankind;

Whereas, that treasured pearl of our language, the word democracy, meaning the rule of the people, is derived from the ancient Greek, Democracy was founded in ancient Athens. When Greece of the early Christian era, the home of so many Saints, Fathers and Doctors of the Church, fell to the pagan conqueror, the word democracy vanished through the ages to be revived by our own glorious nation at its foundation.

Whereas, on March 25, 1821, the Greece of modern times became an independent nation through the never-ending faith, hope, and courage of her people. In the century that followed. Greece all too often has been the battle ground of nations, but the spirit of indominable courage of the Lacedaemonians at Thermopylae has been handed down through centuries. Indeed, the word Spartan is synonymous with courage. Today, Greece again struggles to maintain her liberty and freedom as a nation; she defends not only her soil, but those classical treasures of antiquity of which she is the world's custodian; once ruined in the havoc of modern war, they can never be restored. It is to be hoped that when peace is restored that the nations of the world will remember the "Glory that is Greece" and restore all Greek territory to the blue and white cross of St. George.

Whereas, the Greeks have been associated with the United States since the early days of the Republic. In 1804 the first challenge to our infant nation embroiled us in war with the Barbary States of Northern Africa. Our slogan of that day, "Millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute," brought us the respect of the nations of the world. The slogan is still valid in our day! Our young navy crossed the seas and wrote glorious chapters of our history under Decatur and Bainbridge. Wars are not won by naval victories alone; our infant republic could not send a military expedition across the seas. However, a military force was organized under the command of General William Eaton, U.S.A., and Colonel Tobias Lear who had been military secretary to George Washington: this force was composed mainly of Greeks supported by a small force of Neapolitan gunners. These Greek Companies fought valiantly alongside the United States Marines. Their repeated assaults brought the war to a successful conclusion in 1805 by the capture of the Tripolitan Capitol of Derne. Our Greek companies were repeatedly mentioned in the dispatches for their courage and sacrifice. Thus General Eaton in his dispatch to Commodore Samuel Barron concerning the assault on Derne on April 29, 1805, states, "Our forces ashore successfully assaulted Derne, led by Patrick N. O'Bannon of the Marines along with our Greek companies. The loss in killed and wounded this day were mostly Greeks. They well supported their ancient character." Thus the Greeks made the supreme sacrifice and contributed their lives in the early days of our republic.

Whereas, people of Greek origin or descent have greatly contributed to the progress of the United States as citizens of the republic. They have been loyal, progressive and law abiding. They have entered the various phases of American life and contributed greatly thereto. They have been noted for their community spirit in matters of charity and human kindness. Their campaign in education for American citizenship has been outstanding. In the early days of our present economic depression, having engaged extensively in the food trades in the United States, they willingly fed thousands of persons out of their love for their fellow man before either private or governmental social agencies could bring themselves to the realization of the catastrophe that had overtaken us.

Whereas, a campaign is now in progress in the United States for the purpose of raising funds for the distressed women and children of Greece. Such relief as has been afforded has been most thankfully received. The campaign has been conducted with dignity and restraint. Our citizens of Hellenic origin have steadfastly refused to indulge in a campaign of recrimination and hate, or tell us what we should do on their behalf. This is eminently befitting an ancient and cultured people. They realize that our nation is derived from many peoples and that our national unity is of paramount importance. Now be it therefore

Resolved, (if the House concur), That the Legislature of this state acknowledge the contribution made to our nation by persons of Hellenic origin by endorsing the celebration of Greek Independence Day on March 25th as Hellenic Day, and be it further

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), that his Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania shall issue, publish and declare an appropriate proclamation to the people of Pennsylvania, designating for observance this year, the twenty-fifth day of March, as Hellenic Day.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 18, 1941.

Whereas, On March 7 and 8, 1941, at California State Teachers' College, California, Pennsylvania, was held the second session of the Annual Student Congress of the Western Pennsylvania District of the National Forensic League, and

Whereas, Students representing high schools from Beaverdale, Bentleyville, Brownsville, California, Cumberland Township, Centerville, Charleroi, Derry Township. East Pike Run, Glassport, Monessen, Hurst of Mount Pleasant Township, Munhall, Point Marion, St. Vincent, Waynesburg, and West View participated in this Congress, and

Whereas, This Congress affords training for more than 150 high school students in the proper methods of legislative procedure, and

Whereas, It is necessary in these perilous times that the citizens of the United States do their utmost to insure the Democratic form of government for the future citizens of this nation. Therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concur), That the Sponsors of this Student Congress together with the students themselves be highly commended for their efforts to preserve democracy, and be it further

Resolved, That it is the sentiment of the Assembly of Pennsylvania that the Student Congress be continued and, if possible, broadened to include a larger number of students, and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to all schools participating in the Student Congress and to every student who took part.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

UNITED STATES SENATE
Committee on Finance

March 14, 1941.

Mr. Thomas J. Callahan
Chief Clerk
House of Representatives
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Callahan:

Attached herewith is a part of the Congressional Record of March 13th in which I arranged to have printed the resolution on the Bill of Rights passed by the Pennsylvania House of Representatives and concurred in by the Senate. I also introduced and had printed in the Record Senate Joint Resolution 51, and am enclosing a number of copies of the Resolution. I shall do whatever I can to have the measure become law.

With every kind wish, I am
Most cordially yours

JAMES J. DAVIS

77th CONGRESS
1st Session
S. J. RES. 51
IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES

March 13, 1941.

Mr. Davis introduced the following joint resolution; which was read twice and referred to the Committee on the Library

JOINT RESOLUTION

To provide for the celebration of the one-hundred-and-fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Bill of Rights as the first ten amendments to the Constitution of the United States.

Whereas, The 15th day of December 1941 is the day on which occurs the one-hundred-and-fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Bill of Rights as the first ten amendments to the Constitution of the United States; and

Whereas, Such day assumes unusual importance and significance during the present critical period in the history of our Nation and of the world when the fundamental rights of free people, as set forth in such amendments, are being threatened by totalitarian forces abroad and their sympathizers at home: Therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That in order that the one-hundred-and-fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Bill of Rights as the first ten amendments to the Constitution of the United States may be duly commemorated, the 15th day of December 1941 is hereby declared to be a national public holiday throughout the United States.

Sec. 2. For the purpose of providing for appropriate ceremonies and celebrations on such day, there is hereby established a commission to be known as the Bill of Rights Sesquicentennial Commission (hereafter referred to as the "Commission"), to be composed of seven commissioners, as follows: Three persons to be appointed by the President of the United States, two Senators to be appointed by the President of the Senate, and two Members of the House of Representatives to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The members of the Commission shall serve without compensation and shall select a chairman and vice chairman from among their number. If any vacancies occur in the membership of the Commission, such vacancies shall be filled in the manner provided for the original appointments.

Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the Commission to sponsor appropriate ceremonies and celebrations to be held throughout the United States on December 15, 1941, in commemoration of such anniversary.

Sec. 4. The Commission is authorized to make such expenditures for the purpose of carrying out its functions under this joint resolution as it may deem advisable, but no expenditure shall be made except for the purposes authorized by a majority of the members thereof. Expenditures of the Commission shall be paid upon the presentation of vouchers approved by the chairman of the Commission.

Sec. 5. The authority of the Commission under this joint resolution shall cease and terminate on June 30, 1942, at which time the Commission shall make a report of its expenditures and activities under this joint resolution to the Congress.

Sec. 6. There is hereby authorized to be appropriated the sum of $10,000, to be expended by the Commission for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this joint resolution.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE REGULATION OF MILK IN PENNSYLVANIA

The SPEAKER laid before the House the Report of the Special Commission of the General Assembly to investigate regulation of milk in Pennsylvania which was read by the Clerk.

COMMUNICATION

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication which was read by the Clerk as follows:

Perry E. Wright
27 South Richhill Street,
Waynesburg, Pa.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Harrisburg

Waynesburg, Pennsylvania, February 27, 1941.

Mr. Speaker, Members of the House of Representatives:

In a brief, but my best way, I will try to pay you my respects. Personally I am very well, but the house I live in is getting a little dilapidated; it is tottering on its foundations, its walls are badly shattered, its roof is worn, and the whole structure trembles with every wind, and I think that I will have to move out of it before very long.

This life and the beyond puts something into a man which no words can tell, it may be, the truth about life and the brightness on the other side of its shadow.

Life at its basest, life at its best find the end. Death is the starkest tragedy in the story of man.

Sometimes even the bravest are tempted to give up, let down, and turn cynic. But that strange Man on His rough but rugged Cross outside The City Gate, rebukes us, shames our shoddy mood, and calls us back to courage. Facing the realities, man must endure his going hence as his coming hither.

Life is being and becoming and it does not yet appear what it shall be. We could not have imagined this life, nor can we see beyond it, and friends, most of our comforts come between troubles.

Our job is not to see what lies in the distant future, but to do what lies at hand; great things are done by inward urges, or outward necessity—they are drawn from us by struggle.

Lincoln said "Man is entitled to long life, but he should do something to comfort others.'

Nothing has happened to me in years that gave me more real comfort than the act of this body of law makers of one of the greatest states in the world's greatest nations, when they placed on record in the House Journal here, the resolution relative to the passing of my life's companion into the great beyond.

Please allow me with all the manhood and fervor that I possess to say, I thank you.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) PERRY E. WRIGHT

Resolved, That Marie Casazza be elected Transcribing Clerk of the House of Representatives effective March 1, 1941.

SENATE MESSAGE

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 24, 1941.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, March 31, 1941, at 4:30 o'clock p. m., and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, March 31, 1941, at 9:00 p. m.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was unanimously concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

WELCOME EXTENDED TO MEMBER

The SPEAKER, The Chair welcomes to the House this evening the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr, Finnerty who has been absent during a long and serious illness. The Chair is confident he is expressing the sentiment of all the members of this House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. FINNERTY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to take advantage of this opportunity to thank the many Members of this House on both the Democrat and Republican sides for the many telephone calls, telegrams and letters which I received. The letters, numbering exactly one hundred five were messages of good wishes and "get well" cards from both the Republicans and Democratic members.

I want to thank the Republican members and the Democratic members who sent me many beatutiful flowers during my illness. I want particularly to thank our worthy chaplain for two consoling letters and a prayer book and for the prayer he offered up for my recovery.

I owe a lot to the Chief Clerk and his assistants in this House for the wonderful service they gave me in keeping me in touch with the doings of this House. I had but one disappointment when I was sick and that was that I was compelled to miss the Saint Patrick's Day dinner. I worked on that committee and was very active on it during the four terms I have been in this House. That was quite a disappointment, but I had one consolation. On the day of the dinner I read a poem in one of the newspapers, and part of that poem said that as long as there is one Irishman alive there will always be a Saint Patrick's Day celebration. I hope we will all be present for the next one.

I am glad to be back, I am glad to be as well as I am, and I hope to be with you to help out in the proceedings of this House and to help make Pennsylvania a better place in which to live.

USE OF HALL OF HOUSE GRANTED

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I request permission of the House to use the Hall of the House tomorrow at eleven o'clock A. M. for the purpose of a public hearing, before the Liquor Control Committee. The hearing has been scheduled for the old Caucus Room. Many of our members tell me they hope to have quite a number of people from their districts here for that public hearing. For that reason I thing it will be necessary to use the hall of the House for the public hearing.

The SPEAKER. Will the House grant permission for the use of the Hall of the House as requested? The Chair hears no objection and consent is granted.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. FINNERTY asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Cities First Class to meet during the session of the House.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

The Speaker for Mr. MARSHALL M. COHEN for tonight and tomorrow on account of illness.

Mr. Rosenfeld for Mr. SKALE on account of illness.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. MODELL, from the Committee on Cities—First Class, reported as committed House Bill No. 596, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Council of the City of Philadelphia to fix the salaries of members of the Park Guards, and authorizing the Park Commission to classify the Park Guards and to pay the salaries as set by the City Council.

Mr. MODELL, from the Committee on Cities—First Class, reported as committed, House Bill No. 597, entitled:

An Act to amend section two of article five of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (P. L. 581) entitled "An act for the better government of cities of the first class of this Commonwealth" by classifying employes and officers of the Bureau of Police and Fire and certain employes of the Electrical Bureau assigned exclusively for work in connection with the Bureau of Fire, all in the Department of Public Safety for the purpose of fixing minimum salaries for each classification and payment of at least such minimum salaries to all persons within the said classifications.

Mr. READINGER, from the Committee on Rules, reported as amended House Resolution No. 57.

Mr. READINGER, from the Committee on Rules, reported as amended House Resolution No. 58.

Mr. READINGER, from the Committee on Rules, reported as committed Senate Concurrent Resolution Serial No. 117.

Mr. READINGER, from the Committee on Rules, reported as committed Senate Concurrent Resolution Serial No. 116.

SENATE MESSAGES

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 18, 1941.

Whereas, "The Glory that was Greece," is a term well known to educated men the world over. Greece of antiquity was the cradle of our civilization. From Greece we have derived our laws, our literature, our art, our concepts of justice and of the dignity of man. Indeed, Greece belongs to all mankind:

Whereas, that treasured pearl of our language, the word domocracy, meaning the rule of the people, is derived from the ancient Greek, Democracy was founded in ancient Athens. When Greece of the early Christian era, the home of so many Saints, Fathers and Doctors of the Church, fell to the pagan conqueror, the word democracy vanished through the ages to be revived by our own glorious nation at its foundation.

Whereas, on March 25, 1821, the Greece of modern times became an independent nation through the never-ending faith, hope, and courage of her people. In the century that followed, Greece all too often has been the battle ground of nations, but the spirit of indominable courage of the Lacedamonians at Thermopylae has been handed down through centuries. Indeed, the word Spartan is synonymous with courage. Today, Greece again struggles to maintain her liberty and freedom as a nation; she defends not only her soil, but those classical treasures of antiquity of which she is the world's custodian; once ruined in the havoc of modern war, they can never be restored. It is to be hoped that when peace is restored that the nations of the world will remember the "Glory that is Greece" and restore all Greek territory to the blue and white cross of St. George.

Whereas, the Greeks have been associated with the United States since the early days of the Republic. In 1804 the first challenge to our infant nation broiled us in war with the Barbary States of Nothern Africa. Our slogan of that day, "Millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute," brought us the respect of the nations of the world. The slogan is still valid in our day! Our young navy crossed the seas and wrote glorious chapters of our history under Decatur and Bainbridge.

Wars are not won by naval victories alone; our infant republic could not send a military expedition across the seas. However, a military force was organized under the command of General William Eaton, U. S. A., and Colonel Tobias Lear who had been military secretary to George Washington; this force was composed mainly of Greeks supported by a small force of Neapolitan gunners. These Greek companies fought valiantly alongside the United States Marines. Their repeated assaults brought the war to a successful conclusion in 1805 by the capture of the Tripolitan Capitol of Derne. Our Greek companies were repeatedly mentioned in the dispatches for their courage and sacrifice. Thus General Eaton, in his dispatch to Commodore Samuel Barron concerning the assault on Derne on April 29, 1805, states, "Our forces ashore successfully assaulted Derne, led by Patrick N. O'Bannon of the Marines along with our Greek companies. The loss in killed and wounded this day were mostly Greeks. They well supported their ancient character." Thus the Greeks made the supreme sacrifice and contributed their lives in the early days of our republic.

Whereas, people of Greek origin or descent have greatly contributed to the progress of the United States as citizens of the republic. They have been loyal, progressive and law abiding. They have entered the various phases of American life and contributed greatly thereto. They have been noted for their community spirit in matters of charity and human kindness. Their campaign in education for American citizenship has been outstanding. In the early days of our present economic depression, having engaged extensively in the food trades in the United States, they willingly fed thousands of persons out of their love for their fellow man before either private or governmental social agencies could bring themselves to the realization of the catastrophe that had overtaken us.

Whereas, a campaign is now in progress in the United States for the purpose of raising funds for the distressed women and children of Greece. Such relief as has been afforded has been most thankfully received. The campaign has been conducted with dignity and restraint. Our citizens of Hellenic origin have steadfastly refused to indulge in a campaign of recrimination and hate, or tell us what we should do on their behalf. This is eminently befitting an ancient and cultured people. They realize that our nation is derived from many peoples and that our national unity is of paramount importance. Now be it therefore

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the legislature of this state acknowledge the contribution made to our nation by persons of Hellenic origin by endorsing the celebration of Greek Independence Day on March 25 as Hellenic Day, and be it further

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), that his Excellency, the Governor of Pennsylvania shall issue, publish and declare an appropriate proclamation to the people of Pennsylvania, designating for observance this year, the twenty-fifth day of March, as Hellenic Day.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 18, 1941.

Whereas, on March 7 and 8, 1941, at California State Teachers' College, California, Pennsylvania, was held the second session of the Annual Student Congress of the Western Pennsylvania District of the National Forensic League, and

Whereas, Students representing high schools from Beaverdale, Bentleyville, Brownsville, California, Cumberland Township, Centerville, Charleroi, Derry Township, East Pike Run, Glassport, Monessen, Hurst of Mount Pleasant Township, Munhall, Point Marion, St. Vincent, Waynesburg, and West View participated in this Congress, and

Whereas, This Congress affords training for more than 150 high school students in the proper methods of legislative procedure, and

Whereas, It is necessary in these perilous times that the citizens of the United States do their utmost to insure the Democratic form of government for the future citizens of this nation. Therefore be it

Resolved: If the House concur, that the Sponsors of this Student Congress together with the students themselves be highly commended for their efforts to preserve democracy, and be it further

Resolved, That it is the sentiment of the Assembly of Pennsylvania that the Student Congress be continued and, if possible, broadened to include a larger number of students, and be it further

Resolved: That copies of this resolution be sent to all schools participating in the Student Congress and to every student who took part.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Mr. MODELL asked and obtained unanimous consent for House Bill No. 597 to be read for the first time.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 597 to be read for the first time.

An Act to amend section two of article five of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (P. L. 581) entitled "An act for the better government of cities of the first class of this Commonwealth" by classifying employes and officers of the Bureau of Police and Fire and certain employes of the Electrical Bureau assigned exclusively for work in connection with the Bureau of Fire, all in the Department of Public Safety for the purpose of fixing minimum salaries for each classification and payment of at least such minimum salaries to all persons within the said classifications.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 107, entitled:

An Act to amend section eleven of the act, approved the twenty-seventh day of April 1927 (P. L. 395), entitled "An act empowering the Department of Highways to acquire certain toll bridges within the Commonwealth; providing the procedure therefor; providing for the reimbursement of the Commonwealth from tolls and charges; and making an appropriation," as amended, by providing that such toll bridges heretofore or hereafter acquired by the Department of Highways shall be free bridges from the effective date of this act or from the date they are so acquired.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 251, entitled:

An Act to amend section eleven of the act approved the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2532), entitled "An act to establish funds to provide security for the payment of benefits in event of the insolvency of an insurance carrier authorized to write workmen's compensation insurance in this Commonwealth; and to provide for the administration thereof," by providing that payment of an award from the funds established by said act shall not provide any right of recovery against the employer: and that the employer may pay the award in advance of payment from the fund and shall thereupon be subrogated to the rights of the employe or any other party in interest against the fund.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 364, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the twenty-first day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 566), entitled "A supplement to the act, approved the second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (Pamphlet Laws, seven hundred thirty-six), entitled, as amended 'An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment; establishing an elective schedule of compensation; providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder; and prescribing penalties,' as reenacted and amended, providing for the payment of compensation to volunteer firemen or their dependents," amplifying the provisions thereof as to persons entitled to such payments.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 50, entitled:

An Act to repeal section four hundred eight of the act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith."

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 136, entitled:

An Act to further amend section four of the act, approved the second day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1198), entitled "An act relating to employes and organizations thereof; defining labor disputes; prescribing the procedure by which and the conditions under which injunctions may be granted in such disputes, and the scope thereof; declaring certain undertakings and promises between employers and employes contrary to public policy and void; prescribing the nature of proof necessary in actions arising out of labor disputes against persons or associations; prescribing the terms and conditions for bonds to be furnished prior to the issuance of injunctions; prescribing the procedure in case of appeal from granting injunctions; limiting the duration of temporary and permanent injunctions in case of labor disputes; and providing for the payment of costs; and repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith," by extending the provisions thereof to certain additional cases.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 4), page 3, line 9, by striking out the light-face bracket before the word "Provided"

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 4), page 3, line 11, by inserting a light-face bracket before the letter "(a)"

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 4), page 5, line 10, by inserting a light-face bracket after the word "Where"

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 4), page 5, line 10, by inserting after the word "Where" the following: "where"

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 4), page 5, line 18, by striking out the light-face bracket after the word "bargaining"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, these amendments are designed to delete from House Bill 136, Printer's No. 69, paragraph (d) on page 5. If the amendments prevail the bill will include what is now pargraph (d). My amendment has nothing to do with deleting paragraph (a) on page 3, paragraph (b) on page 4 and paragraph (c) on page 5. Under the amendments that I have submitted those paragraphs will still be in the bill. I simply, as I have said before, present these amendments so that paragraph (d) will be in the bill as a proviso and would not be affected by the anti-injunction act. I perhaps will find myself in disagreement with my colleagues and with other Members of the House, but I believe they will realize that my disagreement is based on fundamental reason and sound judgment. If my opinion were the opinion I am giving I would say it might be in error, but I believe the amendments would place the bill in keeping with the substantive law of this land as announced by the Supreme Court of the United States.

May I say, Mr. Speaker, that I have voted for all labor legislation in this House since 1935. If I thought that my amendments would hurt labor I would not insert them, but I believe my amendments will not only help labor but will help all the people of this Commonwealth.

What are we doing in these amendments? We are simply saying that the Courts of this Commonwealth are not bound by the injunction procedure set up in paragraph nine of this bill, but on the question of "sit down" strikes and the question of destruction of property the courts have the power to grant what is known as an ex-parte injunction. I believe that these amendments are necessary at this particular time because the times demand, Mr. Speaker, that the courts be not hampered by things which the courts have said are illegal and are not proper labor disputes. The labor legislation passed by this Legislative body and that passed by the National Congress has been designed to protect labor in the exercise of its lawful duty. A "sit-down" strike is not a labor dispute; destruction of property is not a labor dispute, and therefore, it is my contention that these things should be excluded from this bill.

Let me briefly, Mr. Speaker, and I am not going to take up much of your time, giving you the reason why I have presented these amendments. On April 12, 1937, the Supreme Court of the United States in sustaining the Labor Relations Board in the case of Labor Relations Board v. Jones & Laughlin, 301 U. S., page one, the Chief Justice speaking for the court and speaking on the right of labor to organize, said:

> "That is a fundamental right. Employes have as clear a right to organize and select their representatives for lawful purposes as the respondent has to organize its business and select its own officers and agents. Discrimination and coercion to prevent the free exercise of the right of employes to self-organization and representation is a proper subject for condemnation by competent legislative authority. Long ago we stated the reason for labor organizations. We said that they were organized out of the necessities of the situation; that a single employe was helpless in dealing with an employer; that he was dependent ordinarily on his daily wage for the maintenance of himself and family; that if the employer refused to pay him the wages that he thought fair, he was nevertheless unable to leave the employ and resist arbitrary and unfair treatment; that union was essention to give laborers opportunity to deal on an equality with their employer."

I simply say that, Mr. Speaker, to let you know and to let the Members of the House know that we are in perfect accord with the opinion laid down by the Chief Justice of the United States in the case that I have just cited.

Listen to the same Chief Justice, speaking in another case, and I refer to the famous case of National Labor Relations Board vs. Fansteel Metallurgical Corporation, in which in February, 1939, the same Chief Justice who had held that labor had the fundamental right to organize and protect its members had this to say as to seizure and sit-down strikes:

> "Seizure and retention of respondent's property were unlawful. It was a high handed proceeding without shadow of legal right. The workers had the right to strike but no license to commit acts of violence or to seize the plant. Seizure was a wrong apart from any acts of sabotage. It is same as an assault in conversion of goods. To justify such conduct because of the existence of a labor dispute or of an unfair labor practice would be to put a premium on resort to force instead of legal remedies."

Here is the heart of that opinion:

> "The conduct permitted in scuring labor's rights is lawful conduct.

Mr. Speaker, it appears to me, if we are going to abide by the decisions of the highest court of this land, and I think we are, the highest court of this land has told us that the labor laws were promulgated and enacted by the legislature to protect labor in the exercise of its lawful rights. The same courts, speaking through the same Chief Justice, later on said that the seizure and the retention of the property of an employer would not constitute a labor dispute; it is unlawful conduct, it is a conversion of goods, it is an illegal act and therefore has no right to be protected under any act we pass here. It does seem to me, if we follow the pronouncements of the Supreme Court of the United States which has been fair to labor and which has sustained so much labor legislation, we ought to except out of this the right of the Courts to grant any injunction in the case of these unlawful acts, such as the destruction of property and the seizure of goods.

Therefore Mr. Speaker, I ask the Members to vote in favor of my amendment.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, it is necessary that I arise to oppose the amendment offered by the gentleman from Allegheny Mr. Brown, concerning subsection (b) of section four of this act. I have already offered amendments which will be read to the House later on, where we feel that we will take care of this particular subsection.

The gentleman from Allegheny has spoken on what has been done for labor. There is no doubt there has been a lot done for labor in recent years. He also spoke of the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States. The decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, of course, in this particular case, was one which did not come under the jurisdiction of the Norris-LaGuardia Act, which was the act under which our State act was patterned in 1937. Therefore, we feel, since they have decided it was not a labor dispute, it would not come under the jurisdiction of this House Bill, and we have made provisions to designate "sit-down" strikes, and that is what Mr. Brown is speaking of in this particular amendment to another subsection of section nine of this act.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I ask the Members on this side of the House to oppose the amendments at this time. We will offer amendments to the act later on.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment as a new section.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend bill, page 5, by inserting between lines 18 and 19, the following:

Section 2. Section nine of said act is hereby amended by adding thereto, immediately after clause (f), a new clause to read as follows:

Section 9. No court of this Commonwealth shall issue any restraining order or a temporary or permanent injunction in any case involving or growing out of a labor dispute, except after hearing the testimony of witnesses in open court (with opportunity for cross-examination) in support of the allegations of a complaint made under oath, and testimony in opposition thereto, if offered, and except after findings of fact by the court to the effect—

(g) That an employe or employes acting in concert, or a labor organization or the members, officers, agents or representatives of a labor organization or persons acting for such organization, have seized, held, or threaten to seize, hold, damage or destroy the plant, equipment, machinery or other property of the employer, or engaging in a "sit-down strike" in order to compel such employer to accede to any demands, conditions or terms of employment or for collective bargaining.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I offer this amendment to section nine setting up a new subsection known as section (g) due to the fact that labor itself does not believe in the "sit-down" strike; we do not care to protect the "sit down" strike. Under the decision of the Supreme Court that was handed down, they declared in that particular case that a "sit down" strike was not a labor dispute, therefore, we felt that that did not come under the jurisdiction of this particular act.

We are offering subsection (g) to section nine in order that where labor is involved in a dispute, that where employers may run into court, and ask the court to hand down an injunction, that labor should at least have a right to a hearing before that injunction is granted. We know that "sit downs" are a thing that is very unpopular both with the general public and with the employer, and of course with labor itself. Labor does not care to have any part of "sit down" strikes; we would be just as glad to be rid ourselves of them as would any one else, but we feel that rather than have an employer or his agent run into court and have an injunction slapped upon labor without a hearing, which would be an injustice because of the fact that we know they do employ people in and around the plant to carry on that particular thing, we feel that in all of these cases where the dispute would come under this particular act, we should have a right to a hearing before an injunction is granted.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Williams.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Washington permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WILLIAMS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. We have been trying, Mr. Speaker, over here to discover the difference between this amendment and the amendment offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown. If the gentleman has an explanation as to why he opposed the amendment offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, and presented this amendment, we would like to hear it.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, the amendment offered by Mr. Brown was of such a nature that an injunction could be granted without a hearing. We feel in these cases where labor is involved as defined under this act, they should be given a hearing before an injunction is granted. That will be done under this particular section.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to support these amendments on the ground that half a loaf is probably better than no loaf at all. Our differences are differences of procedure. If an act is illegal, in labor as in other matters, the court has a right to restrain those acts. I cannot understand why labor could want more than anybody else would want. Under these amendments, the court would have to grant a full hearing and it would have to take testimony as long as testimony was presented. Destruction could be going on, the plant could be seized until a full hearing was had and service of notice upon all parties concerned, and allowing that time to answer. We differ on the question of procedure. It was my contention that in a matter so vital as the destruction of and seizure of property, an ex-parte injunction should be allowed. However, the majority of the House has seen fit to say "no" to my amendment and the majority has presented this amendment, which gives us half a loaf, saying in effect, "We will allow you the letter and substance of your contention, but with a full hearing and the right to take testimony." It seems to me the only thing we can do is to take this amendment, which, as I said before, is a half loaf, and a half loaf is better than no bread at all.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to defend the amendment offered by the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Williams. I want to say that in this time of national defense, we do not feel that we can browbeat labor into submission. We feel that labor should be granted a hearing at all times, which they have not been granted heretofore, and since the intelligensia cannot themselves decide upon what action should be taken in this particular piece of legislation, we are told from one side that there is no need for such a law, that there is plenty of law on the statute books to protect the corporations of the State of Pennsylvania. We find, on the other hand, men who say there is not law enough unless we amend this bill to the extent that the courts cannot issue an injunction for almost anything that happens in a labor dispute. Now, my friends, I say to you this is no time for a quarrel between management and labor. We feel labor should be given a hearing at all times, and I ask the members of this House to support the amendment.

Mr. JAMES. Mr. Speaker, we on this side semed to be willing to vote for the amendments that were offered by Mr. Brown, We felt there was a whole loaf. I do not agree with Mr. Brown that it is better to accept half a loaf than no bread at all in this matter. In asking the Members of this House to vote "no" on this last offered amendment I fully realize, and I think they should fully realize that in these amendments they give the appearance of having voted for "sit-down" strikes. I believe this is a preliminary to kill this entire bill, and I particularly ask the Republican Members to vote "no" on this amendment.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say a few words in the interest of the amendments as offered by Mr. Williams.

From the standpoint of practical experience, I am a steel worker; I have been working in the steel mills since 1896, and up until 1932, under the administration which is in charge of the affairs of this great government of ours today it was common to have an injunction issued against you even though you were a hundred miles away from where the strike was in progress. I am in favor as an American citizen, the same as any other American citizen, of having a hearing and determining from that hearing whether or not I am one of the violators that induced the judge to issue the injunction.

My name is in the records through injunction procedure times without number, and I say to this House that I am as innocent of any wrongdoing as a new born baby. It so happened in those days that the attorney representing the corporation was successful and able to reach the ear of those from whom he wanted favors and got an injunction issued against you without one iota of violance having taken place, denying the workers their civil rights, denying them the right to protect the interests which caused the strike. I could possibly enumerate here for an hour things that have happened under injunctions that were issued without a hearing, and especially now with the good things and the privileges that the workers of this country have been enjoying since 1933, I am sure that the people of Pennsylvania, this industrial state of ours want to see their workers given the same rights and privileges that the Constitution guarantees all the citizens of this country.

The American labor movement is not responsible for the "sit-down" strike. It was not brought about through the activities of the American labor movement. The American labor movement is against "sit-down" strikes and every place that I have had anything to do with strikes, I have had the privilege of sitting across the conference table with the owner of the plant and assured him that if he wanted his property protected, just to leave it in the hands of the strikers. Why? Why would we want to leave it in the hands of the strikers? Is there anybody here that would think for a moment that an American worker would want to destroy the instrument that made it possible for him to make a living? I want to say that I have been successful in convincing the management in a few cases that that was the situation, that the worker will protect his plant because if it is destroyed he loses the opportunity of making a livelihood, and if the plant is destroyed, the employer loses his money. Money is secondary in my opinion to the welfare of the people of America, and especially those who produce, this great body of working people who are doing so much in this day to preserve this great democracy of ours, and I ask the members of both sides of the House in the name of American labor and the working movement to support these amendments as submitted by Mr. Williams.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to unduly prolong the debate on this amendment, but I think there is something rather fundamental that has been overlooked from the legal phase of the question. The past few years in labor history have brought the "sit-down" strike which is condemned bitterly by both responsible labor leaders and industry alike. This legislation, I believe is not quite understandable from one viewpoint. We are attempting to say by these amendments that should there exist a condition which anyone says is a "sit-down" strike, that merely upon the say-so of that particular individual, upon the say-so of that employer, upon the say-so of a law enforcement agency, that should not be accepted in truth and fact as being a "sit-down" strike without that accusation being brought before the only means of determination of the facts, which affect the rights of people, and that is in an open court for the purpose of testifying, for the purpose of being subjected to cross-examination and for the purpose of having a judicial determination of the accusation.

Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the shoe might be on the other foot, there might be many in the House to stand up and say that there should be an open hearing and an ex-parte injunction. For example, I might go into court and say so and so was violating the law and committing a nuisance with his plant, and I might say to the judge that that nuisance was affecting the health of the community, and ask for an injunction ex-parte without giving that industry an opportunity to be heard. Should that injunction be granted, a great deal of damage might be done that probably in a short time might be undone, but meantime might cause a great deal of damage to that particular employer. The employer might come into court a while later and have the ex-parte injunction lifted by being able to show that the statements made by the one who asked for the original injunction were not based on the facts upon which the injunction was granted. The existing law is confusing in its concept, and this is merely to define the fundamental principles of a hearing in open court and judicial determination, because after all it is an accepted fact throughout this nation that only in the judiciary do we have a last court of resort for the determination of facts between opposing parties.

For that reason, Mr. Speaker, I think that a bill which emphatically states now with these amendments and sets forth the manner and means by which labor may come into court and meet its accuser and question its accuser and disprove, if the facts warrant disproving the accusation, I think we are only granting to labor what is fundamentally good for every other portion and segment of the American rights of American people.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BAKER, Mr. TATE and Mr. KEENAN and were as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. BRETHERICK filed the following reasons for his vote:

I am voting against the amendment because it will make necessary a hearing in open court to prevent the continued commission of the criminal acts involved in sit down strikes and seizure of private property.

Mr. GATES filed the following reasons for his vote:

Whether the United States will shortly be "at war" formally is still a question which cannot be answered—It all depends.

But approaching facts always cast their shadows before them. Some months ago the shadows indicated abandonment of neutrality policy and it was so reported and there were controversies over the forecast, but the shadows turned out to be true in portent.

Now we are in a more advanced phase, all the actions these days, all the policies, all the plans, indicate preparations as if for war.

These facts do not prove that the United States will be formally at war but they give a strong hint that formal entrance into war is probable. Personally I think the actions mean formal war, and for this reason I am voting for the amendment which bans sit down strikes, which would interfere with the prosecution of full defense.

The second section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment:

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 2, page 5, line 19, by striking out the figure "2" and inserting in lieu thereof: "3".

Amend title, page 2, last line of title on page 2, by inserting after the word "public" the following: "and requiring that the names of all applicants or recipients of assistance be kept confidential."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title as amended?

It was agreed to

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading as amended?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I cannot very well pass over the amendments to House Bill 487, Printers No. 91, without calling the attention of the Members of the House and especially the attention of the minority floor leader to the fact that I have prepared amendments in accordance with his request and have inserted them in the bill tonight. I want to say, in passing Mr. Speaker, that after the gentleman from Dauphin, when this bill was up for first reading, made remarks relative to the framing of this bill I conferred with the Legislative Reference Bureau and they tell me that the bill was drafted by a gentleman over there who has been in the employ of the Legislative Reference Bureau for many years. If the members of the House will read lines 18 and 19 of this bill they will find inserted the words "and the amendment thereto are hereby repeated".

I understand from this gentleman in the Bureau that that has been the practice for many years, and if the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, would have read the last few lines which I could not do in view of the fact that I had walked in from an important Committee meeting and hadn't had time to glance over the bill before Mr. Woodside took the floor, he probably would have known that this amendment was not necessary, but in view of the fact that it might satisfy the minority floor leader I inserted it in the bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 692, entitled:

An Act to amend clauses (k) and (1), and to add clause (n) to section two thousand four hundred two of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 177), entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and the administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers thereof, including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools, or Teachers College; abolishing, creating, reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments, boards, and commissions; defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers, and of the several administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers; fixing the salaries of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and certain other executive and administrative officers; providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers, and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments, boards, and commissions; and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments, boards and commissions shall be determined," authorizing the leasing of Indiantown Gap Military Reservation to the United States.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 653, entitled:

An Act to add clause eighteen A to section three of article nineteen of the act, approved the seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred one (P. L. 20), entitled "An act for the government of cities of the second class," authorizing cities of the second class to impose and collect charges for the care and treatment at municipal hospitals of persons who are financially able to pay the expenses of such care and treatment.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. BENTLY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 3), page 2, line 8, by striking out the word "whenever" and insert in lieu thereof "where."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The title was read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 401, entitled:

An Act to further amend section five hundred eleven of the act approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, (P. The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 367, entitled:

An Act legalizing the operation of bowling alleys and participation in the sport of bowling on Sunday.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend title, page 1, line 2 of title, by inserting after the word "bowling" the following: "after two o'clock post meridian".

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 2, by inserting after the word "Sunday' the following: "but only after the hour of two o'clock post meridan".

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 4, by inserting after the word "same" the following: " after such hour."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objections? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments.

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, last Monday night when the Democrats were committing a blitzkrieg on the Veterans and other legislation sponsored by Republicans I raised an inquiry concerning the apparent discrepancy between sponsorships as they appeared on the bills filed and as they appeared on the calendar. I did not raise the question at that time because there was any doubt in my mind as to what happened. I did not think that the desk had been violating any of the rules of this House, nor that they were inefficient or sloppy in the work which they are doing, and, of course, investigation showed that they were not.

May I say, Mr. Speaker, at this time that I as minority floor leader and as a minority Member have received, not only every right to which I as a Member of this House have been entitled to from the Speaker, the Chief Clerk, the Parliamentarian, the Secretary and other Members on the Desk, but I have received and I think all the Republican members on this side have received every consideration and every courtesy that any minority member could ever expect to be entitled to.

Mr. Speaker, I wish I could have the same praise for the Democratic strategy, but I cannot. You know, Mr. Speaker, the character and standards of political parties are often measured by the seemingly little things which they do. Speaking of little things let us return to this business of bill stealing and sponsorship snatching. The Democrats have started a practice during this session of taking any Republican bill which is good and has political advantage and adding to it the name of some Democrat, even without the knowledge of the sponsor and in direct violation of the rules of this House. When the matter was called to the attention of the House last Monday night the Chair mildly, but properly, rebuked the Members of this House for violating the rules in adding the sponsorship. I think that is petty political practice about which the Members of the Democratic party, even down to the most political minded precinct leader, certainly must be ashamed. Not only are they guilty of sponsorship snatching but they are also guilty of bill stealing. They do that by taking bills which have been introduced by Republican members which they think will be of political advantage to have sponsorship, and then they copy the exact bill and introduce it as their own. This practice also has generally been carried on during this session.

One other practice which has demonstrated itself during the past week has been the returning to Committee of all Republican sponsored bills and at the same time reporting out only those bills which were sponsored by Democratic Members. I think, Mr. Speaker, that proves conclusively that the Democrats' chief interest is not in the merit of the legislation which is before us but is only in what political advantage they may get for their particular Members in the way of sponsoring legislation.

I cannot understand the Members of this House. I know many of them personally quite well on the other side. They are not that petty; they are not that picayune in their personal feelings. It does not measure up to the type of men many of you I know to be, but in your party you have adopted as a practice in this House resorting to the lowest and the cheapest type of petty politics.

Mr. Speaker, the Governor, the Executive Departments and the Republican members of this House and the Senate have made every conceivable effort during this session to avoid petty political dickering and bickering and to work for the welfare of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I do not think there was ever a time in the history of the Commonwealth when there was a division between the executive and the legislature where there was as much effort made to cooperate as has been made on the part of the administration and of the Republican members of this House. The Members on the other side of the House well know as you do Mr. Speaker, of occasions when the Governor would call you in and talk to you about the problems of the Legislature even before they would be referred to the members on this side of the House. We introduced legislation which we have taken over to the Democrats and said "We do not want to make any political capital out of this, we want to work for the welfare of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and if you want to join us in this, all right." We introduced the bills on behalf of the administration to carry out the pledges as suggested by the Governor. We took them over to the Democratic side as they came in and asked them whether they did not want to join in the sponsorship to make them non-political. In some cases they did but in most of them they said, "No, we do not want to bother with it, we are going to steer our own course." It developes that "our own course" is stealing these bills that were introduced by Republicans and saying to the Members of this House "We are not going to let out any Republican sponsored bills."

Mr. Speaker, I can only say to the members of this House that the minority has weapons. In this House there are some of us who have been around here long enough to know how to use those weapons, and the Senate has a Republican majority. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that the Members of the Republican Party are not going to be dragged down to this petty and picayune politics that has been played here particularly during the past week. I think it is time, Mr. Speaker, that we set aside petty politics. The people of the Commonwealth are interested in having this legislation considered carefully and honestly, intelligently and fairly, but they are not interested in such petty party politics as to say who shall sponsor this bill or who shall sponsor that bill. They are interested in having a good administration in the Executive department and having good legislation passed by the House and by the Senate.

Mr. Speaker, I think the Members of this House ought to get down to doing a job of passing legislation regardless of sponsorship. I think the Members on this side of the House will continue the practice which they have followed in the past of voting for all Democratic bills which we think merit support, regardless of who the sponsor is. If it is necessary we will continue to vote for such bills, even in those cases where we know the bills which were introduced by Republican members should have been passed. I think the people of Pennsylvania want us to legislate and want you as legislators to deal with legislation in that manner.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I am rather surprised to hear the outburst on the part of the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, and I am just wondering whether after all he has not falsely suspected us of doing what the party on the other side of the House did in 1939, and has had attributed to us the same activities that characterized them in 1939.

If the gentleman from Dauphin had but examined the calendar of last week and the calendars of the weeks preceding he would have seen as a matter of fact that the minority of this House was receiving the same consideration as were the Members of the majority party. We have recommitted bills that have been introduced by Democrats, and by the same token we also have recommitted bills that have been introduced by the Republicans. I think I rather carefully explained that situation, and more than that I explained in detail the reasons for committing the series of five or six bills that emanated from the Committee on Military Affairs. Some of those bills certainly were not in proper form and needed amendment. There was uncertainty as to the manner in which they had been reported from committee; there was uncertainty as to the names that were on those bills. I very frankly said that was a practice that should not have been followed and that it was necessary and essential to stop that practice in this House. We did that very thing, but when the gentleman says it is the policy to commit all Republican bills, if he will refer to the calendar of last week, my recollection is he will find one bill emanated from the Senate, introduced by a Republican Senator, and was passed finally by this House. That bill was sponsored solely by a Republican. That would not seem to bear out the gentleman's contention that we were opposed to legislation sponsored by Republican members? Then again I would like to call to the gentleman's attention a bill that was sponsored jointly in this House by a Democrat and a Republican. That bill was passed here and sent to the Senate for their concurrence. That has occurred, on numerous occasions in this House, and I can safely warrant to the gentleman from Dauphin that it will continue in this House both as to bills that have been sponsored by Republicans and as to those bills which have been jointly sponsored.

I am saying, Mr. Speaker, in all fairness the charge made by the gentleman from Dauphin is unwarranted; that the facts do not warrant it; that the facts do not sustain it, and, Mr. Speaker, the charge certainly should not have been made. As a matter of fact, a careful study should have been made of the activities of this House in the past as to how we have treated the minority Members. I say, Mr. Speaker, without any fear of contradiction, that we have tendered to the minority Members of this House, and we have accorded them fairer treatment and more substantial treatment than the Democratic members of this House received in 1939.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Mr. ROYER offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, March 24, 1941.

Reverend John W. Smith, well known religious leader in the Borough of Ephrata and Lancaster County, and pastor emeritus of Trinity Lutheran Church of Ephrata, died March 14, 1941 at the age of eighty-six years. He was born in Floyd, Virginia, and attended Roanoke College, Roanoke, Virginia, graduating in 1883.

Reverend Smith later attended Mount Airy Seminary, Philadelphia, graduating therefrom in 1886. His first charge was at Brandonville, West Virginia, after which he had a charge at Grafton, West Virginia.

Reverend Smith came to Ephrata in 1892 and served as pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church until May, 1936, when he was retired and made pastor emeritus.

For almost half a century Reverend Smith faithfully and unselfishly served the members of his church and his community. His counsel and example have served as an inspiration to all those coming into contact with him, and his activity and leadership in both religious and civic affairs have been an invaluable contribution to the welfare of his community and his state; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives mourns the passing of Reverend John W. Smith; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House to his widow, Mrs. Nancy Phlegar Smith.

CONDOLENCE RESOLUTION

Messrs. LEISEY and GYGER offered the following resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, March 24, 1941.

George R. North of Lyndell, Chester County, has passed away. Mr. North was a member of this House, having served during the regular sessions of 1919-1920 and 1925-1926.

Mr. North was born on March 7th, 1860, and, after a public school education, settled in Chester County, where he resided until his death.

He was a Master Farmer, a member of the East Brandywine Township School Board; a former president of the Chester County School Directors Association; and a former clerk of the Chester County Courts. Until his death, on March 20th, 1941, he was active in the affairs of the Hopewell Methodist Church, and the Pennsylvania State Grange.

Resolved, That the House of Representatives makes a minute of the passing of this useful citizen, and extends to Mrs. North and the members of the family, its sincere sympathy in the loss they have sustained by the death of their husband and father.

Resolved Further, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Mrs. North by the Chief Clerk of this House.

PROCLAMATION

The SPEAKER laid before the House a Proclamation from the Governor which was read by the Clerk as follows:

IN THE NAME AND BY AUTHORITY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
HARRISBURG

"The Glory that was Greece" is a term which may now be revised to "The Glory that is Greece."

The Greece of antiquity was a cradle of civilization and from Greece we have derived laws, literature, art, and concepts of justice and of the dignity of man.

The Greece of today is making a magnificent and glorious struggle to maintain her liberty and freedom as a nation; she defends not only her soil, but those classical treasures of antiquity of which she is the world's custodian.

On March 25, 1821, the Greece of modern times became an independent nation through the never-ending faith, hope, and courage of her people. In the century that followed, Greece all too often has been the battle ground of nations, but the spirit of courage of the Lacedaemonians at Thermopylae has been handed down through centuries.

Persons of Greek origin or descent have contributed greatly to progress of the United States and Pennsylvania. They have been loyal, progressive and law-abiding.

A campaign is now in progress in the United States to give aid and assistance to the distressed women and children of this beleaguered country. This is a humanitarian work which appeals to all of us.

Pennsylvania will do well to take cognizance of the historic battle being waged by these people of Hellenic origin by participating in the celebration of Greek Independence Day which will be celebrated tomorrow, Tuesday, March 25th.

Now Therefore, I, Arthur H. James, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in the spirit of the concurrent resolution which was adopted in the Senate March 18, 1941, and which has been adopted in the House tonight, do hereby proclaim Tuesday, March 25th, as Hellenic Day in Pennsylvania.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, at the City of Harrisburg, this twenty-fourth day of March, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, and of the Commonwealth the one hundred and sixty-fifth.

BY THE GOVERNOR:

Secretary of the Commonwealth

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

The following Committee meetings were announced:

Education, Tuesday, March 25 at 11:15 A. M. in Room 326.

Game, Tuesday, March 25 at 10:30 A. M. in Room 324.

Judiciary General, Tuesday, March 25 at 10:00 A. M. in Room 246.

Labor, Tuesday, March 25 at 10:30 A. M. in Room 522.

Municipal Corps., Tuesday March 25, After Session in Room 323.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. WRIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Tuesday, March 25, 1941, at 1 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 11:48 p. m.) the House adjourned.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1941. 135th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 25. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, MARCH 25, 1941. No. 26.

SENATE

TUESDAY, March 25, 1941.

The Senate met at 11:00 o'clock, a. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

Deep within our hearts, O God, would we worship Thee through these moments of prayer. As our minds and hearts pause in Thy holy presence we would renew our languishing strength through Thine and replenish the altar fires of our faith in Thee. We would seek Thee as did the Greeks of old and proclaim Thee to be great among the children of men as did the Romans of yore.

Let Thy grace with all its life-giving power definitely be felt in our hearts that even our children may rise up and call us blessed in times to come, for "as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

May our service here be attuned to Thy will and the truth of proposed legislation be indelibly written upon our hearts so that withal the journal of our lives be so recorded by Thy all-seeing eye that of them none of us need ever be ashamed. We pray through the power of Him who loves us with an undying love. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. TAYLOR and Mr. WADE the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. Geltz asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. HOMSHER.

PROCLAIMING MARCH 25, 1941, HELLENIC DAY IN PENNSYLVANIA

He also informed the Senate that the House has concurred in Resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, March 18, 1941.

Whereas, "The Glory that was Greece," is a term well known to educated men the world over. Greece of antiquity was the cradle of our civilization. From Greece we have derived our laws, our literature, our art, our concepts of justice and of the dignity of man. Indeed, Greece belongs to all mankind.

Whereas, That treasured pearl of our language, the word democracy, meaning the rule of the people, is derived from the ancient Greek. Democracy was founded in ancient Athens. When Greece of the early Christian era, the home of so many Saints, Fathers and Doctors of the Church, fell to the pagan conqueror, the word democracy vanished through the ages to be revived by our glorious nation at its foundation.

Whereas, On March 25, 1821, the Greece of modern times became an independent nation through the never-ending faith, hope, and courage of her people. In the century that followed, Greece all too often has been the battle ground of nations, but the spirit of indomitable courage of the Lace-daemonians at Thermopylaie has been handed down through centuries. Indeed, the word Spartan is synonymous with courage. Today, Greece again struggles to maintain her liberty and freedom as a nation; she defends not only her soil, but those classical treasurers of antiquity of which she is the world's custodian; once ruined in the havoc of modern war, they can never be restored. It is to be hoped that when peace is restored that the nations of the world will remember the "Glory that is Greece" and restore all Greek territory to the blue and white cross of St. George.

Whereas, The Greeks have been associated with the United States since the early days of the Republic. In 1804 the first challenge to our infant nation embroiled us in war with the Barbary States of Northern Africa. Our slogan of that day, "Millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute," brought us the respect of the nations of the world. The slogan is still valid in our day! Our young navy crossed the seas and wrote glorious chapters of our history under Decatur and Bainbridge. Wars are not won by naval victories alone; our infant republic could not send a military expedition across the seas. However, a military force was organized under the command of General William Eaton, U. S. A., and Colonel Tobias Lear who had been military secretary to George Washington: this force was composed mainly of Greeks supported by a small force of Neapolitan gunners. These Greek Companies fought valiantly alongside the United States Marines. Their repeated assaults brought the war to a successful conclusion in 1805 by the capture of the Tripolitan Capitol of Derne. Our Greek companies were repeatedly mentioned in the dispatches for their courage and sacrifice. Thus General Eaton in his dispatch to Commodore Samuel Barron concerning the assault on Derne on April 29, 1805, states, "Our forces ashore successfully assaulted Derne, led by Patrick N. O'Bannon of the Marines along with our Greek companies. The loss in killed and wounded this day were mostly Greeks. They well supported their ancient character." Thus the Greeks made the supreme sacrifice and contributed their lives in the early days of our republic.

Whereas, People of Greek origin or descent have greatly contributed to the progress of the United States as citizens of the republic. They have been loyal, progressive and law abiding. They have entered the various phases of American life and contributed greatly thereto. They have been noted for their community spirit in matters of charity and human kindness. Their campaign in education for American citizenship has been outstanding. In the early days of our present economic depression, having engaged extensively in the food trades in the United States, they willingly fed thousands of persons out of their love for their fellow man before either private or governmental social agencies could bring themselves to the realization of the catastrophe that had overtaken us.

Whereas, A campaign is now in progress in the United States for the purpose of raising funds for the distressed women and children of Greece. Such relief as has been afforded has been most thankfully received. The campaign has been conducted with dignity and restraint. Our citizens of Hellenic origin have steadfastly refused to indulge in a campaign of recrimination and hate or tell us what we should do on their behalf. This is eminently befitting an ancient and cultured people. They realize that our nation is derived from many peoples and that our national unity is of paramount importance. Now be it therefore

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Legislature of this state acknowledge the contribution made to our nation by persons of Hellenic origin by endorsing the celebration of Greek Independence Day on March 25th, as Hellenic Day and be it further

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That his Excellency, the Governor of Pensylvania shall issue, publish and declare an appropriate proclamation to the people of Pennsylvania, designating for observance this year, the twenty-fifth day of March, as Hellenic Day.

HOUSE MESSAGES

COMMENDING REPRESENTATIVES OF THE ANNUAL STUDENT CONGRESS OF WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA DISTRICT OF THE NATIONAL FORENSIC LEAGUE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced informed the Senate that the House has concurred in Resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, March 18, 1941.

Whereas, On March 7 and 8, 1941, at California State Teachers' College, California, Pennsylvania, was held the second session of the Annual Student Congress of the Western Pennsylvania District of the National Forensic League, and

Whereas, Students representing high schools from Beaverdale, Bentleyville, Brownsville, California, Cumberland Township, Centerville, Charleroi, Derry Township, East Pike Run, Glassport, Monessen, Hurst of Mount Pleasant Township, Munhall, Point Marion, St. Vincent, Waynesburg, and West View participated in this Congress, and

Whereas, This Congress affords training for more than 150 high school students in the proper methods of legislative procedure, and

Whereas, It is necessary in these perilous times that the citizens of the United States do their utmost to insure the Democratic form of government for the future citizens of this nation. Therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concur), That the sponsors of this Student Congress together with the students themselves be highly commended for their efforts to preserve democracy, and be it further

Resolved, That it is the sentiment of the Assembly of Pennsylvania that the Student Congress be continued and, if possible, broadened to include a larger number of students, and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to all schools participating in the Student Congress and to every student who took part.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

He also informed the Senate that the House has concurred in Resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, March 24, 1941.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday, March 31, 1941, at 4:30 p. m.; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday, March 31, 1941, at 9 o'clock, p. m.

HOUSE BILLS FOR CONCURRENCE

He also presented for concurrence bills of the House, as follows:

House Bill No. 376, (Senate Bill No. 402), entitled:

An Act to amend paragraph (a) of section eight hundred and sixty-five of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 872), entitled "The Penal Code" by prohibiting the sale of lubricating oil which has been used and re-refined unless such oil is clearly so labeled.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE MILK

The PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a report of the Special Commission of the General Assembly to investigate regulation of milk in Pennsylvania, as affecting the producer, the distributor and the consumer.

The Chair understands copies of the report have been distributed among the Senators. The communication will be noted in the Journal.

The report of the committee is referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

COMMUNICATION FROM SECRETARY OF DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is in receipt of a communication from the Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance, dated March 24, 1941, which the Clerk will read.

The communication was read as follows:

March 24, 1941.

The Honorable Samuel S. Lewis,
Lieutenant-Governor,
Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvnaia.

Dear Governor Lewis:

We are submitting herewith the material requested by Senate Resolution of February 10, 1941, showing,

(a) Number of employes of the Department.
(b) Certain information on male employes.
(c) Certain information on female employes.
(d) Information on employes separated from the staff during 1940.

This report indicates that there were 7,052 persons employed during the period March 5, to March 11, 1941, of which 2,343 were male and 4,709 were female.

The material covering separations from the payroll during 1940 includes those persons who worked some time during the year but who were not employed at the end of 1940. Of the 2,593 separations, 1,218 represented a net reduction in staff. The remaining separations were due to resignations, leaves of absence, furloughs and the release of provisional employes because of necessary appointments from Civil Service lists.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) HOWARD L. RUSSELL,
Secretary.

P. S. Additional copies for each member of the Senate have been sent to Mr. George F. Holmes, Secretary of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The communication will be noted in the Journal.

PETITION RELATIVE TO ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

The PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate communication dated March 25, 1941, from the National Club of America for Americans, Inc., which will be spread upon the Journal.

THE NATIONAL CLUB OF AMERICA FOR AMERICANS, INC.
San Diego, California

Harrisburg, Penna., March 25, 1941.

Hon. Samuel Lewis,
Lieutenant-Governor,
State Capitol,
Harrisburg, Penna.

Honorable Sir:

In behalf of the National Club of America for Americans, Inc., I desire to offer to the Senate a few suggestions that may aid the members of the Senate in their desire to oppose the agreement between the United States and Canada for the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway and power development.

1. At the expense of the taxpayers of the United States it will start a boom of construction of factories and shipyards in Canada that will be in competition with factories and shipyards in the United States. It would aid England to help Canada by shipping through Canada at a great loss to the ports of Philadelphia, New York and Baltimore. It would bring a great loss to our railroads, coal, and other industries in Pennsylvania, to say nothing of the loss of employment to American citizens, and the loss of tax revenue to Pennsylvania and her political subdivisions.

To show a united front to Congress and the country at large, may I suggest that the Federal Relations Committee take the two resolutions on the St. Lawrence River agreement and make one resolution out of them with the names of the two Senators on it in order in which they introduced their resolutions. Insert the following in your resolution: Copies of this resolution be sent to the presiding officer of each House of Congress with the request it be read to their House and printed in full in the Congressional Record.

As the Federal Constitution requires that all Treaties be ratified by a two-thirds vote of all the Senators present, and that President Franklin D. Roosevelt is trying to pass this St. Lawrence River agreement over Congress as an agreement and not a treaty, I suggest that the Legislature of Pennsylvania, a Sovereign State, instruct the Attorney General in behalf of the State to request the Supreme Court of the United States to render a decision without delay that the contention of the State of Pennsylvania is that the so-called St. Lawrence River agreement is a treaty between the United States and Canada which shall require a two-thirds vote of all the members of the Senate present. That the Attorney General be instructed to request all other Sovereign States to join with Pennsylvania in this direct appeal to the Supreme Court, that the St. Lawrence River agreement is a treaty between the United States and Canada.

If the President of the United States and Congress can set aside the Constitution of the United States whenever they so desire, then the Governors and the State Legislatures of each State can also set aside the Constitution of the United States when they so desire. The Legislature of Pennsylvani can find out if the Federal Constitution is binding upon the President and the Congress as well as every other American citizen.

Yours for upholing our Federal Constitution,

(Signed) ROYAL C. STEPHENS,
President.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. THOMAS, from the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish, re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 300, entitled:

An Act to further amend subsection (h) of section one hundred two of the act, approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 797), entitled "An act to establish a Bureau of Forest Protection within the Department of Forestry; designating the officers who shall constitute the Bureau, their duties and salaries; prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; and repealing all laws, general, special, or local, or any parts thereof, that may be inconsistent with or supplied by this act," authorizing the Department of Forests and Waters to dispose of telephone lines by sale or lease.

Mr. TAYLOR, from the Committee on Workmen's Compensation, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 80, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act, approved the fifth day of December, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (P. L. 2897-1937), entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis; requiring employers to keep records and make reports, and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons; providing procedure and administrative details for the determination, payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation; providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies; creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer; and prescribing penalties," changing the provisions thereof and the rights, obligations and procedure thereunder.

Mr. COLEMAN, from the Committee on Education, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 232, entitled:

An Act to validate and quiet the title to lands and buildings heretofore sold by boards of school directors at public auction without full compliance with provisions of law authorizing such sales.

Mr. TYLER, from the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 329, entitled:

An Act to amend clause (a) of section twenty of the act, approved the second day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-five (P. L. 448), entitled "An act relating to fish; and amending, revising, consolidating, and changing the law relating to fish in the inland waters and the boundary lakes and boundary rivers of the Commonwealth," fixing the time of day that the open season shall begi.. for charr, commonly called brook trout and any species of trout except lake or salmon trout.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. STEVENSON read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 403, entitled:

An Act to establish as a State highway a certain section of public road in the County of Elk, and providing for its construction and maintenance at the expense of the Commonwealth.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Mr. MUNDY read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 404, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections one thousand two hundred one and one thousand two hundred five of the act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," by defining professional employes, substitutes and probationary employes, and further regulating the employment, dismissal, suspension, demotion and retirement of such employes.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

Mr. TALLMAN read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 405, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections two hundred twenty and two hundred eighty-five of the act, approved the second day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five (P. L. 448), entitled "An act relating to fish; and amending, revising, consolidating, and changing the law relating to fish in the inland waters and the boundary lakes and boundry rivers of the Commonwealth," increasing the resident fishing license fee and authorizing the use of the money derived from such increase for the acquisition by lease or purchase of public fishing rights in the waters of the Commonwealth, together with the rights of ingress and egress to and from such waters.

Which was committed to the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in introducing a bill here, which is an amendment to the City, State highway law, I want to call this bill to the attention of the chairman of that committee, and I would like the chairman of the Highway Committee to know why I am introducing this bill.

A few years ago the people in the Borough of Jeannette voted to change its form of government from a borough to a third class city government. Under the existing law, the city streets which were part of the highway system, reverted back to the people of that community, and after that they received no money, the only community in the state that receives no money from the state highway fund for maintenance, and so forth, for city streets that are part of the highway system.

Mr. President, I therefore introduce this bill to again take those streets away from the people of that community and give them back to the state system.

Mr. DENT read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 406, entitled:

A Supplement to the act approved the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hunderd and thirty-one (P. L. 720), entitled "An act providing for the taking over by the Commonwealth, under certain terms, conditions and limitations, of certain streets in cities of the second class, second class A, and third class as State highways, and for the improvement, construction, reconstruction, resurfacing and maintenance by the Commonwealth of certain defined widths of said streets; imposing duties on such cities and on public utility companies using such streets; providing that no assessment shall be made upon the Commonwealth in the elimination of any grade crossing thereon; authorizing cities, persons, associations, or corporations to enter into agreements with the Commonwealtn to bear a portion of the cost of construction or maintenace; providing for the assessment of certain portions of the cost of street improvements on abutting property owners; regulating the replacement of certain facilities of public utility companies; prohibiting the opening of said streets after improvement without a permit, and providing penalty therefor; regulating the maintenance of detours; authorizing the increase of city indebtedness in certain cases; and appropriating money in the Motor License Fund for the purposes of this act," by establishing additional routes in the City of Jeannette.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I am practically forced to rise on a point of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, the past two months I have listened to many speeches on the floor of the Senate of Pennsylvania about sabotage and its effect upon the defense program in America. I think most of us agree that in virtually every corner of the country there are saboteurs at work, slowing up the defense program and doing many other things the purpose of which is to shatter the faith of the people of America in a free democracy.

I think over the weekend, Mr. President, one of them must have invaded the Senate of Pennsylvania, because when I left here Wednesday afternoon my seat was probably the most comfortable one in the Senate of Pennsylvania; but over the weekend somebody did something to the springs, broke them I assume, and they are now uncomfortably close to penetrating the upholstery in the seat.

I have heard many speeches in the Senate about enemies boring from within but I never thought, Mr. President, I would have the matter of boring so forcibly brought to my attention. It is quite possible some disgruntled taxpayer in his anxiety to prod the members of the Senate into action is responsible, but I wish the Chair would over the weekend call the attention of the custodial force to that condition, to the seat of my trouble, so that when I come back next week I will not have to be shifting constantly to a comfortable position and I will be able to enjoy the debates in the Senate of Pennsylvania.

I might say, Mr. President, the "chair" thanks the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Jaspan, for his great sacrifice.

RESOLUTION URGING INCREASE IN AMOUNT OF INSURANCE PERMITTED TO BE CARRIED BY RELIEF RECIPIENT

Mr. WADE. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I want to present a resolution and I would like to preface the introduction with a few remarks. I listened to the remarks of the Chairman of the Committee of Public Assistance and Welfare yesterday with a great deal of interest and I think this body, composed of two political parties, is very fortunate to have a gentleman to go into and to study the intricate, very delicate problems of public assistance as our Chairman stated yesterday he has done and I want publicly to compliment him on doing that, and also to say regardless of how he has studied it or how thoroughly those who have to do with the administration of that department have gone into it, there is bound to crop into it some things that are not as wholesome as we would like.

Mr. President, this resolution has to do with the matter of life insurance so far as applicants for public assistance are concerned. A similar resolution—or I should not say a similar resolution—but a resolution touching upon somewhat the same problems came to us a few weeks ago, but the unfortunate part of that resolution was it had no ceiling whatever on the problem. In other words, the man who applied for public assistance could carry one hundred or two hundred thousand dollars of life insurance and there would be no ceiling.

This resolution, Mr. President, merely raises the amount from five hundred dollars to one thousand dollars, and the reason for that is that ofttimes a man or woman is compelled to drop his present insurance, from the hazard of not being able to pay his insurance premiums or for financial or economic reasons and therefore he is obliged to forfeit the equity he has built up over a number of years, because out of 386 life insurance companies now registered to do business in the State of Pennsylvania approximately 350 do not write life insurance policies under one thousand dollars.

Mr. WADE offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, March 25, 1941.

Whereas, The Department of Public Assistance has been, and is at the present time, compelling all persons that apply, or are receiving public assistance, to cancel any life insurance policy whether held by the relief recipient or by any member of his family in excess of $500.00; and

Whereas, Many persons have paid premiums on such life insurance policies for many years and now are compelled to cancel these policies at a great loss, thereby depriving their dependents from recovery after death in excess of $500.00; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Department of Public Assistance be requested to at once raise the maximum amount of insurance permitted to be carried by a relief recipient, or by any member of his or her family from five hundred dollars to one thousand dollars.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Cumberland tell me whether or not he knows I presented a resolution of the same type about two months ago?

Mr. WADE. What was that, Mr. President?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Cumberland have knowledge of a resolution I presented about two months ago with reference to relief needs?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I am familiar with that. As a matter of fact I touched upon it a moment ago, and I might also if I am privileged under interrogation by the gentleman from Cambria, state that I went to the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, and asked him to amend his resolution and put in a limit of one thousand dollars instead of having it without any ceiling whatever.

Mr. HALUSKA. Did I refuse to do that, Mr. President?

Mr. WADE. No action, Mr. President, indicates to me an unwillingness.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman from Cumberland whether he knows I am not a member of that committee?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I know of no committee—

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I wish to state I had no opportunity to amend that resolution; I was never offered the opportunity by the chairman of that committee. The committee had my resolution. I offered my resolution back some time during the early part of January and I recall when I asked unanimous consent that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, objected to unanimous consent, stating he thought the resolution had some merit but that it deserved some study and that was the last I have heard from that gentleman.

As you all know I have repeatedly risen to my feet and asked the chairman of the Committee on Public Assistance, Mr. Bartlett, to bring out some action on my resolution; if they were sincere it was an easy matter to amend my resolution; but I say they were not sincere and it appears to me that because I am a Democrat is the only reason why my resolution was pickled.

Now today comes a brand new resolution and I think if you are sincere you can amend my resolution; but without giving me any opportunity you pickled that resolution and bring up one of your own. I do not care, just as long as we achieve my point, but I say now, Mr. President, that a thousand dollars is not sufficient. We have persons in this Commonwealth that have carried life insurance, two thousand dollars, fifteen hundred dollars, twelve hundred dollars, for as far back as thirty-five or forty years, and now they are being called upon to cancel that policy before relief can be granted.

So, Mr. President, I would ask that my resolution be given some consideration and I am also asking the chairman of the Committee of Public Assistance to bring out my resolution this afternoon and then if you find it must be amended to fifteen hundred dollars, well and good, but certainly you have been very unfair with your tactics thus far.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise on a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is there anything now before the Senate?

The PRESIDENT. The request of the gentleman from Cumberland for immediate adoption of the resolution just read.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I object to immediate consideration and in making my objection I should like to state my reasons.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of order.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, there was no motion made by the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, for immediate consideration of his resolution and therefore the gentleman from Philadelphia is out of order in discussing something that is not before the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is familiar with the present status. It was not a motion and was so stated. It was a request for immediate consideration.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am not out of order. If anything the Chair is out of order because the Chair told me there was a request for immediate consideration.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I am in perfect order, Mr. President; I am in good shape.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I respectfully suggest to the Chair that I was unaware of the fact there was a request made by the gentleman from Cumberland for immediate consideration of the resolution, and I request the Chair to inquire of the gentleman from Cumberland whether such a request was made.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, there was no such request made.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair will dispose of this very quickly.

The resolution is referred to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of real personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am a member of the Welfare Committee and what my colleague, the Senator from Cambria has stated, reflects somewhat on me, but I know he stated it inadvertently, because I was present with a number of the members of that committee when the meeting was held and this resolution was discussed, and in fairness to the rest of the members of the committee, I want to state the facts.

Mr. President, I shall have occasion to criticize my colleagues on the right, and when the occasion arises to criticize, I will not hesitate to do it, but I want to say to the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, that he has inadvertently criticized the chairman of the committee, because at the last meeting of the committee the resolution was discussed and as a result of that discussion we all agreed something was wrong in the picture and that we would send for the Secretary of Welfare, Mr. Russell, and ask him to appear this week before the committee and bring us some illustration of the situation, in its actual workings, so that we could do something with the resolution and make some provision in connection with insurance policies that have been discussed here. I understand it was the intention of the committee either to have Mr. Russell here today or at the earliest possible moment so that we could make some report on it and if the resolution introduced by the gentleman from Cumberland were to be acted upon immediately I was going to object, because I think the gentleman from Cambria is entitled to have his resolution acted upon, and as I understand the committee's intentions it will be acted upon just as soon as information is available.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Philadelphia tell me whether or not this resolution is an answer to the request of Mr. Russell to come to the committee?

Mr. SHAPIRO. No, Mr. President, this is a resolution which in my opinion is another one of those resolutions and proceedings to give a lot of business to insurance companies. I notice that in 1939 we gladly gave a vote and passed a bill which enabled some water scandals in Chester County and now we are very hurriedly, as I see by the bills passed, helping insurance companies to do things with which I am not in accord.

Mr. President, this is another resolution along the line to help the insurance companies sell some insurance, because I do not think we are interested in insurance companies in this proposition, we are interested in the man on relief and I do not think increasing the amount of insurance to a thousand dollars by resolution solves the problem. I think it is entitled to more careful consideration.

My answer to the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, is that in my opinion this is not a resolution to help the reliefer, nor is it in answer to his resolution.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, am I to understand that Mr. Russell was called to the meeting, to appear this afternoon, on my resolution and not the resolution introduced by the gentleman from Cumberland?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I understand Mr. Russell was to be called to appear before the committee in order to give information on the resolution submitted by the gentleman from Cambria and also several other matters which were discussed at the meeting.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I just wish to state that I must take issue with my colleague from Philadelphia when he states it is only a resolution to help insurance companies—either resolution. I say my resolution is to protect those that have insurance now, not those that are buying insurance.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a brief statement.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Montgomery will proceed.

Mr. EDMONDS. Yesterday, Mr. President, the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Bartlett, gave us a most interesting account on relief as administered in this Commonwealth and the growth of the system of relief. When he concluded the Senator from Washington, Mr. Reed, asked him a question as to the number of employes in the Relief Department and then after that the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, indulged in some statistics and he and I had an argument as to what the statistics meant.

I have since applied to Secretary Russell and I have a statement which I think myself will shed some light on the discussion held yesterday afternoon.

The period 1939-1940 was marked by a rise in case load during the summer of 1939, and a decline since, a monthly decline in the amount of administrative costs.

Here is the net result: In 1938 the percentage of administrative costs to total cost for the department was 8.0 per cent; in 1939 it was 8.1 per cent; in 1940 it was 8.5 per cent, but, that is the percentage to the total cost and as the total cost goes down of course that percentage increases.

Now, Mr. President, how about the number of employes? In January, 1939 the case load in the department was 358,597; in December of 1940 it was 298,780. That is a decrease in the case load.

In January, 1939 the total personnel was 7,975; in December of 1940 the total personnel was 7,038, of which 296 were assigned to work on milk orders and also to work under the Pierson Act.

Now, Mr. President, with reference to the cost in January, 1939, the total cost of personnel for salaries was $824,185; the total cost under the special lines of the Pierson Act and milk was $32,000 and in the other item $698,148.

In other words, in those two years the case load declined by 14.4 per cent and in that two years the personnel, excluding the Pierson Act and those that were working on the milk program, declined 16.5 per cent. Mr. President, that is the record as it comes from the Department of Public Assistance and it bears out entirely the thought expressed yesterday; namely, that there is a decline in personnel but it is not quite as great for all the time as the decline in the case load, because in some cases when the case load declines they need personnel in order to discover that fact, but I think it justifies the fact that administration is being economically done and I present this information to you.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cumberland will proceed.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I certainly do not want to prolong the debate on the resolution I offered but I do want to emphasize one point. In that connection, Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Chairman of the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northampton permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BARTLETT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I should like to ask the gentleman from Northampton if the sponsor of the other resolution referred to has asked to appear before the Committee of Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, I do not recall any such action in conection with this resolution; whether that request has been made or not. A request has been made in connection with other bills introduced by the gentleman from Cambria but as to this resolution I do not know whether such a request has been made or not.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, has the gentleman from Cambria offered amendments to his original resolution, to the committee.

Mr. BARTLETT. The answer to that question, Mr. President, is "no."

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I wish further to state I cannot understand by what stretch of the imagination the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, says this is helping life insurance companies when they would have to pay one thousand dollars instead of five hundred dollars. I cannot understand that.

Let me say further, Mr. President, there is no personal pride in offering this resolution, which is quite different, which embodies a different principle, a matter of fact, from the gentleman from Cambria resolution, as originally presented, because the gentleman from Cambria says to the Department of Public Assistance that regardless of how much life insurance the recipient or applicant for relief owns, whether it is paid up life insurance or insurance under premiums being paid, he should retain that, and at the same time receive assistance from the public purse of Pennsylvania.

Now on the other hand, Mr. President, let me speak for the life insurance people in the State of Pennsylvania. They would like to preserve equities for the people who are applying for or receiving relief and make it possible for 350 life insurance companies to retain some insurance. The minimum requirement, according to their by-laws and rules, the minimum of some 386 life insurance companies, is one thousand dollars.

Now, Mr. President, the life insurance companies when they originally take these risks, as they are termed, consider them according to rank. First they consider health; second, their moral character; third, their occupation; and fourth, their financial ability to pay the premium.

Mr. President, no one who is receiving relief from the State of Pennsylvania could pass that fourth requirement, which is the financial ability to pay the premium, because the life insurance companies do not hide the fact that the first two or three years of a policy shows a loss on their books, and unless they are able to continue the policy for some years they have no chance to profit.

I think that should conclusively prove to all excepting the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, that life insurance companies are not fighting for the business of the relief recipients, but they welcome the opportunity to help them preserve some of the equity out of the risk that they have built up over and through more prosperous years.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege, to answer the gentleman from Cumberland.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia may proceed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I said the resolution introduced by the gentleman from Cumberland was to help the insurance companies and the gentleman from Cambria misunderstood me and thought I meant his resolution. His resolution was introduced in an effort to preserve the situation which I think should be in many cases preserved.

I am quite sure, Mr. President, the gentleman will admit in some cases it may be advisable to reduce an insurance policy to five hundred dollars.

At a committee discussion it developed that the insurance companies, as has been confirmed by what has been said by the gentleman from Cumberland, insurance companies will not write policies for five hundred dollars and so the insurance company is annoyed by the request from the Department of Public Assistance, that in certain cases they should reduce the policy to five hundred dollars, so this resolution coming now is to help and aid the insurance companies so that there will be a rule which will require the Department of Public Assistance to leave those policies in the amount of at least one thousand dollars, which means that the policies will not be confined to those selling five hundred dollar policies but the one thousand dollar people will be able to continue their policies.

That is why, Mr. President, I charge the resolution emanating this morning from the gentleman from Cumberland is in order to aid the insurance companies and not to aid the relief recipient, and that is why I say the resolution introduced by the gentleman from Cambria is a resolution which should be given consideration, and as I understand it will be given consideration, and does not require he shall offer any amendments to it at this time.

If after we hear from the Secretary of Welfare and we find what are the actual facts in concrete cases, as I understood we were going to find out, and at that time as I understood it the gentleman from Cambria was going to be invited to attend the meeting so that he might ask questions, then we can get an intelligent answer, but every time an insurance problem is involved if the insurance companies come in with a resolution to help themselves and not the other persons concerned I shall very plainly make the statement, as I did this morning, that this is not an attempt to help in the relief problem but it is an attempt to help the insurance companies again.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Cumberland define the word "plagiarism"— p-l-a-g-i-a-r-i-s-m?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I not only can not define the word but I have never heard of it.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, will the gentleman take time to look it up in a dictionary?

Mr. WADE. What is that, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Cumberland have time to look up the meaning of the word in a dictionary?

Mr. WADE. Do I have time, Mr. President?

Mr. HALUSKA. Yes.

Mr. WADE. Yes, Mr. President, I will be glad to do that.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, while I say a few words I would like to have the gentleman from Cumberland look it up and give me an answer.

Mr. President, in regard to the remarks made by the gentleman from Cumberland as to whether or not I asked the committee for permission to attend the committee meeting, I think the gentleman from Northampton said "no." The fact is, Mr. President, I have spoken on this resolution at least half a dozen times and the fact does remain that at one time I appeared without having been invited before his committee, and the fact also is that Mr. Russell happened to be there that day and I asked Mr. Russell a number of questions with reference to this insurance and much to my surprise he knew nothing about it, and he is the man that imposes procedure.

He admitted at that committee meeting he had very little knowledge of the effect on persons receiving old age assistance or direct relief being called upon to cancel their policies but he said he would look into the matter and report at a later date.

Now, Mr. President, the gentleman from Northampton was present the day I appeared, and you recall I asked those questions, and I have waited patiently for that second meeting; I was told that last Tuesday afternoon a committee meeting was to be held and Mr. Russell was to appear.

The following day, Mr. President, I questioned the gentleman from Northampton and he informed me a meeting was scheduled but a quorum was not present and for that reason the meeting was not held. Therefore I fulfilled my obligation. I have asked and I am still asking that committee to give me an opportunity to present my cause and after I leave if the committee saw fit to amend my resolution naturally I would not do much about it but certainly I believe it is your duty to act—not mine. I have no right to defy your committee on amendments; you have not asked me for them and, after all, even if I do it is your committee that takes action and not me.

Now, Mr. President, I ask the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, whether or not he has obtained a definition of the word "plagiarism."

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I have sent for a dictionary but none has appeared as yet. Some of my good friends and colleagues have given me a definition but I hesitated and I still hesitate to give it in public until I have verified the definition.

Mr. HALUSKA. Very well, Mr. President, I will yield until later in the day.

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, at the time the resolution introduced by the gentleman from Cambria was presented some weeks ago, it was stated that the resolution was in response to certain instances which had occurred in his district, with which he was familiar.

Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cambria permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BARTLETT. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Cambria state whether or not I ever asked him to present to the committee certain instances in which the regulations of the department interfered with the insurance program?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, in answer to the question may I in turn interrogate the gentleman from Northampton?

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Northampton has the floor and he has asked permission to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria. When that is concluded the gentleman from Cambria then may have the floor.

Mr. HALUSKA. The reason I asked that, Mr. President, is that I would like to say before I answer the question, to the best of my knowledge, the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions has had no meeting since I made my request and I am ready to submit to the committee the information it desires if I get the opportunity. Does that answer the question?

Mr. BARTLETT. That answers my question, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Does the gentleman from Cambria now desire to interrogate the gentleman from Northampton?

Mr. HALUSKA. No, Mr. President; I have asked that question.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I do not know any other method of bringing this to the attention of the Senate, but, owing to the courtesy of the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Tallman, and the membership of the Committee on State Government, Doctor Alfred G. Buehler, of the University of Pennsylvania, appeared today before the committee in connection with the suggested intensive study of taxation in Pensylvania. Mr. President, his remarks are of such interest that I may safely term them as a capsule course in taxation in Pennsylvania and I therefore desire to move, Mr. President, that the remarks of Doctor Buehler be spread in the Legislative Journal.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection it is so ordered.

Remarks before the Committee on State Government, March 25, 1941, concerning the need for the intensive scientific study of Pennsylvania's particular tax problems.

By Dr. Alfred G. Buehler, University of Pennsylvania

I am very glad to appear before the distinguished Committee on State Government and to endorse wholeheartedly the proposal as suggested in Senate Resolution No. 109 introduced by Senator Dent, to undertake a series of searching scientific studies of particular tax problems of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The Committee is to be congratulated upon its determination to bore down to the fundamentals of the present perplexing tax situation.

The power to tax involves more than the power to destroy. It is the most essential of the powers of government, for without this power no government could long survive. Without this power no government could continue to carry on its program of providing public education, public highways, and other vital services.

Many of the states in recent years have sought solutions of their complex tax problems by calling to their aid tax experts who have conducted nonpartisan studies of particular phases of the revenue system.

The "tax doctors", if one may use this expression, have very commonly been specialists selected because of their knowledge of the principles of taxation, their ability to analyze the problems of raising revenue, and above all, their capacity to present nonpartisan reports and recommendations. The legislature then utilizes these reports and recommendations as it sees fit. This plan is helpful so long as it is recognized that the expert is not an administrator or a law-maker, but a fact-finding and adviser. His task is not to determine policy but to aid and counsel the law-maker in the latter's decisions and determinations.

The tax studies undertaken for the legislatures of the various states have either been general surveys of the whole tax structure or specialized studies of particular taxes and their problems. An excellent illustration of the general survey is the study completed in Connecticut a few years ago. A two volume report was turned over to the legislature by Dr. Benjamin Whitaker and his staff. One volume was a rather large and exhaustive treatise on state taxation. It was accompanied by an excellent short summary of the findings of the research staff. To make it possible to conduct the general tax survey, the Connecticut legislature appropriated the sum of $25,000.

Such a broad general study is advantageous when a State finds it desirable to take a rather complete inventory of its revenue resources and wishes to overhaul its entire tax system. A wide survey will relate the problems of particular taxes to the problems of the revenue system and it will be especially valuable where the state is united in the conviction that a complete and total tax reform is essential.

About a year ago the Tax Study Commission of Michigan, under the direction of Dr. Lent D. Upson, completed an intensive survey of the Michigan tax system and its problems and recommended a program of tax revision at points where reforms appeared to be imperative. The Commission presented the problems of state taxation and offered constructive solutions of these problems in a most interesting short monograph.

Under the Michigan plan the tax experts studied each tax in detail, assembled useful data concerning each tax and its problems, and analyzed and interpreted the statistical and other data for the information of the legislature. The Michigan Commission realized that the legislature would not have the time to spend long hours in the study of a great mass of statistics. The Commission therefore selected carefully the data of most interest to the legislature and summarized its findings and its recommendations in a convenient monograph which was written clearly in nontechnical language.

The Michigan survey dealt with the problems of taxing business as well as consumers. Those who feel that Pennsylvania is unique in the burdens of business taxation and is alone in facing complaints that business is being driven out of the state by crushing taxation may obtain some comfort from the knowledge that similar problems have been found in Michigan. The Commission declared:

"At present, as well as in the past, Michigan industries have been solicited to locate in states which offer advantageous wage and tax differentials. Where these differentials are combined with more convenient access to sources of raw materials or markets they are potential threats. In recording this fact this Commission is not unmindful of the possibility that the importance of inter-state competition can be overstressed. An accurate evaluation of this consideration requires further study."

The Commission maintained that business should be taxed in Michigan for the benefits it received from state government, but further increases in corporation taxation were opposed and the capital stock tax was sharply criticized. Supporting evidence was offered to substantiate these conclusions.

I make this reference to the conclusions of the Michigan Tax Study Commission because I wish to illustrate the methods of tax research by experts who sought to provide a scientific nonpartisan analysis of serious tax problems so that the legislature could formulate tax plans with the objective of establishing a harmonious revenue system which would be both productive of adequate revenues and which would distribute the burdens of taxation equitably. The study was thorough and it suggested the broad foundations for the tax system of the future. It has provided much needed information to the legislature and has furnished pertinent material which may be employed for scientific tax revision.

Other states have also undertaken research programs in taxation in recent years. A few years ago the New York State Commission for the Revision of the Tax Laws published a series of notable monographs upon certain state tax problems. University tax experts were invited to explore deeply a number of problems of outstanding interest. Thus, before the retail sales tax was adopted a study was made by Dr. Carl Shoup of American and foreign general sales taxes.

The New York Commission published a dozen or more monographs in pamphlet form. They were small, readable monographs of twenty-five to one-hundred pages. These monographs were available for the Commission and the Legislature and provided basic material for the report of the Commission to the legislature on the revision of the tax laws.

The New York legislature appropriated the unusually large sum of $75,000 for financing the research program of the Commission. The reports are valuable specialized studies of major tax problems which deal expertly and clearly with definite tax problems.

The New York tax studies indicate the merits of the second type of tax research, the specialized and intensive study of particular tax problems upon which the legislature desires further light. The efforts of investigators who undertake specialized tax studies may be concentrated upon the segments of the revenue system which are under most stress, upon the feasibility and desirability of proposed tax reforms, or upon the adequacy of suggested new revenues.

The specialized tax studies need not be isolated explorations into the dark caverns of certain tax labyrinths which are unrelated to the problems of the various taxes in the revenue system. Instead, they may be related to the whole tax picture and may be undertaken in logical sequence in the effort to construct a solid tax foundation. If tax reforms are imperative, they may be undertaken step by step over a period of years.

It may be politically impossible to secure a complete overhauling of the tax system of a state at a given time, if that is considered to be desirable, but it may also be politically expedient to equalize tax burdens among the taxpayers and to initiate long delayed reforms in particular taxes.

Tax systems are usually not constructed de novo overnight in complete perfection. They are more likely to evolve piecemeal over the course of the years.

Existing taxes may be inherently sound. If so, they should certainly not be scrapped for alluring new tax gadgets which may alleviate a sore spot in the tax system for a year or two without providing a fundamental solution of present problems.

The purpose of tax research is similar to the object of the frequent examination of the human body by expert physicians. Periodic health examinations are desirable for all of us. Their purpose is to appraise our condition of health, not to prove that we need more of vitamin A or an operation for appendicitis. If health deficiencies are found, the physician will recommend remedial action.

Tax research provides a checkup of the efficiency of the revenue system to determine the adequacy of existing sources of revenue and their economic and social effects. It may and generally does reveal the need for tax reforms. Whether reforms are shown to be desirable or not, tax research is a prerequisite for tax planning. The facts of the situation must be known before the future can be faced with the assurance that the revenue system rests upon a solid rock foundation and that the revenues are sufficiently flexible to be adapted to changing revenue problems.

Many of the states have promoted scientific tax research in recent years. Because tax problems are perennial in their complexity, are many and varied, the tax research program should, so far as possible, be continuous. The country is evidently entering an era of progressive tax increases as Democracy comes to grip with the axis powers.

The state and local governments cannot escape the repercussions of the floods of federal taxes which are already being released. At the same time the problems of financing nondefense expenditures will probably become more critical day by day.

The time is propitious for the thoughtful survey of the Pennsylvania tax system and its complicated revenue problems. Business and other groups are highly conscious of their tax burdens and may be expected to become more critical of their unpleasant but necessary taxes as the tax load grows heavier during the present world crisis. The taxpayers desire a revenue system which will equalize the costs of government equitably among the different industrial groups and classes and which will not seriously disrupt the economic and social organization.

All levels of government, national, state and local, are seeking ample revenues. In their search for revenue they may overlook inequalities in tax burdens and harsh repercussions of taxes upon the economy of the community. The fundamental problem is one of securing sufficient revenue with the minimum social cost, with the least injurious effects to the economic processes.

Because of the present interest in the taxation of business, a scientic study of selected tax problems might well begin with an inquiry into the current system of business taxation in order to determine the fiscal adequacy and the social justice of the taxes upon corporations and the feasibility of improvements in the corporation taxes.

Among the subjects which could profitably be examined in a study of business taxation in Pennsylvania, the following loom up as very important:

1. The definition of business for taxation.
2. The justification of business taxation.
3. The principles of business taxation.
4. The taxation of corporations and unincorporated business.
5. The taxation of small and large scale enterprise.
6. The problems of taxing foreign business enterprises.
7. The evolution of business taxes.
8. The revenue significance of business taxes.
9. The factors which determine the revenue yield of business taxes.
10. The use of the revenues from business taxes.
11. The methods, costs, and problems of tax administration.
12. The incidence and effects of business taxes.
13. The experience of the federal and other state governments in business taxation.
14. The apportionment of the burdens of business taxes among the taxpayers and the community at large.
15. The possibility of securing more adequate bases of business taxation.
16. The desirability of particular reforms in the existing taxes.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced presented proclamation by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

IN THE NAME AND BY AUTHORITY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
Governor's Office
Harrisburg

PROCLAMATION

"The Glory that was Greece" is a term which may now be revised to "The Glory that is Greece."

The Greece of antiquity was a cradle of civilization and from Greece we have derived laws, literature, art, and concepts of justice and of the dignity of man.

The Greece of today is making a magnificent and glorious struggle to maintain her liberty and freedom as a nation; she defends not only her soil, but those classical treasures of antiquity of which she is the world's custodian.

On March 25, 1821, the Greece of modern times became an independent nation through the never-ending faith, hope, and courage of her people. In the century that followed, Greece all too often has been the battle ground of nations, but the spirit of courage of the Lacedaemonians at Thermopylae has been handed down through centuries.

Persons of Greek origin or descent have contributed greatly to progress of the United States and Pennsylvania. They have been loyal, progressiv and law-abiding.

A campaign is now in pro ress in the United States to give aid and assistance to the distressed women and children of this beleaguered country. This is a humanitarian work which appeals to all of us.

Pennsylvania will do well to take cognizance of the historic battle being waged by these people of Hellenic origin by participating in the celebration of Greek Independence Day which will be celebrated tomorrow, Tuesday, March 25th.

Now, Therefore, I, Arthur H. James, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in the spirit of the concurrent resolution which was adopted in the Senate, March 18, 1941, and which has been adopted in the House tonight, do hereby proclaim Tuesday, March 25th, as Hellenic Day in Pennsylvania.

Given under by hand and the Great Seal of the State, at the City of Harrisburg, this twenty-fourth day of March, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, and of the Commonwealth the one hundred and sixty-fifth.

(SEAL)

BY THE GOVERNOR:

S. M. R. O'Hara,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PROTEST

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal protest.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there is a stranger in our midst; he came unheralded, without announcement and with great surprise. For years I have picked up the Calendar of this body and I have been confronted with "Second Reading Men" and "Third Reading Men" but never have I met a "First Reading Man." Today, for the first time, Mr. President, without notice to the minority floor leader there appears on the Calendar a gentleman called Mr. First Reading and I am concerned with what we will do with him. Heretofore, we have had the pleasure of furnishing something for the majority leader to do; usually the majority leader has very little to do; it is always done by the minority leader. The majority leader usually rises and suggests to the Chair that bills reported from Committee be read for the first time, and without any information as to what those bills are the gentleman says the bills will be laid aside for second reading and they are, they never come out except as second reading men, and today, Mr. President, without our knowledge or consent on the Calendar appear bills on first reading. I am confused; I do not know whether I am entitled to amend these bills on first reading; I do not know whether they will be read the first time again; and I do not know whether he will be comfortable in this chamber and I rise in protest at this conduct.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to suggest to the gentleman from Philadelphia that this is the day we are celebrating Greece, and that is what facilitates the passage of what we call Grease on the Calendar.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 377, as follows:

An Act validating certain proceedings and elections of counties cities boroughs school districts or other municipalities or incorporated districts had and held pursuant to the provisions of an act approved the twentieth day of April one thousand eight hundred seventy-four (P. L. 65) entitled "An act to regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalities to provide for the redemption of the same and to impose penalties for the illegal increase thereof" and the amendments and supplements thereto and validating bonds issued or authorized to be issued in pursuance of such proceedings and elections

Section 1 All proceedings and elections heretofore had and held by any county city borough township school district or other municipality or incorporated district within this Commonwealth to increase its indebtedness under the method of procedure specified by the provisions of the act approved the twentieth day of April one thousand eight hundred seventy-four (P. L. 65) entitled "An act to regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalities to provide for the redemption of the same and to impose penalties for the illegal increase thereof" and the acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto where the majority of votes cast at such election was in favor of the increase of indebtedness and where the purpose of the proposed increase of indebtedness is to provide for the construction of sanitary and surface sewers and the improvement of the public streets and alleys by the aid and assistance of labor and material furnished in whole or in part by the State or Federal governments and for the presecution carrying on and financing any projects receiving State or Federal approval by whatever name the local agency may be styled or denominated be and the same are hereby ratified confirmed and made valid notwithstanding the authorities of such county city borough township school district or other municipality or incorporated district either did not or by separate and independent action did not prior to the ordinance or vote in pursuance of which notice of election was given to the electors signify their desire for such increase of indebtedness or did not in the words of the act and amendments and supplements aforesaid authorizing such increase signify their desire for such increase of indebtedness and notwithstanding the authorities of such county city borough township school district or other municipality or incorporated district signified their desire for such increase of indebtedness by a resolution instead of by an ordinance as required by the act its amendments and supplements and notwithstanding such resolution or ordinance was not advertised as is required by law for the advertisement of ordinances and notwithstanding that the notice of such election stated the amount of the last assessed valuation of the taxable property in such county city borough township school district or other municipality or incorporated district to have been the assessed valuation of another county city borough township school district or other municipality or incorporated district which is coextensive therewith the assessed valuation in both such districts having been based upon the same or substantially the same taxable property and being the same or substantially the same in amount in both of such coextensive districts and notwithstanding that a primary election had intervened between the date of the adoption by the proper authorities of the ordinance or resolution expressing the desire to increase the indebtedness and the date of the special election at which such increase of indebtedness was approved by the electors and notwithstanding the ordinance expressing such desire of the proper authorities of said county city borough township school district or other municipality or incorporated district for the increase of indebtedness may have been advertised concurrently with the said notice of election though more than thirty days intervened between the date of the first advertisement and publication of said notice of election and the date of said election and notwithstanding the ballots used at said election were not certified by the county commissioners or did not bear their facsimile signature or did not contain a brief statement of the purpose of the proposed increase of indebtedness or were not printed on the official ballot after the list of candidates but were printed on separate ballots at a general election or were printed on a party ballot at a primary election and notwithstanding that the electors at any such election attached stickers to the ballots cast at said election on which stickers were written or printed preferences for sites of buildings or other matters and notwithstanding full complete and proper return of the votes was not made to the proper court or counted by the court and notwithstanding that a record showing the results was not made and certified by the clerk of said court to the proper authorities of such district or municipality and notwithstanding any defect informality or vagueness of expression in the language of the ordinance or resolution fixing the time for holding such election and notwithstanding any defect or informality in the manner of holding mode of conducting or giving notice of such election or in form of the ballot and notwithstanding any mistake in stating the amount or percentage of existing debt or the percentage of the proposed increase or the amount of the last preceding assessed valuation and notwithstanding any patent error of orthography or of numerical statement on any or all of the ballots and notwithstanding any discrepancy between the amount of the proposed increase of indebtedness as contained in the published and posted advertisements and in the printed ballots

All of the bonds securities and obligations issued or to be issued in pursuance of every such election are hereby made valid and binding obligations of every such county city borough township school district or other municipality of incorporated district Provided That all the other requirements of law concerning such procedure election and issue of bonds have been compiled with And provided further That the provisions of this act shall not apply in any instance where the validity of such election or any issue of bands or other security based thereon has been made the subject of litigation in any court of the Commonwealth prior to the approval of this act nor to any litigation in any court of this Commonwealth instituted prior to the passage of this act and still pending and undetermined

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 50, on second reading, entitled:

An Act providing that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its political subdivisions employ only citizens and certain residents of the United States on a yearly salary basis.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Luzerne state what is the purpose of having this bill go over in its order for two successive days?

Mr. MILLER. The purpose of having the bill go over in its order, Mr. President, is to further clarify amendments that have been suggested.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Why not put it back in committee, Mr. President, and have it amended?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, because I believe the situation can be handled by just a few more words in the amendments that have been proposed. I do not think it is necessary to refer the bill back to committee.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, do I understand this bill will be acted upon today?

Mr. MILLER. Not today, Mr. President. It is my hope the amendments will be prepared by tomorrow.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I have no objection, Mr. President.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 343, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the twenty-eighth day of April, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws four hundred seventeen) entitled "An act relating to milk and the products thereof; creating a Milk Control Commission; establishing its jurisdiction, powers and duties; regulating the production, transportation, manufacturing, processing, storage, distribution, delivery and sale of milk and certain products thereof; providing for the licensing of milk dealers and the payment of fees therefor; requiring milk dealers to file bonds to secure payment for milk to producers and certain milk dealers; authorizing the holding of hearings and the issuance of subpoenas by the commission; conferring jurisdiction upon courts to punish contempts and to prohibit violations of this act and of rules, regulations and orders of the commission; authorizing the commission to adopt rules, regulations and orders, and to enter into interstate and Federal compacts; requiring persons who weigh, measure, sample or test milk to procure permits or certificates, to take examinations, to pay fees therefor, to furnish certain notices, records and statements, and to use certain methods of weighing, measuring, sampling and testing; authorizing the commission to examine the business, papers and premises of milk dealers and producers, requiring the keeping of records and the filing of reports by milk dealers, and permitting, with limitations, the use of information obtained thereby; authorizing the commission to fix prices for milk and certain milk products subject to the approval of the Governor, and conferring certain powers upon the Governor with respect thereto; providing for appeals to the courts from decisions of the commission, and for the burden of proof upon such appeals; prescribing penalties, fines and imprisonment for violations of this act, and rules, regulations and orders of the commission; defining perjury, defining remedies; repealing legislation supplied and superseded by this act, and saving rights, duties, and proceedings thereunder; and making appropriations", by providing that milk delivered or made available, or received or handled on consignment, or otherwise, shall be subject to all the provisions of said act; further defining the power of the commission to fix minimum prices to be paid producers for milk; defining certain violations of said act; and providing that milk dealers shall be held responsible for actions of persons employed by or acting for them.

And said bill having been read at length the second time,
On the question,
Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I offer the following amendments.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair suggests in the preparation of amendments that in addition to referring to the line, that the amendment referred to the section. There are a number of amendments here and we will have to try to determine to just which section the amendments apply. There are quite a few of them.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, why not have the bill go over in its order until the amendments can be put in proper shape.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I have no objection to the bill going over in its order. I withdraw the amendments.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 343, on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

A Supplement to an act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special, or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," providing for the appointment of a deputy school controller in school districts of the first class; and prescribing duties.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,
Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 301, entitled:

An Act providing for practical arts and vocational agriculture, home economics, industrial and commercial schools and classes, through public school districts and in cooperation with employment offices, for the training, retraining, instruction, and adjustment of out-of-school, unadjusted individuals, in order to enable them to enter, re-enter, or continue employment under changing conditions; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Superintendent of Public Instruction; and making an appropriation.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,
Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire at this time to make a statement on a question of grave national importance. It seems to me Mr. President, we have been discussing problems of democracy and the question of democracy and national defense.

Mr. President, the great State of Allegheny has just made a very valuable contribution to national defense and the problems of democracy and at this time I would like to make a very brief report on the results of a great national experiment in Allegheny County.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. WALKER. What do you think of Democracy? Do you say, "I like it. I would rather have it than any kind of dictatorship?" Now just what is it that you like? Is it the irresponsible life that so many people pursue, dodging burdens and caring most for an easy time? Or do you think of it with its responsibilities as well as its liberties; its duties as well as its rights?

Is democracy working well in the world? The dictators say, "No." What's more, they are doing their best to prevent it from working or even continuing anywhere. They are educating their people to mistrust and hate it. Some of our own people just remark off-hand, "Things are pretty bad now, but they have always come out all right in the end with us; just give them time." But some well-meaning people among us are not so sure. They are confused and worried. Is tomorrow to be a day of doom or a promise of hope?

"What causes this anxiety?" One asks his neighbor, "Why isn't something done about it?" The neighbor might reply: "Too many people have taken democracy for granted. They have enjoyed its benefits without realizing that all good things cost much of the best that man has to give, and will continue to cost as much to maintain them. Too few people are interested and informed enough to give their time and energy to make things right in our individual lives and in the work and ways of our community and our nation." Are you and I among the slackers?

But the wisest and most earnest thinkers among us have become aroused to our weakness and our dangers. They are anxious that we shall all cooperate in remedying our mistakes and really giving democracy a chance. They are trying to make us realize, as it has been well said, "It is later than you think." Many of the forces that have brought upon us this emergency have arisen outside our borders. They are following up their outside gains by attacking our ideals and our achievements and, through their misleading propaganda, trying to create division, discouragement, and misunderstanding among us. Besides, we must admit that there exists among us conditions that no fair-minded person can defend and that offer an excuse for discontented people to listen to the claims of the trouble-makers.

Do we need to be afraid to stand up and defy the foes from without and the doubters within? The United States abounds in the most varied and abundant resources of any nation on earth. It has produced many of the world's great men and women in literature, science, art, philosophy, religion, industry, commerce and finance. It has applied the discoveries of science and invention to all fields of life in a most effective manner. It has created and maintained the highest average standard of living any country has ever known. It has had a long and successful experience in building a democratic form of government and developing a democratic way of life under that government. Why, then, or whom, should we fear?

But to do anything well we must have the facts. "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make up free," it was said many years ago. Can there be anything wiser or better for us right now, than to understand this democracy of ours, to discover how to meet the foes that threaten it, and to use every opportunity given to us to make democracy a real and vital force in our American way of life?"

The disturbed conditions of the world in recent years have challenged us to think seriously about the meaning and values of our democratic way of life. Over and over again, dictators have sneered at the democracies. They have bragged about the "new order" they are going to set up in the world, in which, of course, our situation would be whatever they allowed it to be. It is quite to the point, therefore, for us to think seriously about our democracy and what it has brought to us, if for no other reason than to realize what we might lose.

But still more important even than defense against present menaces from outside, is the strengthening of our faith in democracy as our permanent ideal of human relations. As good citizens, we should appreciate to the full the blessings and the obligations of our democratic way of life. For we do believe in democracy—believe in it so much that, if we must, we will go to any necessary length to guard it and to see that it does not "perish from the earth."

DEMOCRACY is not an easy word to define, partly because it means different things to different people, and partly because it touches life in more ways than can be expressed in a brief statement. It comes from two Greek words, a noun that means "people," and a verb that means "rule." They usually emphasize, often in complicated language, the thought of democracy so well summarized in Lincoln's famous phrase, "Government of the people, by the people, for the people."

Another has said, "Democracy is a way of life which seeks to give every person his proper share in the making of the society to which he belongs." A seminar group meeting at the Congress on Education for Democracy at Teachers College, Columbia University, in August, 1939, accepted this statement by way of definition: "Democracy is a way of life and social organization which above all others is sensitive to the dignity and worth of the individual human personality, affirming the fundamental moral and political equality of men, and recognizing no barriers of race, religion, or circumstance." Theodore Roosevelt declared: "Our democracy means that we have no privileged class, no class that is exempt from the duties or privileges that are implied in the words "American citizenship."

Many forms of government have appeared in the world. In fact, no two national governments are exactly alike. But there are only two real PRINCIPLES of government: democratic and authoritarian. In democratic countries, government is from the bottom up; all authority comes from the people, who choose their own officials and help to make their own laws; government exists only to secure the greatest possible well-being and freedom to individual citizens. In authoritarian states, government is from the top down; some person, who in one way or another has gained supreme power, imposes his will on the people, either for his own benefit or for what he believes to be the good of the state, with no regard for the rights of the individuals. To put it briefly, in democracy the state is the servant of its citizens; in authoritarianism, the citizens are servants of the state.

You learned in history that the earliest states to appear in ancient times were despotisms in which the common people were slaves of the king; this was the earliest form of authoritarianism. In the middle ages you saw authoritarianism appear in another form, feudalism, in which authority was from the top down and the common people were serfs of the nobles. In early modern times authoritarianism took the form of "divine right" monarchy, and now it is appearing in the form of totalitarianism in just the same old tyranny against which humanity has been struggling through the ages in quest of that freedom which is the natural aspiration of everyone. Try to picture to yourself what life must have been like under these different forms of authoritarianism and contrast it with the American way of life as we know it. Then let us compare this picture with the totalitarian countries of today.

Besides the rights and priveleges that are definitely mentioned in the Constitution, the democratic idea calls for certain definite conditions of living in order to make it effective. Where the spirit of democracy prevails these conditions will exist, and in a democracy that is working well, citizens will more and more come to look upon them as features of their life and work for which they will feel almost the same regard as for anything found in the Bill of Rights. Indeed, it would be very difficult for any way of living to be called democratic in which these features and conditions were neglected.

Peace is an ideal that people of good will have always looked forward to and cherished. Yet the world has rarely had complete peace at any one time throughout even the lands where people lived and called themselves civilized. Is democracy more, or less, likely to encourage peace than some other kinds of government and society? This question is immensely important, for it concerns not merely one nation or a few, but the whole world.

It will help us to gain a real appreciation of the democratic way and what it means in the daily life of each of us, if we realize what we, as a people, have been able to accomplish under our democratic scheme of living. The partial list of these achievements which follows may suggest many more.

The question is often asked, "What are we preparing to defend?" Sometimes those who ask the question are thinking of the territorial areas that our armed forces will try to protect. But, let us think of it as, "What is the heritage of American life that we are willing to defend, not only against any possible attack from the outside, but against corroding forces within?" Let us ask ourselves what the American way of life has accomplished that is worth defending, and try to answer the question out of our own knowledge.

Since we most often think of democracy from the political point of view, it may be well for us to consider that aspect of the matter first. It is through government that we make effective our ideas with reference to our economic or social life. Unless we have political democracy, we are likely to find it very difficult to secure democracy in any other field. Along with our achievements we will need to recognize also the problems that exist in the field in which our achievements have not been perfect—and sometimes they are many.

No intelligent person would question the outstanding position that this nation has in the fields of industry, agriculture, or any other of the ways by which men make a living. We surely have accomplished much in this respect. At the same time, depressions have come over us from time to time, and especially our latest one has seemed more serious than any that preceded it. It would be helpful for us to study both our achievements and our problems in the economic side of our activities.

Democracy shows itself very plainly, if it exists at all, in the contacts of individuals and groups with one another in the everyday relations of life. It exhibits itself also in the extent to which the community cares for the less fortunate of its members and in the opportunities that it gives to all its members of making most of their talents. Our country in this respect as in others, has made definite progress and still has numerous unsolved problems to be kept in mind.

A nation whose chief concern was for material comfort and happiness and which felt that it had gained its highest objectives when its people had accumulated considerable wealth, would have missed what thoughtful people would look upon as the finest part of life. Democracy must, therefore, do something more than help its people get rich or live comfortably if it is to render the greatest possible service. What then have been our achievements in spiritual things?

Since democracy is a principle rather than a person or even a machine, it cannot be expected to work to the best advantage under unfavorable conditions. We must, therefore, try to find out what these conditions are and then seek to put them into effect. These are matters that we as individual citizens can help to promote. In a very special sense they represent the human side of the democratic way of life.

You recognize this phrase, of course, as coming from the pledge to the Flag, which we have all no doubt taken many times. We had a fearful contest years ago between different sections of our country, which resulted from the belief of one group of states that they had the right to withdraw from membership in the Union. This Civil War went against them, and it is not likely that any group will ever again undertake to do what this group failed to do in the 1860's. But there is still the possibility of division among us, and that we must try to avoid if in any way we can do so.

In time of war we have much to say about mobilization. It means bringing together troops or equipment needed to carry on campaigns and planning for their use in the work that has to be done. There is reason to think that we have neglected a mobilization of our ideals and our principles in times of peace, with the result that when difficulties and dangers arise, we may hesitate and be confused and make unnecessary mistakes. How, then, can we establish ourselves in thought and purpose so that we may live happily in times of peace and be able, without flinching, to face dangers when they come?

No matter how happy and harmonious are the passengers and crew of a ship, they must have a captain if the voyage is to be safe. Democracy also must have captains and leaders. It prefers to choose them itself rather than have them handed to it by inheritance or some superior authority. Because of the very organization and purposes of a democratic community or nation, leadership may be more difficult than in a society where the mass of the people expect to do nothing except take orders. It is very important that we should understand the place that leaders have in a democracy, and the responsibility that they have to the rest of people and that the rest of the people have to them.

By this time we surely have convinced ourselves, if there was any doubt before, that few of us could be satisfied under any dictatorship, whether of one man, one group, or one party. But what shall we say when somebody tells us that there is still discontent and sometimes injustice—that our democracy still has faults? In making our democracy a happy one we need to think both of the respects in which improvement can be made and of the obligation we must accept in order that it may work successfully. No government can do the work which it is meant to do unless it is supported, guarded, and kept in good condition. Democracy will do just as good work as we are willing to give it the chance to do.

If anything is really good, it surely is worth protecting. No intelligent citizen of this country will question the value of democracy as both a principle of government and a way of life. If all the world felt toward democracy as we do, the situation would be far different, but as long as other theories and ideals are in the minds of the leaders of great nations, we cannot afford to become careless or let ourselves be ignorant of the dangers from which we need to defend ourselves. Along with the recognition of these dangers we ought to consider what we must pay for our protection, in money or in other ways.

Patriotism is a feeling or attitude which can be most praiseworthy and beneficial but also can be perverted to harmful uses. Under the guise of patriotism things have been done that the prepetrator would not dare to engage in otherwise. In a democracy, however, patriotism must be taken for what it should mean—a love of country. One who is inspired with patriotic motives will love to do things which are for the benefit of his country and will try to conduct himself so as to bring credit upon both his citizenship and the nation of which he forms a part.

Perhaps one reason why democracies have sometimes got into difficulties is that their people have taken it for granted that the way of life which they had developed was perfectly good as it was, and was not likely to change. All history, our own especially, ought to prove to us that the one thing we can be sure of in human relationships is that change will come. If a democracy is to save itself from misdirection and misfortune, it will need to look into the future and think about solving whatever problems it already has recognized, and about meeting conditions that may arise in future days. We may profitably give some thought to this matter in this consideration of "our Democracy."

Twenty years ago the veterans of the World War, fresh from that terrible conflict to make the world safe for democracy, banded together to preserve the gains which democracy had made. They called their organization The American Legion, and they adopted a Constitution to govern their Legion. This Constitution has a Preamble, which is one of the greatest tributes to democracy I have ever read. It is as follows:

> "For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our Association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the Community, State and Nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the Master of Might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of Justice, Freedom and Democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

The Department of Pennsylvania of The American Legion organized a Scholarship Contest for the boys and girls of Pennsylvania. Each Senator contributed one of his Senatorial Scholarships to be awarded through The American Legion in an Essay Contest sponsored by the Legion and conducted by the High Schools of Pennsylvania. This year in Allegheny County the six State Senators cheerfully and willingly awarded to The American Legion one of their scholarships for this American Legion Scholarship Essay Contest. The County Commander of The American Legion appointed a Committee to take care of the details. On this Committee were my five colleagues from Allegheny County, as well as a number of civic and educational leaders. At the head of the Committee was an outstanding Legionnaire, a young man who has been a soldier in time of war and a soldier in time of peace, the Honorable Ralph H. Smith, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County. Judge Smith was not satisfied with the objectives attained by the Essay Contest. Working under his leadership, the Committee found that in most instances few of the High School students participated in the Essay Contest, and in some instances the teachers were writing or editing the essays.

The Legion had hoped, through this contest, to teach Americanism to our High School students. The Committee in Allegheny County, appreciating the National Emergency and the need to rekindle the torch of Americanism in the heart of every young American citizen, decided to depart from the routine Essay Contest and sponsor an Americanism Constest that went deeper into the soul of democracy. With the aid and the assistance of the educational leaders of Allegheny County, a text book entitled "Our Democracy" was written, edited and published. A copy of this text book was distributed to every High School senior in every High School in the City of Pittsburgh and the County of Allegheny, including the Parochial Schools. Beginning on March 3, 1941, every senior in all of these High Schools began a strenuous cram course in American Democracy. The text book prepared by The American Legion was the text book used for the course. Twenty lessons are incorporated in the course, and simultaneously every day these lessons were given in all of our High Schools. Five days out of each week during the month of March, there were five radio programs aiding and assisting the seniors in studying this course. All three of the great metropolitan newspapers in Pittsburgh carried daily stories, explaining the course and expounding its virtues. This course will be concluded on Friday, March 28th.

On Monday, April 7th, in every High School throughout Allegheny County there will be an examination given to all of these seniors. This examination has been carefully prepared by our leading educators, and it is predicated on the Pamphlet I have just discussed. The winning examinations from each High School will be forwarded to the Chairman of the Committee, Judge Smith, and on April 21st, the winning student from each High School will assemble at the Frick School in the City of Pittsburgh for a final examination. These final examination papers will be graded according to Senatorial Districts and the winner from each District will be awarded a Senatorial Scholarship through the courtesy of the State Senator from that respective District.

The value of this course in teaching Americanism and in teaching the mechanics of our democracy can hardly be visualized as we stand on the threshold of this great experiment. Here on the floor of the Senate I have listened to a number of my colleagues stressing the fact that we must inculcate into the minds of our Pennsylvania youth the ideals that motivated the Declaration of Independence. While Pennsylvania has been talking about it, the great

State of Allegheny has acted. We have laid the foundation stone for one of the greatest contributions to Americanism, Patriotism and Democracy since 1776. This is the magna carta that will free the youth of Pennsylvania from all ISMS but Americanism. This is the Bill of Rights of 1941, that will establish in the hearts of the boys and girls of the great State of Allegheny the firm conviction that our democracy is right, and in that right lies the might to overcome all obstacles.

On behalf of the District which I so proudly represent, I extend my sincere thanks and appreciation to my Senatorial colleagues from Allegheny County, to my friend and comrade, Judge Ralph Smith, and to the educational leaders for making this patriotic contribution a possibility.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to make a very short statement. Mr. President and members of the Senate, recently we passed a bill covering the subject matter of birth certicates. In the passage of that bill certain remarks were made by the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, relative to the proposal in the bill of throwing practically every applicant for a birth certificate before an Orphans' Court Judge and the statement was made it would cost too much money.

Mr. President, I just want to tell the Senate that last week an applicant for a birth certicate, whose name was misspelled by the midwife who attended the birth, after his father and his father's father had gone by the name that boy now bears, because of the mistake of this midwife in the registry in our county, his name is misspelled, and he went to a lawyer, a leading attorney in my county, and asked him to take the case before the Orphans' Court, as he was directed by the Register of Wills to do.

The lawyer asked him a fee of twenty-five dollars and a guarantee of forty dollars for court costs and seven witnesses with a probable cost of thirty-seven more dollars.

Now, Mr. President, I just want to call to the attention of the Senate that I said then and I say now the Chapman bill was the worst steal ever put over on the people who want birth certificates in this state.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I wish to compliment the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, on the splendid address he has just made. We feel that in Allegheny County we have done a splendid thing in establishing this course of our government in all our schools I have felt the boys and girls in our schools now do not appreciate the good things we have as well as we older people.

Mr. President, I feel the boys and girls do not appreciate the automobile, the radio and our wonderful highways that we have through this state; I also feel the boys and girls of our schools do not appreciate our government and the very interest that has been aroused by this course during one month in the schools of Allegheny County is I am sure something worth trying.

We have received requests from other counties asking us to describe our plan, from other states; our newspapers have given us great space, every one of them, and the radio stations have given us a great deal of time, and will give us a great deal more time, and we are arousing in our boys and girls in our schools an interest in government I am sure will bring good results.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise on a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Fayette will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, apropos to the subject before us, stated in the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, may I state I do not want to distract from the enthusiasm that has overwhelmingly taken the gentleman from Allegheny County in this matter of scholarships.

I say I do not want to in any way belittle their enthusiasm and I trust that from this day on they will pursue in the same course, but I do want to make this known at this time, that in the remarks made by both gentlemen from Allegheny, Mr. Walker and Mr. McGinnis, you will see the proposition that we have tried on numerous occasions to point out on the floor of this Senate, the distance at which the State of Allegheny and the Commonwealth of Philadelphia is from the common people of Pennsylvania, the rural inhabitants.

Now, Mr. President, I have probably been not enthused over the proposition stated as much as the other gentlemen of this body that come from those two separate subdivisions of Pennsylvania, the State of Allegheny and the Commonwealth of Philadelphia, because it was nothing for me to be enthused over, for ever since I have been a member of this Senate not only have I contributed a scholarship to the American Legion but I have also contributed scholarships to the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American Veterans.

I do not want to be heaping any praise upon myself but this year I have contributed a scholarship to the Legion and one to the Disabled American Veterans and one to the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Now Mr. President, I say I am not enthused that they are awakening in the State of Allegheny and in the Commonwealth of Philadelphia. I hope that spirit will overtake them very shortly for I have not heard any of those gentlemen upon the floor say they are pursuing the same course, but at a later date, Mr. President, I expect in more detail to point out to the members of this Senate how difficult it is going to be to enjoy that kind of democracy so ably illustrated by the gentleman from Allegheny, in Pennsylvania, if those two separate sub-divisions in this state do not come to a realization there are people in this Commonwealth who live outside of Allegheny and Philadelphia and that those people do not have all those blessings that are found in those centers of concentrated wealth and population.

I do not want to remind them of that famous passage in the "Deserted Village," that those centers of concentrated wealth and population were expressed as a place where wealth accumulates and men decay.

I have been much impressed in my course of learning to learn that that City of Brotherly Love, Philadelphia, has been referred to by many wise men as the place where there is corruption and yet they are content; they stay content.

Well, I have no fault to find with them on that score, but as a citizen of this Commonwealth I surely do find a little bit of objection to that corruption crossing the river and over into Delaware County. I think probably it is just another case of where one rotten apple in the bushel has spoiled all the apples.

Mr. President, mark you, I am not here trying to reflect upon anybody but I am merely trying to state a situation I sincerely believe exists in this Commonwealth, that the city boys are forgetting we boys from the country, and that I do want to make the point that we fellows from the country who have this coal smoke and hayseed probably in our clothes, that we too possess a lot of this patriotic spirit in this desire to see that our democracy works; we too have made our contribution to this great cause of democracy, this great effort to help the youth of our districts to become good American citizens.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Washington will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, and members of the Senate, we people from the smaller counties are generally far behind the centralized centers, such as the great State of Allegheny in most things.

I want to call attention to the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator McGinnis, and likewise the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, that out in the Forty-Sixth Senatorial District, this practice has been going on for the last six years, that is to say, the American Legion has been distributing senatorial scholarships there and it has proven very successful, and it will do just as Senator Walker has said, it will encourage many of our young people in the ways to democracy, but, of course, as has many times been said in this Senate, that alone will not solve the problem. We must teach our young people the value of independent thought and action.

I have noticed, since I have been in Harrisburg, that independent thought and action are so many times supressed by political authority from someone in the background. That was well illustrated in last Sunday's Sabbath School lesson. The great Pontius Pilate, who many of us admire, was not strong enough in the crisis to stand firmly and face the politicians of that day, and his conduct has been ignominiously looked upon down to the present time.

Mr. President, one feature of the great Abraham Lincoln's life that I like to study and follow in so far as my weakness will permit is that which brought him in contact with the politicians of that day. How vigorously did he oppose them and how even some of his cabinet members crossed him with diverging policies in order to ruin him, but yet he stood strong and firm in what he believed to be right.

If the politicians had not interfered with the great Theodore Roosevelt, how much more good would have been done by that great man, but the latter part of his political life was cut short because he was strong enough to stand up and fight for what he thought was right against politicians of that day. Today we have many examples, and I regret, Mr. President, that I have seen it working in this Senate, not only on your side, members of the Republican Party, but on my side, among the members of the Democratic Party, when a good bill came up, a bill that the people would be interested in, a bill that would help the people, that would uplift the welfare of the people of Pennsylvania, some politician in the background gave the orders and then the whole matter collapsed.

I am glad to hear the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, make a noble address like that and I hope it will do much good, but as we read that address, let us add to it this corollary, that in the crucial test we well permit no politician or no dictator or no person who claims to be an authority to draw us away from the true issue; that issue is the welfare of all the people and not the welfare of some little politician or some person who claims to be an authority and some state, county, city or other municipality.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, a few weeks ago the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, mentioned about an unholy alliance between Philadelphia and Allegheny. At that time I pointed out that there is neither an alliance nor if there would be would it be unholy, but at the same time I have been taking a record of the new phrases which the gentleman from Fayette has coined. One has been statisticology, and the second was flat heel. Now I am suggesting a third term, namely the word dispersers—to disperse.

Mr. President, at the present time if there is any wealth in Philadelphia or in Allegheny, it is going to be dispersed, because due to the transmission of electricity today the division between rural sections and city sections has gone, and for that reason I believe this drawing of distinctions between rural sections and urban sections is artificial in a time of such importance as now, when grim determination is necessary to overcome many obstacles.

Mr. President, I believe the ancient saying "Divide et impero"—divide the rule—should not be applicable today, and I for one will always be on my feet objecting against this division between city and farm, between rural sections and urban sections, because it is outgrown and it is artificial.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, being a small town boy, I some day hope to acquire such tremendous mental stature that I will be able to move into the city and compete with lawyers such as the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, who resides in a city.

I do not expect the members of the Senate to listen to a longwinded speech such as I just delivered on this floor this morning, but if perchance they had listened they would have noticed that in my discussion of what we have attempted to do in Allegheny County, I pointed out the fact that the American Legion all over Pennsylvania for years has had these American Legion scholarships essay contests, but what we attempted to do in Allegheny County, Mr. President, and this is repetition and is directed mainly at the gentleman from Fayette, what we attempted to do in the great State of Allegheny was to redraft the essay contest and submit a textbook on democracy, and instead of awarding these scholarships through essay contests, we do it through an attempt to teach democracy to the youth of the state of Allegheny.

I am well aware of the fact the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, the keeper of righteousness, has incorporated in Fayette County the giving of scholarships to various service organizations, and for that reason I congratulate him; I appreciate the tremendous cost to him in dividing them up that way, and there are many Senators all over Pennsylvania who do likewise. He is not alone in that achievement.

The major premise of my remarks, Mr. President, was that we in Allegheny County have departed from the essay contest and have attempted to teach democracy to the youth of Allegheny County, and that was the gist of the suggestion made by me and by my distinguished colleague, the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator McGinnis.

I trust this slight explanation will wipe out from the mind of the gentleman from Fayette any thought of this unholy alliance, that stalks like Banko's ghost through this chamber, and no longer exists, because in Allegheny County, Mr. President, we have more farms and more farm products than they do in Fayette; we have more farmers than they do in Fayette. We are very proud of the County of Allegheny.

In Allegheny County we have a population of approximately one and one half million people, we have seven hundred and fifty-seven square miles of area, we have more miles of streets and bridges than any other county in the world; we have the largest inland port in the country, with a river front thirty miles long; we have an annual tonnage two and one-half times greater than New York, London and Hamburg combined.

Mr. President, these are just a few statistics which are very boring to the average person, but I suggest to the gentleman from Fayette that when we boast about Allegheny County, we predicate our boast upon facts, and that we are justly proud of the fact we come from a great urban center.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman from Cumberland if he has looked up the definition of the word plagiarism.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I have not. I sent out to my office where I have a complete library on all matters of insurance, particularly, and if the term is used in life insurance, I will try to have it very shortly.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I have had handed to me by my colleague from Somerset Couney, a dictionary, and I will be glad to hand it over to the gentleman from Cumberland, and perhaps he can find the word.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I accepe the gift of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, with thanks; I will be glad to keep the dictionary in my library.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair suggests the gentleman from Cumberland keep it on his desk.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, am I to understand the gentleman from Cumberland has refused to give me the definition of the word plagiarism.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I do not refuse. I will be glad to give it to him just as soon as I get the new dictionary and have time to look it up.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, if I may, since we are to have a meeting this afternoon, and the gentleman from Northampton has given me an official invitation to attend the meeting of the Committee of Public Assistance, I would like to briefly just read the following letter that I received from Blair County this morning which is written in feeble hand writing. I would say, and which I would like to read into the record:

"My dear sir: I must congratulate you on your stand against the pauper's bill. I am a poor old man, eighty-six years old and nothing in the world to go on but I hold a life insurance policy for one thousand dollars. I have been instructed by the Department of Public Assistance that I must assign this policy over to them before relief will be granted to me. I buried my wife fourteen years ago and paid for the expenses of her funeral; I also buried my oldest son and daughter and I would like to have markers put on their graves after I am gone. My only ambition is that I may be in position to retain my policy so that I may be able to put markers on their graves, pay my debts, and leave some money for a marker on my own grave."

That is signed by C. W. Bulgev of Blair County.

Mr. President, that is only one of many thousands of pieces of mail I have received from elderly folks in Pennsylvania, trying to get legislation and asking us to do something soon so that they may in time receive some aid without signing away their life insurance policies.

Mr. President, I have also had brought to my attention a few minutes ago a copy of the law as outlined in California. In California they have this provision, section 2163 of the 1940 act, "And not to be granted to any person who owns personal property in value which exceeds $500. The assessed value of real property of a single person or the combined real property of a husband and wife in the case of a couple may not exceed three thousand dollars. Personal property of an individual may not exceed five hundred dollars, excluding insurance, not in excess of one thousand dollars at maturity.

Now, Mr. President, in the state of California, in the state of Colorado and in many other states, they can get relief if they are found to be in need, without making assignment of property or without making assignments of life insurance.

Mr. President, I bring this up now because I am informed definitely that this afternoon Mr. Russell will appear at this meeting and I am trusting that the gentleman from Northampton will place before him not only my resolution pertaining to life insurance but also my resolution pertaining to assignment of property. Up until this time we have done very little and if we are going to do anything at all for the aged of our Commonwealth, for the poor of our Commonwealth, for those men, may I repeat, for those men who built our schools, who have built our churches and made this Commonwealth what it is, and now we are calling upon them to sign away their worldly belongings before we shall give them any aid. This is the time, gentlemen, if you are sincere, to bring up these resolutions, and if the fact remains that my name might be the obstacle, I shall be glad to remove my name, or if any Republican colleague wishes to join me and place his name on my resolution, gentlemen, you may do so. It is not pride of mine, it is a problem of mine and yours, and I shall be only too happy to have any of you join me in my fight and place your name on my resolution, and I assure you that if passed in this body it shall pass the lower house.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Luzerne will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I listened with intense interest to the splendid essay as presented by the brilliant young Senator from Allegheny County, which still in the last geographical record remains an integral part of the State of Pennsylvania.

I agree in the main with these speeches, because they are safe and they are sane and they appeal very strongly to the popular imagination, but sometimes we wonder seriously whether some of these speeches are not tinged occasionally by a hysteria produced by economic conditions at home and perhaps the international situation.

However, Mr. President, the point I want to make is this, that on many of these bills, on these patriotic bills presented on the floor, there has been given the opportunity for certain members of the Senate to impress upon the membership generally their honesty, their integrity, their freedom from political bossism, their idea of being individuals, standing alone, thinking for themselves, and I do say that probably within themselves they have engendered a serious ill, have engendered probably a serious mental and may produce later some physical degeneration or ailment, but I think, gentlemen, that when we get up and extoll our own personal virtues, we are much in the same position as a distinguished gentleman who went to an eminent specialist complaining of a very intense headache, and this specialist sent him to an X-ray man and he sent him to a laboratory man, who sent him to various clinicians to find out what might be the cause of this particular ailment, and after a very, very serious study he seemed to be kind of perplexed until one day he went in to see his patient and in an anxiety to solve the problem he noticed a deep crease on his forehead, and immediately his intelligence asserted itself and he said, "I am able to diagnose your case now; the trouble with you is that you are wearing your halo too tightly clasped to your brow.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, and members of the Senate, following the usual brilliant address of my colleague from the neighboring county of Luzerne, I rise to my feet with more than usual hesitancy and trepidation to publicly compliment the gentleman from Allegheny for the very fine address he delivered here today.

I have talked at banquets and public gatherings in the County of Lackawanna with such annoying regularity about democracy and what it means to the people of America and particularly to the youth, that I am reminded of a story of a young, perhaps overzealous priest, who talked repeatedly Sunday after Sunday about confession, and finally the parishoners who had heard it with such annoying regularity went to the Bishop and suggested that the curate be called in and given a bit of advice on changing his topic for Sunday sermons, and the Bishop called him in and said, "I think you ought to change your subject. I suggest to you that next Sunday you talk about St. Joseph." So the priest arose in the pulpit the following Sunday and he said, "I want to talk to you briefly about St. Joseph; St. Joseph was a good man; St. Joseph was a just man; St. Joseph was the foster father of Christ; St. Joseph was a carpenter and being a carpenter he built a confessional, and that brings me down to my subject this morning."

So, Mr. President, I have talked about youth and democracy and the many fine things we have in America so many times, that I could not suppress the inclination to say a word or two about my good friend from Allegheny.

Somewhere I read that some English leader of this great conflict abroad sounded what I think is a clarion call to free peoples all over the world, when he summed up the fight abroad in this terse and pithy sentence: "We would rather die on our feet than live forever on our bended knees."

Mr. President, I am delighted to see that Allegheny County is taking cognizance of the fact that the youth of Pennsylvania as well as America are accepting these principles of democracy as something to be taken for granted. Here this afternoon we saw a splendid demonstration of freedom of speech, and I am glad to live in a nation that has freedom of assembly, freedom of speech, freedom from violent bias or religious liberty, and I am glad to live in a nation that has freedom of assembly, freedom of speech, freedom from violence based on religious hatred and I am glad to see that Allegheny County is in the vanguard of a movement to impress upon the young men in the State of Pennsylvania that democracy cannot be taken for granted, that democracy must be purchased afresh and anew by each succeeding generation, by sacrifice and application to the American principles of government. I think that spirit ought to be spread throughout the State of Pennsylvania, and I am glad, while I hesitated to get up again and renew this discussion about a great democracy, I am glad my good friend from Allegheny got up here this afternoon and impressed upon the Senate of Pennsylvania we have a great responsibility in inculcating into the hearts, minds and souls of the youth of America that if we are to have this democracy, if democracy is to be perpetuated they must realize there must be some sacrifices made in this great state.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I think a great deal of good will come out of discussions like this this afternoon. For instance, I have heard reference made to what we call or what have been termed the rural districts, saying they have been doing this good thing we are doing in Allegheny County, and that is giving scholarships to the American Legion and the Veterans. I know in Allegheny County I have given a scholarship for six years to the American Legion and the Veterans, and I think that every other Senator has done the same for the past six years, and it is encouraging to learn on this floor that Senators from the rural districts do the same. In other words, we are all interested in our country, in our government, and it is a little amusing to me to hear men who are Democrats or Republicans get up here and criticize politicians.

You all know we have lived a great many years in this country under the Democratic Party and under the Republican Party, and I have watched reformers and I have watched trouble makers and on the whole I have not seen a thing permanent or a thing good come from the slick and sly reformer. If you go back over the history of our government and what has been accomplished in this country, as I said before, it has come through the Democratic Party or the Republican Party, and if you go back and look at the great men in our history for the last fifty years, they either belong to the Democratic Party or the Republican Party.

Now, for instance, Mr. President, I know they were not perfect on either side, but I will say this, that while the Democractic Party happened to have charge of this state for four years, you could take our platforms on which our men ran for office and take out statute books today, and you will find a bill on the statute books for every promise we made in our campaigns, and I defy anybody on this side or the other side to say that in a single instance a Democratic leader in this state asked them to vote contrary to what they promised the people back home when they were running for office. To me that means good government; to me that means party government; and until I find a leader in either party that goes back on his promises to the people back home when his men are running for office, I think that is the time to find fault or approve what is being done, and so until I find a leader of my party browbeating or cajoling or trying to influence a man on the floor to vote against something that he promised the people back home, I am going to stand by my party.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Westmoreland will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I have been delegated by the Senator representing the State of Allegheny to read the message of welcome to the Ambassadors from the Latin-American countries who attended a recent conference in Pittsburgh. It was in part as follows:

Saludos a Nuestros Amigos Latino-Americanos.

MOTION THAT SENATE RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now recess until 4:30 o'clock, p. m.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, before we recess—

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, there is a motion before the Senate to recess. Nothing else is in order but the motion to recess.

Mr. SHAPIRO. That is correct, Mr. President, but I say before that motion is seconded or before it is acted on, I suggest that this, in the interest of good democracy, is the wrong time to cut off this debate, because I have listened to it for some time and I would like to make, for the purpose of the record and in the interest of democracy, a few remarks, if the gentleman will permit me.

The PRESIDENT. Is there any objection? The Chair hears none. The gentleman from Philadelphia may proceed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am very serious about this, because you behold in me a man who does not give scholarships to veterans of any foreign war or veterans of any kind unless they happen to be persons who are entitled to a scholarship for the reason that they can not afford to pay the fee themselves. You also behold me a man who has a great interest in preserving the democracy of this nation, and I am frank to say I am amazed at the trend of this discussion.

Mr. President, when the gentleman from Allegheny was making his remarks I was interested because I hoped and felt that they were leading to something constructive, and I am sorry to say that the gentleman destroyed in a measure the value of a great paper by injecting a foreign substance in it which had no place in so serious and important a document.

Mr. President, it was not important to call attention to the fact that Allegheny was a state or a county in the discussion which he presented. I listened to these gentlemen and I came to the conclusion after the speech, first, that they had missed the point and secondly, they raised here what might be called brag and braggage; they had come here for the purpose of showing how fine they were when the point of the whole speech was that while we are involved in a serious consideration as to whether or not we can save our democracy by placing on the statute books a law which will prohibit communists from being a party, the gentleman from Allegheny showed it was possible to save our democracy by a more constructive way, of inducting children into democracy in a real and early way and at an early time and instead of making that a very serious consideration, we degenerate into a discussion of personalities and persons and characteristics and counties and cities and rural districts, and I was wondering what the people who listened would say and would think about it, and I shall close my remarks by telling you a story which may be funny but is appropriate. We are here as supposed citizens of importance to carry out important functions and I was reminded when I heard this of a story I was told years ago by my father, who called my attention to the fact that, according to the Jewish Religion, persons are not privileged to carry money on Saturday, but occasionally in the course of travel, in business, a man finds himself in a strange community with money in his possession. The custom was to proceed to the Rabbi in the locality and leave the money with him over the Sabbath. And on one occasion, a gentleman who had been traveling for a week found himself in that predicament and he proceeded to the Rabbi in the locality and he said to him, "Rabbi, I have fifteen hundred rubles in my possession, the Sabbath is about to come on, I am a stranger here, and I desire to leave it with you for safekeeping," and the old gentleman looked down over his glasses and he said, "Yes, that is very fine, but you are a stranger to me and I am a stranger to you. We are human beings. I shall keep the money but I prefer, since something may happen to me, that there should be witnesses to the fact that you have left this fifteen hundred rubles," and he called in Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and he said to them, "Gentlemen, this is Mr. Cohen of Minsk and he has left with me fifteen hundred rubles for safekeeping. I am putting it in this drawer, and I want you to be witnesses; in case anything happens to me, I want you to see that he gets his money," and he returns to this gentleman and he says, "These are three of our eminent citizens in the community, and you can rely upon them, and in case anything happens to me, be sure you get your money." So, after the Sabbath, the gentleman having left and returned and he said, "Rabbi, I am Mr. Cohen of Minsk. Remember yesterday I left with you fifteen hundred rubles. I would like to get them back." The Rabbi looked at him and said, "You left with me fifteen hundred rubles? I don't know you, never saw you, never heard of you." "Why," he said, "Rabbi, I don't understand this. I came here and brought you the fifteen hundred rubles and you called in three eminent citizens, called them in as witnesses to assure me that they would see to it that I would get the money." "I called in witnesses? Whom did I call?" "Why, Abraham, Jacob and Isaac." He said, "Well, let's send for them and see about it." He did call them in, and when they came in, he said to each of them, 'Abraham, this man said I got fifteen hundred rubles from him; he left it with me for safekeeping. Did I? Did he give me the money?" And Abraham said, "I didn't see it." He then said, "Jacob, how about you?" and Jacob said, "I was not even here." He then said, "Isaac, how about you?" and Isaac said, "What do you mean, I don't know the man." They left and the Rabbi turned to the gentleman and said, "You see, you are wrong." Well, the man became enraged and he said, "What are you trying to do, trying to rob me? What is this?" and he began to get excited and the Rabbi smiled and said, "Don't get excited," and he reached down in the drawer, pulled out the fifteen hundred rubles and he gave them to him, and the gentleman looked at him and said, "Rabbi, I don't understand this. I left fifteen hundred rubles with you, you called in three eminent citizens, you had them in here as witnesses. I came and asked for my money and you didn't know me. You call in the citizens, who don't recognize me, and when they leave, you hand me the fifteen hundred rubles. What are you trying to do?" The Rabbi said, "I am trying to show you what kind of eminent citizens we have here."

Mr. President, I am afraid the community may make the same comparison with us.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

RECESS

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 4:30 o'clock, p. m.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

HOUSE MESSAGE

NOMINATIONS BY THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which were read as follows, and referred to the Committee on Executive Nominations.

APPOINTMENT AS MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF WEST CHESTER STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, March 25, 1941.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate Harvey R. Vanderslice, 1119 Oak Street, Coatesville, Chester County, for appointment as a member of the Board of Trustees of West Chester State Teachers College, for the term of four years, and until his successor is qualified, vice Gibbons Gray Cornwell, Jr., resigned.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

PETITION

The PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a communication dated March 22, 1941, addressed to the Chair which the Clerk will read.

UNITED MINE WORKERS OF AMERICA
LOCAL UNION NO. 1190

Ellsworth, Pa., March 22, 1941.

Honorable Samuel S. Lewis
President of the Senate
Harrisburg, Pa.

Assembled on our regular meeting, on March 22, 1941, representing over 800 members, who wish to go on record, that we are supporting one hundred per cent, Senator Haluska Resolution, introduced in the Senate on February 3rd, 1941, calling on the Department of Public Assistance to discontinue its requirement for the cancellation of Life Insurance Policies.

Also we are in favor of repealing the present Relief Act which requires a relief recipient to execute a bond.

President: JOHN L. HARRIS
Rec. Sec'y: F. JAMES RYAN.

APPOINTMENT TO STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE

The PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate communication addressed to the Secretary of the Senate, from the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, which the Clerk will read.

Charles H. Ealy
President Pro Tempore
Somerset, Pa.

Office of the President Pro Tempore,
Senate of Pennsylvania, March 24, 1941.

Honorable George F. Holmes
Secretary of the Senate
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Holmes:

I beg to advise that I have designated as my appointee to the State Council of Defense, created by a recent Act of Assembly, Dr. Webster N. Jones, Dean of the School of Engineering of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Sincerely yours,
CHARLES H. EALY,
President Pro Tempore.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. CROWE, from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 285, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on unpaid city and school taxes in cities of the first and second class and school districts of the first class, and on poll, poor districts, institution district and county taxes in counties of the second class prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period; preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof.

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. BECKER, from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 197, entitled:

An Act to authorize cities, boroughs, incorporated towns, townships, and school districts to file suggestions of non-payment and averments of default, or to sue out writs of scire facias on certain tax or municipal claims, and to revive judgments where the lien of such claims or the judgments thereon have been lost; and providing for the reinstatement of the liens of such claims and judgments.

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. TALLMAN, from the Committee on Judiciary General, re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 172, entitled:

An Act to amend section eight hundred one and nine hundred seventy-six of the act, approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1333), entitled "An act concerning elections, including general, municipal, special and primary elections, the nominations of candidates, primary and election expenses and election contests; creating and defining membership of county boards of elections; imposing duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth, courts, county boards of elections, county commissioners; imposing penalties for violation of the act, and codifying, revising and consolidating the laws relating thereto; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to elections," by further defining parties and political bodies, and further defining the duties of the Secretary of the Commonwealth with respect to nomination petitions, certificates and papers.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a statement at this time in connection with the bill just reported.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none. The gentleman from Philadelphia may proceed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, when the committee met it considered that bill before I arrived in the committee room, and in subsequent discussion with the committee, I suggested the amendment which I want to make to the bill, but in view of the fact that this bill will be on the Calendar tomorrow, I do not want to present the amendment suddenly before the members and I want to read the amendment which I have suggested to the bill, which is in addition to the present amendment which has been offered, but it does not require that amendment.

Amend Section one by adding to the bill Section 976. Section 976 is the section which sets forth the reasons for which a nomination paper may be rejected.

The present amendment which has just been offered places into this section the fact that a party or person or group advocating the overthrow of the government is a reason for rejection.

Instead of that amendment I propose this amendment: Provided further, That no nomination petition, nomination paper, or nomination certificate shall be permitted to be filed if the political party or political body referred to therein shall be composed of a group of electors whose purposes or aims or one of whose purposes or aims is the establishment, control, conduct, seizure or overthrow of the Government of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or the United States of America by the use of force, violence, military measure or threats of one or more of the foregoing. The authority to reject such nomination petition, paper or certificate for this reason shall, when filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, be vested in a committee composed of the Governor, the Attorney General and the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and when filed with any county board of elections, shall be vested in such board. If the committee or board, as the case may be, shall conclude that the acceptance of such nomination petition, paper or certificate should be refused, it shall forthwith fix a place and a time ten days in advance for hearing the matter, and notice thereof shall be given to all parties affected thereby. At the time and place so fixed, the committee or board, as the case may be, shall hear testimony, but shall not be bound by technical rules of evidence. The testimony presented shall be stenographically recorded and made a part of the record of the committee or board. Within three days after such hearing, the committee or board, if satisfied, upon competent evidence, that the said nomination petition, paper or certificate is not entitled to be accepted and filed, it shall announce its decision and immediately notify the parties affected thereby. Failure to announce decision within three days after such hearing shall be conclusive that such nomination petition, paper or certificate has been accepted or filed. The decision of said committee or board in refusing to receive and file such nomination petition, paper or certificate may be reviewed by the court of common pleas of the proper county upon an application for a writ of mandamus to compel its reception as of the date when presented to the Secretary of the Commonwealth or such board. The application for such writ of mandamus shall be made within three days of the time when such decision is announced. If the application is properly made, any judge of said court may fix a time and place for hearing the matter in dispute, of which notice shall be served with a copy of said application upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth or the county board of elections, as the case may be. At the time so fixed, the court or any judge thereof, assigned for the purpose, shall review the record made before the committee or board. No additional testimony shall be taken before such court which shall be limited to the determination of the regularity of such decision and whether it was reasonable in the light of the competent evidence presented. If after such hearing, the said court shall find that the decision of the committee or the board was erroneous, it shall issue its mandate to the committee or board to correct its decision and to accept and file the nomination petition, paper or certificate. It shall be the duty of the said court to fix the hearing and to announce its decision within such period of time as will permit the Secretary of the Commonwealth or the County Board of Elections to permit the names of the candidates affected by the court's decision to be printed on the ballot if the court shall so determine.

Mr. President, I shall prepare fifty copies of this proposed amendment, and I will have a copy put on the desk of each Senator so that they will have time to consider it, because I feel that this amendment does not affect the principle of the bill, that it is in line with the proposed amendment and that it simply sets up safeguards and a regular procedure under which no one can complain if their petition is rejected or accepted.

It will be necessary, of course, since the bill is now presented, to present an additional amendment to remove the amendment offered with this bill as reported from the committee, but the portion of the bill which is now in it by this amendment will be included and is included in the amendment which I propose.

Mr. President, I suggest that the members of the Senate give this some consideration. I am also going to give a copy of this amendment to the chairman of the committee so that he may take it up with the attorney general before the bill comes up for action.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I merely want to inquire of the gentleman from Philadelphia whether the amendment he proposes to offer is in lieu of the committee amendment to section (h)?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, it is in lieu of that and includes the amendment to section (h) that was offered.

Mr. EDMONDS. In other words, Mr. President, there will be a strikeout of what is now the committee amendment.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there will be a strikeout, but the amendment is out of place and is added in the amendment I offered. It is only a question of place; it is out of place and I am bringing it back into place.

RESOLUTION MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS NOT TO APPROVE CONSTRUCTION OF ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

Mr. WADE, from the Committee on Federal Relations, to which was referred resolution offered by Mr. WATKINS on February 17, 1941, reported the same with amendment as follows, and moved its immediate adoption.

In the Senate, February 17, 1941.

Whereas, It appears that the present Congress of the United States will be called upon to pass upon the construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is opposed to the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway because of its economic impracticability, its entire lack of advantage as a defense measure and its detriment to business in the Commonwealth of Pensylvania; and be it further

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby memorialize the Congress of the United States not to approve or authorize the construction of the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Secretary of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives and to each Senator and Representative elected from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

A motion was made by Mr. WADE and Mr. WATKINS That rule 39, which requires resolutions reported from committee to lie over for one day be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Which was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am not so sure that procedure is correct. Are we voting on the resolution or is it a motion for immediate adoption? I do not think that motion is in order.

The PRESIDENT. The motion was for immediate adoption of the resolution.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this is a report from committee which is to be voted on.

The PRESIDENT. It is a report from committee.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Schuylkill permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WATKINS. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is it a fact the resolution offered by the gentleman from Lackawanna is exactly the same resolution as the one which is now before the Senate?

Mr. WATKINS. Yes, Mr. President, except that it is more general.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, as the resolution sponsored by the gentleman from Schuylkill? Is this resolution as reported from committee jointly sponsored by you and the gentleman from Lackawanna?

Mr. WATKINS. It is sponsored by me and it was introduced by me about a month ago. The resolution introduced by the gentleman from Lackawanna is a separate resolution.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is there any objection to joint sponsorship on your part?

Mr. WATKINS. Yes.

Mr. SHAPIRO. There is?

Mr. WATKINS. Yes.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the Resolution?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Lackawanna will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I think to get the record straight, to get the Senate procedure straight, am I correct in my assumption that immediate consideration is not necessary since the resolution is reported out from committee and what we are doing now is voting on it; is that correct?

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the Resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—34

Bartlett,	Edmonds,	Mundy,	Tyler,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. KEPHART, from the Committee on Judiciary General, re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 24, entitled:

An Act defining and prohibiting unfair sales or transfers providing remedies for violations thereof, and establishing penalties therefor.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. MALLERY, from the Committee on Judiciary General, re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 125, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county, city (except cities of the first and second classes), borough, town, township, school district (except school districts of the first and second class), and county institution district taxes; prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period; and preserving certain tax liens, and providing for the extension thereof.

He also, from the Committee on Judiciary General, re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 41, entitled:

An Act to further amend section five hundred and three of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 343), entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State government; providing for the settlement, assessment, collection and lien of taxes, bonus, and all other accounts due the Commonwealth, the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale, the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth, and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth, the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts, refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth, auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof, of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth, or an agency thereof, and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties; affecting every department, board, commission, and officers of the State government, every political subdivision of the State, and certain officers of such subdivisions, every person, association, and corporation required to pay, assess, or collect taxes, or to make returns or report under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes, or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth," by allowing interest on refunds due from the Commonwealth.

HOUSE MESSAGE

COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE STATE HOSPITALS

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives which was twice read as follows and referred to the Committee on Health.

In the House of Representatives, March 24, 1941.

Whereas, Newspapers have carried reports concerning the operation of certain state hospitals within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which, if true, show an extremely reprehensible situation existing in such state hospitals; and

Whereas, There have been charges made that certain trustees and supervisory officials have committed criminal acts; and

Whereas, Certain state hospitals have lost their official standing and rating with the American Medical Association; and

Whereas, The conduct of certain trustees of state hospitals has resulted in unfavorable criticism of the operation of said hospitals; and

Whereas, If these charges are true, the situation calls for immediate attention by the legislative branch of the government to remedy such a condition; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint a committee of three members of the House, and the President pro tempore of the Senate appoint a commiteee of three members of the Senate to act as a legislative committee to investigate the maintenance, operation and conduct of all state hospitals within this Commonwealth; and be it further

Resolved, That the said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee mav deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases; and be it further

Resolved, That the said committee, because of the urgency of the situation, report to the House as speedily as possible, with appropriate recommendations.

(2) Has without reasonable cause failed to account and make payment for any milk purchased or received or handled on consignment or otherwise from a producer

Section 4 Section five hundred one of the said act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 501 Milk Dealers Required to File Bonds It shall be unlawful for a milk dealer to purchase or receive or handle on consignment or otherwise milk from producers unless the milk dealer shall file with the commission on a corporate surety individual surety or collateral bond approved by the commission Except as otherwise herein provided the bond shall be in a sum equal to the value of the highest aggregate amount of milk purchased or received or handled on consignment or otherwise by the dealer from producers in any one month during the preceding calendar year which value shall be computed according to lawful prices and shall not in any event exceed one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00) The bond shall be upon a form prescribed by the commission conditioned for the payment by the milk dealer of all amounts due including amounts due under this act and the orders of the commission for milk purchased or received or handled on consignment or otherwise by the milk dealer from producers during the license year upon such terms and conditions as the commission may prescribe

In the case of a milk dealer who pays producers in full each week for milk purchased or received or handled on consignment or otherwise by him from such producers the bond shall be in a sum equal to fifty per centum of the value of the highest aggregate amount of milk purchased or received or handled on consignment or otherwise by the dealer from producers in any one month during the preceding calendar year which value shall be computed according to lawful prices and shall not in any event exceed fifty thousand dollars ($50,000)

Section 5 Section five hundred two of said Act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 502 Computation of Amount of Certain Bonds Milk purchased or received or handled on consignment or otherwise by a milk dealer from producers outside the Commonwealth and sold or distributed by such dealers as fluid milk within the Commonwealth shall be included in computing the amount of such dealer's bond except where such dealer has filed a bond for the protection of such producers with the state wherein the milk is purchased or received on consignment or otherwise or with such producers In such computation the amount due for such milk shall be determined according to any applicable official prices or any lawful contract price

A milk dealer purchasing or receiving or handling on consignment or otherwise or intending to purchase or receive or handle on consignment or otherwise milk from producers but not so engaged during any month of the preceding calendar year shall file a bond in a reasonable sum to be fixed by the commission and within the time for filing his application such dealer shall request the commission to fix such sum

Section 6 Section five hundred five of the said Act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 505 Financial Statement A milk dealer shall from time to time when required by the commission make and file with the commission a verified statement of his disbursements or of any other facts in connection with his business during a period to be prescribed by the commission which financial statement shall contain the names of the producers from whom milk was purchased or received or handled on consignment or otherwise the amount due or paid to the producers and any other relevant facts required by the commission pertinent to the dealer or the dealer's surety or sureties

The seventh section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 7 Section five hundred six of the said Act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 506 Increase or Decrease of Bond If it shall appear from the dealer's financial statement or from facts otherwise ascertained by the commission that the bond afforded to producers selling or furnishing delivering or making available on consignment or otherwise milk to such milk dealer does not adequately protect such producers the commission may require such milk dealer to procure an additional surety or to give an additional bond or additional security for the collateral bond in a sum to be determined by the commission which shall not exceed more than fifty per centum of the value of the highest aggregate amount of milk purchased or received or handled on consignment or otherwise by the dealer from producers in any one month during the preceding or current year which value shall be computed according to the prices applicable and shall not in any event exceed fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00) In the case of a milk dealer who pays producers in full each week for milk purchased by him from such producers any increase required hereunder shall not exceed more than twenty-five per centum of such value and in any event shall not exceed twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000.00)

The commission may grant a reduction of the bond or the collateral or release an additional surety if it shall appear that owing to a decrease in the milk purchases or receipts of milk on consignment or otherwise of the milk dealer or to other causes a bond in a lesser amount or with fewer sureties will protect producers selling milk to such milk dealer

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I now call up Senate Bill No. 50, on Page 1 of the Second Reading Calendar, which went over in its order.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 50, entitled:

An Act providing that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its political subdivisions employ only citizens and certain residents of the United States on a yearly salary basis

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 No department bureau commission or office of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or of any city borough township school district or of any other political subdivision shall employ any person on a yearly salary basis who is not a citizen of the United States or who has not been a resident of the United States for the past ten years or who has not taken out first citizenship papers to become a citizen of the United States Provided however That citizenship may be waived in the case of exchange teachers not permanently employed and teachers employed for the purpose of teaching foreign languages

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I move to amend Sec. 1, page 1, lines 6, 7 and 8 by striking out the following: "been a resident of the United States for the" in line 6, all of line 7 and "ship papers to become" in line 8, and inserting in lieu thereof: "duly filed his application for a certificate of arrival and preliminary form for declaration of intention or preliminary form for petition for naturalization directed toward becoming"

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I would ask that the reading clerk read the amendment again, slowly, in order that we may all understand.

The amendment was again read.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I object.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—40

Barr,	Farrell,	Mallery,	Stiefel,

NAYS—4

Becker,	Cavalcante,	Cox,	Reed,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second, third and fourth sections of the bill were read as follows and agreed to.

Section 2 Any officer of the State or of any city borough township school district or any other political subdivision or any other person responsible who knowingly employs or retains any employe contrary to the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or to undergo imprisonment not more than thirty days or both.

Section 3 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

Section 4 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

The title of the bill was read as follows:

An Act providing that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its political subdivisions employ only citizens and certain residents of the United States on a yearly salary basis.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I move to amend title, Page 1, lines 2 and 3 of title, by striking out the following: "certain residents" and inserting in lieu thereof: "applicants to become citizens"; Further amend title, page 1, line 3, by striking out the following: "on a yearly salary basis."

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title as amended?

NAYS—4

Becker,	Cavalcante,	Cox,	Reed,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, it is evident now that a certain part of the title has been stricken out, to wit, the words "on a yearly salary basis," without those words having been stricken out of the body of the bill, and if it is the intention of these amendments to strike out the words "on a yearly salary basis," then I will ask that this bill go over for a few minutes until a further amendment is made to put the body of the bill in line with the title.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I offer the following amendment to Senate Bill No. 50:

Amend Section 1, page 1, between lines 4 and 5 after the word "person" and before the word "who," by striking out the words: "on a yearly salary basis".

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SHAPIRO, from the Committee on Judiciary General reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 228, entitled:

An Act to further amend section twenty-six of the act, approved the second day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 1237), entitled "An act affecting marital relations; prescribing grounds and regulating proceedings for divorce and the annulment of bigamous marriages; and amending, revising, and consolidating the law relating thereto," by requiring the filing of a statement to the effect that the respondent is not enrolled in the armed forces of the United States pursuant to any selective service act, or serving in the armed forces of the United States during actual time of war before the issuance of a subpoena.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Wednesday, March 26, 1941 at 11:00 o'clock a. m.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 6:12 o'clock p. m., until Wednesday, March 26, 1941, at 11:00 o'clock a. m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, March 25, 1941

The House met at 1 p. m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. DONALD McFALL, offered the following prayer:

Gracious God, our Heavenly Father, forgive us for permitting self-interest and self-will to destroy the foundations of our homes, for we have failed to make Thy will the center of our individual lives. Help us to stop our compromising with the forces of evil which allure us with great promises which can never be fulfilled. May we reread the history of the past and learn anew before it is too late, that the only security that is lasting has its very foundation in Thee, the one true and living God. Help us in our weakness to be strong.

We beeseech Thee to look with favor upon those of this House who are ill in body. May it please Thee to grant a speedy recovery to each, especially to Representative Jones of Lawrence County who recently underwent an operation. Hear our prayer for the needs of all men. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday when, on motion of Mr. AUKER, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. HOLLAND. RESOLUTION No. 59.

In the House of Representatives, March 24, 1941.

Whereas, Under the provisions of section ten of "The Liquid Fuels Tax Act" of May 21, 1931, (P. L. 149), as amended, one-half cent of the tax collected on each gallon of liquid fuels is paid over to the counties of the Commonwealth to be expended on roads, highways and bridges; and

Whereas, Some counties construct or maintain no roads, highways or bridges; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Department of Revenue is hereby requested, before the first day of May, 1941, to submit to the House of Representatives a report showing in detail the purposes for which liquid fuels taxes paid to each county of the Commonwealth have been expended during the current fiscal biennium; and if such information is not available in sufficiently specific detail from reports made to the department as required by law, to obtain from any county such further information as may be required; and

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Secretary of Revenue immediately upon its adoption.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. HOLLAND. RESOLUTION No. 60.

In the House of Representatives, March 24, 1941.

Whereas, The Federal Government has made available to the states considerable sums of money for use in connection with flood control projects, of none of which this Commonwealth has availed itself, although the need for protection against floods is manifest in many sections; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Secretary of Forests and Waters is hereby requested to advise the House of Representatives of the reason for the neglect on the part of officials of this Commonwealth to secure for its benefit and protection all the funds that are available from the Federal Government for much needed flood control in Pennsylvania; and

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk certify a copy of this resolution and transmit the same to the Secretary of Forests and Waters.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. CORDIER. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 61.

In the House of Representatives, March 24, 1941.

Whereas, A bill is pending in the Congress of the United States providing for the opening up of the St. Lawrence Waterway; and

Whereas, The opening of said waterway would seriously affect transportation on and over the railroads operating in that section of the Nation and particularly in Pennsylvania, of goods and materials now transported thereon; and

Whereas, Such curtailment of transportation on and over such railroads would deprive them of a large portion of their income and necessitate the dismissal of thousands of employes; and

Whereas, The coal operation and coal miners of Pennsylvania would suffer great losses by reason of the opening of such waterway, resulting in the dismissal of thousands of miners now gainfully employed; and

Whereas, The said injury to the railroads and the mining industry would be greatly reflected in the general business conditions of this Commonwealth; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly memorialize the members of the Congress of the United States from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to oppose the passage of this legislation to open up the St. Lawrence Waterway; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives, to each member of the Congress of the United States coming from Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. RUSSELL E. REESE and MORAN.
RESOLUTION No. 62.

In the House of Representatives, March 24, 1941.

Whereas, There have been many complaints made to members of this House relating to the length of time required by the Workmen's Compensation Board and referees of the Workmen's Compensation Board to file opinions in cases heard by them; and

Whereas, It is reported that such delays are in many instances due to the appointment of partial medical experts by the said referees and the Workmen's Compensation Board; and

Whereas, As a result thereof, the rights of injured employes are seriously affected since long delays are detrimental to claimants and beneficial to employers; therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the General Assembly that the Speaker of the House shall appoint a legislative committee, consisting of five members of the Workmen's Compensation Committee, whose duty it shall be to investigate the affairs of the Workmen's Compensation Board and referees thereunder with respect to the delay in deciding cases and in the appointment by them of medical experts to testify in such cases; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee report the result of its investigation to this House, as speedily as possible, with appropriate recommendations.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend title, page 2, second from last line, by striking out after the word "consolidation" the word "and"; also by inserting after the word "exclusive" in last line of title the following: "and providing for notice of said section to shareholders'.

Amend Section 1, page 5, by inserting after the word "exclusive" in line 28, the following new paragraph: "D A Copy of this Section 908 shall be enclosed with the written notice mentioned in clause B of Section 902 of this act and said written notice shall state that said Section 908 sets forth the exclusive rights and remedies of shareholders who object to the plan of merger or plan of consolidation."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the amendments were concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILL SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bill numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 381.

An Act to amend section nine hundred eight of the act, approved the fifth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 364), entitled "An act relating to business corporations; defining and providing for the organization, merger, consolidation, reorganization, winding up and dissolution of such corporations; conferring certain rights, powers, duties and immunities upon them and their officers and shareholders; prescribing the conditions on which such corporations may exercise their powers; providing for the inclusion of certain existing corporations of the second class within the provisions of this act; prescribing the terms and conditions upon which foreign business corporations may be admitted, or may continue, to do business within the Commonwealth; conferring powers and imposing duties on the courts of common pleas, and certain State departments, commissions, and officers; authorizing certain State Departments, boards, commissions, or officers to collect fees for services required to be rendered by this act; imposing penalties; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to corporations," by further prescribing the procedure to be followed by shareholders who desire to become dissenting shareholders of a corporation which becomes a party to a plan of merger or consolidation; limiting the rights and remedies of shareholders who desire to object to or dissent from any merger or consolidation making the rights and remedies herein provided for exclusive and providing for notice of said section to shareholders.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

NEWMANSTOWN HIGH SCHOOL WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair extends the welcome of the House to the Junior and Senior classes of the Newmanstown High school.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 596, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Council of the City of Philadelphia to fix the salaries of members of the Park Guards, and authorizing the Park Commission to classify the Park Guards and to pay the salaries as set by the City Council.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 597, entitled:

An Act to amend section two of article five of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (P. L. 581) entitled "An act for the better government of cities of the first class of this Commonwealth" by classifying employes and officers of the Bureau of Police and Fire and certain employes of the Electrical Bureau assigned exclusively for work in connection with the Bureau of Fire, all in the Department of Public Safety for the purpose of fixing minimum salaries for each classification and payment of at least such minimum salaries to all persons within the said classifications.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 112, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the second day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes; and revising, amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto," authorizing counties of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth classes to acquire by lease, purchase or condemnation, land within the county for the purpose of establishing and maintaining airdromes and aviation landing fields; authorizing the leasing of such facilities and the joint operation by said county of such facilities with other political subdivisions; and authorizing appropriations for such purposes.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

INTERROGATION

Mr. REAGAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the author of this bill.

The SPEAKER. This bill has been agreed to on second reading. However, if there is no objection the interrogation will be permitted. The Chair hears no objection.

Will the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Nagle, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. NAGLE. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. REAGAN. I would like to inquire why the remaining classes of counties were excluded from this amendment.

Mr. NAGLE. May I ask the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, what classes of counties he has reference to?

Mr. REAGAN. Mr. Speaker, I have reference to the seventh and eighth classes which are not included in this amendment.

Mr. NAGLE. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will read the title of the act "An act relating to counties of the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes" I believe that this bill includes all classes of counties.

Mr. REAGAN. But, Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will read on he will see "authorizing counties of the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth classes to acquire".

Mr. NAGLE. I might say, Mr. Speaker, in preparing this amendment there was no request of any counties at that time to have those counties after the sixth class included. However, I would see no objection to it.

Mr. REAGAN. I would ask if the gentleman is willing to lay it aside for amendment in case the counties of the seventh and eighth class desire to be included in this amendment?

Mr. NAGLE. Mr. Speaker, I will be glad to defer with this gentleman's request. However, I believe that it could be readily amended in the Senate. This is a bill, I think, that we will all find is not controversial; it is an enabling bill, and I am satisfied that if this bill is approached in the Senate the amendments could be added, so as to include the seventh and eighth class counties. That would not necessitate holding the bill on the calendar here in the House, and I will assure the gentleman that I will oppose no amendments of that kind in the Senate.

Mr. REAGAN. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman assist in having it amended in the Senate?

Mr. NAGLE. Mr. Speaker, I renew my previous statement that I would be glad to confer and cooperate in the measure to any extent so that it does not destroy the intent and purpose of this bill.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 314, entitled:

An Act to repeal certain local laws relating to The Berks County Prison and relating to the Board of Prison Inspectors and Prison Inspectors of said prison.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. MARKS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill b placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 107, entitled:

An Act to amend section eleven of the act, approved the twenty-seventh day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (P. L. 395), entitled "An act empowering the Department of Highways to acquire certain toll bridges within the Commonwealth; providing the procedure therefor; providing for the reimbursement of the Commonwealth from tolls and charges; and making an appropriation," as amended, by providing that such toll bridges heretofore or hereafter acquired by the Department of Highways shall be free bridges from the effective date of this act or from the date they are so acquired.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 251, entitled:

An Act to amend section eleven of the act approved the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2532), entitled "An act to establish funds to provide security for the payment of benefits in event of the insolvency of an insurance carrier authorized to write workmen's compensation insurance in this Commonwealth; and to provide for the administration thereof," by providing that payment of an award from the funds established by said act shall not provide any right of recovery against the employer; and that the employer may pay the award in advance of payment from the fund and shall thereupon be subrogated to the rights of the employe or any other party in interest against the fund.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 364, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the twenty-first day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 566), entitled "A supplement to the act, approved the second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 736), entitled, as amended 'An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment; establishing an elective schedule of compensation; providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder; and prescribing penalties,' as reenacted and amended, providing for the payment of compensation to volunteer firemen or their dependents," amplifying the provisions thereof as to persons entitled to such payments.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Workmen's Compensation for the purpose of further study.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 50, entitled:

An Act to repeal section four hundred eight of the act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith."

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 1, page 2, line 7, by striking out the words "repealed absolutely" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "amended to read as follows:

Section 408. The board of school directors shall exercise general supervision over the schools of their respective districts [and shall, except in districts having district superintendents or supervising principals, by one or more of their number visit every school in the district at least once a month, and shall cause the report of such visit to be entered on the minutes of the board.]"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second section was read and agreed to.

The title was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend the title, line 1, of title by striking out the word "repeal" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "amend".

Amend the title, page 1, last line of title by inserting after the word "therewith" the following: "relieving school directors of the duty of visiting schools and of making reports thereof."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER

The Speaker. Each member of the House has been given a car sticker by the Chief Clerk. These stickers were supplied by the Department of Property and Supplies as a permit for parking on the plaza in front of the Capitol Building.

Members must have these stickers displayed on their car window—the policemen will not recognize your badge for parking purposes.

There were only a sufficient number of these parking stickers printed to take care of the Mambers of the House and the Senate and each one given out was assigned to the particular Member who received it.

The Department of Property and Supplies has co-operated in every way for the convenience of the members. It is therefore only reasonable that the Members themselves do their part by displaying the parking sticker otherwise there can be no complaint if you are not permitted to park your car—let me repeat badges will not be recognized for parking on the plaza.

Any Member who has not received his parking sticker please see the Chief Clerk. Cars not displaying stickers will be towed away.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. Speaker, I do not seem to have a copy of House Bill 367 in my House folder.

The SPEAKER. Do the members have copies of House Bill 367, Printer's No. 117 in their files?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to call the attention of the Chair to the fact that according to my House Calendar there is no bill after Printer's No. 110. I notice on today's calendar we have quite a few numbers above that, therefore, Mr. Speaker, I call that to your attention.

BILL PASSED OVER

The SPEAKER. For the information of the House, the Chief Clerk advises that due to the public hearing that was held in the hall of the House this morning it was not possible for the Sergeant-at-Arms to file the bills on the Members' desks. We hope they will be filed before we adjourn. House Bill 367 is therefore passed over.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 656, as follows:

An Act to amend the third paragraph of article seven of the act approved the seventh day of March one thousand nine hundred and one (P. L. 20) entitled "An act for the government of cities of the second class" permitting the city treasurer to collect delinquent taxes under the act approved the thirtieth day of March one thousand nine hundred and three (P. L. 106).

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

NAYS 0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 583, as follows:

An Act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Governor to sell and convey two certain plots of land

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The Department of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Governor is hereby authorized and empowered to sell and convey for such price as may be agreed upon two certain adjoining plots of land together with the improvements thereon erected situate in Clearfield County Plot number one containing 1 103 acres located in Lawrence Township adjacent to Clearfield Borough facing River Street and Old Mill Road and plot number two containing .7427 acres located in Lawrence Township adjacent to Clearfield Borough and adjoining rear property line of plot number one facing Old Mill Road title to which plots of ground is in the Commonwealth and to make and execute a deed in the name of the Commonwealth to the purchaser thereof The moneys received as the purchase price of said plots of ground shall be paid into the General Fund of the State Treasury

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, on February 10, Senator Letzler introduced Senate Bill No. 163 which was identical to this bill in every particular, down to the last letter. On February 25th this bill was introduced. The Senate bill passed finally in the Senate on February 17th. The day following, on February 18th, this bill was reported out of committee, on the same day that the Senate bill, identical in every particular, was referred to a committee of the House. I merely call this to the attention of the Members of the House as another very definite and clear example of bill stealing and petty politics. I have no objection to this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, a few minutes ago when this bill was discussed, reference was made to bill stealing. I would like to make a few remarks to the members of the House.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield? Will the gentleman state his question of personal privilege?

Mr. BRETH. I wish to comment on the remarks made a moment ago.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. BRETH. The fact is, Mr. Speaker, I listened to the other side and the minority leader spoke of certain political activity in the House regarding the passage of certain bills. I heard the majority leader answer. At that time I had a sneaking feeling that perhaps the bill that was just passed had something to do with it and I wish to inform the members of this House as to the background of this particular bill.

The bill is very innocent; it is non-partisan; it merely covers the sale of an old garage at Clearfield to the school board of Clearfield for a vocational training school for high school students. To get such a school requires a bill of the legislature. I have been interested in that borough project for some time. Bing a resident, and a life long resident of the city of Clearfield. I was approached last fall and asked if I would introduce such a bill.

For swiftness of action and so that the bill would not be eliminated at this session, either in the Senate or in the House, different members of the school board and other interested citizens contacted me. I said, "I will do all I can because the bill is very close to me, and I would like to see it go through."

In the meantime a Senator from our district, who is not a resident of the borough was probably contacted by the school board in its great desire to have this particular bill put through. Then a rookie, perhaps a very uniformed rookie, perhaps you might say an ignorant rookie, ignorant of the legislative procedure in getting a bill through, I introduced a bill identical with the Senate bill. At the time my bill was introduced the Senate bill was in committee. My bill was reported favorably out of committee. In the meantime I might blame myself for not following the Senate bill but after all, when I take a thing under my wing, it is mine and I will do my best to put it through. My bill was reported out of committee. The Senate bill was sent to the House.

Now, I have been down here long enough to know that a lot of things can happen to a bill that is good and that has no political significance whatever, and they sometimes do happen, so I asked this side of the House to put the bill through and sent it over to the Senate to avoid the death which sometimes comes to good bills. There was nothing political concerning the bill; there is no particular argument except that I was approached and asked to have my bill reported out of committee I can see no occasion for the attack that was made by the gentleman on the other side I can assure the rest of the Members that I am practically non-political except when it comes down to great party principles. Now, have a good laugh on that one. So that I resent the personal attack made upon me for having sponsored this bill, I request this side of the House to put it through. I am willing to stand upon any question that might arise in the future. I thank you.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, before addressing the House I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Clearfield what now happens to his bill.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I am going back to my former remarks and say I don't know. I am just a rookie, and I don't know the procedure. I understand it goes to the Senate.

Mr. WOODSIDE. And does the gentleman know, Mr. Speaker, what else happens in the Senate before it becomes law?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, it will have to be referred to Committee.

Mr. WOODSIDE. And what else, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. BRETH. Beyond that I can't say, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Does the gentleman not know, Mr. Speaker, that in order to become a law it has to be read three times and finally passed?

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I thought the gentleman was referring to what would happen to it in committee.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker. I wonder what the gentleman thinks happened to the Senate bill in committee, and what the Committee will do with it.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, May I interrogate Mr. Woodside?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I understand the gentleman is from Harrisburg.

Mr. WOODSIDE. I am not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BRETH. Then, Mr. Speaker, where is the gentleman from?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I am from the garden spot of Eden, a town by the name of Millersburg.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I am afraid the gentleman is way behind the times. Millersburg? I suppose there is a school down there.

Mr. WOODSIDE. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BRETH. And supposing, Mr. Speaker, that school board wanted to locate a school in the gentleman's district, his residence, would he like to have another Senator from some other part of Dauphin County introduce a bill over his name so that his constituents could jump on him and say, "Why didn't you put that bill through?"

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, if I were interested in getting anything for the people of Millersburg that I felt they were entitled to, I would do everything in my power to get it for them regardless of who is to get the credit for getting it. I have demonstrated that in my legislative career in more than one instance. I say to the gentleman if he is interested in securing for his community that for which he stands, and that is the only thing he is interested in, when this bill came out of committee, if he didn't know that the Senate had passed the bill, which he should have known, he would have moved to refer this bill back to the committee, he would have gone to the Chairman of the committee and said, "Mr. Chairman, there is a bill already through the Senate. Do not let us take a chance of getting this bill jammed through the House. There is already a bill in the Senate and a bill in the House. I don't want to put the Commonwealth to any more expense in printing this bill. I don't want to take any chance in getting this bill passed by the House, and have it lost by having it pickled in the Senate. I want to get this bill through for my community".

I would have endeavored to get the bill through the House. If the gentleman wants political credit, or wants to play politics, that's what he is doing, that's what he is talking about, that's what I have been talking about. It isn't interest in legislation, it isn't the interest of his community; it is the interest of getting political credit. That's what he is interested in. That is all he is interested in.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. BRETH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

I think the gentleman on the other side, Mr. Speaker, was speaking more for the record than for my benefit, because I don't know much about this political game. It seems to me it is a very fine gesture of politics on a very high plane or something like that, which causes the gentleman on the other side to gesticulate and get wrought up over something that I think is pretty simple.

By passing this bill through the House and passing it through the Senate I think it increases the chances of getting something out of it. Now, that is done in all lines of business. It is done by anyone that can do it. I believe in my heart by passing this bill through the House and having it previously passed through the Senate increases the opportunity of having something come out of it to make the bill complete for the Senate and Governor to put it through.

I won't bother to take the time on the floor of this House to go into certain details which are purely local politics, but I could and on provacation I might—that is no threat, it is merely a statement because I understand this bill has passed the House. I understand it is passed by the Senate. It is perfectly O.K. and I thank you for it. I think the borough of Clearfield and the school board should be satisfied and that is all I care about.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and received unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, it is my desire to add a few comments to the record in reply to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside. Last evening I made mention of the fact that in 1939 we had the grand example of stealing of legislation and of bills, and if there are any sinners certainly we found them and saw them in 1939.

I didn't assume for one minute that the disease had been transferred to the Senate, but apparently the Senate and certain Members thereof have been rushing around their respective districts seeking opportunities of introducing legislation beneficial to territories which, while they represent them, do not represent their home land. In other words, we have here an example of an individual Senator quite anxious to ingratiate himself in a certain territory, apparently lacking the courtesy and the decency of approaching the representative from the same town and notifying him of his intention to introduce legislation without suggesting that the Members of the House introduce it himself and offering his support in the Senate. Instead here you have a Senator attempting to grab off such honor as he might get from this particular legislation. What do you think of an individual who steps to the front and tries to justify such activities? I am saying to you members of the House, and to you Mr. Speaker, that is an example of the type of action that the Republican Party has indulged in in the past and is continuing to indulge in. I am saying that Mr. Breth was certainly justified and warranted in introducing legislation taking care of his home town, and I am saying for the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, that he knows, as I know, that if it becomes necessary and essential to protect this particular bill that is now in our committee, that came from the Senate, we will be in a position to pass it.

Incidentally, I think it is an excellent opportunity to find out whether the Senator who introduced this measure is sincerely and honestly interested in the particular measure. If he is, then he will certainly pass the bill that we sent to him. If he is interested in his own power and his own glory, then he will let the bill drop in the Senate and endeavor to see whether we will pass his measure. But I am saying to you Mr. Speaker and members of this House, it is conduct such as is displayed by this Senator that I term reprehensible. I am saying that he owes a courtesy and a duty to a Member of this House to notify him of his intention in introducing legislation.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to unduly prolong this discussion, but I do want to make a few comments on what the gentleman has just said and I ask unanimous consent to address the House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the majority floor leader has made two references to the session of 1937. If he has any examples of where Republicans stole any bill or any sponsorships during the session of 1937, I am sure they have never been brought to my attention or brought up on the floor of the House during the entire session, that any suggestion has been made that bills were stolen.

There may have been some instances of bills that were brought out where that was done, because those things do happen, where people get the same ideas, not even knowing what other people are doing, but they are very rare, and I am certain if they happened in the session of 1937 it was not called to my attention.

In the second place, when you talk about stealing bills or going out of our districts, here in the city of Harrisburg, in an appropriation for the city of Harrisburg, a Democratic member from another county came in and introduced the bill.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. TURNER asked and received unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I had not intended when the gentleman from Monroe last night made his statement about the session of 1939, to answer, because it seemed to me so ridiculous and so far away from the truth that it didn't warrant an answer. However, with the reiteration today of the same statement on the floor of the House it seems to me I am called upon to say that during the session of 1939 the policy of the majority party, the Republican party, was that all bills should be considered in Committee upon their merit, and not upon the question as to whether the Member introducing them was a Member of the Democratic or Republican party. I, therefore, say that any statement to the contrary is absolutely untrue. There is plenty of corraboration for what I say, and those were the specific directions on my part to every Chairman of every Committee of this House during the session of 1939.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to add to the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, for the benefit of those who were not Members in 1939, some of the other Republican activities.

I have not forgotten the occasion when he dismissed the House for a period of two weeks in order to get rid of the Democrats and make arrangements to write their own bills. I haven't forgotten that extraordinary recess of this House to permit the gentleman from Delaware, then Speaker and the then majority leader, the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, to gather together the Republican Members to see that they got all the bills they possibly could, to see that they got organized and to see that the Democrats were out of the way so as not to interfere in your steam rolling process. Those were the activities, and that is the manner in which you moved them. Have you ever seen anything to compare to that? Then you complain, complain because you are given an opportunity to sit in this House, given an opportunity to pass legislation and to be heard. We haven't endeavored to steam roller you and hold you back while we proceed with the work. We have given you the same opportunity every other Member of the House has had, and I am saying that if complaint should arise it should come from this side and not from the other side.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. HARKINS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, as one Democrat who got two bills out of committee last year, the Session of 1939, I want to thank the Republican leadership for the courtesy they extended to me then. I had great success with those two bills. One died over in the Senate and the other the Governor vetoed. So the result was that as far as any legislation was concerned in which my district was interested, it had no legislation passed, because according to my recollection I didn't get any of those bill through. As I recollect my colleague did not get any bills out. I may be wrong in that because I haven't checked lately. However, I think if we would take out the past histories and read down the names, as we scan the pages, if we look at the 1939 histories, we will find that the bills that stayed in committee, invariably the sponsors of those bills were Democrats. I rather think we are wasting a lot of time crying about these bills, and the way we are doing it. I rather think we are getting sort of baby-like. The committee of which I happen to be Chairman considered a bill today by a Republican. We considered the same sort of bill in 1937, and at that time we were not able to reach an agreement on the principles involved. Since that time the subcommittee acting on this particular bill today reported favorably, and we reported the bill out.

I don't see that the other side of the House has so much to complain about. When you have good legislation introduced, I think you are going to get it out, and I think if we spend our time working instead of complaining about the fellows on this side we will accomplish much more good.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. DIX asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, it is my intention to speak somewhat on going from one person's county to another, sponsoring bills that should have been sponsored in that particular county, but before I do that I would like to make some comment on what the floor leader had to say in reference to the Republican recess of two years ago.

I remember very well that I was a Member on the committees during that recess and I want to say this, that more Republicans were sent home during that recess than Democrats, as I recall it. Furthermore, in my observation of this session of the House, I think it would be an excellent thing if the floor leader, Mr. Leo Achterman, would send the Democrats and the Republicans home and have a Democratic recess for two weeks so that we would get some legislation under way.

In regard to going into any person's territory, in order to get the records straight, I would like to say that Messrs. Munley and O'Neill went over into my county and sponsored House Bill No. 389, "Authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Governor and the Board of Trustees of the Farview State Hospital to acquire a certain tract of land for the use of said hospital, and making an appropriation therefor."

I never knew that this bill was to be sponsored until after it was in Committee. Now, if there is any charge as to stealing people's bills, I think the same charge can come from the Republican side of the House. Furthermore, the price that was set on land values by Messrs. O'Neill and Munley show that they know nothing about values of land in Wayne County, and didn't know where the land was. Just to get the record straight, Mr. Speaker, I make these remarks.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 692, as follows:

An Act to amend clauses (k) and (l) and to add clause (n) to section two thousand four hundred two of the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 177) entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and the administrative departments boards commissions and officers thereof including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools or Teachers Colleges abolishing creating reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments boards and commissions defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers and of the several administrative departments boards commissions and officers fixing the salaries of the Governor Lieutenant Governor and certain other executive and administrative officers providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments boards and commissions and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments boards and commissions shall be determined" as added by the act approved the twenty-first day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1865) is hereby amended to read as follows clause (1) of said section as added by the act approved the sixteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and forty (Act No 7) is hereby amended to read as follows and said section is hereby further amended by adding at the end thereof a new clause to read as follows

Section 2402 Grounds Buildings and Monuments in General The Department of Property and Supplies shall have the power and its duty shall be

* * * *

[(k)] (1) To establish standards for and supervise generally the operation of all mechanical and electrical equipment used in connection with the operation of any State institution or other State building

[(1)] (m) To supervise the work of employes of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board who are employed by the board for the cleaning care preservation and protection of the Northwest Office Building and the furnishings records and other matters therein and for the operation of the mechanical plants in such building

(n) To lease the whole or any part of the Indiantown Gap Military Reservation to the Government of the United States or any branch or agency thereof upon such terms and conditions and for such periods of time as the Adjutant General may prescribe with the approval of the Governor in writing

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I understand that House Bill 692, sponsored by Mr. Welsh and Mr. O'Neill, and the bill following it are both bills which the Department of the Adjutant General have prepared and desire to have passed, and I ask all the Members of the House to vote for them.

Mr. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, I wish to thank the gentleman on the other side for his kindly consideration of these bills.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TURNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, as one who has sat in the Chair on the rostrum and presided over the proceedings of this House, I feel that the Members, the employes and the visitors are being extremely unfair to the Speaker. I am confident that our Speaker is making every effort to conduct the proceedings of this House in an orderly fashion and to maintain the high standards that have been set in the past. Therefore, it seems to me that the members of this House ought to have a sense of responsibility obligation to the Speaker and some feeling for him. It is not easy to preside over this House with its large membership, where necessarily there is a certain amount of confusion, but certainly there is no good reason for the business of this House to be disturbed by the constant passage of visitors to and fro past the desks of the Members, and constant conversation on the sidelines with members. We as Members ought to do everything we can do to help the man in the Chair. As I said before, his is a difficult job to perform, and I know, and sincerely believe that he is doing the best he can to give this House the finest kind of administration. So let us do our best to prevent visitors from coming along and sitting beside us. In deference to him, you ought to ask the visitor to retire. When visitors come to the rail and want to talk to you in the rear of the House, there is a conference room provided for that purpose. Take your friends there. It is your duty to cooperate in this matter and help the Speaker, just as much as it is the Speaker's job to try to help the Members of the House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the former Speaker for his very timely remarks.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 401, as follows:

An Act to further amend section five hundred eleven of the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 177) entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and the administrative departments boards commissions and officers thereof including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools or Teachers Colleges abolishing creating reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments boards and commissions defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers and of the several administrative departments boards commissions and officers fixing the salaries of the Governor Lieutenant Governor and certain other executive and administrative officers providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments boards and commissions and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments boards and commissions shall be determined" appropriating to the Department of Military Affairs the proceeds of the sale of certain products to be expended for the Indiantown Gap Military Reservation

Section 1 Section five hundred eleven of the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 177) entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and the administrative departments boards commissions and officers thereof including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools or Teachers Colleges abolishing creating reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments boards and commissions defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers and of the several administrative departments boards commissions and officers fixing the salaries of the Governor Lieutenant Governor and certain other executive and administrative officers providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments boards and commissions and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments boards and commissions shall be determined" as amended by section one of the act approved the twenty-first day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1865) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 511 Sale and Transfer of Surplus Products All departments boards and commissions may sell for the best price obtainable but not less than the current market price for similar products any surplus products of the soil meats live stock timber or other materials raised or grown upon or taken from property of the Commonwealth administered by such departments boards or commissions or their by-products respectively Transfers may be made of such products by and between State institutions under the control and management of such departments boards or commissions

As used in this section "surplus" shall mean products meats live stock timber or other materials or their by-products respectively which cannot conveniently and economically be used in connection with the proper maintenance of the institution park or other property administered by the department board or commissions involved but under no circumstances shall live trees be cut for sale unless and until the Department of Forests and Waters has approved the cutting of such trees and no sales or transfers shall be made under this section by any department administrative board or commission without the approval of the department with which such board or commission is connected.

The proceeds of the sale of any products of the soil meats live stock timber or other materials sold by any department board or commission under the provisions of this section shall be paid into the State Treasury through the Department of Revenue and credited to the General Fund unless the expenses of such department board or commission are paid wholly or mainly out of a special fund in which case such proceeds shall be credited to the proper special fund and except that any such proceeds of sale paid into the State Treasury through the Department of Revenue by the Department of Military Affairs shall be credited to the Department of Military Affairs and may be expended by the Department of Military Affairs for the maintenance and improvement of the Indiantown Gap Military Reservation or buildings thereon or for the benefit and comfort of troops thereat or for the acquiring of additional land or trespass rights or the erection of buildings thereat and for such purposes are hereby appropriated Any questions arising hereunder shall be determined by the Governor and his decision shall be certified to the Department of Revenue and the Treasury Department

Every department board or commission which sells or transfers any product of the soil meats live stock timber or other materials under the provisions of this section shall keep an accurate record of the dates quantities and prices of all sales or transfers which record shall at all times be subject to audit by the Department of the Auditor General.

The Executive Board shall prescribe rules and regulations prescribing the manner in which transfers shall be made under this section

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 553, as follows:

An Act to amend section twenty-two of the Act approved the seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. L. 403) entitled "An act relating to the form execution revocation and interpretation of wills to nuncupative wills to the appointment of testamentary guardians to spendthrift trusts to forfeiture of devise or legacy in case of murder of testator to elections to take under or against wills and to the recording and registering of such elections and of decrees relative thereto and to the fees therefor" by providing for forfeiture of the right to take property under the will of a murdered testator

Section 1 The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts That section Twenty-two of the act approved the seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. L. 403) entitled "An act relating to the form execution revocation and interpretation of wills to nuncupative wills to the appointment of testamentary guardians to spendthrift trusts to forfeiture of devise or legacy in case of murder of testator to elections to take under or against wills and to the recording and registering of such elections and of decrees relative thereto and to the fees therefor" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 22 (A) No person who shall be finally adjudged guilty either as principal or accessory of murder of the first or second degree shall be entitled to take any part of the real or personal estate of the person killed as devisee or legatee or otherwise under the will of such person

(B) Upon petition of any interested party averring that such a person who seeks or through whom it is sought to take any property under the will of a testator was a principal or accessory in the murder of the testator either in the first or second degree the Orphans' Court if it determines according to law that it is impossible or impracticable for any person to try in a competent court of this Commonwealth and finally acquit or convict such person of the murder shall further determine whether or not such person was guilty beyond a reasonable doubt as averred in the petition and its final adjudication of guilt shall have the effect hereinbefore set forth but shall not be deemed an adjudication of guilt for any other purpose Any interested party may appeal to the Supreme Court from the decision on this question.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 136, as follows:

To further amend section four and to amend section nine of the act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1198) entitled "An act relating to employes and organizations thereof defining labor disputes prescribing the procedure by which and the conditions under which injunctions may be granted in such disputes and the scope thereof declaring certain undertakings and promises between employers and employes contrary to public policy and void prescribing the nature of proof necessary in actions arising out of labor disputes against persons or associations prescribing the terms and conditions for bonds to be furnished prior to the issuance of injunctions prescribing the procedure in case of appeal from granting injunctions limiting the duration of temporary and permanent injunctions in case of labor disputes and providing for the payment of costs and repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith" by extending the provisions thereof to certain additional cases and allowing courts to issue restraining orders in certain cases

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section four of the act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1198) entitled "An act relating to employes and organizations thereof defining labor disputes prescribing the procedure by which and the conditions under which injunctions may be granted in such disputes and the scope thereof declaring certain undertakings and promises between employers and employes contrary to public policy and void prescribing the nature of proof necessary in actions arising out of labor disputes against persons or associations prescribing the terms and conditions for bonds to be furnished prior to the issuance of injunctions prescribing the procedure in case of appeal from granting injunctions limiting the duration of temporary and permanent injunctions in case of labor disputes and providing for the payment of costs and repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith" as amended by the act approved the ninth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 302) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally

Mr. JAMES. Mr. Speaker, the history of the legislation which this bill would effect is such that it becomes immediately obvious that the present bill under consideration is designed to throw something in the way of a sop to labor, and by the same token I believe that anybody who stands here and opposes this bill may be made a martyr of Labor's displeasure. However, I sincerely believe that in proposing this legislation, those who have put it before this body have done labor a distinct disservice. I believe in many cases those men who feel that they are going to stand behind this measure recognize that fact. I feel that has been very evident in this House because of the length of time it has taken the Democratic party to call this bill up when it was on the calendar for second reading.

Last night when this bill passed second reading and was amended, it was clearly recognized then by the Democratic majority that they had made a collosal error in taking out all the legislation that the session of 1939 enacted with reference to the so-called anti-injunction law. A pathetic effort was made to soften down this measure by fooling around fiddling with the colorful and spectacular provision that the bill contained, namely the provision that had to do with "sit-down" strikes.

It was said here last night in debate that labor did not want the "sit-down" strike. I am quite willing to believe that when we consider the man who works with his hands, when we consider the man who has a job to take care of and a family to support with that job, but I am entirely unwilling still to believe that that is true of that white collar section of labor that lives not by labor but on labor.

I am particularly concerned with the amendment as it was adopted last night concerning the "sit-down" strike situation. I am concerned with other provisions of this bill which are equally iniquitous.

In the first place, I am willing to admit that in 1937 legislation such as was enacted was probably past due labor. Even so it has not beclouded dissertations on the subject to the effect that in the past labor has had a very great case before the public. It was entirely just and entirely proper in my opinion that that should be taken into consideration and remedial legislation enacted, and be it said to the credit of the Democratic party at that time, they undertook to provide a remedy for those long existing evils. But, gentlemen, that remedy was not sufficient. It was soon discovered it was not sufficient. As a matter of fact the records show that immediately upon the enactment of that 1937 legislation there was a strike jump in Pennsylvania of such colossal proportions that there is no record of its equal and probably never will be. In that year there were 344 strikes involving 196,436 persons. I do believe sincerely we can attribute that tremendous record of strikes as almost entirely due to the fact that the 1937 legislation made no provision whatever for common justice and common equality, and did not take into consideration the other side of the economic picture in the state which, of course, is industry. In 1939 proper recognition was made by the then Republican majority in this House of the need for further remedial legislation, and to our way of thinking it has been proven and born out by the fact that the 1937 legislation was amended so as not to destroy anything whatever that labor had gained, but to include also the rights of industry and the rights of capital.

That word "rights" is kicked around an awful lot by labor. Then why should there be such an outcry in recognizing too that there are rights to be observed on the other side of this economic picture?

To give an instance of what 1939 legislation may have furnished the people of Pennsylvania in the way of labor peace, there were only 176 strikes in this state, involving only 28,202 people, and in 1940 there were only 199 strikes involving only 56,435 people. I submit that as a record that does contribute something to the value of legislation which was adopted by the session of 1939, and which it is sought here now to repeal.

I have thought a little about the "sit-down" strike situation which has been, as was said last night, one half improved in the legislation that is now before us for final passage. But that leaves out of the law of Pennsylvania, if this bill is passed, some things which always are and always will be of equal importance to any thing like the sit-down strike situation. It would leave out the provision to prohibit acts which would cause a breach or violation of a valid contract, entered into in accordance with the terms of the National or State Labor Relations act. It would also leave out this vitally important thing today, where a majority of the employes have not joined a labor organization, or where two or more labor organizations are competing for membership of employes, and a course of conduct is engaged in which is intended or calculated to coerce the employer, or to compel the workers or employes to become members of any particular labor organization.

Gentlemen of the House, on Saturday night, the 15th day of this month, the President of the United States, from Washington, brought to this entire nation and to every part of the world, a message which was unique, and which has been, I think, well understood by all of us. In that message, and in rather a flash of genius, the President came nearer, in my opinion, to securing a unity of thought and a unity of purpose throughout this land, and he made clear, as he has never done before, just where he is leading this country. He took occasion at that time, it will be remembered, to say in a very firm but somewhat guarded way, that he would expect certain things of industry, but he was no less firm and somewhat less guarded when he said what he will expect of labor.

Gentlemen, I submit we are now in a position in this country where there is nothing we can do but follow the leadership of the President of the United States, and along with that submission and following of that leadership I believe the Legislature of Pennsylvania should not withdraw from it's laws those measures which will tend to prevent and discourage what he termed unnecessary strikes.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say just a few words that I left out in my remarks last night. First, I want to emphasize that the American labor movement is going to follow President Roosevelt in his program to protect this country and to protect the conditions we are enjoying today.

I want to emphasize further on the injunction question one point, and that is this; injunctions were issued against labor for one particular purpose, which of course was under cover, and that was to break down the morale of that striker, and scare him into going back to work at the bid of the management, who forced him out on strike, due to the amount of wages and the rotten working conditions under which this workman had to work. He had no hearing, no opportunity for a hearing, he knew if he opened his mouth it was jail for him under the injunction. That is the main reason why labor has always fought for a hearing the same as everybody else wants. We want to know whether or not in accordance with the principles of our government a man can be sent to jail although innocent. It is not the labor movement that is alone at fault. We have employers who are so hungry for profits that they have no respect for the livelihood of the workers. That today, gentlemen is responsible for most of the strikes that are in progress at this moment.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I did not want to arise in defense of this bill and I do it at this time in answer to a statement by the gentleman from Delaware referring to the men who he said lived on labor.

I say in answer to the gentleman from Delaware that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in fact the entire nation, under the courageous and conscientious leadership of our great President of the United States has been made this a much happier place in which to live, because the men who have led labor in the past twenty-five or thirty years in this country are men of outstanding ability, honesty and integrity.

I would question the gentleman from Delaware when he talks of men who have lived on labor, whether he means Tom Kennedy, the former Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania, whether he means Phillip Murray, at present the head of one of the outstanding labor unions in America, or whether he means our own James McDevitt, the head of the American Federation of Labor in the state of Pennsylvania?

I would say to the gentleman from Delaware that he makes a grave error in believing that legislation of this type, which it is not denied is sponsored and agreed to by the foremost labor leaders in the labor movement in America to-day, and it is not denied that these men are not, as he calls it, living on labor but are men who are fighting for labor along with our great President.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I resent the expression of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. James, that in this piece of legislation we are throwing a sop to labor. We are only doing what we feel is due and just to labor in this particular case. All we are asking for is a hearing before the granting of an injunction in a case of labor dispute. That is all this repealer and the amendment last night amounts to in this particular bill.

I want to comment further on his remarks in which he spoke of men living on labor. I have been in the labor movement since 1919. I have never been on the payroll of labor, but I have always worked for mine. I sincerely believe in labor because I think I have received much benefit from labor. We have gotten away from the sweat shops; we have much improved working conditions, and our labor standards have been increased, and these better conditions have been due entirely to the efforts of such men as Green, McDevitt, John Phillips and Phillip Murray. I submit that these men are not living on labor but they are working for labor and are making every effort that they possibly can to better the conditions of labor, whether it be in Pennsylvania or anywhere else in the United States of America.

The gentleman mentioned how many strikes occurred in the year 1937. I will grant the gentleman from Delaware that there were many strikes in 1937, but I ask him can he point his finger to labor and say that labor was the cause of those strikes? Those strikes were caused because industry in Pennsylvania and industry in the United States of America refused to recognize the National Labor Relations Act and also our State Labor Relations Act. They were the ones who contributed to that great percentage of strikes that were in that time in existence.

The gentleman referred to the amendments that were offered in the 1939 Legislature. Yes, we had an election in 1938 and of course, the Republicans came into this House with a majority, and just as soon as they took over the work of the majority party, they were not here to do what was right, but they were here to get revenge because they thought the greater part of the men who work in the mines and the steel mills had not voted for them. I further say, Mr. Speaker, due entirely to their actions they were again ripped out of office last year upon the re-election of the President of the United States, our great leader Franklin D. Roosevelt, and when we gave to this House a Democratic majority I say they were the greatest contributors to our success. We have always said that Governor James was the best campaign manager we ever had.

I might say in 1937 there was passed through the House and Senate a labor anti-injunction bill. In 1939 we came into the Legislature and we had an anti-labor injunction bill. Now we are trying to put it back to the place where it will be a labor anti-injunction bill. This type of legislation was much needed in our Commonwealth, as the State Police and the courts were the two greatest obstacles to freedom of speech and assemblage in our Commonwealth. They were used to stifle organizations, they were used to retard the labor movement in the state of Pennsylvania. The dreams of the working people were realized in 1937, but they were short lived, because of the fact that in 1939 they had a great portion of this particular bill taken away from them. There is no doubt in the campaign of 1938 when they spoke of the threatened bonfire, that the labor anti-injunction which turned out to be the anti-labor injunction bill was the greatest flare of all, it made the greatest blaze and it threw the greatest heat. Of course, they have felt the result of that paricular piece of legislation.

I might say in the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. James, he mentioned coercion. I might call his attention to subsection (b) of section four where in that particular bill, simple as it looks, all an employer had to do was to leave it to the courts, and an injunction was granted immediately without a hearing. All he had to do was to form a dual organization in his particular plant. That meant if Mr. Phillips or Mr. McDevitt went down to a steel plant to organize the workers, all that an employer had to do was to get his stool pigeons together and form a dual organization. He would then run to the courts and present a petition for an injunction saying they were interfering with the production of his plant. The net result would be, injunction granted, no hearing. That is what we are trying to do here today. We are asking that labor be given a hearing in this particular case. In subsection (c) it mentions coercion. It is question as to who interprets that particular word as to what coercion might be. According to the interpretation of the gentlemen on the other side, I might say some of them believe all that coercion meant was pointing a finger at somebody while standing on a picket line at a struck plant. It might be the asking of a question of a person as to whether or not they would join a labor organization, whether or not they would cross a picket line to go to their work. They go right into court and say, "You are coercing the workers," or "You are coercing the employer," to force him to grant you your rights in this particular case.

We believe that hearings should be held in all these types of cases. Therefore, feeling that labor would be justified in this feeling that the persons who aided the leaders and who are as much interested or even a lot more interested in our democracy than some of the industrialists, I do not know why in the world anybody would come into the House in 1939 and try to strip labor of the things that are good for them.

As I stand here, I also recall the remarks of the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Gates, the other evening, when he talked about pressure I was anxious also to speak on that particular thing the other night, but being a first termer in 1939, I recall very vividly the vote that was taken on the amendment on work time for women, and also in this particular case of the labor anti-injunction bill. I remember very vividly there were about five gentlemen walked into this House after that particular bill had been defeated by a vote of 89 for and 90 against, when we as Members desired to walk to the rostrum, it was necessary that we get a permit, but I noticed that on this particular night these privileged gentlemen, who were not Members of the House, came in and walked up to the rostrum and asked for a recess. They also asked at that time for a caucus of the Republican Members. Of course, they took the boys up into the caucus room and they singled them out. They wanted to know why they were opposed to this particular bill. They used pressure, as the gentleman from Armstrong stated. I can recall very vividly when we crossed them up in the debate on that particular bill, after it was called back for reconsideration, when the question came before the House, there were a great many Republican Members who left their seats. Of course, they did not have 105 votes all told. I was standing at that time at this particular microphone. Our floor leader said, 'Yield the floor and ask for a roll-call.' The clerk proceeded to call the roll. He called about seven names, if I remember right, when the Speaker noticed there were not enough Members in their seats to pass the bill. He said, "Will the clerk yield. He then called the sergeant-at-arms, the page-boys and posted guards at the door so that nobody could escape. I remember very vividly the gentleman sitting over there, Mr. Fleming, trying to get out of this door at the rear of the hall. I saw that. I also noticed the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Stockham, standing over there, and he grabbed the gentleman from Allegheny and said, "You must get back in your seat and vote on this bill." I will give you gentlemen an opportunity to deny that if you care to do so. That is the truth. We may as well have the matter over. I remember that the gentleman from Allegheny did go back to his seat and he voted for the bill. All right, they passed that bill. Now, I am telling you, gentlemen, it was always questionable with the members on this side as to whether or not they had 105 votes, but after the clerks up there sat and figured for ten or fifteen minutes, if I recall the matter correctly, they came out and said there were 106 votes while we thought there were only 101. Now we are trying to restore what was stolen in the 1939 session, and I ask all the Members of the House to vote "yea" on this particular bill.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I always get a great kick out of listening to my friend, Mr. Williams, from Washington County either upon the floor of the House or in Committee. I always like the thought that he is very positive and sure of himself in the first place. In the second place he always has a rather frank and good humored way of stating things.

However, we are not here, as I understand it engaged in the discussion of the 1939 session or of its idiosyncracies, failures or successes. Naturally we were able to muster a vote and get our Members in their seats, which I do not mind saying the Democrats have great trouble in doing. I remember one time Mr. Andrews, very conveniently, when the House was rather small called for a quorum. Page boys and sergeant-at-arms were sent to hotels and restaurants to get the Members back to their seats. I do not know whether that is coercion or not but it is parliamentary, legislative and political procedure.

I have been here in this House for a good many years. I have survived a lot of Democrats and they never worried me very much. You know it is just like the post man said, he could not deliver the mail if he would stop to kick at every barking dog. I always sort of feel that way too. We have tried to deliver the mail and not worry very much what the fellows on the other side said. I would like to go on and say that some things seem to me very funny about the proceedings here today, some of the complaints and some of the statements made on the other side of the House, but that is not the issue. The issue before us today is really one of the most important things that will confront this legislature in the present crisis in which this nation is involved. I am certain that we are facing one of the most vital questions before the people of Pennsylvania, herein this great armory of the nation, here in this state where we have already been given more defense orders than any other state, here in this state where they are, as I understand it, in contact with the state officials and with our industry, pleading with them from Washington to keep things moving and to keep the ball rolling in this state, which is to meet the greatest burden of all the states on the question as to whether or not whether America shall be armed. I know the people of our country are interested in this defense program, whether they be laboring men, white collared men or whether they be professional men or whether they be others of our citizens who will live from some other source in this Commonwealth of ours, where the people have said we must lend our aid to Britain as much as it is possible to do so, where speed is of the essence of time, and where we certainly are meeting an important issue. Strikes are not the issue before us at the present moment. In the attempt to amend the 1939 act, I believe the Democratic Party is making a false attempt to woo labor, because I sincerely believe, and feel that those of you on the other side of the House who know me, realize when I say so, that I sincerely believe what I am saying, that you are not benefiting labor. I sincerely believe that you are destroying the rights which later labor will wish had not been destroyed.

Let us look at the act of 1937 about which the gentleman from Washington has spoken, and by the way, Mr. Speaker, it is rather interesting to me to note, I picked up the Journal and I saw that the last time I spoke on this bill I interrogated a gentleman who was sitting on the rostrum this morning. The gentleman from Luzerne Mr. Yourishin. Is asked him what was the necessity of this, in view of the labor relations act that had been passed, and he said, "Well, labor had the right to strike and it needed the protection." I am afraid that my young friend from Washington in his zeal, and I am amazed that some of the expert lawyers, have not taken the time to study the act of 1937 or the act of 1939, and then what are we trying to do under this bill that is before us today.

Section 6 of the Act of 1937 says:

> "No court of this Commonwealth shall have jurisdiction or power in any case involving or growing out of a labor dispute to issue any restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction which, in specific or general terms, restrains or prohibits any person association or corporation from doing, whether singly or in concert with others, notwithstanding any promise, contract or agreement to the contrary, any of the following acts."

This is not to be construed as authorizing injunctions in any other case. What does that mean? In a number, of what we might say are relatively harmless situations that might arise, the courts have no power to issue a temporary or permanent injunction unless as this section says, there is some violence or fraud or something of that kind.

It is amazing to note, if you study this act, that section 7 goes on to say:

> "No court of this Commonwealth shall have jurisdiction or power in any case involving or growing out of a labor dispute to issue a restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction."

It then goes on to say, upon the ground that there has been violence, the very thing that in section 6 it says, unless there was violence in the case you could not issue an injunction. It goes on in section 7 to say, even if there is trouble you cannot issue an injunction.

Let us look at section 9 which you are amending, it says:

> "No court of this Commonwealth shall issue any restraining order or a temporary or a permanent injunction in any case involving or growing out of a labor dispute, except at the hearing of testimony of witnesses in open court (with opportunity for cross examination) in support of the allegations of a complaint made under oath and testimony in opposition is offered, and except at the findings of fact by the court to the effect...."

That is, the court has got to find the facts, before it can issue this restraining order, that unlawful acts have been threatened, and then it goes on with a list of things, and if the court finds those facts to be true there isn't any place where the courts can issue an injunction. You cannot find the kind of an act that the court might restrain unless the court itself violates the law. Section 6 says you can issue a restraining order if certain things are so except in certain cases. Then section 7 says you cannot do that either because if there is violence or fraud you cannot do it.

Section 9 sets up a list of specifications of fraud, and the court cannot issue a restraining order unless it finds those facts. They are so extensive and voluminous that there is no place where they can find an opportunity for a restraining order. What do you do? The gentleman from Allegheny Mr. Brown, last night offered an amendment which would relieve the section of that provision as to "sit down" strikes. I think we now know that a lot of the brothers on the other side have awakened to the fact that that was rather indefensible. I think the amendment that was put before this House is a fraud and a deception on the membership of this House and on the people of Pennsylvania. I think you men on the other side of the House were being fooled when you voted in favor of an amendment that does not mean a thing, because the amendment is section 9, and it only provides one further thing that the court has to find before the court can issue an injunction. It has to find as a matter of fact that there was a "sit-down" strike.

Now then you say before there should be an order issued you ought to have an opportunity to be heard. On the other hand, you say you are opposed to the "sit down" strikes, that labor is opposed to them. All right. What is the procedure in the courts in an injunction proceeding? You go in by affidavit. The court makes you file a bond. The court generally does not issue immediately a preliminary injunction. It generally gives notice to the other side that it will be heard tomorrow or the day after, depending upon the circumstances presented to the court. But suppose the court did issue this restraining order, saying that you are restrained from a "sit down" strike. If you are not having the "sit down" strike you are not hurt in any way. You are being restrained from something you are not doing. If you are having a "sit down" strike, to which you are opposed, there would arise a situation where you ought to be restrained. Therefore, the intent of what you are trying to do really is not sincere. If you say you are against "sit down"strikes then there is no reason for the amendment that has been introduced except to throw up a smoke screen to try to fool the people. I am sure that you are against "sit down" strikes, and I am sure that labor is against "sit down" strikes.

Let me repeat that again, because I have had some difficulty in getting some of my colleagues to understand what I mean. If there is a restraining order what would the courts be restraining? Would it be a "sit down" strike or violence or damage done to the plant? If labor is not doing any damage to the plant a restraining order cannot hurt it. If labor is doing damage by a "sit down" strike, and you say you are opposed to it, therefore the net result is the same, so why this amendment?

This amendment is worse than that. This amendment does not do what the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown has said. This is not a half loaf that was taken away. This says before the court can issue any kind of a restraining order, it not only has to find the fact that there is a "sit down" strike but it has to find every other provision enumerated in section nine of the acts of 1937. In the 1939 session we tried to be fair; we tried to amend this act in such a way that it would be fair to both labor and the employer, as we believed there should be justice on one side as well as on the other. If labor makes that mistake and tries to gain some advantage for themselves they will have nobody to blame but themselves because it will mean that pendulum eventually swings back hard on the other side.

What did we do under the 1939 act? We permitted the court to issue an injunction with certain limitations. In fact there were four cases mentioned which would cause a breach or violation of a valid contract entered into in accordance with the terms of either the national or state labor relations act. The state labor relations act permitted them by collective bargaining to enter into a contract with an employer. Don't you think it is fair both to labor and to the employer to say that you can have an injunction to prohibit the conditions which would cause a breach or violation of a valid contract? Certainly we are going to stand by our contract.

The act of 1939 provides as follows:

> "Where a majority of the employes have not joined a labor organization, or where two or more labor organizations are competing for membership of the employes and any labor organization or any of its officers, agents, representatives, employes, or members engages in a course of conduct intended or calculated to coerce an employer to compel or require his employes to prefer or become members of or otherwise join any labor organization...."

Certainly that is not protection of labor. It does not want to coerce an employer into favoring one particular labor organization against another. Labor ought to have free opportunity to compete in any industry. Certainly you cannot object to an injunction to restrain that.

The act of 1939 further provides in section (c) as follows:

> "Where any person, association, employee, labor organization, or any employe, agent, representative, or officer of a labor organization engages in a course of conduct intended or calculated to coerce an employer to commit a violation of the Pennsylvania Labor Relations Act...."

Labor sought in Pennsylvania the Labor Relations Act, and this would permit the restraining of an employer and would permit the restraining of someone engaged in a course of conduct intended to coerce an employer to commit a violation of that act. Certainly it seems to me that is for the protection of labor. It does not want the employer certainly to violate those acts which they sought so hard to have passed and which have become a part of the law of the land.

Mr. Speaker, I am having some difficulty in being heard. If I could talk well enough to keep the members quiet, I would not plead with the Chair for the opportunity to discuss this matter, but as I see it the problem is of so much importance in this present situation that we ought to have the opportunity of saying it in the best way it possibly can be said. I wish this morning that I had greater powers than I have of expression. I have seen a few times in the history of the House where I felt I would like to say things to the Members in a far better way than it is possible for me in my humble capacity to say them, but I am going to attempt to say to you men some of those things that are close to me this morning.

I studied this proposition since last night, and I listened very attentively to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, in his proposal. I tried to follow him, and I tried to follow the gentleman from Washington in his proposed amendment. I was not quite clear just exactly what the gentleman meant. This morning as I sat in my office and endeavored to study this act I began to see the picture and to see that the offering of these amendments was not a sincere attempt to provide those things to prevent "sit-down" strikes, but that the members on the other side were being very much fooled by what had been said to them, and by what labor was attempting to say to them, and what some of the leaders of labor were attempting to say to them. I have watched with a great deal of interest the course of this debate in the last few hours and I have been convinced that some of the leaders of labor are likely to lose for labor that legislation which they have gained in the last few years. I have watched the course of events and the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. James, referred to what the President of the United States said the other day. I have watched the course of events until I have been convinced that the day is not distant when the President of the United States will force upon labor some of those things it does not want. I believe the rank and file of labor generally, as the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Leonard has said, is sincerely a patroit. I believe that the rank and file of labor is not so much interested in all of the "isms" and in the terms and provisions which are written in the name of labor as they are in the desire to have a job, to have some place to work, and to put every effort behind this national defense program. Any man is a fool who believes that the mothers and fathers of this country are going to send their sons into military training, and those who are already there, giving up their lives and giving up every opportunity and subjecting themselves to discipline and regimentation of army life, that those men are going to tolerate a condition that shall prevent or stop or delay the national defense program. I think somebody here on the floor this morning said something about strikes that had occurred. We have a strike in the Bethlehem Steel Plant where two thousand men are saying they won't work, they are going to create a strike, because sixteen thousand men or some part of them are holding some kind of an election. Is that the kind of a labor dispute that the people of America are going to protect? Is that the kind of labor dispute that the men on the other side of the House want to protect with reference to the national defense program in a national emergency such as we have? I cannot believe it. I say to you frankly that labor, when it sacrifices one right, when it sacrifices almost all those benefits and special privileges which they have gained in the past, that labor itself will find that those are the stepping stones upon which dictatorships have been built on the other side, which have destroyed the rights of labor, which have reduced men to a position of serfdom, such as we have not known in all history, in the one hundred and fifty years of struggle by labor during which time labor has made tremendous advance, which gains have been thrown away by the inconsistency and by the unbridled efforts of certain labor leaders to gain control at the same time at the expense of the present emergency. That is the reason why I am so deeply concerned with this act today. That is why I am so deeply concerned with the manner in which you men on the other side of the House handle this matter. It is not a question of Democrats or Republicans, it is a question of labor or somebody else. We have no right in the present emergency under the guidance of the President to set up any class, that is asking for a special privilege and to put them outside the limits of the law? We are subject to a temporary injunction, we are subject to a restraining order. Free men must have a court to which they can go to protect their interests, and labor above every body else should realize that.

This is no time for class, this is no time for party. It is time that we put forth every effort. We have not awakened to it yet. You men have been here now for three months considering a lot of inconsequential legislation.The time may not be long in coming when we may not be able to recognize our present form of government, when in a few years our present conditions will look like a holiday. Let us not, therefore, be bickering here over the question of labor and employer. Let us not be here bickering over the question of whether labor gets its rights. Let us stand upon the fundamental principles that every citizen must have his right before our courts, and that labor should not get any advantage that the other citizens do not have.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, the talk here this afternoon was always with the thought in mind that if the defense program of the United States fails it fails only due to labor. I want to stand here and say to you that if the defense program fails, it will not be through any fault of labor.

The gentleman spoke of a "sit-down" strike. Do you mean to tell this House that every industralist that goes down to Washington with his grip or his brief-case goes down simply for the reason that he wants to protect America? He is the one who is pulling on the "sit-down" strike until he gets from the government the price which he wants for the material that he is giving to our boys to shoot in the guns that we are now using. You say labor is holding up the defense program. I am telling you that one of your greatest automobile factories in the United States was the first to defy the President of the United States. I mean the Ford Motor Company. They were the first not to agree to go along with the defense program. It was not labor. When you wave this flag of patriotism, and, by the way, I think I can wave it too because I have applied for my commission back in the army which I held in the last world war and I hope to be in the service after the session closes, but if you wave that flag, don't wave it with the thought in mind that only the industralists of the United States are Americans. The industralists of the United States today have started more "sit-down" strikes against the government and the government's defense program than any labor union has in the United States. It is due to the propaganda that is now being fed to Americans in our press, and I say to you the time is now ripe for us not to be one sided. We are not one sided. We are going to see the side of labor as well as the industralists, who through their propaganda are trying to sell the people of the United States on the proposition that all labor disputes are caused by labor, when if we went behind the fence, we would find that most of the labor disputes were caused by thick-headed industralists, who want to go back to the dark ages which were wiped out after 1932.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I just want to answer some of the remarks and assist my able attorney on the other side, Mr. Turner. As I said here last night, the intelligentsia have finally found themselves in a position where they don't know what to do next, especially in this particular act. The attorneys have told me it is a fake, it has always been a fake, there is sufficient law to govern these things without this particular law. Now, it is time that we come down to earth and not try to kid the people.

I have pleaded in this House with the members of this House to try to protect the form of government we have. Who has failed? The courts have failed. They were granted under the law the power of injunction. They abused that power because they saw dollar signs. It was proven that they were found on the preferred list. For years and years and years the white collar man has lived on the back of industry and bathed in the sunshine of Florida, while the workers were denied the right in this country up until 1932 of even organizing into organizations for their own protection.

Now, those are the facts, gentlemen that we must face in this issue. I say to you that the President of the United States in the last week or so, did not only say to labor but he said to industry, "You must cooperate in order to protect the form of government we now have". He did not emphasize one side or the other. Industry has just as much responsibility as labor. That is the reason why we say to you today that we should repeal the acts that gave the courts the power that they misused in the past. You men do not deny that. You know there were times when injunctions were granted and when men were clubbed on the head when it was unnecessary. Those are the things that we are facing today in fighting for legislation, to give back to the people of the country the right to be guided.

My friends, I say to you we haven't any right to expect labor to do any more than we ask industry to do, and that is the reason we are repealing these acts, because the courts have failed in the powers that were handed to them for the protection of the people, but they protected only the almighty dollar.

I say to you, give labor the right to stand up on its own feet; let us go along with the President of the United States without being hamstrung by the courts or by anybody else. This is the day when men must march in the interest of their country and in the interest of their form of government, and I ask you to support this bill and tear down any obstacles in the way of labor or anybody else in this country. I thank you.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I would like to address the House for a few minutes on this bill. It was not my intention to say anything in regard to this bill but certain statements have been made in reference to labor and in reference to the bill itself which I feel called upon to answer. I would like to read an editorial and make some remarks in regard to this so-called injunction bill. I have heard the name of President Roosevelt mentioned here several times, and I want to say as far as injunctions are concerned President Roosevelt has issued the largest and most drastic injunction in the history of all times. He has issued an injunction to four million young men to appear in the army barracks at one dollar per day, while another four million are able to pickup the profits from that labor. I have had a great many people come to me and say, "Dix why don't you say something in the House in regard to the boys and girls working for one dollar a day, and these fellows working in the barracks for five, ten, fifteen, or twenty dollars a day?" I said to them I could probably say something in the House but before we could get a bill through the House the barracks would be built and the men would have the money.

I understand that up to date in Indiantown Gap, for instance, in a great many instances before a man can get any job he had to pay some walking delegate or some labor leader twenty-five or fifty or seventy-five dollars. Nobody seems to know why, and an investigation might be in order. Nobody seems to know how much they will have to pay, but I do not believe there is a man in this House who feels that is just as far as the unions are concerned. I believe they did very good work up until five or six years ago. Then they became arrogant, many of them just the same as the capitalists became arrogant. There were just as arrogant labor leaders as there were capitalists. In my own business, in the mechanical department, my men were members of the union for a great many years. I encouraged them to join a union, so that I am not opposed to labor unions. But I am opposed to arrogant labor leaders, I am opposed to grafting labor leaders; I am opposed to unions who permit their men to collect twenty-five, fifty or seventy-five dollars for the privilege of working on a government project.

In that connection, Mr. Speaker, I would like to read some editorials which I have. Here is an editorial from a democratic newspaper. I believe it is the Harrisburg Patriot. The article in that paper reads as follows:

> Congressman Smith of Virginia last week lost his fight to make it possible for an American to help defend his Country without paying an initiation fee to a labor union, but he did not lose his determination to bring the issue home to Congress at every opportunity.
> "American workingmen will some day thank Congressman Smith for his battle for free and equal opportunity to work without paying tribute to anybody. Alluding to the twenty-three dollar union admission fee which common laborers must pay in some instances to work on Government defense contracts, saying nothing of the fifty and one hundred and fifty dollar charges imposed up the scale the Virginian declared——"

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his point of order.

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not discussing the question before the House.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I am discussing it as well as anybody else has discussed it.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. The gentleman will confine himself to the question before the House.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I think I am discussing it as well as anybody else has.

Mr. Speaker, alluding to the twenty-three dollar union admission fee, I will continue on with the editorial;

"Alluding to the twenty-three dollar union admission fee which common laborers must pay in some instances to work on government defense contracts, saying nothing of the fifty and one hundred and fifty dollar charges imposed up the scale, the Virginian declared"——

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his point of order.

Mr. RUSH. Mr. Speaker, I still insist that the gentleman is not discussing the question before the House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has been very lenient during the discussion on this bill, and would ask the gentleman from Wayne to confine himself to the subject before the House.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I think both the Republican and the Democratic sides of the House have wandered pretty much all over the earth, and they finally got back to the subject of injunction, and if you will permit me I will get back to the subject of injunction very shortly.

The editorial from that Democratic paper goes on to say:

"No man ought to be compelled to join any organization in order to work for his country. Just how sound that statement is may occur to some workmen in the light of what would happen should the Communists, the Nazis or the Facists get the upper hand in this country."

Here is another article along the same line, which goes to back up the statement that I have just made. It is from the New York Herald Tribune of the issue of February 27, 1941 which says:

> "The House Judiciary Committee had before it on Tuesday a witness named R. B. Wickiser, who had been employed as a steam shovel foreman in the construction of an Army camp in California until discharged for failure to pay further installments on his initiation fee to Local 12, of the International Union of Operating Enginners, A. F. of L. He had paid thirty dollars, he told the committee, on filing his application to join the union, but, on finding that he was supposed to pay two dollars a week until the total reached sixty-three dollars and eighty-five cents, he refused. The contracting company, his employer, urged him to make peace with the union, he said, but when he failed to do so fired him. Asked who was paying his expenses to appear before the committee he replied that the boys on the job had made up a purse to which union members had contributed. These men, he declared, want some protection against this continual buying of a job. . . . If the government is going to make them join the union it ought to protect them."

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I do not know what the Chair's interpretation of the word "lenient" is, but the gentleman from Wayne is not speaking on the subject or upon anything relevant to the subject. We are discussing a bill that has to do with one act of the General Assembly and an amendment thereto, and the gentleman is reading from an editorial concerning union dues. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that is not relevant to the subject.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. The gentleman from Wayne will confine himself to the question before the House. The Chair has been very lenient with the gentleman from Wayne, and the gentleman from Wayne should respect the ruling of the Chair, and confine himself to the subject before the House. The gentleman will proceed in order.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, do I understand in regard to injunctions that the gentleman from Philadelphia wishes to issue an injunction against free speech here.

The SPEAKER. Freedom of speech also involves obedience to all the rules of the House in debate. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, free speech is a constitutional perogative too.

The SPEAKER. So are the rules of the House. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say in regard to this injunction, since I have been cut off from free speech, that I feel that the cart has been placed ahead of the horse. I am in favor of labor having its day in court, and I am in favor of labor having free speech, which the gentleman from Philadelphia denies me. I am in favor of injunctions being prohibited to a certain extent, but I believe that an injunction should be permitted before damage is done and before sabotage can be committed and before destruction of property has occurred. The hearing should take place after that and not before, and for that reason and for that reason alone, Mr. Speaker, I will not vote for this bill.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to answer the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware.

Speaking of the strike at the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, he claims that two thousand employes out of sixteen thousand are causing it. I might say in this particular case the Bethlehem Steel Corporation must assume responsibility for this particular action. The Bethlehem Steel Corporation has defied every law of the land. The Bethlehem Steel Corporation has set itself up as being something bigger than the government of the United States. I believe it is time that they be brought within the jurisdiction of the law. The Bethlehem Steel Corporation has defied the Wagner Labor Relations Act, they have defied the Walsh-Healey Act. They have even defied the Labor Standards Act, and therefore I feel that the members . . .

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. DIX. The gentleman is not speaking on the bill.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I feel I am speaking on the bill. I am answering the gentleman from Delaware who raised the question.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman, the only question before the House is on this bill. The point of order has been raised, and the Chair rules it is well taken.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, as I was saying, in answer to the gentleman from Delaware, I am happy to hear the admission of Mr. James from Delaware, who has finally told us that the minority has submitted to the leadership of the President of the United States; second, the admission of the other gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, that he is delivering all the mail on the other side of the street. We have received no letters from him as far as labor legislation is concerned. We also know in every nation where labor has been abused, whether it be by injunction or otherwise, that nation has fallen. We have seen the conflagration in Europe, we have heard the reports concerning the propoganda in those particular nations. We know now that in Europe the last bulwark of democracy exists in England and in England alone, where labor has been given a fair opportunity and protection by the government. We know that labor in America will be the one who will save our democracy in spite of anything that the Bethlehem Steel Corporation or other violators might care to do

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Wayne will state his point of order.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman certainly is not speaking on this bill any more than I was.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has been trying to be fair to both gentlemen. Both have been ruled out of order.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, it has always been customary, as far as possible, when important measures are being considered to allow as much latitude as possible in debate, always, of course, trying to keep from getting too far afield.

It seems to me the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Rush, was a little over zealous in his point of order and perhaps he is now making it inconvenient for the gentleman from Washington. It seems to me the question should be determined by the Chair now whether we are going to debate the bill or whether we are going to debate all these extraneous questions that arise under the bill. If we are going to debate the bill, we ought to be confined to the questions pertaining to the bill. If we are going to debate other questions which arise with reference to labor disputes, let us have a general free for all on that question and let everybody talk.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, as I was saying my remarks are confined to the effect upon the moral fibre of the working people of Pennsylvania and in this nation through injunction. That is what I was trying to get around to. I say that these things are all relevant to in the remarks I made.

The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, in his remarks raised the question of the strike at Bethlehem Steel Corporation and I was only trying to give an answer, that that corporation has defied every labor standard and every law of this land. They were setting themselves up as being something greater than the government of the United States. Having laws on our statute books and then having an employer defy the law of the land, how can the workers of this nation and of this Commonwealth have the moral fibre to carry on when they see ruthless acts of this kind. I want to answer the gentleman because of the fact that he raised this question.

He also made a remark concerning "sit-downs." I might ask who was sitting down in the aluminum industry when the government was asking for priorities of orders? I might ask who was sitting down in industries when they were going to be restricted to eight percent profit? I question the sincerity of a large part of industry in this entire set up, because of the fact that the only thought of a great many of them is profit in dollars and cents. They come back here and say "Why should we raise the question of labor disputes?" Labor is very much interested and labor is not going to listen to the propoganda of industry which uses the national defense program to stifle organized labor whether it be in Pennsylvania or the nation. Labor is only asking what it feels is justly due them. Therefore, I again ask the members to vote for this bill.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I know the time is growing late and we are exceedingly restless. I never consume more than ten minutes on the floor of this House and I do not intend to consume that much at this time. I believe we should come back to the issue. I believe there is hopeless confusion in this House as to what these amendments purport to do and what the amendments that were offered to this bill purport to do.

I think we are in hopeless confusion as to what constitutes a labor dispute and what does not constitute a labor dispute. The anti-injunction act was passed both by the national Congress and throughout the several states of the union to take care of matters involving labor disputes. I read to this House last night the opinion of the Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court who said that "sit-down" strikes in matters of violence did not constitute a labor dispute. Therefore, it is my firm conviction that we are making a terrible mistake. We are misleading labor, we are misleading ourselves, misleading the people of our Commonwealth and the people of this nation when we try to make a labor dispute illegal. To begin with that has nothing in the world to do with labor disputes. To show whether or not courts have been fair to labor, whether or not courts have protected labor, I will refer my friend to the case of Thornhill versus Alabama reported in 310 U. S. page 88 which was decided in 1940, a case in which the Supreme Court of the United States struck down a statute of the State of Alabama.

This case held where regulations of the liberty of free discussion are concerned, there are special reasons for observing the rule, it is the statute, and not the accusation or the evidence under it, which prescribes the limits of permissible conduct and warns against transgression.

It discusses the conduct prohibited by the statute. It is apparent that one or the other of the offenses comprehends every practicable method whereby the facts of a labor dispute may be publicized in the vicinity of the place of business of an employer.

It says the statute is invalid on its face as an invasion of freedom of speech and of the press; gives the "clear danger of substantive evils" test. The opinion in that case was handed down by Justice Murphy. In the case of Carlson versus California, 370, U. S. page 106, the court followed the same line of reasoning. I therefore say to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Leonard, when he speaks of strikes, when he speaks of the right of labor to bargain, when he speaks of those things which have been written into the law and which is the Magna Carta of labor and which is the fundamental right of labor, it was labor's right before the enactment of legislation, before Congress enacted the Labor Relations Board Act.

On this question of sit-down strikes, on this question of the destruction of property, on this question of taking property without due process of law, I agree whole-heartedly with the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner that the minute we start this business of giving priority or certain exemptions, or trying to favor certain people while other people have to abide by the law, you are breaking down the fundamental principles upon which this government rests. I say to you if you and the rest of us should attempt to take this Hall away from the people of the Commonwealth, who sit down here without being duly elected, the court could come in by injunction and throw us out. Why can't they take labor out? If labor is violating the law, or if labor has destroyed property, I say in every case that is not a labor dispute, labor should have no preference but should stand like every other person and like every other organization in this Commonwealth and in this nation.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I talked last night on the amendment and I had my say with reference to the legal concept of this particular amendment. I do not think I have as yet disagreed on the floor of this House with my colleague from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, but I intend to say something concerning the statement which Mr. Turner made on the legal concept of the particular amendment. I want to reiterate what I had to say last night in reply to what was said here today. One of the fundamental principles of the law governing equity procedure in our courts, which has been the fundamental law of equity from the old English law, and became a part of our system of law, and is incidentally that system of law under which an injunction is granted, is that you cannot grant an injunction for something that has not happened as yet. The four examples that were read out of the act by the gentleman from Delaware to my recollection, although I cannot use the exact phraseology, because I do not have that kind of a memory, but if those things would happen and intended to produce a certain result an injunction might be granted. That is precisely what equity is, but jurisdiction should not be invoked in favor of everything which might happen. Tha is precisely the question here, if such and such a thing might happen, if a petitioner comes into court and says he needs an injunction to prevent it from happening, a great injustice might be done. We want to bring this question of "sit down" into the category of proper judicial determination by saying if you are to have your injunctive relief you shall proceed as anyone else shall proceed, and that is to prove your facts before you get your remedy, and not get your remedy first and produce your facts later. If you have a condition that needs remedying, you should take your evidence and present it to the court and let the evidence be produced first upon which you are seeking relief. Don't put your relief first and then have your headache. In our courts we must first prove our facts before the courts will give us any remedy. I disagree with the gentleman who says that this particular injunction is injurious. It is plainly in so many words a restatement of equitable principles. It is based upon the law of the land. I ask you to give due consideration to this bill and I ask the members of the House to vote for this bill.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I also find myself in utter disagreement with the gentleman from Delaware and with the gentleman from Allegheny. I am not going to attempt to attack this measure or defend it on legal grounds. I say that in all seriousness because I believe this problem should not be attacked or defended on those grounds. The fact remains, Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, that we are attempting to amend an act of 1939 which deals with "sit-down" strikes. The gentleman from Delaware made the assertion that the Democratic party is attempting to fool labor, and fool the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I say to you, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I personally resent that statement. The Democratic party by this measure is neither attempting to fool the people of Pennsylvania nor labor nor anyone else concerned with this piece of legislation. I find myself in agreement in part with the gentleman from Allegheny when he read the last decision of the Supreme Court of the United States relative to the Alabama case, in which Justice Murphy issued the decision.

I say to you, Mr. Speaker, if some of our state courts were made of the same fiber as the Supreme Court of the United States, if some of the characteristics were in the state courts of Pennsylvania that we find in the Federal courts, especially the Supreme Court of the United States today relative to liberalization, I would say then we do not need a stop-gap piece of legislation of this kind. But it is only in the instance where we have in Pennsylvania a situation where an employer's lawyer holds a star chamber conference with the jurists in the state court and by the wave of his hand he says, "There is a "sit-down" strike in a particular plant or factory," It is in that instance where we on the Democratic side of this House say to the membership and say to labor and say to the people of this Commonwealth that labor then deserves and should have a hearing before an ex parte injunction is issued.

I say to you, Mr. Speaker, there have been statements made on this floor this afternoon with utter regard for their honesty. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that this bill comes from the heart and the soul of Americans who are of the same type as we have in any city of this Commonwealth.

I say to you, Mr. Speaker, this piece of legislation is humane, this piece of legislation does not, as the gentleman from Allegheny says, give the priority to a certain class in Pennsylvania. It does, however, set up a safeguard and it does say to our courts in Pennsylvania that they must give due consideration and due deliberation to the rights of labor in cases of this kind.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. To a parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, is it possible, before the vote is taken on the previous question to ask permission to make a statement with reference to the question before the House?

The SPEAKER. A motion for the previous question has been made. It is not debatable. There is nothing in order now but the determination by the Chair as to whether the previous question shall now be put. The only procedure to permit debate is for the gentleman to withdraw his motion for the previous question.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. Is it permissible, Mr. Speaker, to ask to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Moran, for the purpose of requesting him to withdraw his motion for previous question?

The SPEAKER. The Chair will inquire of the gentleman from Allegheny whether he desires to withdraw his motion for the previous question temporarily.

Does the gentleman from Allegheny wish to withdraw his motion temporarily?

Mr. MORAN. Yes, Mr. Speaker, on one condition, and that is that the gentleman from Delaware confine the remarks he is going to make to the question before the House.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman withdraws his motion for the previous question, and the Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I will certainly confine my remarks to the question before the House. I realize too we have gone rather far afield, yet I cannot but believe that the debate here this afternoon even though my colleagues have gone far afield and I think that is true on both sides, has been a useful debate under all the circumstances that we have at the present time. I know there have been a whole lot of questions raised which I hoped would not be raised. I am sorry that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, sought to raise a question as to manufacturers and others. I have no defense for anyone who by their conduct, whether they be laborer or whether they be employer, have anything to do with the obstruction of the defense program. I cannot, however, but feel that what I said in some degree was rather futile because two lawyers on the other side of the House have misunderstood what I said, and do not yet, it seems to me, understand the provisions of the bill. I would like to add that I thought I made it plain that I felt the great mass of labor was just as patriotic as any other group of our citizens; I thought the great mass of labor wants to do its part. Labor contributed to the public opinion under which the Lease Lend Bill was passed. That bill could not have passed without great public sentiment back of it, and there was no line of cleavage in producing that public sentiment in this country. I do not think this is a time to raise issues. Mr. Brown said it is not a question of strikes. We all must believe in the laws regarding "sit down" strikes and collective bargaining. Collective bargaining is something which we all now recognize. We all recognize the rights of labor that are given to them by the law. This is something else. Therefore, I would like to interrogate, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. I shall Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Cohen, whether he is in accord with the sentiment expressed on the floor of the House last night that the Supreme Court decisions have outlawed "sit down" strikes and that labor itself is opposed to 'sit down" strikes?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I believe so.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if the court issued a preliminary injunction in a labor dispute, alleging a "sit down" strike, what would the court restrain?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would be rather hesitant to answer that. I cannot make a prediction as to what some judge will do in any of the sixty-seven counties of the State. What I am most fearful of is in making a restraining order is that the court might not interpret the law as freely as it should and some damage might be done in its enforcement before it would come within the terms of the particular order.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, that is not responsive to the question I asked the gentleman. I will define it a little more fully. If the prayer of the petition alleged a "sit down" strike, and that is the only question before us, what would the order of the court do, what would it restrain?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I presume the order of the court would restrain persons in the plant from engaging in what is alleged to be a "sit down" strike, and all the other things that go with it.

Mr. TURNER. All right now, Mr. Speaker, if you had a hearing on that question and labor produced evidence to show it was not a "sit down" strike, would labor then be injured by the preliminary injunction?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. On the strict answer to a rather confining question, Mr. Speaker, I would say that labor would not be injured on the particular facts at issue before the court.

Mr. TURNER. And if the court found, Mr. Speaker, that there was a "sit down" strike, then would labor be harmed?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, if the court found that there was a "sit down" strike and the order was to restrain persons who were engaged in the "sit down" strike from so doing, then labor would not be harmed.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, that comes back again to what I repeated on Monday, when I attempted to make an explanation, make the matter a little clearer, to the members of the House. In other words, if labor is opposed to the "sit down strike,—and I take it for granted they are, and I feel certain they are, not only from the statements made by them, but from what I know of labor generally, if labor is opposed to the "sit down" strike, if the order of the court restrained a "sit down" strike in a plant, restraining those people from doing damage, no one could complain. If there was no "sit down" strike and no damage was done, how is labor harmed? They are not restraining anything that labor is doing. If there is a "sit down" strike and labor is opposed to "sit down" strikes, and labor says it is unlawful and the courts say it is unlawful, then the restraining order, of course, was proper and still no harm has been done to labor. Therefore it seems to me that from that standpoint, if this is the principle on which the argument was based the other night, I believe this is not sincere; this is only fooling the members of the House to pass an amendment to permit evils, feeling that in some way labor will be harmed unless they have a hearing. If there is no "sit down" strike, they cannot be harmed, whether there is a hearing or no hearing, no matter what evidence is adduced,—if there is no "sit down" strike, nobody is being restrained. But if there is a "sit down" strike and labor says, "We are opposed to the 'sit down' strike" and the law says, "We are opposed to the 'sit down' strike," then the order of the court in the first instance will be the same order as in the second instance, and they will be restrained. However, this amendment does not do that. This amendment comes under section 9, and it says that not only must the court find that there is a "sit down" strike, but it must find a, b, c, d, e, and f, which is already in the act; it must find that all of those things exist, every one of them. It doesn't say, "or." Read it carefully, and you will find that there is no "or" there. It doesn't say if they do "a" or if they do "b," or if they do "c," or if they find this in section g, but it does say they must find everything from "a" to "g" to exist before they can issue an order on that basis. I say this is not attempting to say that a "sit down" strike you can issue a restraining order, because the other sections make it almost impossible for any court to find any instances under which they can find all of those things.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I want briefly to answer the statement of the gentleman from Delaware because I think it was predicted upon his interrogation of me.

I answered his questions as I did in order to give him a legal answer to a legal question. I think that was the basis of the controversy. I think we have got to look a little bit further than the legal implication. As I started to say in one of my answers, I would not be certain of how any one of the courts of the sixty-seven counties would interpret that provision as to what they might do in respect to an Order of Court issued in such cases in any of the sixty-seven counties of the state. Labor history has shown us in many years gone by, before we had the Labor Relations Act and other legislation, at that time when labor disputes took place we had a lot of Coal and Iron Police, deputy heriffs and vigilantes, going around clubbing men into submission, and inquiring about what they did later. I say we should have very careful consideration of every decent proposal before any injunction is issued in any so called "sit down" strike; we want to be careful we do not get different interpretations from the various judges which will allow these deputies and others to go out with a piece of paper in one hand and a club in the other hand and forget to read the piece of paper, but swing the club anyway. That is what I want to prevent, and that is what the amendment would do.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Philadelphia. He has illustrated perhaps in a far better way than the matter has been illustrated in this whole debate. That is exactly what I meant when I said I do not think this is a good provision for labor itself. It could be possible under the terms of this act, that some court would issue an injunction and the people were doing exactly what he says they would do, and they went out and unlawfully proceeded, exceeded the terms of the injunction, if labor went into court then and tried to get a restraining order, labor would have to wait the period during which all the evidence could be taken and all the delays that might come in a court, which might be extended over a period of thirty days or more, during which time violence might be done on the laboring people. So you can see that you cannot benefit one side and not cut back on the other side in some circumstances that might arise. You cannot foresee all the circumstances, and if labor prohibits any injunction from being issued until a full hearing is had, if they too are the victims of some excessive power that is being waged by some employers or some particular group of people, they will be cut by the same sword because they will have to wait until a full hearing can be had, and in the meantime their rights are being violated.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Harmuth, Rausch, Rosenfeld, Marks, O'Mullen, Finestone, Hering, D'Ortona, Hersch, Boies, Verona, DiGenova, Melchiorre, Shaw, Reynolds, Cochran, Matthew J. Welsh, Schwab, Malloy, McLane, Corrigan and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question be not put?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. MORAN, HEATHERINGTON and COCHRAN asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

REASON FOR VOTE

Mr. BROWN filed the following reasons for his vote:

I am in accord with deleting sub-section A page 3; subsection B page 4 and sub-section C page 5 and while I oppose deleting sub-section D page 5 as my remarks will show, I vote in the affirmative on House Bill 136 believing that future legislature will correct the amendments inserted in this session.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 551, as follows:

A Supplement to the act approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (Appropriation Acts page 60) entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth interest on the public debt and the support of the Public schools for two years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine" providing for a deficiency in the appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies for the fiscal biennium ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred forty-one providing for payment out of revenues of the fiscal biennial period beginning June first one thousand nine hundred forty-one and preventing lapsing

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The sum of seventy thousand dollars ($70,000) or as much thereof as may be necessary for deficiencies in the appropriation made to the Department of Property and Supplies by the act to which this is a supplement is hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Property and Supplies for the cost of alterations furnishings equipment books and necessary improvements on space in the main Capitol building now occupied or to be occupied by the Senate the House of Representatives and the Legislative Reference Bureau The deficiency appropriation hereby made may be paid out of the revenues of the fiscal biennial period beginning June first one thousand nine hundred forty-one

Section 2 Neither this appropriation nor the unexpended balance of the appropriation for said purposes made by the act to which this is a supplement shall lapse until such purposes are fully completed

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS 0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 688, as follows:

An Act concerning reciprocal agreements for the Interstate Transportation and the support of poor and indigent persons and to make uniform the law with reference thereto

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Reciprocal Agreements The Department of Public Assistance subject to the approval of the Attorney-General is hereby authorized to enter into reciprocal agreements with corresponding state agencies of other states regarding the interstate transportation of poor and indigent persons who do not require institutional care because of physical or mental infirmity and to arrange with the proper officials in this state for the acceptance transfer and support of persons receiving public aid in other states in accordance with the terms of such reciprocal agreements provided that this state shall not nor shall any political subdivision of this state be committed to the support of persons who are not in the opinion of said Department of Public Assistance entitled to public support by the laws of this state

Section 2 Uniformity of Interpretation This act shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the laws of those states which enact it

Section 3 Short Title This act may be cited as the Uniform Transfer of Dependents Act

Section 4 Time of Taking Effect This act shall take effect immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 481, Printer's No. 116, was passed over at the request of Mr. LEVY.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 653, as follows:

An Act to add clause eighteen A to section three of article nineteen of the act approved the seventh day of March one thousand nine hundred one (P. L. 20) entitled "An act for the government of cities of the second class" authorizing cities of the second class to impose and collect charges for the care and treatment at municipal hospitals of persons who are financially able to pay the expenses of such care and treatment

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section three of article nineteen of the act approved the seventh day of March one thousand nine hundred one (P. L. 20) entitled "An act for the government of cities of the second class" is hereby amended by adding thereto immediately after clause eighteen a new clause to read as follows

Section 3 Every city of the second class in its corporate capacity is authorized and empowered to enact ordinances for the following purposes in addition to the other powers granted by this act

* * * *

XVIII-A To impose and collect charges covering all or any portion of the cost of care or treatment at municipal hospitals where the persons receiving such care or treatment are financially able to pay all or any portion of the cost of such care or treatment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

RESOLUTION NO. 57

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Resolution No. 57, Printer's No. 120.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 19, 1941.

Whereas Newspapers have carried reports concerning the operation of certain state hospitals within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which if true show an extremely reprehensible situation existing in such state hospitals and

Whereas There have been charges made that certain trustees and supervisory officials have committed criminal acts and

Whereas Certain state hospitals have lost their official standing and rating with the American Medical Association and

Whereas The conduct of certain trustees of state hospitals has resulted in unfavorable criticism of the operation of said hospitals and

Whereas If these charges are true the situation calls for immediate attention by the legislative branch of the government to remedy such a condition therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint a committee of three members of the house and the President pro tempore of the Senate appoint a committee of three members of the Senate to act as a legislative committee to investigate the maintenance operation and conduct of all state hospitals within this Commonwealth and be it further

Resolved That the said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee and to produce such books papers records and documents as the committee may deem necessary Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth Each member of said committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books papers records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases and be it further

Resolved That the said committee because of the urgency of the situation report to the General Assembly as speedily as possible with appropriate recommendations

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for its concurrence.

RESOLUTION NO. 58

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Resolution No. 58, Printer's No. 121.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 19, 1941.

It has long been a custom in the United States and in other countries throughout the world to observe the first day of May as May Day and to mark such observances by various kinds of celebrations which sometimes have taken the form of demonstrations against our established democratic form of government.

Almost a decade ago the American Legion organization in Fayette County inaugurated a new and more appropriate observance of the first day of May by staging a parade and celebration in the name of Americanism

The first day of May has since been annually observed and celebrated as Americanism Day by patriotic societies veterans' organizations and other groups both in Fayette County and throughout the Commonwealth and it has been the custom of the Governor of the Commonwealth to issue his proclamation signifying the observance of Americanism Day

The present world crisis constitutes a serious threat to those American principles of life and government which were established with such great sacrifice and which have since been maintained and protected so valiantly thus making particularly significant and appropriate the observance of May first as Americanism Day in the year of 1941 now therefore be it

Resolved by the Members of the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that a committee of five members be appointed by the Speaker to arrange appropriate ceremonies at the hour of 12 o'clock noon on April 30 1941 in anticipation of the observance of May first as Americanism Day and be it further

Resolved That the Governor his cabinet the Members of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania the officers of the American Legion Post No 51 and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No 47 of Uniontown Fayette County and the State officers of the various other veterans' and patriotic organizations throughout the Commonwealth be invited to attend such ceremonies and be it further

Resolved That the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby urged to issue his proclamation signifying May 1 1941 as Americanism Day and calling upon all patriotic veteran fraternal and civic organizations to hold celebrations of this day in such a manner as will bring to the people of the Commonwealth the full realization of the benefits privileges and blessings that come to them through the continuance of our American form of government and be it further

Resolved That the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania further urges all persons in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to join in a real American celebration of May 1 1941 as Americanism Day

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, March 26, 1941

The Senate met at 11:00 o'clock, a. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

Our Gracious God, Whose only is the Kingdom and the Power and the Glory, yet Who has ordained human government for the control of Thy children, grant and continue unto us legislators and executives schooled in the ideals of Thy Kingdom, endowed with Thy power that Thy glory may be the ultimate objective of all human endeavor.

So erroneous may our concepts of government become and so warped our personal ideals of spiritual integrity that we need to keep so close to Thee that these wrong ideals and concepts be precluded from our common endeavors. Show us Thy light shining in the midst of darkness and make plain Thy truth in the midst of error. Let unrighteousness be supplanted by righteousness and personal desires subjugated to the common good.

May we constantly be governed in this our service not by what may be expedient but by what would be right. May this be the criterion of Divine judgment upon our acts for this will be pleasing unto Thee.

Upon all in authority over us grant Divine wisdom and guidance for this one day. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

RESOLUTION OPPOSING HOUSE BILL NO. 367

The PRESIDENT. The Chair by request lays before the Senate a communication from the Methodist Ministers' Meeting in Philadelphia, dated March 24, 1941, which will be spread upon the Journal.

THE METHODIST MINISTERS' MEETING
In Philadelphia

Wheras, There has been introduced in the General Assembly at Harrisburg, Pa., measures, which, if enacted into law, would be injurious to the economic, moral and spiritual welfare of our Commonwealth, Therefore

Be it resolved, That the Methodist Ministers' Meeting in Philadelphia, register its protest against the passage of such legislation and calls upon the General Assembly to defeat these bills.

Resolved, That we go on record as opposed to House Bill No. 367, that proposes to legalize Sunday bowling, all day Sunday, without giving the people the right to vote on this measure.

The foregoing resolution adopted at the regular weekly meeting of the Methodist Ministers' Meeting in Philadelphia, held on Monday, March 24, 1941. A copy of this resolution to be sent to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and Senate President respectively, and a copy to the Governor of the Commonwealth.

(Signed)

(Rev.) D. RAY MEIXELL, Secretary,
Methodist Ministers' Meeting in Philadelphia.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Law and Order.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. EDMONDS, from the Committee on Education, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 1, entitled:

An Act providing that when inmates of an orphans' home or other children's institution, maintained at the cost of any county, attend public school and are not legal residents of such school district, the county shall pay their tuition charges.

Mr. KEPHART, from the Committee on Highways, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 32, entitled:

An Act to facilitate vehicular traffic between the eastern and western sections of the Commonwealth by providing for the construction, operation and maintenance of a turnpike from a point at Irwin in Westmoreland County, the western terminus of the turnpike heretofore constructed by said commission, to a point on the boundary line between the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the State of Ohio; and conferring powers and imposing duties on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission; authorizing the issuance of turnpike revenue bonds of the Commonwealth, payable solely from tolls, to pay the cost of such turnpike; providing that no debt of the Commonwealth shall be incurred in the exercise of any of the powers granted by this act; providing for the collection of tolls for the payment of such bonds and for the cost of maintenance, operation and repair of the turnpike; making such turnpike bonds exempt from taxation; constituting such bonds legal investments in certain instances; requiring suits against the commission to be brought in Dauphin County; prescribing conditions upon which such turnpike shall become free; providing for grade separations, grade changes and relocation and restoration of public roads and State highways affected by the turnpike; providing for condemnation; granting certain powers and authority to municipal subdivisions and agencies of the Commonwealth to cooperate with the commission; and authorizing the issuance of turnpike revenue refunding bonds.

for refunds," changing the provisions of said act relating to the speed of such vehicles while being operated on highways under the supervision and control of a Turnpike Commission.

Mr. LETZLER, from the Committee on Highways, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 401, entitled:

An Act repealing and abandoning as a State highway, State highway route 15181 in Chester County; and providing for the reversion thereof to the township.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. BECKER read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 429, entitled:

An Act giving a bank or trust company the option to refuse payment of a check or other demand instrument presented one year after date.

Which was committed to the Committee on Banking.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 430, entitled:

An Act to amend Subsection 3 of Section 9 of the act, approved the sixteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and one (P. L. 194), entitled "An act relating to negotiable instruments," by making further provision with respect to when instruments are payable to bearer.

Which was committed to the Committee on Banking.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 431, entitled:

An Act fixing the liability of a bank or trust company to its depositor for payment of forged, altered, or raised checks.

Which was committed to the Committee on Banking.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 432, entitled:

An Act fixing limitations on revocations, countermands of payments and stop payment orders relating to the payment of checks or drafts against bank accounts.

Which was committed to the Committee on Banking.

Mr. SNOWDEN read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 433, entitled:

An Act to amend section eight hundred two of the act approved the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 103), entitled "An act concerning townships of the second class," to provide for contracts to be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder; for published notice to contain certain information; and for rejection of contract on protest of taxpayers.

Which was committed to the Committee on County Government.

Mr. WOODWARD read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 434, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Forests and Waters for the maintenance and improvement of Fort Washington Park.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 435, entitled:

An Act providing for a Legislative Controller, and for his election and removal by the General Assembly; defining his powers and duties; authorizing the employment of assistants by the Legislative Reference Bureau for the use of the Legislative Controller; imposing certain duties and responsibilities upon the executive and administrative departments, and agencies of the State government, and upon agencies receiving State appropriations; and making an appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. DENT read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 436, entitled:

An Act regulating harness and hunt meeting racing with wagering on the results thereof; creating a State Harness and Hunt Meeting Racing Commission in the Department of State; imposing powers and duties on the State Harness and Hunt Meeting Racing Commission; providing for the licensing of race track riders, trainers, steward, and officials for such racing; requiring the proceeds accruing under this act to be turned over to the State Department of Revenue and then into a special fund of the Department of Agriculture, and allocating such moneys in such fund; imposing penalties and repealing inconsistent legislation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President and members of the Senate, in presenting this bill legalizing harness horse racing, I wish to put before the Senate certain arguments for my action.

In the first place, the bill will be a blessing to the horse breeders of Pennsylvania. Under present conditions there are no inducements for the Pennsylvania horse breeders and farmers to specialize in the breeding of blooded stock. Although I may say in passing that Pennsylvania has within its confines two of the largest and best equipped breeding farms in the United States. Many persons do not know the true facts pertaining to Pennsylvania's place in the horse racing picture. Pennsylvania is one of the leading states in the Union in breeding prize pacers and trotters. Pennsylvania horse owners have placed first in the Hambletonian time and time again.

A Philadelphian owns the present championship two-year-old pacing team "Saratoga and Times Scarce." And yet, these horses must race for the benefit of horse loving people of other surrounding states, and Pennsylvanians are denied the privilege of seeing them, except at some big fairs, such as the "York and Reading fairs."

Speaking of fairs brings to mind the plight of the struggling County fairs in this State. Although the legislature tries by a half-way appropriation measure to help the fairs. Everyone connected with a fair association knows how difficult it is to get prize money from the State. Under this bill the fairs will receive along with other Agricultural shows the entire returns from the races held.

The races will be held entirely for the benefit of the Farmers who will then have a reasonable inducement to take a more active interest in Agricultural prize competitions.

Practically every fair association in the State is in the red. This bill in operation will taken them out of the red and place them in the financial standing they deserve to be in.

It is true that the fairs do hold race meetings, but the simple truth remains that because of the lack of sufficient prize money out of State, breeders seldom send their horses on expensive trips into Pennsylvania except perhaps to the very largest meetings.

Another truth apparent to all who take an interest in Fairs is that because of the law against pari-mutual betting there is a lack of interest on the part of the general public. Of course, there is betting at the tracks but it is illegal and bootleg bookies can't always be trusted to be there if your horse wins. Many prominent persons in Pennsylvania including members of the General Assembly travel many miles to neighboring States to see horse races but never take the time to see them at the Fair Grounds. Why? I'll let you answer the question.

How many men in this Senate have stopped to consider that Pennsylvania stands alone in its position on legal harness racing. A barren spot, as it were, in a forest of liberality. The roll call of States includes, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland and others too numerous to mention. Certainly, the people of these states are no different than our own.

Harness horse racing is the cleanest of racing sports. There are few thrills to compare with a close heat coming down the home stretch. Give our citizens this opportunity to indulge in a wholesome sport and they won't be looking for other opportunities to spend their time and money.

Sometime when you have time, go to the races in Maryland, and count the number of Pennsylvania cars parked at the race grounds. I'll venture you will come away convinced that Pennsylvanians want the Sport of Kings. I would stake my political future on a referendum allowing the people to vote for or against an out and out horse racing bill.

In my county one of the most attractive steeplechase courses in the country draws thousands of citizens from all over the Country to its annual races. We spend thousands of dollars through our Department of Commerce trying to draw tourists to our State. Ten race meetings will bring in more cash spending tourists than all the money spent by the Department. This bill will help hotel operators, restaurant keepers, gasoline dealers, railroads and in a general sense will benefit the entire State. It will save the taxpayers money in many ways, especially in taking up the appropriations to the tourist propaganda Department and the County Fair Associations. Before this Session is over I hope to get copies of a magazine called "Hoof Beats" in order that the Members of the Senate will get an inside picture of how great a State Pennsylvania is in the harness horse breeding field. Let me quote an article of interest to Pennsylvanians, "Down in the southeastern section of Pennsylvania, not far from the Maryland line and the city of Baltimore, is the little city of Hanover, and near this little city is located the stock farm which has made the name Hanover something of a household word throughout this land. Products of the Hanover Shoe Farms have been returned winners of practically all of the leading harness horse stakes of the Grand Circuit such as the Hambletonian, the Kentucky Futurity, the Walnut Hall Cup, the Championship Stallion Stake, the Matron Stake. You will find Hanovers winning at the leading tracks of the Pacific coast; in the mid-west, on the Grand Circuit; up in the potato country of Maine—in fact, anywhere that the harness horse is raced, representatives of the great breeding farm in Pennsylvania will be found topping summaries."

Three of the winners of the Hambletonian, the outstanding harness race meet in the world, were products of this great stock farm. Another great breeder is the well-known Village Farm at Langhorne, Penna. In passing, I might mention that the Harrisburg Horse Sale is becoming the outstanding event of its kind in America. All we need in this State to make Pennsylvania the Capitol of Harness Horse Breeding and Stock raising is the passage of this bill.

For years, these owners and others have fought an uphill battle but now with Delaware, New York and New Jersey joining the ranks of the legalized racing States it becomes imperative for the welfare of this Industry in Pennsylvania to get a fair appraisal of the situation in the General Assembly. In order that there is no question raised upon the Senate introduction of this bill it will be introduced in the House also. At some later date I'll give this body figures and facts about this industry that will surprise if not amaze the membership.

In a world of constant change, Pennsylvania cannot forever stand still. I first introduced a racing bill in 1935 and in spite of pressure and criticism, I found a great deal of sentiment for this bill amongst the real people of Pennsylvania.

I close by including for the record an editorial by Frank L. Wiswall on the New York experience, quote "THE GUINEA PIG." We feel that the United States Trotting Association, with due modesty, may claim credit of authorship and much of the credit for the passage of the Article of the New York State Pari-Mutual Law governing harness racing. At the General Election in the autumn of 1939, the people of the State of New York ratified a resolution adopted by two successive Legislatures of the State amending the Constitution legalizing pari-mutuel betting at the tracks upon horse races in the State of New York. The provision of the Constitution thus adopted was not self-executing and it became necessary for the Legislature of 1940 to enact legislation governing the method and manner to be employed and the conduct of pari-mutuel betting within the state. While the Constitution legalized such a system of betting, only by statute could it be regulated, and since the principal argument in favor of the amendment of the Constitution was made upon the basis of the revenue to be derived by the state from a tax imposed upon the betting to be conducted under the amendment, legislation was necessary to regulate the manner and form of betting and also to provide for the amount of tax and the manner and method of its collection.

The law finally passed provided for a separate commission to be appointed by the Governor with the consent of the Senate which commission should have exclusive jurisdiction over harness racing within the State of New York at meetings to be licensed by it at which pari-mutuel betting could be indulged in. The act provided that pari-mutuel betting should be authorized at fairs.

The statute provided that not more than seven harness race meetings at which pari-mutuel betting might be conducted should be licensed by the commission in any one year and that the commission should make rules governing the betting and supervise the same, although the Tax Commission of the State was charged with the act of the financial administration of the betting pursuant to the law and the rules of the Harness Racing Commission so that both the Tax Commission and the Harness Racing Commission at all times have power of access to and examination of the equipment relating to such betting.

The Commission fixes the hours and dates of the meetings and under the law appoints the officials who shall serve and fixes their compensation, although it is provided that such officials must be licensees of the United States Trotting Association. The law also provided that the Commission may adopt the rules and regulations of the United States Trotting Association and carry into effect the provisions of the statute and that they shall have power to fix the minimum and maximum admission charges, etc. It is further provided by law that what is commonly called the "take," in other words, deduction from the total bet, to be fifteen percent plus the "breaks" which are the odd cents over any multiple of five cents calculated on the basis of $1.00 and of that fifteen per cent, five per cent and half of the breaks shall be paid to the State Tax Commission as a tax for the privilege and the remaining ten per cent, plus half the breaks may be retained by the track.

Because of the fact that heretofore harness racing in New York State has consisted almost entirely of racing at the County Fairs with the exception of the State Fair and the two Goshen meetings, the fact that the Legislature was about to adopt a statute in reference to harness racing furnished an opportunity to right a wrong of long standing. For many years in the State of New York there has been an appropriation by the state for aid to the County Fairs. In latter years the sum appropriated has been $250,000 per annum, although previously it had been larger. Under the statute existing before 1940, the sum of $250,000 was used to reimburse each county, town or agricultural fair for the premiums which it paid for the exhibition of cattle, swine, sheep, poultry, farm produce, domestic arts, etc., up to ninety per cent of the amount of such premiums it being provided, however, that no one fair should be paid an amount in excess of $5,000. During practically all of the years that fairs have been in existence, it may be reasonably stated that they have been built around a race track and that the oldest attraction at the fairs and the one which has stood the test of time and which today furnishes the greatest portion of the public entertainment is harness racing. The improvement of the breed of harness horses and their dependence upon agricultural pursuits of this nation is one of the most outstanding exhibitions which any fair provides. Notwithstanding the importance to agriculture and to the fair of the harness horse, the law in New York had ever denied reimbursement of the purses or premiums for which harness horses competed on the fair grounds track. The 1940 statute, recognizing the long existing injustice, provided that in addition to the other objects hereinbefore enumerated the State should grant reimbursement for harness race premiums and purses at the fairs to the extent of 90 per cent thereof and the appropriation was increased from $250,000 to $400,000 and the amount which could be paid to any indivinual fair increased from $5,000 to $8,000. It may, therefore, be fairly stated that through the efforts of the United States Trotting Association each of the fairs in the State of New York gained in 1940 $3,000 additional state aid.

Under the law which has been briefly summarized, the Governor of the State of New York appointed as the Harness Racing Commission, Elbridge T. Gerry, a member and one of the underwriters of the United States Trotting Association, J. C. Newton, one of the directors of the United States Trotting Association, and Benjamin W. Downing, for many years connected with one of the state's oldest county fairs. The appropriation made by the Legislature was inadequate to defray all the expenses of the Commission's activities. In order to aid in the work, somewhat experimental in character and so important that it may point the way to similar procedure in other states rather revolutionizing the sport of harness racing, and at the solicitation of the Commission, the Executive Vice-President and Secretary of the United States Trotting Association has given his service at $1.00 a year as Secretary to the Commission throughout its activities.

The racing under the new law in New York developed something entirely new in this country so far as harness racing is concerned. The Commission by its rules provided for barrier starting, saliva tests and many new features and further provided that the minimum purse to be raced for in any heat or dash should be $250. Two thirty-day meetings were licensed by the Commsision, or it might be more correct to say thirty night meetings, as the racing was conducted under lights. At the Westbury meeting over $70,000 was paid in purses, free hay and straw furnished, and while the entrance fee was fixed at two per cent, transportation adjustments and allowances were made which in reality made the entrance one per cent. So it may fairly be said that the horsemen raced for thirty nights for approximately $63,000, none of which was their own money. This in itself was nothing less than remarkable in the light of previous harness racing experience in the United States.

The Commission carefully sought to avoid any conflict of the pari-mutuel meetings with the County Fairs to the detriment of the latter, and in cases where dates conflicted and some of the fairs were short of horses, through the influence of the Commission, horses were actually sent from the mutuel meetings to fill out the fair programs.

In the efforts of the United States Trotting Association to secure an improvement in racing conditions a beginning had to take place somewhere. In 1940 the situation in New York State afforded the vehicle and we might say in the popular language of the day, the new system in New York became the guinea pig in experiment for the benefit of the entire nation. Our association was not in a position to attack the problem elsewhere in exactly the same manner that it did in New York by reason of unusual circumstances which there existed. It is the purpose and desire of the United States Trotting Association to assist in every manner possible in bringing into fruition and extension through other sections of the country what appears to have been a highly successful experimental venture and which is believed to have been proven and demonstrated to be a boon to the breeders, owners and trainers of harness horses as well as the patrons of the sport.

While the accomplishments which we have enumerated did not come about as easily and smoothly as the language here used might indicate, we feel certain that each and everyone of those who labored and struggled to attain the ends mentioned, feels amply rewarded by what has already transpired as the fruits of the effort and is inspired to believe that the future holds greater and richer rewards of satisfaction for a good service."

I wish every Member of this Senate would read it carefully. The time has certainly arrived when this matter should receive conscientious treatment by the Members of the General Assembly. I also include an article appearing in the Harrisburg Patriot which gives a clear cut picture of the plight of our County Fairs.

"MANY COUNTY FAIRS IN RED." State Association Urges Larger Subsidies—Secretary Light, Ross Speak. The county fair has a real place in agriculture, John H. Light, State Secretary of Agriculture, yesterday told members of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs meeting here for their twenty-ninth annual convention.

Speaking during the afternoon session, Secretary Light said that the county fair has come to be regarded as an educational institution. He emphasized the point that the State Farm Show does not replace the county fair and never was intended to do so.

Light pointed out that during the past year eighty-four county fairs have received financial aid from the State and that this year, "three or four more" would come within this classification. He predicted that within a few years, the figure woul damount to "close to 100."

Sixty Fairs in Red. Charles S. Swoyer, secretary of the association, told the gathering that financial losses beset sixty of the 103 fairs in Pensnylvania last year but that the total cash receipts for paid admission in 1940 were $6874 more than in 1939. Last year's paid admission jumped 49,438 over the previous year, Swoyer said.

The secretary urged adoption of a resolution requesting the Secretary of Agriculture to have a deficiency bill passed in the Legislature for $29,500 owing fairs for 1939 and 1940. Swoyer also recommended that the agriculture department budget not less than $135,000 for the State appropriation to fairs for this year and next year.

Other speakers during the afternoon session included H. C. Fetterhoff, of the State Department of Public Instruction; Dr. G. E. Brandow, of the Pennsylvania State College, and Frank L. Wisall, executive vice-president and secretary of the United States Trotting Association.

Officers Elected. At the business session William Brice, Jr., Bedford was re-elected president of the association. Vice-presidents elected were Harry B. Correll, Bloomsburg; John H. Rutter, York, and M. H. Beary, Allentown, Charles W. Swoyer was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

J. I. Ferguson, of Butler and Joseph McGraw, of Washington, Pa., were elected to membership in the executive committee to succeed Charles H. Barnhart and R. L. Munce. It was voted to hold next year's convention in Allentown. A banquet last night in the Penn-Harris Hotel at which time F. Clair Ross, State Treasurer, was the guest speaker, concluded the two-day convention. The invocation was given by State Senator Frank W. Ruth of Berks County, Governor James, one of the scheduled speakers at the banquet was unable to attend. Ross declared that as a result of the national defense project now under way throughout the country, county fairs will benefit from increased industrial payrolls which will mean better attendance, and in the increased number and variety of foodstuff entries resulting from increased production.

Pointing to the Commonwealth's interest in fairs, Treasurer Ross said: "Your annual exhibits represent more than a community holiday. The State Department of Agriculture finds in them a barometer of agricultural activity and production and the lawmakers have taken cognizance of this service by making an appropriation to reimburse associations for premiums paid in certain classes."

I have not read the editorial in full, but, I hope, Mr. President, the members of the Senate will take time to read the editorial because it covers the situation very thoroughly.

Mr. President, take the plight of New York when they had to go before the people on a constitutional change and after passage by the people of the constitutional amendment they had to go before the people on a referendum and before it was through the issue went before the people of New York on three different occasions and each time the people of the State of New York returned an overwhelming majority in favor of legalizing harness horse racing.

I therefore at this time, Mr. President, present a bill covering legalized horse racing.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection, the editorial referred to by the gentleman from Westmoreland will be spread in full upon the Journal.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I moved from my seat over to the Democratic side in order not to miss any of the address by the gentleman from Westmoreland, but I listened in vain to hear any reference to Mr. Annenberg, who is a martyr to this cause and did his best to remove the inconvenience of betting on the ponies in Pennsylvania, and look what happened to Mr. Annenberg.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in the same vein I might say if Mr. Annenberg and others of his kind would have helped to pass this kind of legislation he would not be where he is today.

The PRESIDENT. The bill is referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, while we are on this matter I would like to congratulate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, for his boldness in offering this bill. Mr. President, I used to own horses and drove them myself. I have driven harness horses, trotters and pacers at nearly every fairground in Pennsylvania.

The PRESIDENT. At the York Fair?

Mr. McGINNIS. Yes, Mr. President. I do not feel in this automobile age when the horse is being pushed out of existence that Pennsylvania should remain like a desolate island, with all the states around having these grand horse races, and the grandest horse flesh on earth.

To think that our children, Mr. President, young boys and girls, cannot see these races without going to other states, to me is wrong. I have heard many a man say that a boy or girl who does not love a horse will never amount to anything and I think a good way to find out whether our boys and girls are going to amount to anything, is to determine whether we are going to have horse racing so that those boys and girls can go and see horse flesh at its best.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Luzerne will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. MILLER. Yesterday in the Senate, Mr. President, we were privileged to listen to an address by our colleague from Allegheny, Senator Walker, in which he extolled the patriotism of the great county of Allegheny and that of the American Legion, pertaining particularly to the youth of Pennsylvania.

I was very much impressed by the remarks made by the gentleman, because I too am interested in the youth of Pennsylvania, and I feel that they should not be forced to view with fear and insecurity the future, and I feel definitely these Americanism programs are the proper form of patriotism to effect this result. Mr. President, I am privileged and really feel honored to call to the attention of this Senate a newspaper article appearing in the Wilkes-Barre Record of the great county of Luzerne, and I desire to read a portion of it into the record for the information of the Senators.

It is captioned "SCHOOLS OF CITY TEACH AMERICANISM TO 15,000. Tots as well as adolescents enjoy citizenship training and show they understand it."

The article is as follows:

Wilkes-Barre school officials' program to inculcate in some 15,000 pupils an appreciation of the blessings of our form of government as guaranteed by the Constitution and its amendments covers the little tots as well as the upper grade and high school students, it was revealed last week when visitors watched the nine-year old pupils of the third grade of South Main Street school stage the weekly exercises in the American Citizenship course.

Most significant feature of the program was the manner in which the youngesters changed into their own simple words the ideas suggested by the Sixth and Seventh Amendments, guaranteeing a speedy and just trial to criminals and trials by juries in civil cases, distinguishing between the two. Arline Jayne Moore, soft-spoken teacher obviously devoted to her pupils, set the pace with a few leading questions and the tots entered into the discussion with great spirit.

As is the case in every classroom in the city, the South Main Street third-graders put fervor in their daily pledge of allegiance and salute to the flag. The weekly program, presented by Superintendent Allen Bacon and his assistants in mimeographed form for all buildings graded according to ages, stressed poems to bring out the teachings so pertinent to conditions today.

Impressively recited was the following verse:

"There is lots to do for our land and flag,
Without any fighting or fuss or brag;
And it's up to me and it's up to you,
To just quit talk and begin to do."

Asked to explain it in their own way, the pupils did an excellent job. One curly-haired boy, suffering from a cold in the head but well able to reason, said: "If people are hungry we should quit talking and help them get something to eat."

Contrast with totalitarian forms of government was stressed during the discussion, the youngsters explaining that in America, the people are not "afraid of their rulers." A little girl made it clear, during the exchange of questions and answers, that "We vote for our rulers and if we don't like them, we put them out."

The history of the flag and Betsy Ross's contribution to the first one had made a deep impression on the third-graders. In the general discussion that followed their flag game, one tiny girl explained that women in Betsy Ross's day "wore lots of petticoats and that's where they got the cloth for the flag."

Adding to their vocabulary, the pupils offered sentences with "courage, truth, salute, land and color." One girl said: "Our mothers have courage to work for us." The boy next to her promptly raised his hand and said: "Our fathers have courage to earn money to feed and clothe us."

Another boy explained "salute" by saying: "When the flag passes by, we salute by putting our hats over our hearts."

Several songs were sung by the youngsters, who put on a drill in good order but the most fun for them appeared to come when Mrs. Moore called for their favorite song "Yankee Doodle."

John J. Maguire, district principal, and Harold Llewellyn, principal of South Main Street building, complimented the pupils on their fine performance.

A special committee of Rotary Club has been cooperating with Superintendent Bacon and his assistants in promoting the American citizenship course. Rotarians have been asked to take turns visiting the buildings every Friday to observe how thoroughly the boys and girls of all grades have entered into the spirit of the program.

Mr. President, I desire to commend the Board of Education of the Wilkes-Barre School District and likewise the Rotary Club of that city, which has cooperated in this program.

Just in closing, Mr. President, I would like to say Wilkes-Barre in the great County of Luzerne joins with Allegheny County in sponsoring this great patriotic effort or noteworthy endeavor with the hope that out of their action many other school districts will follow in this patriotic Americanism program.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I rise also to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Montgomery will proceed.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I think we all listened with keen enjoyment to the presentation of the gentleman from Allegheny yesterday, Mr. Walker, and I think we were all impressed with what the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Miller, has said today.

Unquestionably the teaching of patriotism is urgent at the present time and I want to make the suggestion that we are trying in our own community what I am inclined to think might be of some value to the other Senators.

The first Sunday in May has been set apart as Citizenship Sunday. That is being sponsored in large measure by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and all over the land there will be citizenship meetings on that day. I attended one in Montgomery County last year.

I was very much impressed with a custom they have over in France. Nothing impressed me over in France more keenly than the fact that when the day came that a new class was taken into the army it was a day of civic celebration everywhere. In the villages they got together with the young men going into the army and it was a sort of a holiday, everybody doing their level best to impress upon those young men that they were representing the community. It was a fine thing.

I have the feeling that we in America ought to take our young people who are under twenty-one years of age, that class of young people who are too old for school celebrations, and yet at the same time they should be impressed that they are entering into the most valuable civic duty under our American way of life, that is being entrusted to them, and I think at these local celebrations we ought to impress upon the boys and girls who have become twenty-one years of age, we ought to do our level best to make them feel the duty entrusted to them is an important duty and that the community iself appreciates the fact they have now become citizens.

I might say by way of historical reference, Mr. President, that years ago the famous speech of Woodrow Wilson that contained the phrase "Too proud to fight" was delivered in Philadelphia at the Convention Hall, and was delivered at such a citizenship meeting. In the preceding year there had been four thousand aliens naturalized in the Philadelphia courts and the Chamber of Commerce and other civic bodies got together and made a general arrangement for the reception of those four thousand aliens, at which Woodrow Wilson was to deliver the principal address. That was one of the greatest meetings ever held in Philadelphia; ten thousand people were present, including these four thousand aliens who had just received the right of citizenship.

It happened that two or three days before that meeting the Lusitania was sunk and consequently there was the keenest possible anxiety to know what President Wilson would say and that was the occasion, in his welcome to those four thousand aliens, when he made use of the famous phrase: "There is such a thing as being so right that you do not need to fight in order to prove it; if I may say so there is such a thing as being too proud to fight."

That was a famous speech on a famous occasion and I think that occasion ought to be reproduced in every section of our State on Citizenship Sunday, and with particular reference to the band of young people who must take on the burden and an immense burden it is, of participation in government at the present time; they ought to feel this fact they have now become voting citizens is regarded by their neighbors as one of the great achievements of their lives, and I think we can do that in a Statewide way by taking advantage of this celebration that is to take place on the first Sunday in May.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. McGINNIS read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 437, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

RECALLING SENATE BILL No. 198, PRINTER'S No. 32 FROM THE GOVERNOR

Mr. TALLMAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 26, 1941.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That Senate Bill No. 198, Printer's No. 32, entitled "An act to validate and quiet the title to real estate in this Commonwealth held by a foreign corporation unauthorized to hold the same, and heretofore conveyed to a citizen of the United States or a corporation authorized to hold such real estate," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE TO RAISE MAXIMUM AMOUNT OF INSURANCE CARRIED BY A RELIEF RECIPIENT

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I wish to offer a resolution and I would first like to make a brief statement regarding same.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cambria will proceed.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, on February 3, I introduced a resolution pertaining to the abolition of the procedure carried out by the Department of Public Assistance with reference to the cancellation of life insurance policies.

As all my colleagues know I have spoken on the subject quite a number of times. Yesterday in this chamber a colleague of mine, the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, introduced a similar resolution, two schools of the same thought, with two different teachers, of course. So, Mr. President, after attending two meetings yesterday afternoon, one in the afternoon held by the Chairman of the Committee on Public Assistance and one last night conducted by the Chairman of the Committee on Insurance, Mr. Edmonds, I believe we have reached a medium whereby the introduction of this resolution might bring about the thought I had in mind.

This resolution, Mr. President, I want to make it clear, is not as I would like it to be but as I think the gentleman from Somerset told me, half a loaf is better than none. To me it is half a loaf. However, it does appease the thousands and thousands of persons who have been called upon to sign away their life insurance policies before relief might be granted to them.

Mr. President, I would like to have this resolution read at this time and possibly will then speak on it, after it has been read. I might also state this resolution has been sponsored jointly by the gentleman from Cumberland and myself.

Messrs. HALUSKA and WADE offered the following resolution which was twice read:

Whereas, The Department of Public Assistance has and is at the present time compelling all persons that apply or are receiving Public Assistance cancel any Life Insurance Policy whether held by the relief recipient or by any member of his family in excess of $500.00, and

Whereas, Many persons have paid premiums on such Life Insurance Policies for as long as thirty-five years and now are compelled to cancel these policies at a great loss and thereby depriving their dependents from any recovery after death in excess of $500.00, therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concur), That the Department of Public Assistance be requested and notified to at once raise the maximum amount of Insurance permitted to be carried by a relief recipient or by any or all members of his or her family directly affected from $500.00 to not less than $1000.00 in policy or policies either paid up or in premium paying period, and be it further

Resolved, That the Department of Public Assistance is requested to notify its various County Boards of Assistance of this request and resolution immediately upon its passage.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

The PRESIDENT. Apparently the Senator from Cumberland has found the correct definition of the word "plagiarism."

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I have looked in the dictionary and at the Chair's invitation I will state to the members of this honorable body that I have found several definitions. The first was the definition of "plagiarism" which said, in my dictionary "To purloin a work of art or contribution of literature." I went further, Mr. President, and looked up the word "purr" which means "the contented sound of a kitten or cat." It is not necessary, I suppose, to say anything further regarding the word "loin" which means portions of meat of an animal for human consumption.

The gentleman from Butler, Mr. Carr, very willingly gave me this contribution:

"A plagiarist is a guy who steals
Another's right to earn his meals
By taking the product of his toil
Acquired by burning of midnight oil,
Who diverts to uses of his own
What belongs to its author, to him alone.
To being one I do not plead;
I have brains of my own and do not need
To steal the product of any man
Who can think no better than what I can."

Mr. REED. Mr. President,—

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cumberland yield to the gentleman from Washington.

Mr. WADE. I would like to continue, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland.

Mr. WADE. I would like to continue if I may for a moment, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Cumberland will proceed.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I would like to further state a third definition was to borrow without any intention of returning.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I just wanted to inquire whether this resolution was a Senate resolution, a joint resolution or a concurrent resolution.

The PRESIDENT. It is a Senate concurrent resolution.

Mr. WADE. To continue, Mr. President, if I may. This resolution which has been presented by the gentleman from Cambria is a joint resolution, jointly sponsored and also it is a concurrent resolution; he and I have come to the understanding there should be a ceiling put on its limit and secondly, after he and I attended the meeting of the Committee on Public Assistance and also after, later in the evening, we had rather an extended discussion on this matter before the Committee on Insurance, at which where present both the chairman of the Committee on Public Assistance and the chairman on the Committee on Insurance, we heard the Honorable Matthew H. Taggert discuss the very thing we are dealing with in these resolutions, and now in this third joint resolution. We feel there is a very distinct need for notification to the department along this line and I am therefore going to ask, Mr. President, for unanimous consent to consider the resolution at this time.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I rise on a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his point of information.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I would like to have that portion of the resolution read that deals with the very delicate invitation issued to the Department of Public Assistance to put this so-called ceiling into effect.

The PRESIDENT. The Clerk will re-read the resolution slowly and distinctly.

(The Clerk re-read a portion of the resolution.)

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I think that will be enough for my purpose. I think I still have the floor, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will continue.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I would like to call to the attention of the gentleman from Cumberland, as well as to the attention of the gentleman from Cambria, the delicate language used in the resolution that "The Department of Public Assistance be requested," and I would like to invite the attention of the gentleman from Cumberland and also the gentleman from Cambria to the fact that back in 1939 we requested the Department of Public Assistance to stop using those bonds and our request was ignored through a technicality, but which still is very irritating. I am not quarreling with the resolution, Mr. President, and will vote for it but I must say it is a very delicate type of request to the Department and we might be in very grave danger, they would ignore it the way they did the other request, through another technicality, and I think the use of the word is too mild; I think the Department should be directed so that there is no misunderstanding as to the feeling of the Senate and the House in this matter.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the gentleman from Allegheny interrupted the reading of the resolution at a point where I desired to hear the resolution read.

The PRESIDENT. The Clerk will continue with the reading of the resolution.

(The Clerk continued to read the resolution.)

Mr. EALY. To me, Mr. President, it is apparent from a reading of the resolution, instead of putting a ceiling on the amount of this insurance it has, as the gentleman from Allegheny has just suggested, put a floor on it and I think the words "less than a thousand" should be changed to "not over a thousand dollars."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I object to immediate consideration of this resolution. I do not believe in accordance with the wording as set forth that the resolution will accomplish what it is intended to accomplish. This resolution as stated now would seem to make it compulsory for all those on relief who, if they have $500 of insurance or $750 of insurance, to carry at least a thousand dollars insurance, and that certainly is not the intention.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, did I understand the gentleman from Allegheny to say this would compel relief recipients to carry a policy up to one thousand dollars?

Mr. GELTZ. That is what I understand from the word ing of this resolution, Mr. President, and that certainly is not the intention of the gentleman from Cambria.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, for the information of the gentleman from Allegheny may I state the resolution speaks for itself. It is self-explanatory, and it just means any person may carry a policy up to the extent of one thousand dollars face value.

Now, Mr. President, in the event the Department of Public Assistance should find some person who has a fifteen hundred dollar policy—as they pointed out themselves through Dr. Bowman yesterday—they have the right in this provision to sit down and make their own terms with that man. He said they had many applicants—they are compelled to deal with each case individually and it is for that reason we give them that right, that in the event they find a condition where they must deal with it, they can not be hampered by saying "not over one thousand dollars." He may have borrowed on the policy.

They also stated yesterday in the committee meeting, which I was privileged to attend, that any person who has a policy in excess of five hundred dollars and sees fit to continue same regardless of the amount, may assign that policy to this Commonwealth—it shall become the beneficiary if the applicant sees fit to continue that policy, hoping someday he may be in a position to redeem that policy. They are willing to negotiate such terms and so, Mr. President, I think for the benefit of the policyholder who might have a two thousand dollar policy he should automatically make the Commonwealth the beneficiary of a thousand dollars, with the thought in mind that someday he might be in a position to repay the Commonwealth and once again redeem the full value of that policy.

I think we should encourage that, Mr. President, and give that man that possible chance of some day redeeming that policy. I see no harm in doing it, Mr. Geltz.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I am in complete agreement with the purpose desired to be accomplished by the gentleman from Cambria but I still do not believe this resolution is what he intends, because it says not less than one thousand dollars instead of not over one thousand dollars. If the purpose, as I understand it, is to take care of the poor person who is up against it—there are many workers in this Commonwealth who have so-called industrial insurance in amount possibly of three hundred, five hundred and seven hundred fifty dollars, and I believe under this resolution it would be necessary for that individual to increase his policy up to not less than one thousand dollars, thereby maybe working further hardship.

I do not see any sense, Mr. President, in continuing this discussion and argument here, particularly in view of the fact we have an important hearing scheduled for this afternoon at one o'clock. I can see no harm in this resolution being referred to committee and having the wording set up properly in the resolution so that when it comes out we can put it through and get some action.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Cambria permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HALUSKA. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I want to ask the gentleman from Cambria whether he intends to follow this resolution, if it passes, by the introduction of a bill.

Mr. HALUSKA. I might state, Mr. President, if my colleagues feel it might be necessary to enact legislation, specific legislation, I shall be only too happy to do so.

Mr. REED. I might state from my study of this problem, Mr. President, passage of this resolution in itself will not correct the ill that the Senator from Cambria is aiming at. It might create some sentiment in favor of his proposition but I think he will have to follow this by introducing a bill correcting the law as passed at a former session.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I might answer my good friend from Washington by saying to the best of my knowledge we have no law governing this procedure. The law does state, however, that the Department of Public Assistance shall have the right and power and its duty shall be to make its own rules and regulations and therefore we are going to point out to them one of the rules we shall dictate and by this joint resolution I think we are pointing very specifically which rule we wish to dictate.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I rise on a brief parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will proceed.

Mr. WOODWARD. As I understand, Mr. President, a joint resolution must be concurred in by both houses.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. WOODWARD. The reading clerk announced this as a joint resolution and the gentleman from Cambria spoke of it as a concurrent resolution.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair understands it is a concurrent resolution and must go to the House for concurrence.

Mr. WOODWARD. What then, Mr. President, is the difference between a concurrent and a joint resolution.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, a concurrent resolution requires the approval of the Governor.

Mr. WOODWARD. There are resolutions which do not have to be submitted to the House. What do you call them?

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia a joint resolution does not require approval by the Governor.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. A joint resolution does not require the approval of the Governor, Mr. President, but a concurrent resolution does.

Mr. WOODWARD. Thank you.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I would like to correct a statement attributed to me by the gentleman from Allegheny and also the gentleman from Somerset, regarding the wording of the resolution. This resolution as worded does not require that insurance be brought up to one thousand dollars; on the other hand it makes this statement in very clear language, that the Department of Public Assistance be requested and notified to at once raise the maximum amount of insurance from five hundred dollars to not less than one thousand dollars; it does not require that they carry one thousand dollars.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not think it would strengthen this resolution at all if we changed the wording that they "be requested" to "be directed"; I do not think you can make a law by resolution that is effective. You must remember that the Department under existing law has the right to make rules and regulations not inconsistent with the purposes of the act and therefore all we can do is to request.

I am afraid, Mr. President, we may find ourselves in the position very soon, in view of the regulations that have been made or complaints that are being made against regulations enacted by many departments, of requiring that the Legislature either stay in session continuously to approve those rules or to appoint a standing committee which will have authority to supervise the rules and provide that no rules shall be adopted without its consent.

This resolution, Mr. President, in its present form is a proper resolution. I confess I am responsible for the addition of the words "at least for a very definite reason."

This resolution does not say a recipient of relief shall have so much insurance but it provides where they do have it the department shall permit them to have at least a thousand dollars of insurance. If you want to say no more than a thousand dollars you put the situation back again in its original position. Suppose a man has eleven hundred dollars of insurance and it is very important in the opinion and the reasonable judgment of the department he shall have eleven or twelve hundred dollars of insurance; it would be much better for him to maintain twelve hundred dollars of insurance and to cancel the overplus. Why tie the hands of the department? This resolution does not say everyone shall keep more than a thousand dollars; it says the minimum shall be at least one thousand dollars. I heard from the secretary himself that in certain cases they permit the carrying of twelve hundred dollars or even fifteen hundred dollars of insurance, where they have deemed it to be the advantage of the department and the relief recipient to permit that.

Here, Mr. President, you have a plain resolution which may not say that you shall do it, but even though it does not, or it did, it would not make any difference, because it is still within the realm and jurisdiction of the department.

This is merely the joint expression of the House and the Senate that it is the opinion of the House and the Senate that the rule now in existence and being enforced is not to the best interest of everybody concerned and we therefore place ourselves on record in requesting that the department shall adopt a rule which will allow insurance to be carried up to at least one thousand dollars.

The only way this can be enforced, Mr. President, is by following it up, if the department does not carry out our suggestion, by enacting a law and if you enact a law for that you might just as well begin enacting laws for every regulation with which you disagree and it seems to me the way to handle this is to send it over merely for what it is worth and all it can be worth is a suggestion or expression of opinion by both the Senate and the House and I see no reason why it should not be passed.

Mr. WOODWARD. At the risk of being discourteous Mr. President, I suggest that we have in the Senate a rule whereby a speaker may only speak twice on the same subject and when you come to details such as are being discussed in connection with this resolution I think they ought to be debated in committee because I would like to vote on the bills on the Calendar. We have given a lot of time to this very detailed question and without being discourteous I think perhaps we might be limited to speaking twice.

RESOLUTION REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

The PRESIDENT. There has been objection to immediate adoption of the resolution and there is only one thing the Chair can do, refer the resolution to committee, which is hereby done.

The resolution is referred to the Committee on Insurance.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I want to record my objection to this resolution being referred to the Committee on Insurance. I have been afraid it is an insurance bill but really it is a public assistance matter and I think it should be referred to the Committee on Public Assistance.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair was of the same opinion and if there is no objection it can be withdrawn from the Committee on Insurance and re-referred to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

Mr. EDMONDS. The last resolution on this subject, Mr. President, introduced by the gentleman from Cumberland, was referred to the Committee on Insurance and considered by the committee but last night when the committee was in session it was the general feeling of the committee it should be referred to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions, it would probably find its lodgment in its logical destination, so that there would be no objection on the part of the Committee on Insurance to this resolution being re-referred to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

RESOLUTION RE-REFERRED

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is re-referred to the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 41, as follows:

An Act to further amend section five hundred and three of the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 343) entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State government providing for the settlement assessment collection and lien of taxes bonus and all other accounts due the Commonwealth the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties affecting every department board commission and officer of the State government every political subdivision of the State and certain officers of such subdivisions every person association and corporation required to pay assess or collect taxes or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth" by allowing interest on refunds due from the Commonwealth

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section five hundred and three of the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 343) entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State government providing for the settlement assessment collection and lien of taxes bonus and all other accounts due the Commonwealth the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties affecting every department board commission and officer of the State government every political subdivision of the State and certain officers of such subdivisions every person association and corporation required to pay assess or collect taxes or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth" as last amended by section two of the act approved the seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (P. L. 283) and section one of the act approved the sixth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 261) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 503 Refunds of State Taxes License Fees Et Cetera The Board of Finance and Revenue shall have the power and its duty shall be

(a) To hear and determine any petition for the refund of taxes license fees penalties fines bonus or other moneys paid to the Commonwealth and to which the Commonwealth is not rightfully or equitably entitled and upon the allowance of any such petition to refund such taxes license fees penalties fines bonus or other moneys with interest at the rate of two per centum per annum from the date when such moneys were paid into the State Treasury to the date of the refund thereof out of any appropriation or appropriations made for the purpose or to credit the account of the person association corporation body politic or public officer entitled to the refund with the amount of the refund and interest thereon at the rate of two per centum per annum from the date on which such moneys were paid into the State Treasury to the date of the issuance of the order granting the refund in the nature of a credit All such petitions must be filed with the board within two years of the payment of which refund is requested except

(1) Where a petition for refund filed by a domestic or foreign corporation involves the valuation of its capital stock or in case of a foreign corporation the valuation of its tangible property for bonus purposes or where a petition for refund filed by a bank title insurance or trust company involves the valuation of its shares of stock such petition must be filed with the board within one year of the payment of which refund is requested

(2) When the estate upon which any transfer inheritance tax has been paid shall have consisted in whole or in part of a partnership or other interest of uncertain value or shall have been involved in litigation by reason whereof there shall have been an overvaluation of that portion of the estate on which the tax has been assessed and paid which overvaluation could not have been ascertained within said period of two years In such case the application for repayment shall be made to the Board of Finance and Revenue within one year from the termination of such litigation or ascertainment of such overvaluation

(3) When a court of record has adjudged a person to be legally dead and thereafter in the settlement of his or her estate a transfer inheritance tax shall have been paid on such estate and after such payment has been made such person shall reappear and the court shall rescind its order and adjudication In such case the petition to the board shall be led within six months after the court shall have rescinded its order and adjudication

(4) When any tax or other money has been paid to the Commonwealth under a provision of an act of Assembly subsequently held by the court of final jurisdiction to be unconstitutional or under an interpretation of such provision subsequently held by such court to be erroneous In such case the petition to the board shall be filed within five years of the payment of which a refund is requested But the limitation of five years herein prescribed shall not be deemed to apply in the case of applications for refunds of taxes paid on liquid fuels by political subdivisions prior to the effective date of this amendment where by court decision it has been held that the collection of such tax was erroneous and without authority of law if application for such refunds shall be made within two years after the effective date of this amendment

(b) To hear and determine any petition for the remission of penalties imposed and paid for failure to file any tax or bonus report within the time specified by law If the board be satisfied that the failure to file the report was not wilful that the report was actually filed within thirty days after it was due and that the amount of tax or bonus exclusive of penalty admitted to be due was paid to the Commonwealth within thirty days after the date when payment of the tax or bonus became due it may allow the petition and refund the amount of the penalty or any part thereof out of any appropriation or appropriations made for the purpose with interest at the rate of two per centum per annum from the date when such moneys were paid into the State Treasury to the date of refund thereof or credit the account of the person association corporation body politic or public officer by whom or which the penalty was paid with the amount of the refund and interest thereon at the rate of two per centum per annum from the date on which such moneys were paid into the State Treasury to the date of the issuance of the order granting the refund in the nature of a credit but no such petition shall be considered unless it be filed within two years after the penalty was paid

(c) To hear and determine petitions for the remission of penalties imposed but not paid for failure to file any tax or bonus eport within the time specified by law If the board be satisfied that the failure to file the report was not wilful that the report was actually filed within thirty days after it was due and that the amount of tax or bonus exclusive of penalty admitted to be due was paid to the Commonwealth within thirty days after the date when payment of the tax or bonus became due it may strike off the penalty or any part thereof but no such petition shall be considered unless it be filed within two years after the penalty was imposed

(d) All petitions filed under this section shall be in such form as the board shall prescribe

(e) The action of the board on all petitions filed under this section shall be final

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, this is the last of four bills recommended to the General Assembly by the Pennsylvania Bar Association after very careful study. All these bills provide for is interest upon refunds, obtaining from the time the refund is due; the interest is fixed at two per cent. There was a question as to how much this would cost the Commonwealth and an inquiry was made of the Department of Revenue and they replied that in their best judgment they did not think it would cost fifty thousand dollars and if that is the case, if a private citizen has overpaid taxes and is entitled to a refund, it seems to me in all justice there should be some interest and I hope therefore the members of the Senate will favor this bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—44

Barr,	Dent,	Letzler,	Stiefel,
Bartlett,	Ealy,	Mallery,	Tallman,

NAYS—0

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 50, entitled:

An Act providing that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its political subdivisions employ only citizens and applicants to become citizens of the United States.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CROWE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Monroe state whether it is his intention by this bill to alter or change the law of this Commonwealth on the subject of employing non-citizens on the public works of this Commonwealth and the municipal divisions of this Commonwealth? Is it his intention to change the law so as to make it easier for non-citizens to become employed?

Mr. CROWE. No, Mr. President, that is not the intention.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Is it the intention, Mr. President, of the author of the bill to strengthen the laws as they now stand upon the statute books.

Mr. CROWE. That is the idea, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the gentleman from Luzerne is the author of amendments to this bill. Will the gentleman from Luzerne state whether it is his intention by the amendments to weaken the present laws on the statute books dealing with this subject?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I do not know of any present laws on the statute books, but it is not the intention of the amendment to weaken any law.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Since we have the intentions of both the sponsor of the bill and the gentleman from Luzerne who has introduced amendments, I wish to call to the attention to this body certain statutes that are now on the statute books.

The first one, Mr. President, is the act of June 25, 1895, P. L. 269, found in 43 Purden's Pennsylvania Statute, Section 151, which reads as follows:

"None but citizens of the United States shall be employed in any capacity in the erection, enlargement or improvement of any public building or public work within this Commonwealth, provided that apprentices for a trade or profession who may be under twenty-one years of age shall not be subject to the provisions of this act, provided that the provisions of this act shall not apply to a public work where the cost thereof is paid in whole or in part from assessments or benefits."

I also wish to call the attention of this body to section 1202 of the school code of this Commonwealth which reads as follows:

"Every teacher employed to teach in the public schools of this Commonwealth must be a person of good moral character, must be at least eighteen years of age and must be a citizen of the United States; provided, however, that citizenship may be waived in the case of exchange teachers not permanently employed and teachers employed for the purpose of teaching foreign languages."

Now, Mr. President, the bill that is before us, as amended, contains a provision that no department, bureau, commission, or office of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or of any city, borough, township, school district, or of any other political subdivision shall employ any person who is not a citizen of the United States or who has not duly filed his application for certificate of arrival or preliminary form for declaration of intention or preliminary form for petition for naturalization directed toward becoming a citizen of the United States; provided, however, that citizenship may be waived in the case of exchange teachers not permanently employed and teachers employed for the purpose of teaching foreign languages."

This bill before us merely, as far as teachers are concerned, restates the law as is now provided in section 1202 of the school code but the first part of this bill which deals with the employment of non-citizens changes the existing law by permitting the employment of non-citizens simply upon showing that they have filed an application for a certificate of arrival.

Mr. President, at this present time every refugee that is being disembarked on the shores of these United States of America carries a certificate of arrival with him as soon as he is accepted and permitted to land in these United States; he carries with him his passport issued to him by the Department of the United States of America and has no difficulty whatsoever of obtaining a certificate of arrival. He can get it right then and there when he arrives, while the poor devil who has been in this country for twenty or thirty years and who lost track of the ship on which he landed in the United States and whose arrival can not be proven, that gentleman is put in a more difficult position than we put the refugees that are being unloaded on our shores today.

This act changes the existing law to a point that whereas the law as it now stands includes non-citizens, this act will permit the employment of a non-citizen merely upon showing he has duly filed his application for certificate of arrival and preliminary forms for declaration of intention, which is one and the same petition, or a preliminary form of petition for naturalization.

Now, members of this Senate, there is no question that this bill weakens the present law as it is because it contains section three which says, "All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed," and the act of 1895, P. L. 269, which provides that only citizens will be employed, will be ditched, will be repealed, and the law will be changed and replaced with the bill before this Senate, a bill which does not strengthen the laws as they exist but weakens them to the point as I have already indicated, which will permit under this bill employment of non-citizens whereas the statutes as they now exist will not permit the employment of a non-citizen; whether he has filed his application for a certificate of arrival or whether he has filed his preliminary application for naturalization, the present law will not permit him to be employed, but if you pass this bill, Mr. President, he will be permitted to be employed and so I question very seriously whether or not the amendments placed in this bill are actually consistent with the intentions of the sponsor of the bill, intentions that were honest and sincere and intended to bring about a strengthening of the law and not a weakening of the present law and I say that this bill is bad and is no good and ought to be defeated because its ultimate purpose as it is now before us is to make more easy the employment of refugees who are coming to our shores at this very moment.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, before the gentleman from Fayette spoke it was my intention to ask that this bill go over in its order. After noting the remarks of the gentleman from Fayette I will very frankly say I believe there is some merit in them.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 50, Printer's No. 75, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 125, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county, city (except city of the first and second class), borough, town, township, school district (except school district of the first and second class), and county institution district taxes; prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period; and preserving certain tax liens, and providing for the extension thereof.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL No. 125

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 125, passed second reading.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?:

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I voted "aye."

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I voted "aye."

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the title was agreed to.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

And the question recurring, "

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Sections from one to ten inclusive of the bill were severally reconsidered.

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 All penalties and interest imposed on delinquent county city (except cities of the first and second class) borough town township school district (except school districts of the first and second class) and county institution district taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and forty and all previous years and all penalties and interest imposed on such taxes for the years aforesaid assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate and on delinquent poll taxes levied for any of such years are hereby abated without the necessity of further action by the authority levying the tax if said delinquent taxes are paid as hereinafter provided

In order to receive the benefits of the installment system of payment provided by this act ten per centum or more of the delinquent taxes due for the year one thousand nine hundred and forty and for all previous years shall be paid on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-one and the balance due on such delinquent taxes in payments of ten per centum or more of such delinquent taxes Provided however That the final payment shall be made on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-five And provided That the respective current taxes on such parcel or parcels of real estate and on delinquent poll taxes levied for the years subsequent to the year one thousand nine hundred and forty-one during such installment periods assessed and levied by such taxing authority shall be paid before they become delinquent For the purposes of this act a tax shall be deemed to become delinquent on the date when a penalty attaches to the tax If and whenever any of the said current taxes or any of the said installments are not paid when due and payable as herein provide then and in that event there shall become due and payable for such year a sum equal to one-fifth of the total amount of the abated penalties and interest in addition to the other payment required to be paid under this act during that year which delinquent payment and said additional sum shall be payable and must be paid at the time the next succeeding installment payment becomes due under this act If such sum is not so paid then the total amount of the abated penalties and interest less the aggregate of any such additional sums theretofore paid shall be revived and added to the unpaid taxes with the same force and effect as if such abated penalties and interest or portion thereof had never been abated and the taxpayer shall not thereafter be entitled to any further benefits or privileges under this act

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move to amend section 1, page 1, line 4, by striking out the words "and second;" amend section 1, page 2, line 7, by inserting after the word "provided" the following: "unless the authority levying the tax shall notify the county treasurer within thirty days after this act becomes effective, that the taxing authority has rejected by a majority vote, the provisions of this act.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The title of the bill was read as follows,

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county city (except cities of the first and second class) borough town township school district (except school borough town township school district (except school districts of the first and second class) and county institution district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title of the bill?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I move to amend title, page 1, line 4 of title, by striking out the words "and second."

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the title as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 172 on third reading, entitled

An Act to amend section eight hundred one and nine hundred seventy-six of the act, approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1333) entitled "An act concerning elections, including general, municipal, special and primary elections, the nomination of candidates, primary and election expenses and election contests; creating and defining membership of county boards of elections; imposing duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth, courts, county boards of elections, county commissioners; imposing penalties for violation of the act, and codifying; revising and consolidating the laws relating thereto; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to elections," by further defining parties and political bodies, and further defining the duties of the Secretary of the Commonwealth with respect to nomination petitions, certificates and papers.

be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General for the purpose of discussing amendments.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, at the risk of having my patriotism challenged and being classified as a traitor to my country, as I have said, I would like to move that Senate Bill No. 172 be rereferred to the Committee on Judiciary General for the purpose of discussing the amendments presented by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

I might say in defense of the committee that the amendments suggested by the gentleman from Philadelphia were suggested to the committee after the meeting of the committee was over and the committee had adjourned.

Very frankly, Mr. President, it is my personal opinion—I am not speaking for the committee—it is my personal opinion the amendments offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, while they are on the same subject matter as the amendments placed in the bill during the committee meeting yesterday, are much better than the amendments placed in the bill by the committee originally.

It is the very earnest desire of both sponsors of the bill to have a clear cut bill. I might also state, Mr. President, this matter has been discussed with the Attorney General and in his opinion, if I may quote him, these amendments are perfectly satisfactory to him.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I object to the motion and I want to speak on it.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Fayete will proceed.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. This makes about the third time this bill has been recommitted and I think it is absolutely unfair at this time for many reasons. If the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, has any amendments to make there should be no objection to allowing the whole membership of this body to know what the amendments are and to discuss them here on the floor of the Senate so that every member of this Senate may have an opportunity to say whether those amendments ought to be put in this bill or not.

It is very unfair, Mr. President, to ask that the bill be sent back to committee, where only a limited number of the members of this body will pass upon the amendments before they are inserted in the bill, and I wish to oppose sending this bill back to committee for that reason and for the additional reason that every member of this body has been furnished with the amendments suggested by the gentleman from Philadelphia; they are on our desks and we can consider them right here and if they are proper amendments we can make them right here on the floor of the Senate. I do not like it and I do not think the bill should be recommitted for the purpose of considering what we now have before us.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, when this bill first came before the Senate I suggested that the bill was defective, in that it did not provide for any procedure in order to protect the interests of all parties concerned in such a drastic change in the law. The gentleman from Fayette, you will all recall, spoke about the fact there are other sections in this bill and those other sections provide the procedure.

I made the suggestion when this bill first came up, the same suggestion I am now making, that the keeping of those petitions off the ballot should be done by more than one person, that a procedure should be set up clearly stated so that those who are interested will know their rights and their responsibilities.

The bill lingered here for some time, we had a public hearing and nothing was done about it and after the meeting I was informed for the first time when I came here this week that there was to be an amendment and on Monday I saw the amendment and yesterday I began working on a new amendment and when I got to the committee meeting I found that the meeting had—it had not adjourned as the gentleman from Allegheny inadvertently said, but I found the committee had already considered the bill before I got there and was considering a number of other bills and at the close of the meeting I suggested the amendments I had prepared and left them with the committee. There were not enough members of the committee left at that time to act upon the matter and the procedure I suggested and I said I would follow it up when I got out of the committee meeting and the Senate had convened.

Now, Mr. President, I have prepared I think fifty copies of these amendments and they were placed on the desks of most of the Senators; probably there were a few short but I know they are available to the majority of the Senators and they have been on their desks for a half hour or three-quarters of an hour.

I do not care whether the gentleman's procedure is followed or not but I think in a bill of this importance it should not be followed because— I may be wrong about this—I prefer to have the matter fairly discussed and carefully examined; as a matter of fact, between yesterday and today I found that I had to correct my amendment on the question of time because of the amount of time involved in the filing of papers, so that it is not a matter you can consider in two or three minutes or even a half hour's time. There is no rush about this. The hordes are not at our doors now and we can take this matter and give it careful consideration, which will be much better than what we have done with Senate Bill No. 50. We heard the sponsors of Senate Bill No. 50 answer interrogations by the gentleman from Fayette, whereby they stated it was not their intention to weaken the law and yet section three of this bill—and so does section three of every bill—provide that so far as an amendment is concerned it changes the existing law where it is inconsistent and now we are having Senate Bill No. 50 on our Calendar again and we are going to amend it again and again and unless we give these matters careful consideration and study you get nowhere. I think this bill is entitled to careful study and I think we should give the matter very careful study. I have spent two weeks studying the amendments and I do not expect anybody can agree with me in a half hour's time.

As a matter of fact, Mr. President, I discussed the amendments with the Attorney General this morning and I asked him to give them careful consideration because I thought the bill was worth that and he said to me at first blush he did not think there was any harm in it.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I do not like to interrupt the gentleman from Philadelphia but I would like to observe that in this Senate Chamber, as I understand it, at one o'clock there is to be a public hearing at which witnesses will be present who have come from all over this state. I think Mr. President, the proper thing is to allow this bill to go back to committee because we do not have time to discuss these amendments on this floor at this time and I therefore do not think it is proper to discuss it any longer.

Mr. SHAPIRO. May I proceed, Mr. President? I think I am in order; I am discussing the proposed motion to recommit this bill. I think that is debatable.

The PRESIDENT. The motion is to recommit the bill, but debate on the substance of the bill is not in order.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am not debating the substance of the bill; I am debating the procedure of re-referring it to committee. I am simply suggesting that the amendments are of such size that they can not be discussed here. I am not discussing the merits of the amendments, Mr. President; I am simply urging that this bill ought not to be amended on the floor of this Senate.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion to recommit Senate Bill No. 172.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—43

Barr,	Edmonds,	McGinnis,	Taylor,

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 300, as follows:

An Act to further amend subsection (h) of section one hundred two of the act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 797) entitled "An act to establish a Bureau of Forest Protection within the Department of Forestry designating the officers who shall constitute the Bureau their duties and salaries prescribing penalties for the violation thereof and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that may be inconsistent with or supplied by this act" authorizing the Department of Forests and Waters to dispose of telephone lines by sale or lease

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Subsection (h) of section one hundred two of the act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 797) entitled "An act to establish a Bureau of Forest Protection within the Department of Forestry designating the officers who shall constitute the Bureau their duties and salaries prescribing penalties for the violation thereof and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that may be inconsistent with or supplied by this act" as amended by the act approved the seventh day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three (P. L. 140) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 102 Duties

* * * *

(h) The Department of Forests and Waters shall plan and put into effect as rapidly as convenient a system of fire towers observation stations and a system of telephone lines which shall cover the regions subject to forest fires and for such purposes may purchase the necessary material and equipment to build and maintain such towers stations and lines and hire the necessary labor for the installation of such systems In maintaining systems of telephone lines the department is authorized to buy or lease any existing lines The department may permit the attachment of telephones of persons firms and corporations on such lines under such conditions and for such rental as may be agreed upon with the approval of the Governor The department may also sell or lease any telephone lines or parts thereof that are no longer required for the use of the department or can be supplanted by more efficient and economical telephone service on such terms and for such consideration as it shall deem proper All moneys received hereunder shall be paid into the State Treasury through the Department of Revenue and shall be added to and become a part of the current appropriation to the Department of Forests and Waters and is hereby appropriated for the extension maintenance and upkeep of such telephone lines and for the purchase of such telephone service. Provided That there shall be no competition by the Department of Forests and Waters in telephone service with any commercial telephone company

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

WEDNESDAY, March 26, 1941

The House met at 12 m.
The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. DONALD McFALL, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, thou hast encouraged us in thy holy word to pour out our hearts before thee, and through the medium of prayer, to make known unto thee our requests and supplications with thanksgiving. We thank thee for the work of Thy Spirit in our hearts, and beseech thee to lead us not into temptation but deliver us from evil. May we meditate daily on thy holy will and fatherly goodness that our minds may be purified of all thoughts that are unworthy. Help us, O God, to think on things that are honorable and true, lovely and pure, and let no guile be found in our mouths.

As word has come to this House of another member having undergone a serious operation, we ask thy special blessing upon Representative Skale of Philadelphia. May he put his trust in Thee and in due season may he be returned to this House. Bless every person within the sound of my voice. We pray it in Thy Name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. LEYDIC, unanimously agreed to, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. CHUDOFF and MODELL.

RESOLUTION No. 63.

In the House of Representatives, March 25, 1941.

Whereas, It is one of the postulates of a living and growing democracy that the health of its citizenry is both a national asset and a stimulating safeguard of spiritual buoyancy; and

Whereas, In the wake of recent depressions and resultant unemployment, there came a lowering of standards that sapped the health of an alarmingly substantial part of our population; and

Whereas, The Department of Public Assistance of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is charged, inter alia, with the duty of extending medical help to the needy and unemployed; and

Whereas, The formula heretofore adopted by the Department of Public Assistance for the compensation of physicians attending recipients of public assistance is based upon prorating of an amount computed on the basis of an allowance by the Department of Public Assistance of twenty cents (20c) per month for each person receiving assistance; and

Whereas, Said monthly amounts are tangibly reduced by priority payments to pharmacists who are exempt from prorating; and

Whereas, With the decrease of the number of recipients of public assistance the monthly amount available for prorating will shrink while the number of persons who are mostly in need of medical assistance and belong to the irreducible stratum of assistance-recipients, to wit, old-age pensioners, blind and assisted mothers, will remain stationary; and

Whereas, In addition to the paucity of their fees, the physicians rendering medical assistance to the needy and unemployed encounter needless delays in receiving said fees from the Department of Public Assistance; and

Whereas, An equitable revision of the formula for computation of the pro rata fees now paid by the Department of Public Assistance to physicians attending needy and unemployed would ensue in higher standards of medical assistance; now be it therefore

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania request the Secretary of Public Assistance to equitably revise the determinants guiding the prorating of fees payable to physicians attending recipients of assistance as well as expedite the payments of amounts now due to such physicians.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 112, as follows:

An Act to amend the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" authorizing counties of the third fourth fifth and sixth classes to acquire by lease purchase or condemnation land within the county for the purpose of establishing and maintaining airdromes and aviation landing fields authorizing the leasing of such facilities and the joint operation by said county of such facilities with other political subdivisions and authorizing appropriations for such purposes

Section 1 The act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" is hereby amended by adding thereto after section four hundred ninety-three a new section to read as follows

Section 494 Airdromes and Aviation Landing Fields in Counties of the Third Fourth Fifth and Sixth Class—(a) Any county of the third fourth fifth and sixth class is authorized to acquire by lease purchase or condemnation proceedings any lands within the limits of the county for the purpose of establishing and maintaining thereon airdromes and aviation landing fields whenever the county commissioners of the county by resolution duly adopted deem it advisable so to do

(b) Proceedings for the condemnation of lands and for the assessment of damages for property taken injured or destroyed shall be conducted in the manner provided by the act to which this is an amendment for the condemnation of lands for county purposes The title acquired by virtue of any such condemnation shall be a title in fee-simple

(c) Any county acquiring land hereunder is authorized to lease the same or any part thereof to any individual or corporation desiring to use the same for the purpose of landing or starting airplanes or other aviation purposes upon such terms and conditions and subject to such regulations as the county commissioners thereof may provide Any such county may enter into a contract in the form of a lease providing for the use of said land or any part thereof by the Government of the United States for use for aviation mail service or other aviation purposes upon nominal rental or other consideration

(d) Any county acquiring any land for such purpose may enter into a contract with any city or borough for the operation of any land acquired by the county or owned by it as a joint city or borough and county aviation field or airdrome upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon in writing between the corporate authorities of the city or borough and the county commissioners

(e) Any county acquiring any land for such purpose may by resolution of the board of commissioners appropriate such funds as are necessary for the engineering design surveys and construction of such an airport either wholly by themselves or in cooperation with State Federal or other public agencies supplying a portion of the necessary funds for said work

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 107, Printer's No. 104, was passed over at the request of the Speaker.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 251, as follows:

An Act to amend section eleven of the act approved the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2532) entitled "An act to establish funds to provide security for the payment of benefits in event of the insolvency of an insurance carrier authorized to write workmen's compensation insurance in this Commonwealth and to provide for the administration thereof" by providing that payment of an award from the funds established by said act shall not provide any right of recovery against the employer and that the employer may pay the award in advance of payment from the fund and shall thereupon be subrogated to the rights of the employe or any other party in interest against the fund

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enact as follows

Section 1 Section eleven of the act approved the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2532) entitled "An act to establish funds to provide security for the payment of benefits in event of the insolvency of an insurance carrier authorized to write workmen's compensation insurance in this Commonwealth and to provide for the administration thereof" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 11 (1) A valid claim for compensation or installments thereof heretofore or hereafter made pursuant to the Workmen's Compensation Law which has remained or shall remain due and unpaid for sixty days by reason of default after the effective date of this act by an insolvent carrier shall be paid from the proper fund in the manner provided in this act Any person in interest may file with the commissioner an application for payment of compensation from the proper fund on a form to be prescribed and furnished by the commissioner a certified copy of the award must accompany the application The commissioner shall thereupon certify to the State Treasurer such award for payment according to the terms of the same whereupon payment shall be made by the State Treasurer on warrant of the Auditor General and on requisition of the commissioner

(2) Payment of an award from either fund shall not give the commissioner of such fund any right of recovery against the employer

(3) An employer may pay an award or a part thereof in advance of payment from the fund and shall thereupon be subrogated to the rights of the employe or other party in interest against such fund to the extent of the amount so paid

(4) The commissioner shall be entitled to recover the sum of all liabilities of such insolvent carrier assumed by such stock or mutual fund from such carrier its receiver liquidator rehabilitator conservator or trustee in bankruptcy employer and all others liable under any of the terms of the Workmen's Compensation Law and may prosecute an action or other proceedings therefor All moneys recovered in any such action or proceedings shall forthwith be placed to the credit of the stock or mutual fund which has assumed such liability by the State Treasurer to reimburse the stock or mutual fund which has assumed such liability to the extent of the moneys so recovered and paid If and when all liabilities of all stock or of all mutual carriers for workmen's compensation losses in this Commonwealth shall have been fully liquidated distribution shall be made to all contributing stock companies or to all contributing mutual carriers of the remaining balance of such funds in the proportion in which each carrier made contribution to its respective fund Provided however That an insolvent carrier shall be entitled to share in the said distribution of its respective fund only to the extent that its distributive share of said fund is in excess of any losses paid out of said fund for its account by the treasurer in accordance with the terms of this act

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, in line with my request yesterday to the Members to help the Speaker, I think the Speaker is placed in a particularly difficult position when two members of his own party, and the representative of the Democratic party on the National Committee violate the rules. They ought to help out the Speaker of their own accord.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 50, as follows:

An Act to amend section four hundred eight of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" relieving school directors of the duty of visiting schools and of making reports thereof

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section four hundred eight of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 408 The board of school directors shall exercise general supervision over the schools of their respective districts [and shall except in districts having district superintendents or supervising principals by one or more of their number visit every school in the district at least once a month and shall cause the report of such visit to be entered on the minutes of the board]

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, House Bill No. 50, Printer's No. 122, as originally introduced repealed section 408 of the school code. There were many members of this House as well as many school directors in Pennsylvania who felt that by the repeal of section 408, we would take from the school directors the power which is as follows:

"The Board of School Directors shall exercise general supervision over the schools of their respective districts",

Therefore, I had that bill amended so as to leave that power vested in the school boards of Pennsylvania, and the bill as it is now before the House for action simply takes from the school directors their duty to visit all the schools in their district once a month and makes a report thereon. Since under the present law that section or provision applies only to fourth class school districts, I ask the House to support this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

LYKENS HIGH SCHOOL WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes to the House the Senior class of the Lykens High School. The members of this class are the guests of the Republican floor leader, the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, and also the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Habbyshaw.

FORMER MEMBER OF HOUSE WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair notices the presence this afternoon of the famous team, the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. O'Brien and the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Donohoe.

The Chair requests the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien to escort the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Donohoe, to the rostrum.

The Chair presents to the House the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Donohoe, long a member of this House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. PETROSKY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I rise at this time in order to clarify the record with reference to the Bethlehem Steel Strike referred to by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, in the session yesterday. I think this record can be clarified no better than by reading into this record an editorial that appeared in the Philadelphia Record as of March 26, 1941. The editorial follows:

"Bethlehem Steel Corporation, as one of the chief armament firms in the United States, occupies a peculiar position of power—and responsibility.

"Bethlehem Steel has used the power, evaded the responsibility.

"The growing importance of armaments over the last several centuries has enriched many men, including the men who run Bethlehem Steel. But it has also placed Bethlehem Steel in the position in which mercenary troops found themselves when armies began to grow more important.

"Capriciousness and private selfishness can be tolerated in armorers no more than in armies.

"Refusal of Bethlehem Steel to recognize its responsibility, and failure of the Government to enforce such responsibility upon Bethlehem Steel, are the underlying causes of the present strike at Bethlehem which is slowing down necessary work on defense.

"Bethlehem Steel, which has a semi-public status because of its huge defense contracts—and the huge Government subsidies it has received in the form of excess profits—over a long period of years, has defied even those Federal laws which apply to private citizens.

Here is a part of Bethlehem Steel's background in relation to this strike:

"1. It has succeeded in obtaining Government contracts in spite of the Walsh-Healy Act, which forbids Government contracts to firms with unfair labor practices. The Walsh-Healy Act is not meant to be merely an aid to labor organization. It is based in part on the idea that Government contracts should be filled on schedule . . ."

Filled on schedule, gentlemen, for national defense, an item that is today pertinent to the National Defense of the country. Continuing with the editorial:

"—and that firms with unfair labor practices will sooner or later be tied up with strikes.

"Had the Walsh-Healy Act been rigidly enforced as to Bethlehem, no defense contracts would be tied up by strike there today.

"2. Bethlehem refused to comply with the Wagner Labor Relations Act. In August, 1939, the N. L. R. B. ordered Bethlehem to disband a company union, . . ."

Such company unions were not considered by the courts of the land to be bona fide labor organizations.

". . . the Employe Representation Plan, because company unions are forbidden by law. The company appealed the case, and failed to comply with the order pending appeal. The courts have still to render a final decision.

"Meanwhile, the E. R. P. went on, with Bethlehem Steel support. The present strike began when the E. R. P. held an election in the plant, again a violation of the law.

"3. Bethlehem Steel has been one of the most profitable of American enterprises in this generation, especially for a little group of insiders."

That little group of insiders commonly known as the reactionary forces working against the labor movement.

Continuing with the editorial:

"During one 20-year period, these insiders voted themselves over $36,000,000 of bonuses in addition to salaries.

"During that period Bethlehem paid—and still pays—lower wages than competing plants.

"4. During the World War, Bethlehem Steel held up the United States Government for at least $25,000,000 by refusing to take contracts except on terms later described by a Federal Judge as follows:"

Before I read what the Federal Judge has stated as the term may I say to this House, is this an indication of American patriotism? It is a matter of record that they would not comply with the national defense in the previous war, and if war should come when or how are we to determine whether or not they will comply in a patriotic spirit with the defense of the United States of America? The Federal Judge terms the contract as follows:

"'(Bethlehem Steel) boldly and openly fixed the figures in the estimated cost so high as to give a promise of large bonus profits. The managers of the (U. S. wartime) Fleet Corporation protested it. The reply was: 'We will take this contract with the promise of bonus profits incorporated in it, but not otherwise. Take it or leave it.'"

Gentlemen, that is patriotism, it is cheap patriotism, with profits for the privileged few.

The editorial continues as follows:

"Are the strikers at Bethlehem Steel today asking for the equivalent of "bonus profits"? They are not. The Steel Workers' Organizing Committee proposes to send the men back to work on these terms:

"1. Strikers be taken back with no loss of seniority.

"2. That the E. R. P. stop holding elections on company property.

"3. That the company abide by the N. L. R. B. decision to disestablish the E. R. P."

Now, gentlemen, that is no more, no less than the decision that has been handed down by the law of the land.

Continuing with the editorial:

"4. That the company agree to negotiations looking toward a labor board election as provided by Federal law.

Only, my dear friends, asking those reactionary forces to adhere to the laws of the land and not to disregard those labor laws that have been placed on the statute books of this state and this nation by the liberal forces in the Democratic Party.

The editorial continues as follows:

"The last three demands amount to this: That Bethlehem Steel obey the law of the land—the law which 95 percent of employers now obey without question. The first demand isn't open to much argument.

"Bethlehem Steel has gotten away with defiance of the Government for so long that it takes a strike to make it obey the law.

"Bethlehem still thinks this is 1917, when it could tell the Government to go jump in the lake. It doesn't realize that a whole new attitude toward the responsibilities of employers has arisen in the last 10 years, a new attitude that is approved by a majority of businessmen as well as a majority of the people."

Mr. Speaker, there were many references yesterday during debate as to the intention of the Democratic Party to throw a sop to labor. They referred to a sop to labor in the words that most reactionaries will refer to them. If this was a sop to labor, a gesture by the Democratic party, then I ask the members on the other side of the House what was the gesture, what was the deed, what is the record of the Democratic party to labor in 1937?

As a matter of record may I say that in the labor movement it is my sole contention, my honest conviction, that the Trade Labor movement will establish economic stability in normal times, and to-day in a day of crisis, the labor movement is the bulwark of national defense.

May I read to this body the pledge of organized labor in another industry that is vital to the national defense of this country.

Organized Labor—

"In Peace, the bulwark of our economic stability.

"In War, the shock troop of our National Defense.

"As no chain is stronger than its weakest link, so must we gird now for the months that lie ahead; months that shall call for complete concentration of our man power if we are to become an Arsenal for Democracy, and in this hour of our nation's greatest peril labor is responding to the clarion call of national defense with characteristic speed.

"Dedicated to serve the public interest and to fortify our country's life lines in the tremendous task of strengthening each link of our defenses, each member of the Aluminum Workers of America is destined to play a major role in the program laid down for Labor by our Government. We therefore, accept the full responsibilities which is the inherent right of organized labor and have thrown the full weight of our organization behind the vital work of preparing for an adequate total defense.

"We re-affirm our unalterable belief in the teenets of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States as the principles upon which this country was founded and by which it grew to greatness. We shall oppose any and all foreign isms of subsersive nature that are contrary to the ideals of our people and our institutions, with the full knowledge that only under a free and democratic government can trade unionism flourish and live. American Labor is tried and tempered, born in the searing flames of conflicting standards of another decade, it has emerged True as Steel and is a guarantee that Americanism will carry on, united in a common purpose and facing a common front, to make a worthy America for worthy Americans. To all these things are we pledged to the end that our Democracy may survive forever."

The International Union of Aluminum Workers of America, one of the most vital industries of the national defense set-up have pledged themselves as well as the United Mine Workers of America, the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, and labor in general throughout the land have pledged themselves to the national defense program, and will do their utmost in the preservation of this great democracy of ours.

But today, gentlemen, have we seen that pledge carried out by any other person interested in the national defense program? Industry has not cooperated as was stated by the honorable gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, on this floor yesterday. Labor is not at fault in the strikes and in the industrial disputes that are arising at the present time. The fault lies just much and more so with the industrialists, due to the fact that on numerous occasions they have not adhered to the laws of the state and nation as regards labor.

Speaking further on the pledge of labor to the national defense of this country, may I say to you that the greatest defense plan of all times has been submitted to the Congress of the nation and to the President by none other than Phillip Murray, president of the CIO. It is known as the CIO Defense Plan. It is my knowledge, my understanding, my conviction, and sole contention that this plan will remedy those things that are happening today.

May I say that many inferences were made here on the floor of the House, many inferences which I think were no more than cheap gestures, cheap politics and if I may call it, cheap patriotism, made in the way of making a statement that they would follow the President of the United States, but in their actions the record speaks differently. May I say that the Governor of the Commonwealth has stated that he would full heartedly, and whole heartedly cooperate with the President of the United States in the national defense efforts of this nation, but today the record speaks for itself and only states the fact that he is doing nothing, but disregarding those labor laws of the nation and aiding those industrialists in disregarding the same to the detriment of labor in general.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, with reference to the charges which were made, clarified by this statement, I say, let the guilt rest upon those whom, according to this record, the guilt should rest. I thank you.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 26, 1941.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That Senate Bill No. 198, Printer's No. 32, entitled:

An Act to validate and quiet the title to real estate in this Commonwealth held by a foreign corporation unauthorized to hold the same and heretofore conveyed to a citizen of the United States or a corporation authorized to hold such real estate.

be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the House do non-concur in the resolution of the Senate.

It was non-concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. TURNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I think, the Members on the other side of the House are a bit confused this morning as there seems to have been confusion over what happened yesterday. The motion that was just made, as I understand it, was a motion to non-concur and I heard no "Ayes", but I heard a great volume of 'Nays", and the Speaker promptly ruled that the motion was concurred in, but the Democratic Members over there should have voted "Aye" instead of "Nay."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware is in error.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, may I say for the information of the gentleman from Delaware that this side of the House voted as the question was put, and in accordance with the instructions given by the Chair.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Delaware apologizes to the gentleman on the other side. As I heard the motion it was to non-concur.

The SPEAKER. The question put by the Chair was, "Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?" The Chair always puts the question in the positive form and advises the gentleman from Delaware that the Democratic Members voted correctly.

The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner will proceed.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentlemen on the other side may have voted correctly in this instance but that is one of the exceptions that proves the rule.

Mr. Speaker, it seems ot me this is not a time when we should stir up a lot of confusing sentiments in reference to a piece of legislation which was passed yesterday and confuse it with other broader issues. I realize that the debate yesterday ran far afield. I realized also that I used as an illustration in the remarks I made in concluding, urging the Members of this House, particularly those on the other side, to oppose the legislation presented before the House, the present strike at the Bethlehem Steel plant. However, I was careful to say "from the reports in the newspapers", and therefore, I used that as an illustration purely of a jurisdictional strike at one of the places where two unions are competing, or groups in a plant are competing to determine which group shall organize the plant and be recognized as the collective bargaining agency.

I think that legislation was a bad piece of legislation, not only on the broad question of labor and its rights, but on the pure question of the act itself, and the fact that the bill itself, as the amendment appeared in the bill, provided for the granting unto a certain group of our people a special privilege which was not enjoyed by the rank and file of the people. All of the rest of us are subject to certain injunction proceedings, and we are subject to the laws pertaining thereto, which are very ancient laws, and the practices in our courts are uniform and cover a long period of time. Therefore, I felt that the legislation on that ground was wrong. I also felt Mr. Speaker that the legislation was not good legislation for labor itself, and that was because of the reason pointed out in the end that I felt legislation that gave a special privilege to one group was bound to react against them.

Now, Mr. Speaker, those chickens have come home very rapidly to roost. In today's Philadelphia Evening Bulletin there appears an article in reference to the Bethlehem Steel strike, and in that article it states:

> "Highlighting the situation today were:
> "John V. Riffe, of Allentown, first assistant to Van A. Bittner, SWOC chieftain, announced that an injunction would be sought today in the Federal courts at Philadelphia to restrain further interference by Pennsylvania State Troopers against lawful, peaceful picketing."

Now, if the procedure which you gentlemen have attempted to set up under this bill were to prevail you would have to wait until there could be a complete hearing, before the United States Court could determine whether there was interference with lawful and peaceful picketing, and that might be thirty days from now, during which time the rights which you claim to have on behalf of labor might be violated. Therefore, it seems to me that you are going to say to the owner of a plant who says "There is a "sit-down" strike in my plant and these people are doing damage to my plant, the owner would have to wait thirty days and the damage might be done and the plant be destroyed.

The same thing is true on the other hand, if labor is going to say to us, we are entitled to this special privilege. You must wait until a full hearing is had, testimony taken and the court has found the facts as required under this act before an injunction can be issued in a "sit-down" strike. In the reverse, in all fairness and equity and propriety in this country of ours where we hope to achieve some equality before the law, you gentlemen ought not to go into the United States court and ask for an injunction to restrain the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania from sending its troops, its police to maintain order in that district. I do not think what I had to say yesterday could have been as well expressed as it is in a column that appears in the Philadelphia Inquirer of this morning. I am not going to read all of that column, but I just want to read a couple excerpts from it. After discussing this question of the present laws and the question of organization of the Mediation Board and what Congress would do, the article says:

> "I know this is supposed to be a time for compromise and unity, but there is never a time when it is either wise or honest to compromise with wrong. The unions are in the wrong and laws must be passed to repudiate some of the twisted reasoning by which the Federal Supreme Court and the Supreme Court of California have practically absolved unioneers from the penalties that rest on other men for certain offenses.

"As matters stand, by a combination of laws and decisions, the labor union, which is only a private organization of individuals, claims and, by public default, enjoys the right to blockade not only munition factories but also private works on the representation of some uncounted and uncertified number of men that they are aggrieved workers.

"It has been necessary to obtain the gracious permission of individual unioneers to send officers of the Army into plants to take out and deliver to the soldiers certain tools of war necessary for their training. These agents of these private groups did not grant this permission as a matter of national right. They gave it as a special favor, although actually they gave it because they knew that if they didn't public opinion would smash their power by the same violent means that unioneers have used to keep free, willing American workmen away from patriotic works."

I do not think any of us on this side of the House can rightfully be accused of opposing any lawful rights of labor to picket or to organize to seek by collective bargaining contracts with employers under all of the provisions of the law, but as I sat here, very carefully listening to the gentleman from Westmoreland, I had the advantage of having a copy of the Philadelphia Record before me and I followed along with the editorial. I could not help but be impressed with this, that the whole charge in the editorial was that the Bethlehem Steel was a law violator and that, therefore, the union had the right, having failed to get the corporation to abide by the law, to take the law into its own hands to stop production. It seems to me that is a Federal question that belongs to the President of the United States and the law enforcing agencies and the Labor Relations Board and whatever agencies have been set up in recent years to handle these matters. If we are to permit a group of men to say, "Well, we determine you are a law violator, you are not living up to the provisions of our Federal Law," and by that means step in and prevent production in a plant that is devoted so extensively to this great question of national defense, then we might just as well say that if some officer out here in Indiantown Gap issued an order that was against the law as pertaining to soldiers, the soldiers had the right to strike; we might just as well say if some agency of the state has done something that is contrary to law, citizens of the State have a right to take the law into their own hands and compel by coercion. The worst part of this situation as it now exists is the regrettable fact that we are having violence accompanying it. I wish there was some way by which we could get this thought into the minds of our people. I have no defense for Bethlehem Steel, and if they are in the wrong I certainly would not stand on the floor of this House and defend them, but I do not know enough about this whole situation as far as Bethlehem Steel is concerned to pass judgment upon it, and I would certainly be remiss if I were to stand here and attempt to pass judgment on somebody when I did not know the facts and did not have knowledge of all the conditions that exist. Nevertheless, there are things that must impress us. I do not think any group of our people gain anything by violence. I do not think they gain anything by overturning and smashing 150 cars as reported in the paper this morning. I do not think they gain anything by disorders. If labor says that Bethlehem Steel is a law violator, it ought on its own behalf be an example. I think the leadership in the labor movement should set an example of law abiding that would lean over backwards in order to emphasize the very point that I have been trying to give to you. I have been trying to say to you that many of the advantages that labor has gained, many of these forward strides, as the people now speak of them, which have been accomplished in the last decade on behalf of labor, because of public sentiment around in this defense situation, they will lose those advantages, they will lose many of the legislative gains that have been made. I am saying to you today that I do not think the great rank and file of labor is in sympathy with that. I believe that the leadership of labor is wrong in this instance. I do not believe that the leadership of labor has sensed public opinion and has not sensed what is going on in the minds of the people, because I have discussed the matter with many men that belong to unions and they are afraid to speak up, they cannot speak up, they are dominated by groups of men who hold them in a firm grip. I tell you unless something is done to alleviate that situation, unless a moderate course is pursued we are going to be involved in a jurisdictional question, we are going to be involved in questions that do not involve the ordinary question of hours and wages and things of that kind and conserving which people will always have sympathy with labor; if we get involved in these other questions, unless moderation is pursued, then that public sentiment will sweep back and take away from labor the things we do not want to see taken from them.

It is only with caution as I tried to point out yesterday, that that course of action should be taken. I do not want to be construed in any way in this record as speaking in defense of or in criticism of Bethlehem Steel in this present situation, this is no time for that. This is the time for cool heads, this is the time for conciliation. This is the time when the people of Pennsylvania, both the employes and the employers should get together and try to arrive at an amicable solution so that the defense program can go on. The defense program must go on, or, otherwise, I tell you within a very short length of time there will be orders issued by the President of the United States himself, who has been considered a great friend of labor, but he must issue orders, he must issue restrictions that will force upon us a regimentation, that will force upon us the loss of many of our liberties and freedoms which we now cherish, which we do not want to have enforced upon us, but it will be forced upon us by the necessity of the defense program which after all is the highest obligation of government.

FORMER MEMBER OF HOUSE WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair takes pleasure in welcoming a former member of the House, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Garrity.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. HOLLAND asked and obtained permission to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I believe it is an old saying which states, "By your deeds in the past you shall be known as to what you will do in the future."

So I think it will be necessary at this time to point out the record of the Bethlehem Steel. The Bethlehem Steel in the World War robbed the government of ninteen million dollars in a cost padding case which is still in issue in the courts. Sometimes, the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, the industrial giant that grows out of the earth at Bethlehem seems tougher than the federal government. During the last war, the Bethlehem Steel Company obtained contracts from the Emergency Fleet Corporation for the construction of sixty-six tankers and cargo vessels on a cost-plus basis. They were permitted a profit of ten percent of the cost plus fifty percent of any savings made below the estimated cost.

The government charges that this company deliberately padded the estimated costs to boost its profits. It refused to pay a final payment of five million, six hundred sixty one thousand dollars to Bethlehem Steel Company. The Bethlehem Steel Company sued the government on a claim for five million dollars, and the government in return sued the Bethlehem Steel Company for nineteen million dollars which they claimed was overpaid.

Here is the fallacy of some of our courts. Our courts in the three decisions upheld the Bethlehem Steel Company, stating that the government was forced into this unholy and sinful arrangement with its eyes open because it could not get the ships built elsewhere.

The Bethlehem Steel Company, this patriotic company, knew it had the government at its mercy and it didn't care about the millions of men who were defending democracy, but when they had the government at their mercy in the war of 1917 and 1918, they took advantage of every legal trick known to the legal profession, so today I believe, judging the Bethelhem Steel Company from its past deeds, we members of the House should take a stand and demand that the government of the United States go into the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and force the Bethlehem Steel Corporation to live up to the law of the land. There is no reason why we should put men into jail for failing to register for the draft if we do not put into jail the heads of the Bethlehem Steel Company, who refuse to cooperate with this government in this emergency.

When the Bethlehem Steel Company states they are against contracts made with labor, let me point out to you that the Bethlehem Steel Company has a contract with all of the heads of their company, and the contract with Eugene Grace alone pays to Eugene Grace each year one million, six hundred twenty-three thousand dollars in bonuses, and I say to you, to every member of this House, there is no man living that has earned one million, six hundred twenty three thousand dollars through his own efforts.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. HARKINS asked and obtained unanimous permission to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to state that I represent the greatest steel producing center, not only in Pennsylvania, but in the nation. It has in the past been the scene of various industrial conflicts, because in many instances the rights of the ordinary workers were trampled upon from time to time by the oppressive practices of not only the industrial leaders but also of the police. There have been times in our district when if three people met upon the street and talked to one another, it was enough cause to place them in jail. When three people met during the strike in the twenties, in our town, very often they were thrown into jail because they were supposed to have been inciting to riot.

However, for the past few years this great steel center has been having a fine era of peaceful relationship between the employer and the employe and I can testify in my opinion and in the opinion of many of the citizens of this community that the real reason for these peaceful relations existing as they do is because of the work of the SWOC representing the men and in bargaining with employers.

I believe the employers in our district, the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Company, which is a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, their representatives are well pleased with the cooperation they have received when trouble has arisen. Not long ago there was an instance in one of the mills in the Homestead plant where the men were not being treated properly, or at least thought they were not being treated properly, where upon they staged one or two short demonstrations and as soon as the management took up the problem with the SWOC officers, the difficulties were ironed out to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Mr. Speaker, I would offer a personal word of advice to the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and I offer it in two ways, both as a minority stockholder in the United States Steel Corporation,—very small minority too, I might say, —and also as a person who has observed the actions of the men there in the mills since the Steel-Workers Organizing Committee has represented the men with the company. I can say to the Bethlehem Steel Corporation that if they will follow the practices of the United States Steel Corporation and do what the Federal law requires them to do, if they will give an opportunity to the men to have a free and fairer election, and if they will bargain, following in the footsteps of the United States Steel Corporation, I think it will not be very long until they too are operating at ninety-nine percent capacity with the full support and the sympathetic loyalty of the working men, such as the United States Steel Corporation enjoys today.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. MUNLEY, from the Committee on Municipal Corporations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 610, entitled:

An Act to amend clause forty-seven of section two thousand four hundred three of the act, approved the twenty-third of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 932), entitled "An act relating to cities of the third class; and amending, revising and consolidating the law relating thereto," changing the qualification of historical societies to receive appropriations.

Mr. WATKINS, from the Committee on Municipal Corporations reported as committed House Bill 609, entitled:

An Act to amend section four hundred thirty-eight of the act, approved the second day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 1278), entitled "An act relating to counties of the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes; and revising, amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto changing the qualifications of historical societies to receive county appropriations.

Mr. AUKER, from the Committee on Municipal Corporations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 710, entitled:

An Act to enable tax collectors and receivers of taxes to make return to the county commissioners of unpaid taxes assessed on seated lands for certain years; and validating the liens of such taxes.

Mr. O'CONNOR, from the Committee on Municipal Corporations reported as amended, House Bill No. 631, entitled:

An Act authorizing courts of common pleas to stay writs of execution against and tax sales of certain real property in certain cases; providing for the continuance of return days of writs of execution; and authorizing sales thereon without issuance of further writs.

Mr. TAYLOR, from the Committee on Municipal Corporations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 791, (Senate Bill No. 244), entitled:

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the fifteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven (P. L. 159), entitled "An act authorizing controllers of the several cities of this Commonwealth to appoint probate clerks", by providing for the appointment of additional probate clerks.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. PETROSKY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I do not want to further prolong the session, but I feel that it is my duty to answer the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, inasmuch as he speaks of the legislation that was passed by this House yesterday.

My sole contention in the legislation that was passed yesterday, and my actions in favor of that legislation, were due to the fact that that legislation eliminated any loophole for any industry to obtain an injunction against a legal strike. Now, inasmuch as the gentleman has made a round about discussion or definition of the power and responsibility I only wish to say to this House that the Bethlehem Steel Company has shirked its responsibility, and the power it holds is what has prevailed in shirking that responsibility.

I also wish to bring to the attention of the House the fact that when the Mediation Board was opposed by organized labor of the country, the reactionary press, the so called press of patriotism went on record and blasted organized labor for opposing this Board, but it is a matter of record that when industry opposed the Mediation Board that was set up by President Roosevelt, these reactionary papers haven't even mentioned what industry thought of it.

Therefore, Members of the House, do not be misled by the reactionary press of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, for the record speaks for itself, and the record is plenty bad. I thank you.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

The following Committe meetings were announced:

There will be a Public Hearing before the Committee on Professional Licensure on House Bills Nos. 462 and 675 on Tuesday, April 1, 1941 at 7:30 P. M. in the New House Caucus Room.

There will be a Public Hearing before the Committee on Professional Licensure on House Bills Nos. 684, 685 and 707 on Tuesday, April 8, 1941 at 7:30 P. M. in the New House Caucus Room.

A Republican Caucus will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Parlor A of the Harrisburger Hotel to be followed by dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

There will be a short but very important meeting of all the first term Democratic members from Philadelphia in Philadelphia on Saturday morning, March 29, 1941 at 10 A. M. at the usual place.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would still like to know where the "usual place" is.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inform the Chair that I imagine the "usual place" is the same place you would go.

Mr. O'MULLEN. Mr. Speaker, since so much notoriety has come to the "first termers" of Philadelphia, we have changed our "usual place" from the Dauphin County jail cellar to another place.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. GRYSKEWICZ. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, March 31, 1941, at 9 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 1:55 p. m.) the House adjourned.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1941. 135th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 25. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, MARCH 31, 1941. No. 28.

SENATE

MONDAY, March 31, 1941.

The Senate met at 4:30 o'clock p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS offered the following prayer:

Not with the blood of bulls and goats nor yet with burnt offerings or whole burnt offerings, Our Heavenly Father, but with broken and contrite hearts do we come to Thee this hour, for these are acceptable unto Thee.

We are reminded of the wise provision for our salvation in the personage of Thy son. We remember Thy holy day but yesterday in the wise provision for the replenishing of our physical energy so heavily expended throughout the past week. Our recollection affords us the picture of our multitudinous contacts with the world in which we live, how that we live not unto ourselves but are our brother's keeper.

Grant us grace successfully to champion the cause of our brother here in this legislative chamber through honest endeavor and firm conviction rather than by partisan politics alone which gnaws at the solidarity of a great people and materially hinders the just and proper intent of legislation.

Thus we now bring our intents and purpose out into the open that Thy scrutinizing eye may scan them and through Thy wise scrutiny render impotent those which meet not with Thy favor. We pray in Jesus' name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. BARTLETT and Mr. HEYBURN, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. Geltz asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Bucks, Mr. JAMES.

He also asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. HOMSHER.

PETITIONS

The PRESIDENT. The Chair lays before the Senate a communication dated March 21, 1941, addressed to the Chair, from the State Council of Pennsylvania Junior Order United American Mechanics, endorsing Senate Bills Nos. 49, 50, 78, 162, 166 and 179; also endorsing House Bills Nos. 205, 302, 308, 360, 394, 395, 396, 413, 433, 435 and 485. The same organization announces opposition to House Bills Nos. 171 and 385.

The Chair also lays before the Senate a communication dated March 27, 1941, from Stonycreek Council No. 269, Junior Order United American Mechanics, approving Senate Bills No. 49, 50, 78, 162, 166 and 179.

The Chair also lays before the Senate a communication dated March 26, 1941, from the United Federal Workers of America, Local No. 9, Philadelphia, Pa., opposing House Bill No. 452.

The above communications will be noted in the Journal.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

EMPLOYES OF THE SENATE

Mr. CHAPMAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 31, 1941.

Resolved, That Leah Silver be elected Messenger in the Senate, vice Loretta Ziegler, resigned.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 50, on third reading, entitled:

An Act providing that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its political subdivisions employ only citizens and applicants to become citizens of the United States.

be recommitted to the Committee on State Government for the purpose of further study.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CROWE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Monroe the purpose of the motion to recommit Senate Bill No. 50 to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, this bill was a good bill when it first came up but then everyone took a whack at it and now it is no good for anything and it has been requested that the bill be referred to committee in order that it may be made into a bill that will really do something.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I further desire to interrogate the gentleman from Monroe.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. CROWE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. What assurance does the Senate have that Senate Bill No. 50, if it is recommitted, will return to the floor of the Senate in its original form?

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I only have the promise of my Republican colleagues, for whom I have the greatest respect.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Monroe.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. CROWE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Then, Mr. President, the gentleman from Monroe is stating by his motion that Senate Bill No. 50 will return to the floor of the Senate at a later date?

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I can not control that. To the best of my knowledge and belief Senate Bill No. 50 will be returned, but I can not guarantee it.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Monroe.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Monroe permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. CROWE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, would the gentleman from Monroe, the sponsor of this bill, be willing to have the bill remain on the Calendar and have the amendments made here to put it in its original form?

Mr. CROWE. I do not think I would, Mr. President, because it has been hacked up so much by now I think it ought to be rolled out anew.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—41

Barr,	Ealy,	Mallery,	Taylor,
Bartlett,	Edmonds,	McCreesh,	Thomas,
Becker,	Farrell,	McGinnis,	Tyler,
Carr,	Frey,	McQuiddy,	Wade,
Chapman,	Geltz,	Miller,	Walker,
Cox,	Heyburn,	Ruth,	Watkins,
Crider,	Jaspan,	Snowden,	Wilson, H. I.,
Crowe,	Kephart,	Stevenson,	Wilson, T. B.,
Deitrick,	Lanius,	Stiefel,	Woodward,
Dent,	Letzler,	Tallman,	Ziesenheim,
DiSilvestro,

NAYS—4

Cavalcante,	Coleman,	Haluska,	Reed,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like unanimous consent to make a short statement at this time concerning Senate Bill No. 50.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection, the gentleman from Washington may proceed.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, the bill we have just sent back to committee came into this chamber several weeks ago as a strong legislative child. Its sponsorship was from a strong, physical, vigorous American, the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Crowe. That legislative child was a good child when it came to this Senate; it had for its future the assistance of this great American State. After due time it was confirmed by certain patriotic organizations in this state and country, such as the American Legion and others of that caliber, but it was not here long until certain forces began to operate on this legislative child. They first took its vitals and tore from it a great portion thereof; it went down but it came up under the good doctoring of the gentleman from Fayette, Senator Cavalcante, who tried to save its life at that time.

After that had been done this bill still remained in the chamber and lo and behold you a little later another attack was made on it by a system known to old legislators as amending a bill to kill it and the second attack knocked it down to stay; no one could revive it then.

So today, Mr. President, as I have anticipated all along, this legislative child of the good Senator from Monroe is dead, it has been taken out for burial, and at this time, Mr. President, I want to say a few words over its remains.

That bill was introduced for patriotic reasons. It was clear and simple; it had just one proposition embodied in it and that was this: whether our various state departments could employ aliens—very simple. I would have been willing to have voted for this bill or voted against it openly on the floor of this Senate at any time, but the course was marked for its slaughter and the old underlying plan adopted to kill it, that plan that has been used for many years, by amending it to death, and so amendments were offered on several occasions, not for the purpose of strengthening the bill but for the insidious reason of killing the bill. It did not need any amending, it was as clear as the morning sun and everyone knew what that bill meant but it was amended in order that it might be destroyed.

Who in this chamber would fail in his courageous conduct to vote for a bill that had to do with the employing of people who are citizens of this state and of this Union? I have seen in Europe upon entering a country, where they would interrogate you for an hour in order to determine whether you were coming into that country for the purpose of getting employment, and yet in this country how easy and how soft are we American people and particularly so at this time when we are taking from our American homes hundreds of American boys and sending them into the service, and yet we have not the courage to say we are not going to permit anyone who is not a citizen of this state and of this Nation and various subdivisions thereof to be employed unless he is a citizen.

That is the proposition that is wrapped up in this bill and I cannot understand why this bill was not voted on in the beginnig of its course through this body, either in favor of it or against it.

I have even gone this far in my study of this bill: I would retract my statement on the floor of this Senate when the bill first came up; I would even take out the portion that has reference to the employment of teachers. Today, Mr. President, we do not need teachers from foreign lands; if they have certain information that we need we can get it through interpreters. We do not have to have Madam Curie come to this country and teach in our schools; we do not have to have Marconi come here and explain his inventions in the schools. We can get that information through proper channels of interpretation.

Mr. President, I remember when our schools taught only one doctrine and that doctrine was Americanism, and at that time we had no internal trouble to speak of, but just as soon as we permitted certain foreign doctrines to be taught in our schools then at that time our democracy began to fall apart, disintergrate, and today we have perhaps far more danger facing us from within than without.

In conclusion, Mr. President, I want to say that if this bill has gone to the funeral pile then I am glad to be able to make these remarks over its remains, but if on the contrary it comes out in its original form, as the gentleman from Monroe had stated, then I say we should meet that issue fairly either one way or the other and vote for keeping an American citizen employed in this great republic or vote to employ any person be he from South America, Europe, Asia, Japan or anywhere else.

As for me, Mr. President, the old fashioned American doctrine that we taught in our schools years ago, the doctrine based on faith in God and the practice of virtue among men, that doctrine is still good enought for me.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I think the remarks of the gentleman from Washington should bring forth an answer, at least from myself, first because he somewhat questions the sincerity of the Republican members of the Senate, and secondly, while I do not like to dwell on this particular statement too frequently, I find it is necessary for me to refer to it and I feel a moral responsibility in this bill due to the fact that it is a bill sponsored by the American Legion Convention in Reading last year and, acting as its legislative chairman, I feel a responsibility.

Mr. President, I would just like to disillusion the mind of the gentleman from Washington in stating that I have every reason to believe in my Republican colleagues on this side of the Senate—at the time Senate Bill No. 50 is referred to committee for further study and amending—to say that the bill will be reported out on the floor of the Senate in as near its original form as possible. That I feel is a broad statement for me to make but I have that confidence and I again say I do not think it is proper that the integrity of the members of this side of the Senate should be questioned as to the killing of this bill because, after all, we on this side of the Senate are just as good Americans as those on the other side.

So, Mr. President, I trust that before the Senate adjourns this week this bill will have passed the Senate with the approval of all members, voting in its favor.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, now that Senate Bill No. 50 has gone back to committee, as far as I am concerned I do not care if it ever comes out, because to me it is one of the silliest bills and unnecessary bills ever offered in this Senate. I have been advised that not a single alien is employed by the State of Pennsylvania today. As far as I can see it is unnecessary.

The question might arise, however, that we need some special training, along some particular lines, when we might want to employ an alien. We still have party government in this country and in this state and so long as the Democratic Party or the Republican Party has control over this state I am not worried about any political party allowing any alien that can not vote to get on the public payroll. This bill is unnecessary because it just takes up space.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I always rejoice when I hear the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, speak as he has just spoken—bills are idiotic to him and unnecessary. The only bills the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, thought were really necessary and fundamental to the foundation of this democracy, were the gag bills of 1938 that attempted to rip out the grand jury system, tear down the courts, and throw the decision on very fundamental matters into the hands of politicians that are always lurking in the background.

This bill is a very necessary bill, Mr. President, it is a very vital bill, particularly at this time, when from Maine to Orgeon, from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico the people are concerned with national defense and they are concerned with keeping out of America people who have foreign "isms" as their doctrine, people who are dangerous to our national defense.

Mr. President, in my experience, in my course through the grade schools, the high schools, and the colleges of this Commonwealth I have found no place more dangerous for the spreading of foreign "isms" than in those schools, yet we have tolerated in this Commonwealth and still tolerate the employment of teachers of foreign countries who come here imbued with those "isms" of foreign countries. We have had a very marked example in the New England States; a man of foreign birth came here and was employed as a great professor in one of our law schools and now around Washington, D. C. and other places in this United States of America we have men in very responsible positions who were tutored under him and who carry with them those foreign "isms".

Mr. President, it is well said that for the last four or five years in this United States of America we have shown the symptons that were present when the second Russian Revolution took place—the Bolshevistic upheaval—and I have no doubt the people who are saying we are showing the same symptons here in the United States today are telling the truth, because it is people with the same mentality who are holding responsible positions in this United States of America and most of them have received their learning at the foot of foreign professors, noncitizens, teaching in our schools today. We would be alarmed today if we had before us a list of all the foreign-born professors in our schools, in our colleges; we would be shocked almost out of our shoes, knowing we have them in these high places of learning, teaching the youth, intoxicating the minds of our youth and imbuing in those minds those principles of communism and atheism, especially.

The greatest field of atheism in the United States of America today is on the college campuses of this United States; that is where it is breeding and that is where it is taking root and it is not due to men who possess the virtues and the ideals of Americanism as possessed by the gentleman from Washington, Senator Reed.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Miller.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Luzerne tell me whether he himself has knowledge of one alien employed by any political subdivision in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania?

Mr. MILLER. That question I can not answer, Mr. President; I do not have the information at hand.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Fayette.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Fayette permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Will the gentleman from Fayette tell me whether he has knowledge of one alien employed in any political sub-division of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I have made no personal investigation and I am not concerned with whether there are or not. My present concern is to exclude them in the future.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, it amazes me to read the papers and to read what we are going to do here and then to come in here and find what is happening. About a week ago I noticed a release by the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, in which he said that very few bills were coming out of the Senate committees, especially any foolish or silly bills. Therefore, I must concur in the words of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, who said this is a silly and a foolish bill; if there ever was one this is because I am safe when I say there is not a colleague here, or a member of this Senate, who can rise to his feet and point out one person who might be an alien who is employed by any political sub-division of this Commonwealth, and still we have all this going on about nothing.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, in view of the remarks of the gentleman from Fayette about my vote on the gag bills I think I should answer that statement. I voted for the gag bills and as we all know now that campaign, the grand jury investigation in this state was nothing more than a political affair.

Mr. President, I have been assistant United States attorney on grand jury investigations many times and I want to say to you that a grand jury in a political investigation is one of the lousiest affairs I ever heard of. I have heard a lot of remarks and read a lot of articles and heard a lot of speeches on the sacredness of the grand jury. Mr. President, do you know the grand jury was abolished in England fifty years ago and over half the states of this Union do not have a grand jury and in our county that grand jury is wasting more time, calling in year after year hundreds and thousands of witnesses on crimes they do not know any more about when they get through all the testimony than when they started and it is wholly unnecessary in many cases.

When you come to using a grand jury as a political weapon, Mr. President, I think it is totally unnecessary. Why that grand jury that investigation took three hundred thousand dollars of the taxpayer's money out of this state and in this state and they tried to pry into every man's private desk and they searched this state with state police and they put people on trial sometimes two or three times before a jury and then they were acquitted.

So, Mr. President, I am not so ashamed; I knew that grand jury investigation was nothing more than political scheming to stir up a political issue.

I do not blame the other side for doing it; as I said, I have been on the grand jury and I have been a party to it and I have been ashamed of it ever since, because when a political matter ever gets to a grand jury it is one of the most shameful things in America and that is just what that was, and yet our party felt they should fight fire with fire and if the gag bill could be made constitutional they could fight an unholy thing like that and I am not ashamed of my vote on such a bill.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 125, on third reading, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county, city (except cities of the first and second class), borough, town, township, school district (except school districts of the first and second class), and county institution district taxes; prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period; and preserving certain tax liens, and providing for the extension thereof.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 343, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the twenty-eighth day of April, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 417), entitled "An act relating to milk and the products thereof; creating a Milk Control Commission; establishing its jurisdiction, powers and duties; regulating the production, transportation, manufacturing, processing, storage, distribution, delivery and sale of milk and certain products thereof; providing for the licensing of milk dealers and the payment of fees therefor; requiring milk dealers to file bonds to secure payment for milk to procers and certain milk dealers; authorizing the holding of hearings and the issuance of subpoenas by the commission; conferring jurisdiction upon courts to punish contempts and to prohibit violations of this act and of rules, regulations and orders of the commission; authorizing the commission to adopt rules, regulations and orders, and to enter into interstate and Federal compacts; requiring persons who weigh, measure sample or test milk to procure permits or certificates, to take examinations, to pay fees therefor, to furnish certain notices, records and statements, and to use certain methods of weighing, measuring, sampling and testing; authorizing the commission to examine the business, papers and premises of milk dealers and producers, requiring the keeping of records and the filing of reports by milk dealers, and permitting, with limitations, the use of information obtained thereby; authorizing the commission to fix prices for milk and certain milk products subject to the approval of the Governor, and conferring certain powers upon the Governor with respect thereto; providing for appeals to the Courts from decisions of the commission, and for the burden of proof upon such appeals; prescribing penalties, fines and imprisonment for violations of this act and rules, regulations and orders of the commission; defining perjury, defining remedies; repealing legislation supplied and superseded by this act, and saving rights, duties and proceedings thereunder; and making appropriations" by providing that milk delivered or made available, or received or handled on consignment, or otherwise, shall be subject to all the provisions of said act; further defining the power of the commission to fix minimum prices to be paid producers for milk; defining certain violations of said act; and providing that milk dealers shall be held responsible for actions of persons employed by or acting for them.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer the following strikeout amendments: Amend, Section 4, page 6, between lines 17 and 18, after the word "commission" and before the word "a", by taking out the word "on." Amend, Section 11, page 12, between lines 8 and 9, after the word "otherwise" and before the word "within," by taking out the words "for milk sold."

Amend, Section 13, page 13, line 25, after the word "is" and before the word "manufactured," by taking out the word "processed."

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Fayette will state his point of order.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, since these are strike-out amendments and the bill is on third reading, isn't the proper procedure for this body to go into a Committee of the Whole for the purpose of inserting strike-out amendments?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thinks not. Of course the Senator from Delaware must understand in the event these amendments are adopted by the Senate the bill will lay over a day for printing.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be laid over for printing.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 24, on second reading, entitled:

An Act defining and prohibiting unfair sales providing remedies for violations thereof, and establishing penalties therefor.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Warren will state his question of personal privilege.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH THE UNITED STATES

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, Tuesday evening a man, face lined by furrows of care but clear of eye and firm of voice, stood before the Society of Pilgrims in New York and measuring his words, said in ringing tones: "England cannot be invaded." It was Lord Halifax, British Ambassador to the United States. Strong faith!

As a physician I was called one night to a simple home, high on a Warren County hill. Within the home the father was ill. He tossed on his bed, his face flushed with fever and his body writhing with pain. But no moans escaped his lips. By his bedside sat his wife and on her lap was an open Bible from which she gave words of comfort and read the promises given. Strong faith!

Both Lord Halifax and the simple couple on the lone country hill were fighting for a life. Halifax for the life of decency and a free way of living and the country couple for a husband's encompassing arms and love. Both were strong in faith. And let it be said their faith was strong.

And in America's fevered rush to provide the sinews of war with which the beleaguered democratic states may turn back the onslaught of Totailtarianism there must be faith. The period when it was smart to boast of infidelity in living, of getting while the getting was good and of clever business practices, must be laid to one side and faith and morality must take their place. For a time it appeared that morality in life's channels, in the home, in business and even in the church was at low ebb. The literature, the popular song, the movie and the current story all seemed to point the way to a loose, lewd and immoral way of life.

There was little time for God. We were too busy to seek our church. We had commitments that prevented attending our Sunday schools. Our clubs where we listened to platitudes from speakers whose only errand was to please the ear got out attendance.

But dangers have assailed us. We have discovered our weakness and there is a proper turning into the paths of rectitude and moral decency. And it is just that it be so. I can visage George Washington on his knees in the snows of Valley Forge asking God for help and guidance. To us must come and in many instances already has come the realization that God must be our mainstay. In a recent chat with a P.U.C. Commissioner he said: "I am interested in the farmers. I have been in close contact with them of late and I am surprised at the calm, cool thought evidenced in their conversations. They are worthy citizens." And let me say to you that it is in the rural sections where we must look for the high moral decency and faith that will make us strong.

In the rural sections there is no Red movement. There are no isms. The minds are pure and the mouths are clean. There is no room for the paid agitator. The fight is for a better life and it is being won. Their faith is strong.

Contrast if you will, the movements in the city. The smart gatherings where the thought is tinged with pink. Where it is smart to express opinions that might reflect on the leaders of our land. Where it is cute to impugn the motives of men working for the betterment of the nations. We have too much of this.

The United States must return to the standard of morals that made it great. The time when a "man's word was as good as his bond," must be with us once more. Respect for decency in song and story must make itself apparent. We must make it smart to be a clean upright man. Away with the cheat in business. This must be a moral nation.

And let me say that here in this Senate morality must be the outstanding thing in our words and acts.

Suppose that every service club in Pennsylvania took steps to have before it men of high principle, men of vision and of moral rectitude to lay before the thousands of members the idea that one of the biggest steps to the winning of this program of defense which we have undertaken is the inculcation of a sense of morality into the nation? There faith would be strong!

Our state is being ravaged by strikes which, in my opinion, are not the spontaneous outburst of men who feel they are oppressed but are the outgrowth of a deliberate and studied plan to embarrass the nation. I feel that the rank and file of the men on strike are good American citizens. But they have allowed the leadership to get into the hands of unscrupulous men. Men, who perhaps, are in the pay of foreign agents. I feel that the average good workman does not attend his Union meetings enough and does not have his ear close enough to the ground to know and hear the rumblings that break like thunder and engulf him in a strike, or labor dispute. It is the history of all strikes and disputes that the good workmen do not welcome trouble. The Ism mongers are as a rule the leaders.

There is room for a movement in our state and it could well originate in this Senate to carry a message to the people. What would happen if every Senator went into his District and made a series of talks to the service clubs, before the schools, before the labor unions and the woman's clubs? Tell the story of Americanism, of the aims of the government, of the state of Pennsylvania and of the needs of our land. I feel, gentlemen, that it would cause an awakening in the state.

The Fifth Column is at work. It must be combatted. What better way could be found to do so than to talk plain, unadulterated truth to the people of this state. Let them know the dire needs of the nation. Tell them truthfully the struggles of the Senators of Pennsylvania in upholding the hands of the National Government. Let them know that they are being misled to a great extent by an expert propaganda machine that is leading them into loss of money and time and perhaps through a clogging of the defense needs into slavery.

As I see it there must be a revolution in the thought of the people. It is coming but slowly. There is a mounting number who see the awful distress of the nations enslaved by the power mad men of Europe. But there are thousands upon thousands who are fooled and bamboozled by slick tongued speakers who paint a rosy picture of Communism, Nazism and Fascism.

Let the people be told that the Isms contain not a shred of decency, morality or love. That they are devoid of the greatest power ever loosened in the world—the Love of Christ.

Henry Adams once said: "I was educated in one century and am living in another" and I too may echo his words. My youth was in the 19th Century and it was an era of morality. Smart folk today poke fun at the "Gay Nineties" when our most daring pastimes were wearing sharp pointed shoes and pegged trousers. But the thought then was clean [and the Ism mouthed man was a pariah: (pa-ri'-ah)] The Stars and Stripes roused cheers and there were no efforts to alter the music of "The Star Spangled Banner."

There must be a revival of thought over our land. There must be a return to morality and this must become a moral nation. We must let the man in the street know that Hitler, Mussolini and the Mikado have violated their moral fiber by their repudiation of the Argentine Treaty to outlaw war which they solemnly signed. They have violated the Kellogg-Briand Treaty outlawing war of which they were signataries and the truth is not in them.

Our people must not follow the "Ism will o' the wisp." In this Senate we men have been chosen by our constituents to help lead our state. We must be true leaders. We must help mold the thought and lives of Pennsylvanians. Down in the lobby of this Capitol stand cases where are proudly displayed the battle flags of Regiments that served our land in war. Many of the flags are torn with shot and shell but as I see it there is an older flag which must fly beside the Stars and Stripes and under it we must all enlist and march on to victory despite agitators, sleek rats of the dictators and blinded citizens.

In this battle of defense we are all in the ranks and we must give not only lip service but the spirit of sacrifice and as the ranks go marching into the pages of history there must be "the flag of Jesus, going on before." "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make us free."

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Tuesday, April 1, 1941, at 11:00 o'clock, a. m.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 5:45 o'clock p. m. until Tuesday, April 1, 1941, at 11:00 o'clock a. m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, March 31, 1941

The House met at 9:00 p. m.

The SPEAKER (Elmer Kilroy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. DONALD McFALL, offered the following prayer:

Our heavenly Father, Thou hast been good to us, and we approach Thee to express our thanks to Thee for the right use of our minds, for health of body, and for opportunities of development, and service. Help us to show our gratitude by the obedience of our lives. May we labor in joy and trust by Thy grace, to make this world a brighter, happier, and better place for the men and women to live, and for children to play and grow. May all fathers and mothers within this great Commonwealth be able to look to the men of this House with respect and honor because they not only show an interest in keeping Thy day holy, but also because they endeavor by sane legislation to protect the life of our youth.

O God, as each man votes, may he be conscious of the fact that as Thou dost watch, he becomes responsible to Thee, and will some day answer for the type of legislation he has permitted. Help us our Father to be genuine in character and in life. We pray the forgiveness of our sins in the name of Christ, Thy Son. Amen.

L. 905) entitled, "An act for the protection of the public safety, regulating the use of highways, and the operation of vehicles, tractors, street cars, trackless trolley omnibuses, bicycles, pedestrians, and the riding of animals upon the highways of this Commonwealth; providing for the titling, including liens, encumbrances, and legal claims; registration of certain vehicles and licensing the operators thereof, upon payment of prescribed fees; prescribing and limiting the powers of local authorities to deal with the subject matter of this act; conferring powers and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue, the Department of Highways, peace officers, mayors, burgesses, magistrates, aldermen, justices of the peace, the courts and the clerks thereof, owners of vehicles, and garage keepers; providing that records are admissible as evidence; imposing upon owners, counties, cities, boroughs, incorporated towns, townships, within the Commonwealth, liability for damages caused by the negligent operation of their motor vehicles; imposing penalties; imposing certain costs upon counties; providing for the disposition of fines, forfeitures, fees, and miscellaneous receipts; making an appropriation and providing for refunds," providing for the registration and fixing registration fees of commercial motor vehicles, truck tractors, trailers and semi-trailers according to gross weight; fixing the maximum gross weight of such vehicles which may be used and operated on the highways; and eliminating existing provisions relating to the chassis of such vehicles.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Motor Vehicles for the purpose of a public hearing.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I am asking the members of the House to vote down this motion to recommit for the purpose of a public hearing. This bill has been in committee for some time and has received careful consideration. This is the fourteenth calendar day the bill has been on the calendar. If the persons were interested in having a public hearing they should have realized that time was sometime before to-night. I believe the only purpose in asking for a public hearing at this time is more a matter of delay than anything else, and I therefore feel the members should act on this bill to-night, and I am asking the members to vote "no," on this motion to recommit.

Mr. FISS. Mr. Speaker, this bill has been on the calendar for quite some time. It has had plenty of chance to have reactions both ways, those for it and those against it. I ask the Members of this House to vote down the motion to recommit for a public hearing.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Chairman of the Motor Vehicle Committee.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Corrigan, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CORRIGAN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman whether he has not had the request of the Council of Cities of the First Class as well as the Boroughs for a public hearing on this bill.

Mr. CORRIGAN. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman's interrogation I had one letter asking for a public hearing on this bill.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman when he received that letter.

Mr. CORRIGAN. Mr. Speaker, I received it this week.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, in asking to have this bill recommitted for a public hearing it is because I have been told by the heads of the Borough and Township groups that the request was made three weeks ago. The bill is very far reaching. It affects everyone who own real estate in the state of Pennsylvania, and out of respect for the townships, when we have all the Township Commissioners in the House and they have asked for a hearing, I think that courtesy should be extended and the bill should be discussed at a public hearing so that the public will know exactly what this bill does.

Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

Mr. D'ORTONA. Mr. Speaker, as Secretary of the Motor Vehicle Committee I will say when this bill was reported out of committee there was not a dissenting vote.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. HOLLAND and CHERVENAK.

Messrs. O'BRIEN, O'MULLEN and MARKS asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 367, as follows:

An Act legalizing the operation of bowling alleys and participation in the sport of bowling after two o'clock post meridian on Sunday

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 It shall be lawful for any person to participate in the sport of bowling on Sunday but only after the hour of two o'clock post meridian and any person possessing a license permitting the operation of a bowling alley may legally operate the same after such hour on Sunday and employ others to assist in the operation thereof

Section 2 The following acts and parts of acts are hereby repealed in so far as their provisions are inconsistent herewith

The act approved the twenty-second day of April one thousand seven hundred and ninety-four (3 Sm L 177) entitled "An act for the prevention of vice and immorality and of unlawful gaming and to restrain disorderly sports and dissipation"

Section six hundred fifty-one of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (Pamphlet Laws 872) entitled "An act to consolidate amend and revise the penal laws of the Commonwealth"

All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. FRENCH. Mr. Speaker, this being my first trip to the mike, I don't know how I will make out. Nevertheless, I would like to express my opinion in public as to the merits or demerits on the bill on which we are about to vote.

There is a question in my mind, Mr. Speaker, as to how much more whittling away the Sabbath is going to stand. I think it is an undisputed fact that we have been whittling away at this day that we call the Sabbath for the last twenty years, and the question now confronts us, or at least should confront each and every one of us here tonight, how much more whittling our Sabbath day is going to stand until the time comes when we will not have any Sabbath any more. I do not propose to stand here before you tonight as a reformer or anything of the kind, and I don't suppose there is anything I can say here that will influence one vote one way or the other, but to my mind it is a thing of more moment than the average man thinks it is.

For my part I don't know, I might be wrong in my opinion, but I want to give you my reasons, Mr. Speaker, for voting against this bill. I firmly believe we should uphold the Sabbath day. As I said, I don't believe the Sabbath will stand much more whittling. At the rate we have been going the past twenty years I imagine that in the next quarter of a century we will have no Sabbath, and when that time comes, Mr. Speaker, what condition will we be in then?

Another reason I have for voting against this bill, Mr. Speaker, is that there are a lot of good people who are against this bill; they are against the desecration of the Sabbath day. In my community back home I am very certain that the folks who are against this bill are very far ahead in the majority, and that is another reason I am going to vote against this bill. It would not surprise me if there were a vote taken of all the eligible voters in this state that the majority would be overwhelmingly against the passage of this bill. We must remember one thing, my friends, in the passage of this bill there is one class of people in this State as well as in every other State in the Union to whom we owe a debt of gratitude. Those people we might designate as the balance wheel of society, and it is to those peopde that we owe some recognition. It is to those people who are in favor of upholding the Sabbath, and being in the majority, I believe they should receive some recognition, and for that reason I am going to vote against the bill. These people only ask for one day out of the seven to carry on their church activities. In the interests of common decency, we have six twenty-four hour days for bowling and golf and horse racing and baseball and all that stuff. The church in our respective communities of the State only ask for one day out of seven; that is one-seventh of the time.

Now, don't you think that is fair? I do for my part, and the time will come, at the present rate of whittling, as I said a minute ago, when we will have no Sabbath at all. Is there in this House tonight, Mr. Speaker, any one who wants to live in a community of any state where there are no churches? There isn't one of you.

I know a merchant back in my town who made this remark to me one day. He said, "I am no church member, I don't go to church; I don't contribute to the churches; I don't enter into church activities, but, Mr. French, he said, 'I wouldn't be in this town thirty-six hours if there were no church in it.'"

I think that is the feeling of every man that wants to be fair with himself, that is the feeling of every member of this House, and if the time ever comes that we have no churches in this country I dont know what is going to happen. We have had experience over in Europe, Asia and Africa and everywhere else, and I might say above all else, Mr. Speaker, the Commander-in-Chief of the entire universe has made this one of his strict commandments: "One day shalt thou cease from all thy labor and devote that one day out of seven for worship and worship alone."

That is not a thing for you to do if you want to do it; it is a command from the Supreme Commander of the Universe. When you vote on this bill tonight, remember that one fact if you forget everything else, and let us vote this thing down so far that it will not be able to rise up again.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this bill which is one of a number if enacted into law will destroy the very foundations upon which this country was founded.

The prominence given to the Fourth Commandment was not an accident by any means. The keeping of it secures obedience to the entire list of commandments, because it affords the opportunity of studying and meditating upon the laws and precepts of God's word, the effect of which under the direction of the Holy Spirit, is to bring us into conformity thereto. Members of this House. this Commandment is like the keystone of an arch, holding it up and together, the removal of which causes the whole to tumble into ruins.

It is almost needless to say that a people who fled from their European homes for religion's sake were a people who "Remembered the Sabbath day to keep it holy." When French Communists shut the doors of the churches and inscribed on the gates of the cemeteries "Death is an Eternal Sleep," they abolished the weekly Sabbath.

It was evidently the will of God that a new nation should be a people that would reverence His Sabbaths.

May I revive your memories as to what happened.

When the Mayflower stood anchored in the harbor of Cape Cod, which, with its one hundred and two passengers, the Pilgrim fathers, it reached on November 21st, 1620, a solemn covenant was prepared and signed, by the heads of families, forty-one in all.

It was the first American Constitution, simple and sublime, it began:

"IN THE NAME OF GOD, AMEN."

We whose names are underwritten by these presents, solemnly and mutually in the presence of God and one another covenant and combine ourselves together into a civil body politic."

These stalwart God loving men, women and children after sixty-three days of stormy experience on a rough sea were driven into the harbor of Cape Cod.

A little band of sixteen resolute men were to be sent ashore in a boat to find a propitious landing and a place to build for themselves a permanent home somewhere along the strange shore. But the little boat is found unseaworthy and must be repaired. More than a fortnight was required to fit the boat for use, but notwithstanding this delay and the urgency, the intervening Sabbaths were spent on the Mayflower in rest and worship.

Ridpath thus records the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers:

"At nightfall Saturday a storm came on; the rudder was wrenched away and the poor ship driven half by accident and half by the skill of the pilot, into a safe haven on the west side of the bay. The next day, being Sabbath, was spent in religious devotions, and on Monday the 11th day of December 1620, the Pilgrim Fathers landed on the Rock of Plymouth."

While historians seem to differ in some details they all agree that these Pilgrim founders of America kept holy the Fourth Commandment.

Members of this House, Christianity without a Sabbath is impossible either in the individual or nation. Destroy the Sabbath and you will eventually destroy the Churches. While religious intolerance abounds in Europe the Light that keeps us tolerant in America are the Churches. When any nation ceases to keep the Sabbath, the ensign by which it acknowledges God it is surely on its way to decay.

We in this great state should vote against any and all bills which would in anyway undermine the foundation upon which this nation was built. The motive back of this bill is greed, not godliness. It will lower the moral tone of the community and decrease property values.

The Sabbath, religiously observed, is necessary to maintain civil and religious liberty and to combat the enemies of democracy. Because the Church in its unselfish service of building the character of the people, and particularly of the young people and children, has I believe the right to one whole day out of seven, free from commercial activity.

Mr. Speaker, the other day on third reading an amendment was offered to this bill and unanimous consent was asked of this House, and that amendment as offered made this bill read "Two o'clock or thereafter."

There is a great church in the United States of America, the Roman Catholic church, which has always maintained that if they will be given a child until the child is eight years of age it will never forget the Christian teaching that it will receive. We are coming into Passion Week, a week from Sunday. The sunset of the Christian religion is on Wednesday and then on the Easter Day the sunrise of the Christian religion takes place.

You have offered an amendment, my friends of the Roman Catholic church, to take care of your situation because your church services cease at twelve o'clock, and we agree with you, and we are in hearty accord that nothing in this land of ours should interfere with the religious ceremony of the Roman Catholic church on the Sabbath morning, but we Protestants ask you to be gracious to us because our church day not only starts with yours, but it keeps up for the entire day and it is in the evening about six o'clock that the young peoples' organizations of our church meet together in their Christian Endeavor Associations and in the young peoples' meetings, and I say to you of an opposite faith from mine, be gracious to us, and allow us to observe our Sabbath as we allow you to observe yours. I ask every man of fair-mindedness in this House who has any regard for God's Sabbath to vote "no" on this iniquitous bill.

Mr. BAKER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Gates.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Armstrong permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GATES. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BAKER. Will the gentleman from Armstrong tell the House of his golfing games and where he stands in the field of golfing. We understand the gentleman is quite a golfer.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I had the conceit taken out of me down here in the last session. I play a little golf. I have not had the opportunity, I am sorry to say, in the last seven years to play very much golf. I am greatly in favor of the game of golf, and play it whenever I get an opportunity, except on the Sabbath day.

Mr. BAKER. Will the gentleman tell the members of the House whether he plays golf on Sunday, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GATES. He does not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BAKER. All right, I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, Holy writ informs us that in times of great stress the ancient Jewish people always found a prophet. I do not come here tonight as a prophet or a son of a prophet. I simply ask your attention, if you please, to this subject, to view it according to the conditions of the day. The great confusion in the world at large and in these serious days I think requires of all men the best that is in them to try to think clearly, that everything that is done may be done for the best interest of mankind in this our own civilization.

The moral fabric of Europe has disintegrated to such an extent that that which we call the "fifth column" has reached into numerous nations and principalities of Europe, and without the force of arms has taken them over. These things that are at work are also present in our own land, and with them there is always a danger that if our moral fabric is broken then we too may succumb.
